

ACC Has Fared Poorly Against Outside Opponents

By CURRY KIRKPATRICK

Atlantic Coast Conference teams have not fared too well this season against non-conference foes.

ACC teams have played out of their league 19 times this year but have only a 6-12-1 record for the effort.

A look at the ACC opponents gives some clue to the cause of the sub-par record. Northwestern, Michigan State and Ohio State have been the Big Ten's representatives on the non-conference ledger while such powers as Southern California, Miami, Nebraska, Army and two Southeastern giants — Georgia Tech and Auburn — have also made their presence felt.

These nine teams have won every game against their ACC counterparts. Only Duke has managed to beat a non-league team of any prominence. The Blue Devils have defeated both California and Florida and even these teams were underdogs at gametime. Duke's other out-of-conference game ended up in a 14-7 loss to Southern Cal.

A look at the individual ACC teams' records shows Virginia and Maryland with the only other non-league victories. The Cavaliers are 3-1 with wins over VMI, William & Mary and Davidson. Their loss was to Southern Conference leader, VPI.

Maryland is 1-1 outside the league. They beat SMU to open the season but later lost a 24-23 thriller to Miami in what was termed the best game ever played in the Orange Bowl.

UNC, Clemson, NC State and Wake Forest have lost every one of their non-league contests, while South Carolina can only boast of a tie.

Carolina had two traumatic experiences in a row when the Tar Heels were shell-shocked at Ohio State and Michigan State on successive Saturdays.

Clemson, Carolina's next opponent, has also had it rough in its ventures outside the league. The Tigers have lost to Georgia Tech, Georgia and Auburn and for the past three weeks, have failed to win in their own lair, "Death Valley."

State College dropped a heart-breaker to undefeated Nebraska and then played dead for Southern Mississippi. The Wolfpack is 2-0 in non-conference action.

Wake Forest was bombed by Army in its only trip outside the ACC. The next two weeks find the Demon Deacons against non-league foes Tennessee and VPI — not much chance for improvement.

South Carolina has the distinction of having played the nation's number one team, Northwestern, in its opener. The Gamecocks were passed by Tom Meyers, 37-20. Their other non-conference game resulted in a 7-7 tie with Georgia.

A-A Nominees Are Named

CHICAGO—Seventeen new play-footbal coaches have been cited for early season performances by the American AFCA president and Duke University coach.

TAR HEEL Sportscope

By Ed Dupree

The boys from Reynoldsville gave UNC a few anxious moments Saturday, but the Tar Heels finally ended their drought against the Demon Deacons.

With the score 14-7 in Wake Forest's favor at halftime, it seemed as though the Baptists might upset the Chapel Hillians for the third straight year. But two quick touchdowns decided the game in a hurry.

Retwatching the contest on WUNC-TV made the contest even more enjoyable. Bob Lacey's feats were fantastic—beautiful fakes preceding his pass catches, a one-handed stab at midfield.

But probably the most enjoyable part of the TV-viewing was watching the defendants try to keep up with Carolina's pass-catching ace.

When Bob caught the third TD pass he had to cut sharply to the left side of the end zone. He had no trouble doing this. But Wake's defensive man—speedy Donnie Frederick—did have trouble. He picked himself up and prepared to defend the extra point attempt.

This time Bob cut to the middle of the end zone and added two more points to his credit. Again Frederick had to pick himself up off the field.

The Tar Heel seniors probably wanted this win more than anyone else. They hadn't beaten the Deacs in a varsity contest.

Senior co-captain Joe Craver looked like a fullback when he intercepted a pass on the UNC 28 late in the game. Nine seconds later, after knocking a few Deacs out of his path, Joe had advanced the ball 50 yards into Wake Forest territory. It was evident that big Joe wanted a touchdown, and he almost made it.

Discouraging words: A Wake Forest student said after the game, "I never realized how good our school spirit was until I heard the Carolina student body."

His words were quite true. Carolina students have a habit of clamming up when their team is behind. And when the ones with any spirit in them clammed up, the Coach-Haters took over. Cries of "We want a new coach" and "Go to hell, Hickey" smelled up the entire student section.

Maybe we should send these foul-mouths to a place over in the next county. They might be happy there, for they can watch a winning football team. Me, I'll take Carolina and the Tar Heels and Coach Hickey—win or lose.

I suggest that Hickey-haters apply for seats in the Duke section for our next and last home football game. There they can yell insults at Carolina to their hearts content, and they'll be able to feel right at home.

Or maybe they would like to attend a special session with the football players who think so much of Jim. The players themselves should know what they want and they are more than satisfied with their coach. Ask the players if they want a new coach, foul-mouths. You'll get your answer.

Seven linemen and ten backs have been added to the roster of candidates for the 1962 All-America team—to be selected by the AFCA at the season's conclusion.

A total of 64 players—including 47 grid stars selected in a pre-season poll of coaches—now comprise the nominating list for the 73rd consecutive squad of the nation's oldest and original All-America team.

Started by Walter Camp, in 1889, this coaches' All America team is sponsored by Eastman Kodak Company for the third consecutive year. More than 500 head college coaches, using evaluations furnished by analyzing many game movies, will select the honor team.

Final balloting will be reviewed by the All-America Board of Coaches led by Murray. The first, second, and third All-America teams will be announced in the December 1 issue of TV Guide.

Moving into contention at end is unheralded junior college transfer Verne Burke of Oregon State. After three games, he grabbed the lead among the nation's pass catchers with 25 receptions. Burke caught eight passes in Oregon State's upset over Stanford.

Among emerging tackle stars are Scott Appleton, 6-3, 227-pounder from the University of Texas, Daryl Sanders (6-5 and 237) of Ohio State, and Fred Miller (6-5 and 227) of Louisiana State's defensively-tough Bengals. Sanders teams with Bob Vogel, a previously-announced candidate, to give Ohio State a two-man tackle entry in the AFCA All-America ratings.

At guard, Jack Cvercko, a 236-pound, 6-0 junior, has been a key lineman in the upsurge of the Northwestern Wildcats. Tom Hertz (212 and 5-10) of Missouri also has been cited by coaches for outstanding play.

Center Wayne Lee, a 6-2, 200-pounder from Oklahoma, has moved up to challenge for All-America recognition.

Two sophomore quarterbacks—Tom Myers of Northwestern and Joe Namath of Alabama — have been impressive with their early-season passing accuracy. Bill Lothridge of Georgia Tech, an old-fashioned triple-threat, has had a hand or foot in virtually every point scored by the Georgians. Directing the powerful Arkansas attack is quarterback Billy Moore.

Five halfbacks have been recognized for their early-season performances. Eldon Fortie of Brigham Young, recovered from '61 injuries, moved ahead of all rushers for the first four games with 621 yards in 75 carries. UCLA's Kermit Alexander, an all-purpose back, dipped 45 yards for a touchdown in the Bruins' big upset over Ohio State.

Speedster Mel Renfro of Oregon and Byron Weaver of Houston—who set an all-time NCAA one-game record with five interceptions against Baylor — have also been nominated at halfback by the coaches.

Halfback Ron Budick of Michigan State moved up when he gained 207 yards against North Carolina. He broke a 12-yard record held by Sonny Granoelius of MSU.

Bill Thornton of Nebraska has been nominated for the fullback position.

All-American nominees from the Atlantic Coast Conference are Art Gregory, Duke tackle, Mark Leggett, Duke halfback, Billy Gambrell, South Carolina halfback, and Dick Shiner, Maryland quarterback.
