Students Eye Above Room For Social Facility

Faculty Club Room Sought As Dormitory Social Room

The need for social facilities for dormitory men is again before Student Legislature, this time involving the present Faculty Club room.

The Faculty Club is now housed upstairs in the Monogram Club Building, but does not use its facilities during weekend nights.

A resolution introduced in legislature by Ford Rowan would call for the I.D.C. and the Campus Affairs Board to work with the faculty and the administration to secure use of the building for students on Saturday nights.

Supporters of the measure point out that the building was once open for students, and that the ideal location between Lower Quads and Cobb Dorm would help alleviate the lack of campus social facilities. The dormitories in Lower Quad have inadequate social rooms, so proponents of the resolution plan to run the Clubroom under the auspices of the I.D.C. Interest in the Monogram Clubroom was generated after both platforms in last spring's elections called for an off-campus social hut, for which funds were not available this year.

Bobrowske Chosen To Vie For Program

Dr. Frank M. Duffy, head of the committee for the appointment of State Department summer internships in Washington, D. C., yesterday nominated Dennis E. Bobrowske as UNC candidate for one of approximately 40 such internships to the Department of State. The appointee, Dennis Bobrows-ke, is a senior majoring in International Studies and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Last year, 25 such interns were chosen by a special committee of the Foreign Service from among various college representatives. Because the internship program is new, the University has had no nominees for this special program.

The program provides a very valuable practical experience for any student interested in a career in the Foreign Service. Judging from last year's response, the program has had great success, as can be noticed by the increase in the number of expected appointees.

Last year, while performing their regular work in the Department of State, the interns of the State Department, as well as those of the Agency for International Development and of the United States Information Agency, attended various governmental seminars organized by the White House. Other activities included afternoon meetings with State Department officers, informal luncheon discussions with those students having the same area interests, language demonstrations, and sessions with members of Congress, representatives of other agencies, and foreign diplomats residing in the Washington area.

LAST ISSUE

Thursday's issue of the Tar Heel will be the last until the beginning of the spring semester. Classes will begin again Monday, Feb. 4 and the DTH will begin publication Feb. 5.

Students Picked To Represent UNC At Mock UN Meet

Five UNC students will represent the Soviet Union at the mock United Nations General Assembly here February 21-23.

Walter Dellinger, Harry DeLung, Henry Mayer, Jim Reston, and Mickey Simmons will make up the Russian delegation at the bi-annual program of the Collegiate Council on the United Nations (CCUN).

Students from almost 50 schools will meet in Chapel Hill representing most of the nations in the UN. The Air Force Academy of Colorado Springs, Colo., will send the United States delegation.

At the CCUN assembly two years ago, the Air Force placed as the second best delegation after hot competition with UNC's Russian group, which received first place.

Carolina students will make up three other delegations of smaller countries. According to Hugo Spechar, CCUN Secretary-General, the UNC Debate Team will represent Lebanon, and the YM-YWCA and Di-Phi will send delegations not yet assigned.

The Cuban delegation will come from Duke University. Sources at Duke say the delegates will come wearing beards and army fatigues. Spechar said N.C. State will represent India and the Woman's College will send a Turkish delegation.

DeLung, chairman of the USSR delegation, said the key areas of Soviet concern will include: the "Troika" proposal for the Secretariat, the racial policies of Portugal in Angola, international supervision of nuclear test ban plans, the Indian-Chinese border disputes, and international refugee problems.

The assembly will meet in five committees—Economic, Legal, Political, Social, and Ad Hoc—before the general plenary. The plenary will consider between 10 and 15 resolutions, which may concern any area of international affairs.

According to DeLung, "Lavish entertainment has been planned by the Russian delegation for key nations in the Soviet bloc and the 'neutral' powers."

Chairmen Picked For Campus Chest Spring Campaign

By MARY REGAN

Space Legal Aspect Topic Of Meet Here

Business transactions in space will be one of the topics under discussion Feb. 1 and 2 when UNC School of Law hosts the regional meeting of the American Society of International Law here.

Henry Brandis Jr., Dean of the School of Law, will preside over the session on the legal aspects of doing business in space beginning at 9:30 a.m. February 2.

Speakers at this session are John C. Cooper, professor emeritus of international air law, McGill University, on "Current Developments in Space Law"; Arnold Frutkin, director of Office of International Programs, NASA, on "International Space Programs"; Walter D. Sohler, deputy general counsel, NASA, on "Legal Aspects of Space Exploration"; and Horace P. Moulton, vice president and general counsel, American Telephone and Telegraph Co., on "Some Legal Aspects of International Communications."

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges will be one of the speakers at the meeting which will also feature discussions on the legal aspects of business transactions with Latin America and the European Common Market.

Judge L. Richardson Preyer of the Federal District Court for the Middle District of North Carolina will be the dinner speaker at 6:15 p.m. in the Carolina Inn, February 1. Judge Preyer will speak on "The North Carolina Trade Fair Mission, or, Innocents Abroad."

20 UNC Students Attend Assembly Over Holidays

By MARTIN KRUMING

During the Christmas holidays 20 Carolina YM-YWCA members journeyed to the University of Illinois in Urbana, Ill., for the National Student Assembly.

UNC's delegation was one of the largest at the convention, which is held every four years. It was attended by 1200 YM-YWCA students from all across the country this year.

"I was amazed at the way a convention of this size was organized and handled," said Judy Bryant, head of the Carolina group.

Seven guest speakers were featured during the Assembly, which lasted from December 27 through January 2.

Among the outstanding speakers were Reverend Moody, a Greenwich Village, N. Y., minister who discussed "Urban Mass Culture," and John Brademas, an Indiana congressman.

Brademas, who spoke on "The Challenges to the Democratic Idea," was selected as one of the ten outstanding NSA speakers of 1962. The announcement came during the Assembly.

Other speakers included Robert Blood, "Changing Roles of Men and Women"; William Cole, "Issues Facing Higher Education"; James Grant, "World in Revolution"; Carry McWilliams Jr., "Atomic Power in a Divided World"; and Morris Milgram, "Social Justice."

Linda MacNeil, an abstract painter from New Zealand, presented five paintings on revolution to the Assembly.

On New Year's Eve most of the delegations participated in a talent show. "The Hula skit put on by the University of Hawaii 'Y' impressed me the most," said Judy Bryant. After the show Hula lessons were in great demand.

"Ann Queen (general secretary of the YWCA who accompanied the delegation) was without a doubt the star of the Assembly," said Judy. "It seemed that all we did during the week was shake hands and renew old acquaintances of Ann's," she added.

Gil Stallings, president of the YMCA, expressed the feeling that there was very little intellectual vitality during the Assembly. "There was a mutual knowledge of what other students are thinking about and of course there is some vitality in a convention of this size. But the convention lacked an issue which captured the imagination of the students," said

Stallings.

A highlight of the Assembly was the appearance of the Freedom Singers, a Negro group which was taken off a Freedom Bus in Mississippi and jailed. "These performers especially appealed to the 'Y' members from the Northwest, West and North," commented Stallings.

"Overall there was a net increase in mutual understanding," said

Stallings.

The Carolina delegation brought back from Illinois the idea of hosting a race relations workshop in Chapel Hill during the spring. "This would be open to all the YM-YWCA's in Georgia, South Carolina and Virginia," remarked Stallings. "Of course this would be a politically unfeasible project at the University of South Carolina."

Secretary's Arrest Protested By SNCC

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee has charged the arrest of Robert Zellner, a SNCC field secretary, on the campus of Huntingdon College as "fraudulent" and "completely without justification" and has asked the Justice Department to investigate.

Zellner was arrested Jan. 8 for "vagrancy" and initially held on $1000 bail. At trial Jan. 9 he was convicted and sentenced Jan. 10.

Zellner, 23, a '61 honor graduate of Huntingdon College, had dinner with a student and another friend on campus Jan. 9. The three were walking toward Zellner's car parked on campus when an unmarked car began following them. When the car stopped, one man believed to be Wily P. Paynter, a state investigator and employee of the Alabama Department of Public Safety, jumped out, frisked Zellner, and told him he was under arrest for "conspiracy."

Zellner was taken to the county jail in Montgomery, then transferred to the city jail where the charge was changed to "vagrancy" and bond set at $1000.

SNCC officials wired the Justice Department: "We request you investigate the arrest of Robert Zellner on charges of vagrancy on Huntingdon College campus, Montgomery, Alabama. Zellner, a SNCC field secretary, was walking quietly on campus when arrested. We urge you investigate this violation of civil rights and civil liberties as fraudulent on its face and completely without justification."

Zellner, a native of Alabama, is the son of a Methodist minister. While a senior at Huntingdon, a Methodist-related school, he was almost expelled along with several other students after they attended Negro meetings in Montgomery. Some months after graduating he returned to Huntingdon to talk with classmates and was attacked by a mob on the campus.

SNCC officials also wired Huntingdon College President Hubert Searcy: "We protest the arrest of Robert Zellner on your campus January 8. Zellner was walking peacefully when arrested by State officials. We believe this to be unworthy of any institution of higher learning and in gross violation of the First Amendment and academic freedom."

Zellner has been arrested six times previously in Louisiana, Alabama, and Georgia. He and SNCC Chairman Charles McDew were arrested almost a year ago on charges of "criminal anarchy"—which carries a possible 10-year penalty—when they went to visit a SNCC field secretary imprisoned in Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

W. Germany May Sever Relations With Cuba Gov't

HAVANA (UPI)—Cuba and East Germany will establish diplomatic relations at the ambassadorial level, the Cuban government press reported Saturday. West Germany was expected to break relations with Fidel Castro's regime.

Under the so-called Hallstein doctrine, West Germany in the past has refused to recognize any nation maintaining relations with the Communist East German government.

The government newspaper El Mundo said the decision to elevate the present East German-Cuban trade missions to embassies "was due to the close and friendly relations between our two nations and will contribute to consolidate even more the bonds of friendship between our peoples."

The East German mission established in Cuba Dec. 22, 1961, headed by "chief of mission" Karl Loesch, was preceded by a trade mission set up early in 1960. Both missions had all the marks of an embassy.

The Cuban government provided a huge "embassy" building for the mission and a luxurious residence for the chief of mission, who was invited to all state functions with other members of the Soviet bloc diplomatic corps.

In Bonn, a West German government spokesman said the government would reserve the right to take "all steps it deems necessary," and that Ambassador Count Karl von Spreti has been ordered to submit a report. Informed sources said Spreti would be recalled to make an oral report, and would not return to Havana.

UNC Accountant, Irked By Bad Checks, Lauds Action

By MARY HARRIS

Should a UNC student who passes a bad check be subject to Honor Council action?

Tom Shetley, accountant for UNC's seven student retail exchanges, thinks so.

"We don't want to be harsh or brutal about it, but something has to be done," he said Wednesday. "We have received $478 worth of bad checks just today. The problem seems to be worse than ever this year. The Bank of Chapel Hill has to hire two more employees just to handle bad checks."

Shetley feels that most students who give bad checks are single offenders.

"They make a mistake in their math and straighten things out."

done that before," he said. "If so, they come in quickly when we call finances, and almost everyone has."

But there are others, Shetley says, who are repeated offenders. They deliberately pass bad checks over and over, and avoid trying to compensate for the school's financial losses.

"These repeated offenders try to use us for a small loan office," he said. "We have yet to resort to legal action, but we have threatened, called parents and sent letters. Then if nothing happens we just have to write them off as operating expenses."

"There are many more bad checks around holidays," Mr. Shetley said. "Students need extra money then, and write bad checks with the intention of putting in enough money to cover them when they get home. But many of them never do."

Shetley said passing bad checks should be an Honor Code offense because it is "a form of lying and cheating. It is a lie to write a check, giving the impression that there is enough money to cover it when there really isn't."

"A bill was passed by Student Legislature Thursday night to make bad checks an Honor Code offense if the student does not make the check good within 30 days."

"College students should learn something besides English and math," said Shetley. "College should train them for life, and the student who doesn't learn to manage his finances may be behind
