Ugly? YIPE!!

"They won't kick sand in MY face any more!" says talented Richard Gins, who won for the TEPs the coveted "Ugliest Man on Campus" award. Gins, shown here with his sunny side up, collected a winning $105 for the APO-sponsored HOPE charity project.

Ugly Man Doesn't Deserve Title (?)

TEP's "Mature Nail" (Richard Gins), officially the ugliest man on campus, thinks he definitely does not deserve the title.

"There are at least 5,000 boys as ugly, not counting at least a couple thousand girls who could win the ugly contest, by a landslide," the modest winner remarked.

Gins finished way out in front with $105.87. SAE's "Troll" (Bill Shaffer) was second with $61.96.

"Jungle Jim" (Dave Lobdell), last year's ugly man, finished in third place with $59.91. He was sponsored by Mangum Dorm.

The contest, sponsored by APO, service fraternity, brought in $322 for Project HOPE.

Gins is a junior political science major from Silver Springs, Md. After graduation, he plans to attend law school.

"I'm not the ugliest man," he confidently stated. "It just so happens that the people thinking I'm ugliest happen to have the most money."

Gins has his own theory about the contest. "This thing runs in cycles," he said. "One year, such as last year, Jungle Jim won. And everyone knows that Jungle Jim is ugly as This year, as you know, a good-looking person won."

Jungle Jim (Dave Lobdell) was not available for comment. "Is Gins glad he won?" "Indifferent," he said. "After I got the nomination, I wasn't going to hear the end of it anyway, so I thought I might as well win it."

Gins had a committee working for him which collected $85 the last day of the contest.

The "Mature Nail" as winner is now entitled to a date with a campus beauty. Is he looking forward to it? "Damn right I am." His date has not yet been announced.

"By the way," he concluded, "my picture doesn't do too much for me."

'Open Trials' Amendment Passes; Dorm Social Fee Raise Supported

UN Censures South Africa For Racism

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—The General Assembly Tuesday censured South Africa for racial discrimination and asked members to isolate that country from the world community.

The General Assembly also requested the Security Council—the only U. N. organ authorized to mete out punishment—to apply sanctions and start expulsion proceedings if the white minority government maintains apartheid.

It was the first time in U. N. history that the General Assembly moved to outlaw a member. In 1946 the organization asked members to shun Franco Spain, but Spain was not a member of the world organization at that time.

The General Assembly voted 67 to 16, with 23 abstentions, for an Afro-Asian measure to:

—Brand South Africa's racial policies a threat to peace.

—Request U. N. members "separately or collectively" to break diplomatic relations with Pretoria, close harbors and airports to South African goods, and embargo shipments to that country, particularly arms.

—Establish a special committee to pursue this objective.

—Request the Security Council to "take appropriate measures, including sanctions," to force South Africa to abandon apartheid and, "if necessary, to consider action under Article 6 of the charter" which provides for expulsion of a U. N. member that "persistently violates" the principles of the charter.

The decision was taken over the objections of the United States, United Kingdom and their Allies, who argued that sanctions will prove unworkable and that expulsion could lead to the breakup of the United Nations.

Noted Editor Hits Gov't For 'Stupid Censorship'

By JOHN GOINS

Sam Ragan, Executive Editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, Monday night in Howell Hall called government secrecy "stupid censorship."

"To make sense out of current world insanity—and there is no other way to describe our apparent intent to incinerate ourselves—is no easy task," Ragan said. "It is made no easier by the stupid censorship and manipulation of news in our centers of government."

Ragan, who has been elected president of the Associated Press Executive Editor's Association, spoke to the Carolina Press Club on "Reading, Writing, and Reporting."

In speaking of governmental secrecy, Ragan said that "The Woodrow Wilson policy of 'open covenant openly arrived at' and 'pithless publicity' of all aspects of public life are still the best guides for governments and newspapers."

Ragan said that when he had tried to get pictures of the Cuban missile sites, which President Kennedy boasted of possessing (they had actually been shown at a press conference), he was given the "run-around" by Washington diplomats. He said that the pictures were finally released through the London embassy.

The speaker cited the defense department as being the greatest offender of withholding information, but also included the United States Congress in his condemnation. He charged the reporter with the duty of breaking down "the barriers of secrecy" in Washington.

Turning his attention to modern newspaper writing, Ragan said that reporters should strive for the clarity achieved by the four Gospel writers. "No reporter can improve on the lead 'In the beginning ...'"

Ragan defined journalism as "literature in a hurry," and urged reporters to stick to the two main rules of journalism, accuracy and clearness.

Asked if he thought that television could ever replace the newspaper as a source of news, Ragan said that television can never challenge the newspapers because television cameras cannot go behind the scenes and get the story that a reporter can discover.

India Repels Small Chinese Red Attack

NEW DELHI (UPI)—India announced Tuesday it had driven back two small Chinese Communist attacks on the eastern end of the Sino-Indian frontier but it warned of a major Red buildup menacing the Chusul air base in Ladakh at the western end of the border.

Chusul, used by the Indian Air Force to supply its troops fighting in the Ladakh area of Kashmir, is 160 miles south of Karakoram pass where the Indians evacuated their main base without firing a shot. The two actions increased the invasion threat to Kashmir.

On the political front the government named a 30-man national defense council which included four retired military commanders and the demoted Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon.

Eighteen of the 24 members of the executive committee of Nehru's Congress party's parliamentary group Tuesday signed a letter and sent it to Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru demanding that Krishna Menon be persuaded to resign. Nehru's decision is expected to be known by Wednesday.

Krishna Menon took note of the increasing reports that his political days were numbered when he told a rally of 5,000 persons in Old Delhi today: "Whether I am a member of the government or parliament or running a canteen I will contribute my mite to the country's war efforts."

The meeting was guarded by police with batons and a number of plainclothes men in view of reports Krishna Menon's critics planned hostile demonstrations. None broke out.

"There is no question of negotiations with the Chinese on the basis of their keeping what they have gained by aggression," he said. Peiping radio accused Indian military forces Tuesday of new air and ground "provocations" along the disputed border and called India's decisions to close two branches of the Bank of China a "grave and preposterous persecution."

Both Peiping and New Delhi reported fighting in the Walong area of the front. Walong is 14 miles south of the McMahon line at its eastern end and near the border of Burma. Peiping said the Indians had been shelling Chinese positions continuously since Oct. 28.

The Indian Defense ministry said the Indians repulsed two Chinese Communist attacks in the Subansiri division, 10 to 12 miles below the McMahon line near Walong which guards the eastern approaches to the Assam Valley. A spokesman said Indian patrols inflicted casualties on the Chinese without loss to themselves.

Freshman Results To Be Challenged

LATE RESULTS

A DTH press time last night, the following results in North Carolina and national general elections were available:

The proposed Court Reform amendment for N. C. appeared to have passed. Republicans George Romney of Michigan and Nelson Rockefeller of New York, both possible presidential candidates in 1964, were elected governors of their states. President Kennedy's younger brother Ted appeared to have won his brother's former senate seat from Massachusetts. In Pennsylvania, Republican William Scranton appeared to have ended Democratic control of the Penn. state house with a victory over Democrat Richard Dillworth. There was no word available on the results of Richard M. Nixon's bid for the California governorship against incumbent Pat Brown.

A Constitutional amendment establishing "open trials" for the Honor Councils and the IDC Dormitory Referendum were both passed by substantial majorities in the campus elections yesterday.

The unofficial returns on the "Open Trials" amendment were 1,354 in favor and 710 opposed to the amendment. The issue passed in every polling place with the exception of Stacy dormitory.

All dorms reporting returns on the IDC Dormitory Referendum to increase social fees in men's dorms by $.75 per man per semester voted for the proposal. The vote, according to John Mitchener, IDC Presidential Assistant, passed, 1,336 to 608. Present plans call for the increase to go into effect for the Spring Semester of this year, Mitchener said.

In the class elections and Honor Council returns, only a few final returns were reported at press time, and there have been reports that at least one of the elections will be contested on a technicality.

Unofficial returns showed that Earl Johnson won the presidency of the Freshman Class over Jack Harrell (SP). An independent candidate named O'Quinn got forty-six votes, but may have been disqualified for not turning in an expense account.

Robin Britt, SP chairman, said that the election would definitely be contested due to O'Quinn's entrance in the race.

No other class election finals were in at press time, but it appeared that Charlie Shaffer (UP) was leading SP candidate Gordon Appell for Junior Class President.

The final returns for Sophomore Class were not yet in, but Harrison Merrill (UP) and Bill Aycock (SP) were only a few votes apart, according to unofficial reports.

Final returns for Honor Council seats in four districts reported were as follows:

Women's Judicial District I; Lefled and Deal won. Women's JD IV; Dial won.

Men's Judicial District III; Peterson and Bensch won. Men's JD IV; Wales, Boxley, Simpson won.
