Trustees To 'Play Student' During Stay Here Next Week

The women members of the Board of Trustees of the University of North Carolina will visit the UNC campus February 25 and 26 to tour the newly completed University buildings and to meet UNC women students, as guests of these women students.

Special features of the trustees' visit will be a luncheon in the South Room of Lenoir Hall on Tuesday, February 26 at 12:30 p.m. Women students of the University will have lunch with the trustees.

Another feature will be a reception in the newly renovated women's residence hall, Cobb Dormitory, at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday, immediately preceding the luncheon. All women who are in the graduate school are urged to attend this reception to meet the trustees. The last campus visit by the woman members of the Board of Trustees was in February, 1960.

The trustees will arrive at UNC Monday afternoon, and will dine at 6 p.m. at Spencer Dormitory, the only women's residence hall with its own dining room.

At 7:45 p.m., the trustees will witness a women students program explaining women's campus organizations to be given at the home of Consolidated University President and Mrs. William C. Friday.

Members of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority will give a coffee in honor of the trustees at their sorority house at 9:45 p.m. UNC student officers will also attend the reception.

While on campus, the trustees will stay in women's residence halls and will attend dormitory house meetings held in each dormitory after closing hours. At these meetings, the trustees will witness the self-governing procedures of each dormitory.

The trustees will inspect the University's new language building, Dey Hall, at 9:45 a.m. Tuesday. Dr. Sterling Stoudemire, professor and chairman of the Department of Romance Languages, will take the trustees on a tour of the building. Julian Mason, assistant professor of English and director of Student Financial Aid, will address the trustees on financial aid, and Joe Galloway, director of Student Placement, will speak on placement.

Following the 12:30 luncheon in Lenoir Hall, the trustees will tour Ehringhaus Dormitory, one of the two new men's dormitories completed last summer.

The trustees will complete their visit with a tour of the newly completed School of Public Health. All deans, heads of administrative divisions, and Consolidated University officials will meet the trustees at this time during the tour of the new building.

Arrangements for the trustees' visit are being handled through the office of Katherine Kennedy Carmichael, Dean of Women.

UNC To Host Merit Scholar Finalists

The University is host today and tomorrow to 75 of North Carolina's outstanding high school seniors. These students are a group of National Merit Scholarship semi-finalists who are to be shown the various aspects of student life at Carolina.

This two-day program is being sponsored jointly by a Student Government committee, under the chairmanship of Robin Britt, and the Faculty Committee on Honors. Its purpose is to honor the semi-finalists for their achievement and to acquaint them with the opportunities that are open to superior students on the UNC campus.

The students arrived last night and many were taken to the UNC-Virginia basketball game. Others attended the Model UN Session and the free flick, "Harvest of Shame." All are being housed in Ehringhaus dormitory.

On both Thursday and Friday mornings the students will engage in discussions with faculty members and honors students about the University's academic program. They will also visit several classes and be taken on tours of the campus.

This afternoon, small groups of the students will meet with both Chancellor Aycock and Dr. Julian Mason of the office of Student Aid. Tonight the students have been invited to attend sessions of the Student Legislature and the UN Mock Assembly in order to give them a glimpse of the activities of Student Government on campus.

On Friday afternoon at 2:30 p.m., there will be a panel discussion on the Honors Program led by Dr. A. G. Engstrom, chairman of the Faculty Committee on Honors. Afterwards there will be a reception in Graham Memorial at which the students will have a chance to talk with faculty members and campus leaders.

To conclude the two-day program, a banquet will be given on Friday evening in Lenoir Hall. The featured speaker will be Mr. James R. Hawkins, principal of Harding High School in Charlotte, and a member of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation Advisory Board. The UNC Glee Club will also provide entertainment.

This is the first year such a program has been attempted and it is hoped that it will be successful in attracting many of North Carolina's most promising high school graduates to the University.

Ullman To Attend Zurich Meet To Tap Prizewinner

The 1963 winners of the never before awarded International Balzan Foundation prizes, similar in scope to the Nobel Foundation prizes, will be selected with the help of a UNC professor emeritus.

B. L. Ullman, Kenan Professor Emeritus of Classics, will attend the February 26 meeting of the Committee on Prizes of the Balzan Foundation to select the prize winners. The meeting will be held in Zurich, Switzerland, the main headquarters of the foundation.

Winners of the Balzan prizes will be announced on March 1 in Zurich.

Five Balzan prizes are scheduled to be awarded to outstanding world figures. They are: one for "peace, humanity and fraternity among the people of the world;" two in "letter, philosophy and the arts;" and two in the sciences.

Balzan prizes will be awarded for the first time in the areas of the arts and sciences. The categories of these awards are: music, history, mathematics, and biology.

Following the official inauguration of the foundation on March 1, last year, the foundation awarded its first peace prize of about $250,000 to the Nobel Foundation.

UNC's Prof. Ullman is one of two U. S. members of the foundation's Committee on Prizes. A total of 24 leading world scholars are members of this committee.

Following the announcement of the Balzan prize winners, Prof. Ullman will journey to London, England, where he will give a series of three lectures on manuscripts at the University of London, March 6-8.

The International Balzan Foundation is named after the late Eugenio Balzan, former director of the Milanese newspaper "Corriere della Sera."

When Balzan died, he left in his will provisions for his daughter to establish a foundation dedicated to peace and the recognition of outstanding world figures. Balzan's daughter died in 1957 before the foundation became a reality. Angela left a will stating the provisions for the foundation, and it has been set up according to these wishes.

King Leopold Here Friday

By PETE IVEY

The Royal Princess will devote her time to the heart, while the King will concentrate his attention on electronic "brains" and cosmic rays.

That is the schedule for the Chapel Hill tour of King Leopold, former monarch of Belgium, and for his wife, Princess Liliane, when they come to North Carolina Friday.

King Leopold and Princess Liliane will go on separate sight-seeing journeys while at the University. She will go with heart specialists and see the Health Center. He will view the Univac 1105 and the Cosmic Ray facilities, escorted by scientists in physics and mathematics.

The Princess has expressed an interest in heart research. She will inspect cardiac facilities in Memorial Hospital and the UNC

President Allen To Address SL Tonight

A State of the Campus address by Student Body President Inman Allen and several financial bills, including one to appropriate $390 to pay three DTH reporters will occupy Student Legislature tonight when it opens its weekly session. The meeting will open at 7 p.m. instead of the regular time.

Allen's address is expected to concern a possible re-organization of student government committees. One of Allen's campaign planks was a streamlining of the campus bureaucracy with an eye toward increasing efficiency.

The DTH bill, introduced by Rufus Edmiston (SP), would make available $390 from the unappropriated balance of Legislative funds to pay three reporters $120 each for a 12-week period. The Finance Committee of Legislature reported the bill out of committee favorably and it is expected to come to a vote tonight.

Other legislation expected to come to a vote includes a bill to appropriate $25 to the Freshman Class for operating and publicity expenses. This bill was also passed on favorably by the Finance Committee.

A bill to appropriate $25 to print the names and addresses of student legislators for posting in the dorms was reported out of the Finance Committee unfavorably.

Four financial bills have been withdrawn:—A $50 request to print copies of legislative bills for posting in dormitories.

—A $50 request for a discretionary fund to be used to improve communications between legislature and the student body.

A $100 request for additional funds for the campus entertainment committee.

A $100 request to defray travel expenses of national merit finalists to the UNC campus.

SG Achievement Competition Set

For the seventh consecutive year, the U. S. National Student Association will sponsor the Richard Welton Student Government Achievement Competition. The competition has been designed by the USNSA to provide recognition for student governments that have developed certain undergraduate programs.

These programs should stimulate individual students to "develop an awareness and a knowledge of their responsibilities as future leaders in society."

Entries must consist of a report on the program that is being submitted. The entry categories include Academic Affairs, The Total Community, Human Relations and Special Projects. All entries must be submitted before May 20, 1963. Further information may be obtained from the Student Government office, 213 Graham Memorial.

UNC's Future Topic Of Morgan Speech

Dr. William M. Jordan, Director of the Political Affairs Division at the U.N., and Edward P. Morgan, a distinguished news commentator, will address the first day's sessions of the Middle South Model United Nations General Assembly here today.

Jordan will discuss "The Future of the United Nations" at a luncheon banquet for the 300 assembly delegate at noon in the Carolina Inn. Morgan will address a Memorial Hall assembly of students, delegates and townspeople "On the United Nations" at eight o'clock.

Committee meetings will get underway at ten o'clock this morning and continue throughout most of the day. The committees and the locations of the meetings are as follows: Ad Hoc (Carroll Hall); Legal (210 Gardner); Economics (209 Hanes); Political (210 Hanes) and Social (Gerrard).

Jordan has been a member of the U.N. Secretariat since the establishment of the United Nations in 1946. A citizen of the United Kingdom, he has received distinction as a historian of twentieth century diplomacy.

Appointed to attend the San Francisco Conference which formulated the U.N. Jordan was actively involved making arrangements for the first meetings of the Security Council. He served for ten years as Chief of the Pacific Settlements Section before assuming his present duties.

Morgan has been reporting news throughout the world for more than 20 years. He has won many awards for his outstanding news coverage, among them a citation from the Overseas Press Club for his coverage of the Geneva Summit Conference.

His radio program, "Edward P. Morgan and the News," has received the Peabody Award for the outstanding radio program in 1956 and was cited by the National Education Association for Better Radio and TV as the outstanding radio program of 1961.

Morgan's commentary for his seven o'clock television show to be an entirely new format this year.

Led by President Steve Lehrer, residents improved their intramural standing, completely renovated their social room and started a weekly forum.

Intramural manager Larry Edwards, who also doubles as IDC representative, leads the BVP teams. The dorm now stands tenth overall, an improvement of nine places over last year.

Vice-President and Social Chairman Marty Lorber has scheduled a cabin party for late March. The dorm social room was recently doubled in size, and a new television and new furniture were added.

The "Sunday Forum," which will feature a guest speaker every Sunday afternoon, will begin this week. Dr. Earl Wallace of the Political Science Dept. will lead the discussion.

"Our secretary, Steve Greenberg, and the Resident Adviser, Jim Scott, have done an excellent job this year," commented President Lehrer.

Three Professors To Mull Common Market Problems

A debate on the European Common Market will be conducted tonight at nine o'clock in Gerrard Hall.

The discussion will examine the French and Anglo-American positions in regard to Britain's entry and the future shape of the Common Market. The program is sponsored by the Graham Memorial Current Affairs Committee.

Participants for the debate are James C. Ingram of the Economics Department, who will speak on the Economics aspects, Spencer Tucker of the Modern Civilization Department, who will argue the French position, and William Geer, also of the History Department, who will argue the Anglo-American position.

night will originate from station WTKR in Durham. Morgan will also visit the Bulls Head bookshop, in the basement of the library, Friday morning at ten o'clock to autograph copies of his new book, "CLEARING THE AIR."

Other speakers in the three-day program include Dr. George Taylor, associate professor of history at UNC. He will speak to an open assembly on Friday at 8 p.m. on "Moral and Psychological Aspects of the World Peace Problems."

Three-hundred students from 61 colleges and universities are expected to attend this assembly, which is sponsored by the Collegiate Council for the United Nations (CCUN) and the UNC YMCA.

"We hope to make the workings of the UN known to college students and to awaken more international consciousness," said Hugo Spechar, secretary-general of the assembly. Spechar, born in Santa Cruz, Bolivia, is in the honors program in economics at UNC.

In addition to Morgan's address, the majority of the Mock UN meetings will be open to the general public.

Dormitory Spotlight: On B-V-P

Battle-Vance-Pettigrew seems to be an entirely new format this year.

Led by President Steve Lehrer, residents improved their intramural standing, completely renovated their social room and started a weekly forum.

Intramural manager Larry Edwards, who also doubles as IDC representative, leads the BVP teams. The dorm now stands tenth overall, an improvement of nine places over last year.

Vice-President and Social Chairman Marty Lorber has scheduled a cabin party for late March. The dorm social room was recently doubled in size, and a new television and new furniture were added.

The "Sunday Forum," which will feature a guest speaker every Sunday afternoon, will begin this week. Dr. Earl Wallace of the Political Science Dept. will lead the discussion.

"Our secretary, Steve Greenberg, and the Resident Adviser, Jim Scott, have done an excellent job this year," commented President Lehrer.

Planning Expert To Give 2 Talks

Henry Fagin, one of this country's foremost authorities on transportation planning, will give two lectures during his visit to the University.

During the 1950's he was Planning Director and later Executive Director of the Regional Plan Association of New York. From June, 1959, to August, 1962 he occupied the position of Executive Director of the Penn-Jersey Transportation Study where he had top staff responsibility for this 3.5 million dollar, nine-county, bi-state project. He is presently Professor of Planning in the Department of Urban and Regional Planning at the University of Wisconsin.

Fagin's appearances here are sponsored by the Department of City and Regional Planning and the Planners' Forum. The first talk will be held in 115 Ackland at two o'clock Friday, and will be entitled "Emerging Methodologies of Transportation Planning."

The second, to be given at eight o'clock in 115 Ackland, will be a general lecture in transportation planning, with an emphasis on policies planning. The public is invited to both discussions.

SCHOLARSHIP COMMITTEE

The Junior Scholarship Committee will meet at five o'clock today in the Woodhouse Room of GM.

Di-Phi Defeats Resolution For Greek Officers In IDC

By CHUCK NEELY

The Di-Phi Literary Society defeated a resolution "advocating the right of all dormitory residents to hold an office in the IDC" Tuesday night, after a spirited debate. The resolution, which was introduced by Reps. Nat Dean and Charles Neely, was rejected by the Society by a vote of 6-9, and by the Society and guests by a vote of 7-10.

The debate hinged on a section of the Bylaws of the Interdormitory Council which states that no fraternity affiliates may belong to the IDC or hold the office of dorm president.

Supporters of the resolution maintained that it was unfair and discriminatory not to allow fraternity members who live in dorms to participate in the IDC. It was further argued that since fraternity members who lived in dorms paid the dorm social fees, and since they were subject to all of the dorm rules and regulations, they should be allowed to help determine, in the councils of the IDC, how their funds should be spent. Finally, it was pointed out that this step could help to heal the much publicized dorm-frat breach.

The opposition to this resolution based most of their argument on the grounds that fraternity members on the IDC would of necessity often be torn between loyalty to the IDC and loyalty to their fraternity, and that in the final analysis, their dorms would suffer. It was also noted that fraternally members would owe their first allegiance to their fraternity rather than their dorm in matters of meetings, time and work. Finally it was said that fraternity members had no real interest in dorm social life since their own social life was provided by their fraternity.

Cond. Rep. Gordon Appell alluded also to the belief that if the resolution was passed, it was conceivable that the fraternities could come to dominate the IDC.

Other business of the evening included the induction of four new representatives and the appropriation of funds to provide a reception in Di Hall tonight for the Latin American delegations to the Model U. N. Assembly.

The four Conditional Representatives who were elevated to full representatives are Ernst Schwintzer, Richard Edwards, James Wagner, and Gordon Appell.

The next meeting of the Di-Phi was scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 26, at 7:30. At that time, officers for the Spring Semester will be nominated and elected.

"BEAT DOOK" COMBO PARTY

The "Embers" will highlight this weekend's entertainment slate as they "swing for the campus" tomorrow night at 8 at the Homestead. Complete directions to the Homestead will appear in tomorrow's DTH.

This big dance is sponsored by the Junior Class, the same group which has presented several other combo parties this year.

Charlie Shaffer, Jr., Class president, notes this is the first big party this semester.

Admission price is $1.00 and setups will be provided.

HENRY L. SCOTT requests the honor of your presence Friday night at eight o'clock in Memorial Hall when GM presents "Concerto in Fun." According to a GM spokesman, Scott is one performer who is temperamental about his audience, for the more eccentric they are, the better his show as he tries to make the audience a part of it. Scott loves his audiences and finds it difficult to perform before movie or television cameras because he feels he then loses the all-important elements—the eyes, ears and laughter—that mean the audience is having a good time.
