UNC's Mike Cooke goes up for a jump shot

Clemson Ordered To Admit Negro

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (UPI) — A federal appeals court Wednesday ordered an end to school segregation in South Carolina—one of the last two Southern states in which there has been no lowering of color barriers.

State officials indicated they would appeal the order to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Wednesday's ruling involved Harvey Gantt, a 20-year-old honor student who is seeking admission to all-white Clemson College. The court held that Gantt should be admitted later this month when the second semester commences on Jan. 28.

Gantt has been studying architecture at Iowa State University. He says he wants to attend Clemson because it is about 1,200 miles closer to his home.

Wednesday's order was returned by the U. S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals, one of the highest courts on the federal legal ladder. The next step up, if the order is appealed, likely would be the Supreme Court itself.

The appeals court ruling overturned a decision by federal district Judge C. C. Wyebe, who held that Gantt failed to meet application requirements at Clemson.

The appeals court said, however, that Gantt's "qualification for admission is unquestioned" and it accused the college of frustrating Gantt's 18-month effort to meet requirements.

South Carolina officials did not appear surprised at the appeals court ruling although a legal battle will continue, it is known that steps were taken weeks ago to assure that any court-ordered desegregation of Clemson would be carried out peaceably.

Gantt, interviewed at his Charleston home, said he considered integration a secondary issue in his bid for admission.

"My reason for going to Clemson is not to integrate the school but to get an education."

C. Van Woodard Is Speaker Here At 8

C. Van Woodard, history professor at Yale and strong exponent of integration, will speak tonight at 8 in Howell Hall. His address is sponsored by the UNC chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

Woodard, who received his Ph.D. here, received the American Council of Learned Societies' $10,000 prize last year for his work in the humanities.

The sponsoring AAUP is a group concerned with academic freedom and the promotion of educational improvement. Dr. L. P. Sprull is the president of the UNC chapter. There are 140 members of the Association on campus.

JAMES BALDWIN

James Baldwin, author of the best-selling novel "Another Country," will speak at North Carolina College tonight at 8-15 in B. N. Duke Auditorium on "The South's Demand for New Leadership."

Baldwin, who has been described by Time Magazine as "The most bitterly eloquent voice of the American Negro," is visiting Durham under the auspices of the NCC student chapter of the NAACP.

Tickets for the speech are available at the Y-Office and the Community Church Office. Admission is one dollar for adults and fifty cents for students.

Dillon Says Tax Cut Is Mandatory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kennedy administration indicated Wednesday that the unbalanced budget going to Congress Thursday will be followed by another deficit — financing program next year.

Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon said the government faces the prospect of many more deficits if Congress fails to approve the President's tax cut program. Even if it is approved, he said, there will be some more "deficits."

The President sends Congress at noon Thursday his budget for the fiscal year starting July 1. Based on his proposed tax reduction, the $99 billion spending plan calls for a substantial deficit.

Dillon, addressing a freedom bond rally, made clear that the administration expects to submit another unbalanced budget next year. But like the President he saw the tax cut as the economic hope of the future.

The final meeting of the Men's Council will be held during the semester break, and will deal primarily with infractions which occur during the examination period.

A member of the attorney general's staff will be in the Council Room in Graham Memorial every day from 10 to 12 in the morning and 2-5 in the afternoon; Campus Code or Honor Code matters may be referred to him at that time.

Quiet Hours To Go Into 24-Hour Effect

Dormitory Quiet Hours will go into effect 24 hours a day starting Sunday, January 20. This ruling will be enforced by the I.D.C. throughout examination period, as has been the case in the past.

Violations may be reported to the Interdormitory Council Representative or any other dorm officer.

Unnecessary noise, loud radios and record players or any noise which disturbs study or sleep will constitute a violation.

Infirmary

Tar Heels Capture 67-65 Overtime Win From State

Smith Relieved, But Admits Goof On Winning Play

By HARRY LLOYD

Coach Dean Smith took a satisfying sip on a soft drink and breathed a sigh of relief as he met the press outside the team's dressing room after the breathtaking win over N. C. State here last night. He was the man who had called the signals for the winning Tar Heels, and the minor fact that the signals hadn't been carried out meant little to him.

"That winning play didn't turn out the way it was supposed to," said the Carolina coach of Larry Brown's 10-foot banked jump shot seven seconds from the end of the cliff-hanging battle.

"We were going to call time out with eight seconds. I signalled to Larry, but he misunderstood and thought I meant to set up the play and shoot in five seconds.

"We were going to set up a screen from the sideline for Brown or work it in to Galantai for a shot from the lane."

"On the most controversial play of the game, which occurred in the regulation play with Carolina leading by 65-63 and it appeared that Galantai had banked in a turn shot, Smith had this to say:

"One official called it two points. The other said that the state man was calling time out with 'momentary possession' when Galantai took the ball away from him and shot."

The play gave state a chance to come down and tie the game up, sending it into overtime.

"We give Brown the quarterbacking duties. He calls a lot of the defensive signals, but in the first half only," quipped Smith. "He came through like a real clutch player out there tonight."

"We're a lot more confident with Cunningham in there—he lifts the team. He can go up and get the ball." When Smith was asked about the foul difficulty that Cunningham got in again before fouling out, even then he expressed pleasure.

"If Billy gets fouls jumping for the ball, it's all right. Before tonight, he was committing silly little fouls."

"State was tough underneath. They have a good basketball team. We were joking earlier about the size of their starting five. It's heavier than the line on their football team."

"Our trouble was taking advantage of our breaks. We'd steal the ball, then throw it away without taking a shot."

"It wasn't one of our better games, but I'm sure State had a lot to do with that."

Brown's Late Shot Brings Eighth Win

By CURRY KIRKPATRICK

North Carolina had to fight for its nationally-ranked life here last night. The Tar Heels survived, 67-65.

But it took forty minutes of pulse-pounding regular play and a five-minute overtime period before UNC was able to subdue a surprisingly-strong, fired up State College Wolfpack.

Given a second life when Jim Whitfield put in a layup at the end of regulation time, N. C. State went into overtime with a distinct advantage over the Tar Heels—Billy Cunningham was out of the game on fouls.

But Carolina, as it has all year long, came through in the clutch. Off the jump ball at the start of the extra period, Charlie Shaffer missed a long jumper. State got the rebound but also missed.

After another exchange of miscues, the Wolfpack again came down with the ball. This time, Whitfield once more was called on to pull it out for State. But the big redhead charged Mike Cooke underneath the UNC basket, Carolina took possession, and a timeout was immediately called.

With 1:53 remaining, UNC went into a freeze with magnificent Larry Brown at the controls. Brown dribbled for exactly one minute and 46 seconds. He then jumped and let fly from 12 feet out.

The ball banked into the net, UNC had the lead, and pandemonium broke loose in Woollen Gym.

State called time out with four seconds left, but Ken Rohloff's long desperation in-bounds pass was intercepted by Mike Cooke. Cooke, a defensive gem all night, passed to Brown and another page was turned in this ancient rivalry with the hated Wolfpack.

Last night's battle will surely go down in history as one of the most exciting games ever seen here.

N. C. State led 34-33 at halftime, due in large part to a three-minute scoring famine faced by the Tar Heels midway through the period.

UNC fell further and further behind in the second half and as late as the 9:26 mark trailed by eight points. When Whitfield canned two free throws at that point, Carolina was down at 53-47 and in deep trouble.

But Carolina's beloved sophomore, Cunningham, re-entered the game from a foul-inflicted tenure on the bench and ignited a rally which cut the lead to two at 63-61.

He fouled out with 1:20 left in regulation time but not before stealing the ball and feeding Yogi Poteet for a fast break lay-up. This play was the second of two Poteet half-court ramps, the first tying the game at 63, the second giving UNC a cherished 65-63 advantage.

On Cunningham's foul, Jon Speaks missed his free throw. But first Brown and then Shaffer missed one-and-one situations for Carolina, setting the stage for Whitfield's last-second lay-in.

In the preliminary, the UNC frosh swamped State's Wolflets for the second time this year, 86-58.

Dorm Court Convicts 2 Residents

Tuesday night the I.D.C. Court tried and convicted three dormitory residents. Charges ranged from disorderly conduct (disturbing others) to property damage.

The sentences imposed by the Interdormitory Council ranged from Official Reprimand to General Probation from dormitory activities. Two of the students were sophomores and one was a freshman.

The property damage consisted of the removal of a staircase banister from one of the dormitories by a student who had been drinking. The Attorney General's staff found that the banister had been in poor repair previous to this incident and had apparently come off in the student's hand. The defendant thus received the court's lightest sentence, an Official Reprimand.

Broken Lock

The other two students were charged and convicted of knocking open a locked door thus breaking the lock. They received General Probation restricting them from all dormitory activities and a warning not to reappear before the I.D.C. Court during their probation.

Earlier this year the I.D.C. Court has met several times. Two students have been removed from all University Housing for a conviction of shooting off firecrackers. This is generally the minimum penalty imposed for any firecracker incident.

Earlier, students have been fined by the court for destroying dormitory property.

Campus Briefs

Institute Formed In Outdoor Drama

Chancellor William B. Aycock announced yesterday the founding of the "Institute of Outdoor Drama" to be a part of UNC.

The new institute will fulfill a national need for a central clearing house for information, advice, auditions and production assistance for the many outdoor dramatic productions and community pageants that are held all over the United States.

William Trotman, a veteran of the Carolina Playmakers and a native of Winston-Salem, was named director of the Outdoor Drama Institute. Trotman is an actor, playwright, director, production manager and stage and scenery designer. He is returning to Chapel Hill from Houston, Texas, where he has been resident designer for the Ford Foundation-backed Alley Theatre.

The purpose of the Institute of Outdoor Drama is threefold:

1. To stimulate interest and dedication to the outdoor drama movement—to inform, place and train new talent and to redirect established talent.
2. To provide complete advisory service on every phase of planning and producing—to gather the people who have worked and advised in the past and to solicit their support, cooperation and service.
3. To act as a repository for information to include publicity samples, architectural plans, photographs and financial information.

Chancellor Aycock also announced a board of directors of the Institute, including Prof. Harry E. Davis, chairman of the UNC Department of Dramatic Art; Paul Green, Pulitzer Prize winning dramatist who is author of several outdoor dramas now running annually; Professor Samuel Selden, former director of the Carolina Playmakers and dramatic arts chairman at Chapel Hill who is now head of the University of California (Los Angeles) Theater Arts Department; Kermit Hunter, playwright and chairman of the Division of Fine Arts, Hollins College, Va.; John Ehle, special assistant to the Governor of North Carolina and on leave as a member of the faculty in Radio, TV and Motion Pictures at Chapel Hill; John Parker, business manager of the Carolina Playmakers and Charles Milner, director of the University Extension Division.

Cosmopolitan Club Slates Ball Feb. 9

A semi-formal Valentine Masquerade Ball will be held by the Cosmopolitan Club on February 9 from 8-12 p.m. at the Chapel Hill Country Club.

"Exams will be over, and it will be the first 'after exams' campus weekend," said Maria Elena Bravo, a foreign student from Spain.

A limited number of tickets, at $2.50 per couple, may be obtained at Lenoir Hall today from 12-2 p.m. and from 3-7 p.m., or by calling Miss Bravo at 968-9132.

"Don't worry about a costume to wear," Miss Bravo said. "Bring a mask and the Cosmopolitan Club will provide the orchestra, dancing, food, and fun."

The Cosmopolitan Club, a non-profit organization, is the only campus organization designed especially for foreign students. Its purpose is to bring forth a better understanding between foreign and American students.

The club's membership is composed of around 100 foreign and American students. Such countries as Pakistan, Japan, Indonesia, Norway, Ecuador, and Viet Nam are represented.
