

Dancing Tryouts To Open Tonight

Betty Oliver, chairman of the Graham Memorial Drama Committee, has announced tryouts for "A Program of Dance."

This program, sponsored by Graham Memorial Petite Dramatique, will consist of modern jazz and modern dance. The directing and choreography will be done by Rhoda Blanton who is using experiments in color, light, and sound.

Miss Oliver has asked that all persons who are interested in dance attend the tryouts which will be held tonight from 7 to 9 p.m., and tomorrow from 4 to 6 p.m. at Graham Memorial.

All persons trying out will be asked to do individual improvisations and group dancing. She said that experience is not necessary, but each group will be given a set of simple floor exercises to perform, so tryouts should wear leotards or loose clothing.

Italian Show Begins Run At Rialto

Durham's new art movie theatre, the Rialto, will be the first to show Michangelo Antonioni's acclaimed film masterpiece, "La Notte" ("The Night").

The film, which has won festival awards at Berlin and Mexico City, is the Italian contender for this year's Academy Award as "Best Foreign Film." The picture will show today at the Rialto with a continuing run of five daily showings.

"La Notte" examines the diseases of leisure: anxiety, despair, loss of soul, and the eroticism that serves as a soul substitute. Nevertheless, as TIME'S critic pointed out, at the heart of Antonioni's plutonic pessimism lives a blazing note of hope.

Though he confesses no faith, he is essentially a religious artist. He believes that a spirit inhabits human beings, and in every film he proclaims his creed: to obey that spirit is to live, to deny it is to perish.

Ethridge Fund Established By J-School

An annual contribution of $500 to be made for a minimum period of three years to the School of Journalism of the University of North Carolina through the Journalism Foundation has been announced today by Dr. Norval Neil Luxon, dean.

The continuing gift, to be called the Mark Ethridge Fund, honors the Louisville publisher who will join the staff of the School of Journalism next fall.

The gift, from a donor who insists upon remaining anonymous, by a coincidence was received at almost the same time that Mr. Ethridge's appointment became known.

"I am authorized to say that neither Mr. Ethridge nor the newspapers to which he has made such outstanding contributions over the years made the gift. It is made by a man who believes in young people and their opportunity in journalism and who also believes in 'flowers for the living.' He got in touch with me about the gift honoring Mr. Ethridge without any knowledge of discussions which had been under way for some time with Mr. Ethridge."

The Mark Ethridge Fund may be expended at the discretion of the dean of the School of Journalism to aid students who plan to make journalism career.

Three Stars for Your Christmas

The Face of North Carolina

by Bruce Roberts, with text by Dick Gorrell. Here's a book we've all needed for years, and at the intimate we're enthused about it. It's a big book of top-notch pictures of all North Carolina—the new and the old, the mountains, the Piedmont and the coast, buildings, land and people. We think that the minute you see it, you'll know you've always wanted it—for yourself and for your friends. It's a beauty! $12.50

The War in the Air

A pictorial history of World War II Air Forces in combat, by Gene Gurney. Here's a gift that will be the hit of the day with the men folks. 348 pages of pictures of planes and combat in the air. $7.50

The Story Behind

The Painting

Seventy-one masterpieces in rich, faithful color (plus 68 more in black and white) make this a distinguished book. What makes it unique is that for each painting there is the story of the human drama that went into its production. $14.95

"All Work Custom Tailored"

Somewhere at this University there is a man who understands what we are talking about.

The creative individual can only develop if he is presented a challenging opportunity. But opportunity is not enough. You must have freedom to express your ideas; to bring into focus all that you have learned in college and elsewhere. If you consider yourself creative . . . we have the challenge . . . we have the freedom. We need you to help us market our products.

Packaging is today's fastest growing business function. In 1963 total packaging sales will exceed 18 billion. Experts agree that if packaging were a business and not a function, it would be the nation's largest. For the past 35 years, Dow has been a central, dynamic force in the packaging field. Our packaging products are used daily by millions of consumers. Everything from cigarettes to photographic film to cosmetics.

If you can see yourself as part of a marketing team that specializes in creating new ideas and putting them into force . . . you are the man who knows what we are talking about . . . we would like to talk to you.
