

UNC Wins Fifth Cross Country Title

Larry Henry Takes Individual Honors

By ED DUPREE

Barefooted Larry Henry led North Carolina to its fifth Atlantic Coast Conference cross country championship yesterday on Finley Golf Course.

Henry, a second-year med student from Horse Shoe, N. C., outdistanced Duke's Dick Van Dyck and 67 other ACC harriers to become the sixth individual champion from UNC. He covered the four miles in 20 minutes, 43.6 seconds.

Five Tar Heels finished in the top 11, giving Coach Dale Ranson's runners 31 points and an easy win. Duke and Maryland tied for second with 51 points.

Wake Forest finished fourth with 119 points, followed by Clemson (164), Virginia (170), South Carolina (181) and North Carolina State (215).

Van Dyck followed Henry by 1.4 seconds and took second place. Maryland's John Garten was third, two seconds back of Van Dyck, and his Terp teammate Tom Krueger was fourth.

Charlie Little and Jerry Stuver of UNC took fifth and sixth, respectively. Rounding out the top ten were Frank Campbell, Duke; Jerry Smith, UNC; John Weisiger, Duke; and Alan Rose, South Carolina.

North Carolina's number five man, Bob Bennett, took 11th, followed by Virginia's top finisher Walt Caldwell.

E. J. Drown of Clemson led his team, finishing 17th, John Carter paced Wake Forest, taking 21st, and Jerry Fincher of N. C. State finished 31st—the first Wolfpack runner to cross the finish line.

The Tar Heels finished the regular season with a 6-1 ACC record, losing only a 27-23 squeaker to Duke. Then they gained revenge by edging Duke in the state championship meet. Yesterday's victory gave Ranson's men a 2-1 victory in the three contests against the Blue Devils.

Carolina won its first ACC championship in 1956, and triumphed again in 1957. After two Duke championships, the Tar Heels won the title in 1960 and 1961, making this year's victory their third straight.

Jim Beatty, now one of the greatest distance runners in the world, was the first Tar Heel to win the individual championship. He did it in 1954, 1955 and 1956. Wayne Bishop was the champ in 1958 and Rett Everett in 1960.

Non-UNC winners have been Billy Latham of South Carolina in 1957, Jerry Nourse and Cary Weisiger of Duke—1959 co-champs—and Nourse again last year.

Henry didn't compete last year because he was concentrating on studies in his first year of med school. He ran unattached, though, and gained experience which paid off.

Little, who finished 10th last year as a sophomore, moved up to fifth. Stuver, UNC co-captain, was second in 1961, but his sixth-place finish was heartening, as he had to recover from a severe leg injury received during the summer.

Other runners who finished high last year were John Garten of Maryland, fourth in 1961 and third this time; Carmine Lunetta of UNC, sixth in 1961 and 18th yesterday; Tom Krueger of Maryland, seventh last year and fourth this time; and Dave Blumfeldt of Duke who dropped from eighth to 14th.

For Coach Ranson, this was his 51st championship in indoor and outdoor track and cross country. He came to UNC as cross country and assistant track coach in 1925 when Bob Fetzer was head track coach, and has been coaching Tar Heel athletes since.

Ranson Commends Team And Henry

By ED DUPREE

"It was a splendid team performance," Dale Ranson has probably said this many times in his 38 years as North Carolina cross-country coach, but his words were true, as always.

Five of his Tar Heel harriers, Larry Henry, Charlie Little, Jerry Stuver, Jerry Smith and Bob Bennett, finished in the top 11 in yesterday's Atlantic Coast Conference cross country championships. The Carolina runners won the ACC title for the fifth time in seven years.

"This was a wonderful achievement for Larry Henry," Ranson continued. "You know, this boy started running after he came to school."

Larry Henry was also pleased with his performance. The ACC cross country individual championship medal is small, but only in size. The second-year medical student held it and looked at the golden medal as if it were a three-foot high trophy.

Terps Continue Soccer Jinx

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Carolina's six-game winning streak came to a crashing halt yesterday as Maryland handed the Tar Heel varsity soccer team a 7-0 whitewash. It marked the 17th year in a row that the Terrapins topped the blue-shirted Carolinians and the seventh straight win for the Terps this year.

Center forward Richard Roe blasted six goals, making his season total 18 while inside left Oytan Tertemis added his 15th score of the year for the winners on their sloppy home field.

Carolina fullbacks Steve Painter, Charlie Battle and Bill Snyder, and goal tender Buddy Siegel turned in fine performances for the Tar Heels as they suffered their second loss of the season and first in the ACC.

Maryland demonstrated a special scoring combination yesterday. Their right wing continually dribbled the ball down the sidelines and then lifted the ball across the field to Roe who would head it into the nets. This play accounted for three Terp goals.

The Maryland defense allowed Carolina only 10 shots all afternoon as they thwarted high-scoring Jim Reston's attempt to equal Carolina's season scoring record. Jim is still three goals shy of the mark of 16 goals with only one more game to go.

The Tar Heels travel to Durham Friday afternoon to end their season with an engagement with the Duke Blue Devils. Maryland downed Duke, 3-1, earlier this month.

Carolina's Drew Murphy scored his twelfth goal of the season yesterday as the UNC freshman soccer team climaxed an unbeaten season with a 4-1 victory over Duke.

Carolina led by 2-1 at halftime, and was never in any difficulty during the final period.
