

Terry Pitches Yanks To World Championship

Righthander Tosses Brilliant 1-0 Win

By OSCAR FRALEY

UPI Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The whiplash arm of a lean young man from Oklahoma swept the New York Yankees to their 20th World Series championship Tuesday and tolled midnight at long last for the Cinderella San Francisco Giants.

Big Ralph Terry fired a blazing four-hitter for a pulsating 1-0 victory which ended time for a Giant team which had made a career out of battling back.

Beaten four times in Series play before he finally snapped his hoodoo by winning the fifth game, the 26-year-old Terry earned the plaudits of 43,943 fans in wind-swept Candlestick Park with a classic clutch performance.

For those mighty Yankees gave him only one run to work with, and with $4,000-a-man in Series gold as well as the glory which goes with it hanging on every fast ball and each curling curve, Terry tossed them to victory.

Tresh Catch Helps

There was brilliant help which bailed him out — a dazzling one-handed catch by rookie Tom Tresh of a Willie Mays line drive for a second out in the seventh inning. That drive could have been a double — and an instant later would have become a run on a rousing triple by Willie McCovey.

Then, in a heart-stopping ninth inning, as those Giants who all season long specialized in come-from-behind victories made their biggest run at Terry, the lean man finally got them out with more pitching courage and a big assist from his mates.

Pinch-hitter Matty Alou, a dangerous little man with a bat, opened that last-half inning — the last of all in a grinding series of 172 games for these Giants — with a bunt single. Terry hitched up his pants and fired a third strike past both Felipe Alou and Chuck Hiller.

But then Willie Mays rapped a double down the right field line, with Alou fleeing to third.

Out there on the emerald green grass, Roger Maris ran it down and fired the ball desperately to the plate to hold Alou from scoring.

One Last Chance

Then, with one out left, up came McCovey, who raps a ball out of sight when he hits it square. He did once, but it sailed high and foul into the right field corner. And then McCovey drove a screaming line drive which little Bobby Richardson caught for the biggest out of the year.

It hung defeat on hard-throwing Jack Sanford, who had bested Terry in the second game of this 13-day Series — matching the longest of them all back in 1911. Tuesday Sanford couldn't get out of a Yankee bases-loaded threat in the fifth inning.

Break Through With Run

Terry and Sanford were hooked up in a tense pitching duel through the first four innings until the Yankees finally broke through with that run.

Moose Skowron started them off with a single to left, which was only the second hit off the chunky Giant pitcher, and pounded to third on Cletis Boyer's long single to center. Sanford then compounded his own difficulties by walking Terry on four pitches to load the bases.

The Giants were happy to settle for one run when Tony Kubek grounded into a double play, Skowron scoring and Boyer moving to third. Sanford stranded him there by getting Richardson to pop up.

The Giants had to fight the Yankees off from padding their lead in the eighth on a five-pitch relief job by Billy O'Dell which got three quick outs with the bases loaded.

In that frame, Richardson was safe at first on an error, Tresh singled off Jose Pagan's leg and Mickey Mantle — hitless in his last 13 appearances at the plate — singled to right to fill the bases.

O'Dell Stymies Yanks

That's when the weary Sanford left the premises and O'Dell trudged to the mound. But he was equal to the task. He got Maris to rap a ground ball which forced Richardson at the plate and then got Howard to ground into a double play.

So those Giant hopes, and those of the partisan crowd sitting in the 25-mile winds which whipped through Candlestick Park, still were high.

But it had to end somewhere, sometime, because the way those Giants had been doing it was not only unbelievable but too tempting to fate.

They gave it that big old-time try in the ninth once again — but this time the golden coach turned back into a pumpkin.

UNC Runners Win Third Straight

By Laszlo Birinyi, Jr.

Carolina's varsity cross-country team scored their third victory of the season yesterday by beating the harriers of N. C. State, 15-48. The winning runners were Charlie Little and Larry Henry who tied for first with a 21:10 time. Third was Jerry Stuver who ran the four and one-tenth mile course in 21:35. Bob Bennett and Jerry Smith finished fourth and fifth.

Commenting on the meet, Coach Ranson said, "We worked heavily right up to this meet. We did not take a light workout like we normally do before a meet. The opposition was light and I thought we had a good workout."

The freshmen, competing for the first time this season, also won, beating the State frosh, 19-36.

GENE SIGMON—Coach Jim Hickey elevated Sigmon to the Blue unit Monday as a result of his fine play against Maryland. "Sig" is a 6-2, 220-pound tackle from Denver, North Carolina.

Carnival Tomorrow Features 66 Teams

By STUART BALL

While it is probably unintentional, the UNC Intramural Department is going to give the N. C. State Fair a good run for its money . . . at least for tomorrow night. Though on a smaller scale, the 16th annual Co-Rec Carnival will offer the games, relays, prizes and fun that have made the big-time carnivals an American institution for so long.

This year 44 organizations have entered 66 teams that will be paired into 33 competing teams. Things will get under way at 7 o'clock in the Woolen Gym.

The first event will be a series of four relays in which each team consists of four men and four women. The book exchange, potato spear, paper plate slide, and balloon burst will be the fields of competition with awards presented to individuals as well as organizations.

At 8 o'clock pairs representing men's and women's organizations will compete in badminton, table tennis, volleyball, archery, and eight other carnival games. Here, as in the relays, individual and organizational awards will be presented.

An all men's box hockey and an all women's tether ball contest will be the only events in which teams do not compete. In these an individual will be declared the winner on the basis of single elimination.

In Monday's tag football action the Magnum Mavericks ramped over the hapless Everett Elis, 35-0. The victory put Mangum at the top of the dormitory division on the basis of total points, and sunk the Elis even farther into the cellar. Everett now owns the dubious distinction of being the only team to have had over 100 points scored against it. Scoring for the Mavericks were Alex McKinnon with three TD's and Doug Pearson and Sonny Shelton with one each. Mangum also got two points by scoring a safety on a bad pass from the Everett center.

The Old East Atlantics whipped the Alexander Esquires, 23-0, and continued to display the top offense in the division. The Atlantics have scored 93 points in three games while giving up 33.

A 34-0 score kept the Joyner Jocks in the heat of the race and put them third in total offense. Seven players figured in the scoring as the Stacy Studs went down to their second defeat.

The Aycock Aardvarks and Teague Tots won in default contests over the Winston Wisequys and Lewis Lusters, respectively.

Hickey Gets Strong Support, Readies UNC For Gamecocks

By ED DUPREE

With the confidence votes of Chancellor William B. Aycock and Consolidated University President William C. Friday behind him, Jim Hickey is preparing Carolina's Tar Heels for the fifth obstacle of the 1962 football season.

Monday night the administration heads told a Raleigh sports writer that Jim Hickey was their man, win or lose.

Aycock said, "Coach Hickey is in the first year of a three-year contract and we have no reason to feel he will not be here to fulfill that contract."

From President Friday came the same confidence vote. "As far as I'm concerned, Coach Hickey has a three-year contract."

At the Tar Heel coach's press luncheon yesterday, Chancellor Aycock was present. He was asked if he had been bothered with a great deal of grumbling from the alumni.

"No there has not been any grumbling in great proportions," he answered. He pointed out that he had received a few letters, but nothing to speak of.

The Chancellor continued, "Of course, we want to excel in everything we undertake. We all want a winning football team."

Earlier this week Mr. Aycock held firm on a statement he made in an earlier interview concerning the security of coaches at the University.

"No coach at the University of North Carolina is going to be fired just for losing," he said. "If he abuses his players, that's something else. But as long as he's out there trying to do his job with a reasonable amount of competence, he has my support."

Coach Hickey, since the Maryland game, has made a great deal of lineup changes. The chief switches were made in the line where Gene Sigmon was moved up from the Rams into the number one left tackle spot and Jerry Cabe took over Jack Tillery's left guard spot—both on the blue unit. Cabe has been on the defensive team all season.

Alderman is no longer on the first three units and Tillery took Cabe's spot on the Tar unit.

Hickey expressed disappointment in the team's pass defense against Maryland, since that was stressed during the previous week's practice. Now, he will turn to finding a way to stop South Carolina's tremendous ground game, sparked by Billy Gambrell—the top candidate for All-Star honors on the team.

Maryland Leads Statistics; Shiner Still Ahead Of Edge

Undefeated Maryland continued its domination of individual and team statistics in the Atlantic Coast Conference this week, according to figures released yesterday.

The Terrapins, who gained their fourth victory at the expense of the UNC Tar Heels Saturday, boast leadership in seven of the nine categories.

Quarterback Dick Shiner leads in both passing and total offense. Shiner has completed 55 of 84 passes for 687 yards and has handled the ball in 115 plays for 728 yards and a 6.3-yard average.

UNC signal caller Junior Edge remained in second place in both spots, completing 44 of 67 passes for 516 yards in the air and a 5.9 average in total offense.

South Carolina halfback Billy Gambrell will have his individual rushing leadership at stake Saturday when the Tar Heels tangle with the Gamecocks in Kenan Stadium. Gambrell has carried the ball 37 times for 269 yards and a remarkable 7.3 average per try. Len Chiavarin of Maryland is second with 52 carries for 208 yards and a 4.0 average.

South Carolina also boasts the best rushing offense in the ACC. The Gamecocks' gained 833 yards on the ground in their four games for a 208.3 average.

The Terrapins meanwhile lead in total offense, pass offense and total defense, including both the top rushing and passing defense.
