

Frat Favorites Triumph Easily

By STUART BALL

The undefeated rolled merrily along in Tuesday's Fraternity Division tag football games to keep ten teams with perfect marks at this late date.

Most impressive of these is SAE which scored its second straight opponent. The victim this time was Pi Kappa Phi and the score was 44-0. Ned Martin and Keith Stone-man both scored twice, and Scott Trotter and Bob Segrest each scored once for the visitors. In two games SAE has amassed 101 points while holding the opposition scoreless.

Sigma Nu also rates high in the overall standings with a 3-0 mark. In Tuesday's contest they blanked AK Psi 37-0 and clinched a playoff birth. Both Warren Price and Calvin Jones scored two TD's in the win and Frank Furr and Bobby Madry added one each.

Lambda Chi Alpha bounced back after a 19-6 loss last week to top APO, 44-0, in a one-sided contest. High scorer in the game was John Doble with three touchdowns to his credit. Cary Olsbrook scored twice for the Chis.

In a 27-0 contest Beta outplayed KA and remained unscored on through its first two games. George Wyman scored twice for the Betas and Steve Wilson and Stan Cocks added a touchdown each.

ATO and ZBT kept their perfect marks intact with wins over the Phi Gams and PiKAs, respectively. In a 23-0 win over Phi Gam, Joe Turner, Steve Simpson and John Canull all joined in the ATO scoring. ZBT built up a 14-0 first half lead and spent the rest of the game protecting it. John Coan scored both ZBT touchdowns and Frank Rosenbaum added a safety.

Fencing Club Seeks Varsity Recognition

By TOM WILLIAMS

As the UNC Fencing Club prepares for the coming season, an old and somewhat stale question reappears, "Should fencing be recognized by the University of North Carolina as a varsity sport?" Until the question is discussed and approved by the University Athletic Advisory Council, the fencing club cannot receive varsity recognition. The council is made up of three students, three faculty members, and three alumni. A vote of approval by five council members is required before varsity recognition can be given.

Erickson Cites Problems
When the question was presented to Athletic Director Chuck Erickson, he replied, "Because of the numerous problems that would develop if the fencing club should receive varsity recognition, I can't see how the club would benefit from this. If fencing becomes a varsity sport, who is the team going to compete with? There isn't enough fencing interest in the south."

He feels that since none of the colleges in this area have fencing as a varsity sport, the team would have to go to the north for its competition, causing financial difficulties. The team would be required to have competition on the same level within a limited area.

If the club should receive varsity status, there would be strict regulations placed upon it. The fencers would be limited to one year's residence before they could compete; thus, freshmen would not be eligible. They would also be required to maintain a high enough scholastic average to qualify for competition.

"It's not that I have anything against fencing," he said, "for I think it is a wonderful sport, but it just doesn't make sense to recognize fencing as a varsity sport at this time."

Budget Is Adequate
Coach Barrow says that the budget set aside each year for the fencing club by the athletic council is adequate, and that attaining varsity recognition would not present a serious financial problem.

At one time N. C. State did offer fencing as a varsity sport, but due to lack of leadership, the sport was dropped.

Coach Barrow, who has been coaching fencing at Carolina since 1950, has recently started fencing clubs in this area. One of his former pupils is now coaching the fencing club at Duke. Clemson and the Citadel also have clubs. There is a club in Winston-Salem that could move into Wake Forest College.

Concerning the problem of eligibility, he says that fencers usually have high scholastic averages because, "this sport requires the mind as well as the body."

Senior Don Hubbard, last year's team captain is in favor of varsity status because, "We want to be able to compete with better schools like Yale or Harvard. We want to see fencing become more popular in the south."

Last year in national finals competition, Don finished 13th in the nation in individual foil competition.

Rebirth Of Fencing
He emphasized the fact that fencing requires long hours of diligent work. When speaking of the accomplishments that Coach Barrow has made with fencing, Don stated, "Coach Barrow has brought about a rebirth of fencing in this area, and he has done a damn good job of it too!"

Tom Welch, a junior who fences in the saber division, would like fencing to be recognized because, "The club has been here so long and it has always shown up well. I think it would do the same as a varsity sport."

Another fencer who is deeply dedicated to the sport is Jon Weber. Jon, who fences in the epee division, says that, "the University owes at least this much to Coach Barrow to make fencing a varsity sport." In speaking of Coach Barrow, he states, "He is one of the most qualified and most understanding coaches I have ever known."

This year the fencing club plans to fence Johns Hopkins of Baltimore, VMI, Duke, Detroit, & Ohio State. The season will be climaxed by the national finals at the Air Force Academy in Denver, Colorado, March 30.

Ranson's Runners Top Gamecocks

By LASZLO BIRINYI, JR.

Carolina's cross country team traveled to South Carolina Tuesday to score its fifth straight victory of the season, 23-38. Coach Dale Ranson left his top two runners, Larry Henry and Bob Bennett, at Chapel Hill but the runners still managed to overwhelm the home team.

Jerry Stuver lead the way as he won his first meet of the year. Second and third places went to Smith and Rose of South Carolina but the Carolina runners came back to sweep the next six places. Charley Little, who last week tied Henry for first, finished fourth, Jerry Smith was fifth and Obie Whichard was sixth.

Friday night the entire cross-country team will be guests at a dinner honoring Jim Beatty, the greatest runner in UNC's history. Beatty will fly in from California and will arrive at Raleigh-Durham airport Thursday night. The dinner, which will be held in the Blue Room of Lenoir Hall, will be attended by Governor Terry Sanford.

Fight Promoter Loses $50,000

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Promoter Norman Rothschild lost an estimated $50,000 on Tuesday night's Gene Fullmer-Dick Tiger fight, but said Wednesday he expected to make it back on a rematch.

"I have a contract with both fighters for a return bout on Jan. 19 at either Bozeman, Mont., or Las Vegas, Nev.," said Rothschild. "But that doesn't mean it has to be held at either place."

Tiger won the World Boxing Association's middleweight crown in the battle at Candlestick Park—a fight many old-timers believed one of the toughest slugging matches of all time.

The student body of Ohio State University voted last week to terminate its membership in the United States National Student Association (USNSA).

Ohio State was the host of the National Student Congress this summer.

New Frosh Coach Expects Swimmers To Be Tough

Freshman swimming coach Alan Gentry reported yesterday that prospects for a successful season for his Tar Baby swimmers are very good. Gentry noted that he expects to have a winning season although meets with Maryland, Stanton Military Academy and the Westminster School may prove the sternest tests of the team's ability.

Gentry added that seven of the 30 candidates who reported to him last week for pre-season practice and conditioning have made outstanding performances so far. These hot prospects include Fred Lipp (butterfly); Tom Murphy; John Sheldon (freestyle); Tom Bennett (backstroke); Al Schriver (backstroke); Dick Boardman (breaststroke); and Rick Forem (breaststroke).

Gentry, a former swimming coach at Spartanburg (S. C.) High School is in his first season as freshman mentor. His main interest at present is gaining his Masters Degree in Physical Education at UNC.
