Blue Dolphins Leave Today For Princeton, Navy Meets

By JOEL TULKLEY
 Carolina's unbeaten varsity swimmers leave this afternoon for important meets at Princeton and Navy and what coach Pat Earey calls "excellent opportunities to see where we stand."

The Blue Dolphins, winners of their first five meets of the season, travel to New Jersey for a meet at Princeton late Tuesday afternoon and then they go on to Annapolis for a Wednesday afternoon clash with Navy.

Earey reported that "if our free-styler hold out we will give them both good meets." The amiable coach went on to give a rough sketch as to what he expects to see in this week's tests of strength.

Princeton has a nationally ranked backstroke in the person of Jed Graef and a couple of other boys who will be out to give Thompson Mann a real workout. Their breast stroke artist has been Eastern Intercollegiate Champion for the past couple of years and has turned in especially good times in the 100-yard event.

The Tigers have butterflyers galore, including some who have done 54 seconds or better in the 100-yard race and under 2:10 in the 200. They also have some of the outstanding divers in the country.

Earey hopes, however, to do well enough in the freestyle events (the 50, 100, 200 and 500-yard races) to offset the number of points they will collect in the butterfly, breaststroke and backstroke races.

Prospects Better

"I think we have a better prospect of gaining a win over the Midshipmen, but we certainly hope to take the measure of both of them," Earey said. "It is certainly a fine opportunity to compete against outstanding swimmers at this time of the year in order to see where we stand now," he said.

"Navy has an especially good middle distance swimmer in a boy named Hopkins. They will probably have 'average' backstroke and butterfly men, who would be 'good' in our league," Earey added.

Navy also has a boy named Collins who does the 50 in 22, 23 or 24 seconds and holds the record of 49 seconds in the 100-yard freestyle. They will also be well prepared in the breaststroke and diving competition as they usually are.

Spirit High

Earey noted that the spirit of the team during the past week had been running especially high, indicating that the boys are preparing for some real battles.

The following boys will be making the trip today: Thad Adams, Howard Cone, Barry King, Harrison Schiffman, Dick Woodrow, Joe Mummaw, Mike Bissell, Jim Huffman, Frank Lea, Ernie Oare, Scott Smiley, Pete Swift, Willie Bloom, Tate Kemper, Thompson Mann, Larry Roberts, Marion Smith and Henry Mummaw.

Tar Heels, Irish Open Video Series

North Carolina and Notre Dame will play in the first of a weekly Saturday afternoon telecast of Atlantic Coast Conference basketball games on January 5, when the Tar Heels travel to South Bend, Indiana.

Eight games will be presented on a regional television network—five of them conference games and three non-conference. Other non-conference games on the schedule are Virginia Tech at Wake Forest on January 12 and West Virginia at Duke on January 26.

A network of 14 cities in three states and the District of Columbia is participating in the weekly series' seventh year.

Announcers for the series will be Jim Simpson of Washington and Charlie Harville of Greensboro.

Cornhuskers Trip Miami By 36-34

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nebraska's Cornhuskers, staggered in George Mira's spectacular passing, came from behind twice Saturday and whipped Miami (Fla.) in the Gotham Bowl football game 36-34 on a pair of conversion runs by Dennis Claridge and Bill Thunder Thornton.

Mira hit 24 of 46 passes for 322 yards and two touchdowns in a dazzling performance in 20-degree weather.

But the Huskers countered with fireworks of their own, including a 92-yard kickoff return by Willie Ross, who scored two touchdowns and set up a third with a 41-yard run.

Cunningham Scores 26 In First Loss

By CURRY KIRKPATRICK
 BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Billy Cunningham tore Indiana apart here Saturday, but it wasn't enough as the Hoosiers turned to their fast break in the last seven minutes and ran away from North Carolina, 90-76.

Cunningham, the big red head on whose shoulders may rest the fate of this UNC team, finally broke through against the Tar Heels' Big Ten opponent and was unquestionably the best ballplayer on the floor.

Billy hit a season high of 28 points on 10 of 19 from the field and eight of 13 from the foul line while also proving to be the game's best rebounder with 16.

But Cunningham, who definitely overshadowed Indiana's fabled Van Arsdale twins, could not do it alone and in the end, it was the Hoosiers' speed that told the story.

Running from a halftime lead of 41-34, Indiana battled the Tar Heels on even terms the second half and even saw its lead cut to six as late as the 7:40 mark of that period.

But here the tense intersectional clash was broken open by the form of basketball for which Branch McCracken-coached teams are famous—the fast break.

After Cunningham tallied on a free throw to cut the Hoosier lead to 62-56, Indiana began to run.

Jimmy Rayl, a precision-like shooting mechanism, cracked the whip for McCracken's boys in the next few minutes.

Rayl stole the ball from UNC guard Larry Brown and fired a long pass to Tom VanArsdale for the two-pointer. Jimmy McLocklin, Indiana's fine sophomore center, then went in all alone on another quick fast break, and suddenly the Tar Heels were down by 10 at 66-56.

Rayl then put the icing on the cake. After Yogi Poteet had broken the string with a long jumper, the Kokomo, Ind. star fired in two one-handers from long range. This put the Hoosiers up by 70-58, and Carolina was hopelessly beaten.

Dean Smith called time out for a strategy meeting, but it was all for naught. The Tar Heels, pressing frantically, had to leave men open all over the court in their efforts, and Indiana easily capitalized on the breaks to maintain its margin at the end.

The seven-point lead the Hoosiers carried to the dressing room at the half was certainly not indicative of the closeness of the play.

UNC led by its two sophs, Cunningham and Respass, started strong in that first period.

Respass rebounded a Charlie Shaffer-missed jumper and Yogi Poteet fired in a one-hander for a quick four-point lead.

The two teams went neck and neck from there to the 11:10 mark. Cunningham, playing with the driving concentration that so marked his freshman year, scored consistently on short drives in the early going.

But with about nine minutes gone in the game and Carolina up by 13-12, the Hoosiers made their move.

Striking off its tenacious 3-2 zone defense, Indiana proceeded to run 11 points up on the scoreboard while UNC could only manage Cunningham's drive and Poteet's short jump.

Tommy Bolyard started things off for the Hoosiers with two free throws after being fouled by Respass.

The 6-4 Indiana forward, overshadowed in recent years by teammates Walt Bellamy and Rayl, then scored on two consecutive one-handers. After Cunningham and Poteet stemmed the tide momentarily, the VanArsdale twins took over. Dick sank a free throw and Tom put in a long jumper, after which Rayl canned another long jump.

With five minutes remaining in the half, Indiana, its lead cut to six at 33-27, began to move again.

More Tall Cotton Ahead For Heels!

North Carolina will try to get back on the winning path, but against a very tough opponent, when it takes on highly rated Kentucky tomorrow night in Lexington. The Wildcats have gone undefeated since they lost their season opener to VPI.

McGlocklin put in a layup, Ted Redenbaugh hit two free throws, and Bolyard came back with another jumper.

But the Tar Heels, as they were to do so many times in this titanic struggle, fought back viciously, and scored seven straight points off their press before Bolyard ended the half with a one-hander.

Rayl, the All-American candidate, finished with 24 points—high for the Hoosiers—while Tom VanArsdale captured 10 rebounds.

Scoring:
 Indiana (90) T. VanArsdale 16, Bolyard 18, McGlocklin 20, D. VanArsdale 5, Rayl 24, Porter 0, Redenbaugh 7, Harden 0, Granger 0.

North CAROLINA (76) Respass 13, Shaffer 3, Cunningham 28, Brown 8, Poteet 18, Cooke 6, Krause 0, Calahan 0, Burns 0.
