Barnett Ordered To Show Cause In Contempt Charge

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi was ordered Saturday by the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals to show cause why he should not be held in criminal contempt for his actions in the University of Mississippi integration crisis.

U.S. Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr. was directed to appear with Barnett at 9:30 a.m. Feb. 8.

The Court of Appeals directed the Justice Department on Nov. 15, 1962, to institute contempt proceedings against Barnett and Johnson. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy filed his application for a show cause order Dec. 1.

In his application, Kennedy charged Barnett and Johnson failed to comply with a Court of Appeals order of July 28, 1962, directing that Negro James H. Meredith be admitted as a student to the University of Mississippi.

On Sept. 25, 1962, the court issued a temporary restraining order prohibiting Barnett and university officials from blocking Meredith's admission.

The court said the government application had shown probable cause for Barnett and Johnson to be held in contempt.

Kennedy alleged that Barnett, while aware of the appeals court's restraining order, "willfully prevented . . . Meredith from entering the offices of the board of trustees of the University of Mississippi . . . and thereby deliberately prevented . . . Meredith from enrolling as a student . . . pursuant to this court's order of July 28, 1962." Barnett blocked Meredith's attempt to enter the offices on Sept. 25.

"While having actual notice of the temporary restraining order of Sept. 25, 1962," the appeals court order continued, "Paul B. Johnson Jr., acting under the authorization and direction of Ross Barnett . . . willfully prevented . . . Meredith from entering the campus . . . and thereby prevented . . . him from enrolling as a student . . . and did, instead, direct and encourage certain members of the Mississippi Highway Patrol, sheriffs and deputy sheriffs and other officials . . . to obstruct and prevent the entry of . . . Meredith upon the campus of the university that day."

Kennedy charged that Barnett, on Sept. 30, failed "to take all possible measures for the maintenance of peace and order upon the campus and . . . willfully failed to exercise his responsibility, authority and influence as governor of Mississippi."

Barnett was in Washington and could not be reached for comment.

The other UP Grievance Committee members are Rex Savery, co-chairman; Dee Johnson; and Bob Clawson. The quest members for this meeting will be Reid Suges, Dorm Manager of the North Campus; Phil Baddour, Legislator from the Lower Quad; and John Mitchener, Chairman of the Dorm Improvements Committee.

India-China Riff May Go To Hague

NEW DELHI (UPI)—India disclosed Saturday it has formally proposed to Communist China that they refer their border dispute to the International Court of Justice at The Hague for arbitration.

At the same time India accused the Chinese Communists of using tactics "reminiscent of the old days of gunboat diplomacy." It implied for the first time that Peking's terms for opening negotiations amounted to a victor's surrender conditions.

The International Court proposal, originally suggested in parliament by Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, as well as the sharp charges were contained in a note to Peking released today by the Indian Foreign Ministry.

Its disclosure came as Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai bade farewell in Peking to two visiting would-be peacemakers in the Sino-Indian dispute with a statement indicating the Chinese have not budged from their hard line on the controversy.

Chou's statement was made at a farewell banquet for Ceylonese Prime Minister Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike and Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio, who left Saturday en route to India. It made clear Communist China was holding fast to the position it took when it declared a unilateral ceasefire Nov. 19.

Chou insisted that Red China must enter any negotiations with India while still occupying all the territory it claims in the dispute. India, on the other hand, is demanding a pullback to positions the

NSA Execs Propose Extensive Reforms

Extensive reforms were proposed for the National Student Association (NSA) by its National Executive Committee (NEC) which met at the University of Minnesota last week.

Harry DeLung, UNC NSA Co-ordinator, represented the 29-school Carolinas-Virginia region.

The controversial referral of resolutions from the annual National Student Congress to the NEC came under attack by liberal and conservative committee members. According to DeLung, referral will "probably be abolished at next summer's Congress."

The NEC, which acts as a board of directors for the Association, expressed an almost unanimous desire for structural and policy reform. Many proposals were made which would increase NSA's role in education and de-emphasize its political involvement.

The NEC's committee on programming recommended that "the Association's first concern always be for on-campus problems."

A reorganization of the regional structure was discussed which would condense NSA's national division into five or six areas. "UNC would be in the southern area," said DeLung. "Chapel Hill would probably be the home base for one of five or six national vice presidents who would travel to member schools in this area."

"This increased, direct contact between the national officers and each school would dramatically affect the value of NSA membership," he added.

The 16th National Student Congress was tentatively set at the University of Indiana next August. UNC will send four elected delegates, the president and vice president of the student body, the editor of the DTH, and the NSA Co-ordinator.

The NEC's Congress planning committee recommended sharp limitations on the amount of legislation which the Congress may consider. "This was done in an effort to produce more carefully thought-out resolutions," said DeLung.

DELEGATES ELECTED

A constitutional amendment was discussed which would require that all delegates to the Congress be elected by their student body. Presently, this is left to the discretion of each school.

Dennis Shaub, president of NSA, told the NEC he hoped the 16th Congress would provide more experiences for the delegates "which can be of direct value when they return to their campuses." Shaub is the past-president of the student body at the University of Notre Dame, and was a Rhodes Scholar.

Katanganese Forces Reform To Attack Elisabethville

THE CONGO (UPI)—Katangan Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo has reformed the battered Katangan gendarmerie and is leading a march of 1,000 men on Elisabethville from the Northern Rhodesian border, the United Nations said Saturday.

The development threatened to explode new fighting in the mineral rich province. It came as U.N. Undersecretary Ralph Bunche arrived in Leopoldville and gave the green light for further military operations against Katanga President Moïse Tshombe.

Bunche pinpointed three more main military objectives including Tshombe's stronghold at Kolwezi and Sakania. Sakania is located on the border of Northern Rhodesia, 100 miles southeast of Elisabethville, from which the Katangan were reported moving with at least six armored vehicles.

Civilian Train

The United Nations sent a civilian train with Red Cross markings down the railway line toward the Sakania area late Saturday to test the reaction of Munongo's gendarmes.

It appeared obvious Bunche was hoping to withhold major U.N. strikes until Secretary-General Thant's two-week ultimatum to Tshombe to talk peace or face renewed warfare expires Jan. 14. The new Katangan offensive could change all that, however.

Tshombe has shown no signs of talking peace at the moment. U.N. reconnaissance aircraft flying over the Sakania area Saturday reported that Munongo has reformed stragglers from the Katangan gendarmes who were driven out of Elisabethville in a U.N. Christmas offensive and was leading them into battle.

Northern Rhodesia charged that three Swedish U.N. jet fighters flew deep into Rhodesian territory in the same area. It ordered its own jet air force to patrol the border and halt further incursions.

The U.N. spotter craft said the Katangan were moving from Sakania and Ushoshi, about 12 miles away, where the Katangan still hold immigration and customs posts. The road is the only route the civilian population can move food, medical supplies and gasoline into Katanga from the south.

Controls Road

The U.N. command said Munongo's forces controlled part of the road and a rail line which runs parallel for 16 miles between Elisabethville and the Northern Rhodesian border.

The central government, meanwhile, flew in officials to Elisabethville to assume control over the administration in a further step to incorporate secessionist Katanga into the Congo government.

In another development aimed at reunification, Marcel Van Roey, director of the National Bank of Katanga, flew into Leopoldville to discuss the Katangan monetary situation and possibly work toward sharing Katanga mining revenues with the central government.

The three targets outlined by Bunche were Kolwezi, Sakania and Dilolo.

Kolwezi is 150 air miles northwest of Elisabethville and 85 miles above captured Jadotville. Sakania is on the Rhodesian border 100 miles southeast of Elisabethville and Dilolo is on the Angola border 350 air miles west of Elisabethville.

Billy Pours In 26 In Overtime Win

Notre Dame held Billy Cunningham to 26 points yesterday. At first it looked as if he were going to get 46. But for the tenacious Irish, their defense on the amazing Carolina sophomore was not enough.

Billy the Kid, the original left-handed gun, carved another notch in his six-shooter as the Tar Heels captured a 76-68 overtime win from the Irish in their South Bend stronghold.

It was Cunningham himself, all six feet, four and a half inches, that lofted a jump shot from some 25 feet away with the last second ticking off the clock in the regulation game. The ball swished through, tying the game at 63-63.

The shot climaxed a classic comeback for the Tar Heels, who a minute and a half earlier had been four points behind and didn't have the ball.

The overtime period itself was duck soup compared with the second half of play. Cunningham, the fellow with the magic, dropped in two free throws to start the scoring in the extra stanza, and the Tar Heels were never headed again. Carolina regained possession on a palming violation, and Yogi Poteet dropped in a layup. Substitute center for the Irish Ron Reed made one of two foul shots, but Poteet came back with a three-point play to give the Tar Heels a 70-64 lead, and practically assure them of their sixth win in seven games.

Reed managed a layup for ND, but Carolina turned the final test into a rout by scoring six points in a row as Brown and then Poteet was perfect from the free throw line, and Charlie Shaffer capped off a fast break with an easy layup.

Even the final shot was anti-climactic. Irish captain John Andreoli took a jumper from the corner, but the leaping Cunningham went high over the basket to bat the ball away. The points counted for Notre Dame, of course, but by that time, the 3,500 fans in the Notre Dame Field House had nothing to cheer about. The Fighting Irish coach Johnny Jordan had just lost their first home game of the season. It was also only their second loss of the year.

Close All The Way

The game was close all the way, and Carolina's 10-point lead near the end was the biggest margin ever separating the closely matched teams.

Carolina scored first on Larry Brown's jumper, but sophomore Jay Miller, the top Irish scorer of the game with 21, came back with a free toss and a field goal to put the white-clad homestanders ahead.

Cunningham then had his first and only miss from the free throw line (he made 10 straight afterwards) but then hit two field goals to put UNC ahead by 6-5. After ND took the lead on baskets by guard Larry Sheffield, Cunningham hit twice again to put the Heels in front, 13-11. Cunningham's tap, making the score 19-16, gave Caro-

Upstairs Gallery To Sponsor Art Classes Here

Several sculptors in the UNC Art Department have recently won recognition for their work this year from various organizations in the state and in New York.

Sculpture by Jeffrey Bayre, an undergraduate from New Hampshire, was accepted by the Madison Gallery in New York City for its Quarterly Show.

Other sculptors in the department who received recognition in 1962 were: Dwayne Lowder who had a one-man show in New York City; Robert Howard, associate professor of art, who was awarded a first prize for his metal sculpture in the North Carolina Artists' Exhibition at the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh; and students, Tim Murray, Craig Moore and Dwayne Lowder who have sculpture in the same show which will close January 5.

Mr. Bayre's sculpture, which is untitled, is a plaster torso 22 inches high that has been treated to resemble weathered bronze by the application of pigments.

This technique permits a color and form unity "vital and basic to a meaningful relationship to space, volume, and color merged to form a harmoniously integrated oneness," according to Bayre.

Although the sculpture is untitled, the artist describes the work as a "study in positive and negative forms" or perhaps more categorically as "softened cubism." The show will continue at the Madison Gallery through January.
