

University Service To Be Beneficiary Of Campus Chest

Twenty-three cents will buy three meals for a Greek student. Four dollars and thirty-four cents will pay a week's hospitalization for a Japanese student in a TB sanatorium.

These are two of the ways in which the World University Service uses donations from UNC students to aid students in other parts of the world. WUS is one of four organizations which will receive contributions from this year's Campus Chest.

Commenting on the WUS, President Kennedy said, "Universities are the midwives of progress. In its many services to education, the World University Service is making a genuine contribution to the growth of freedom."

WUS is a major international mutual assistance program for students and is the only one in which aid is given on a student-to-student basis.

It has engaged in emergency projects such as restoring libraries in Tokyo after an earthquake in 1923, placing 1000 Hungarian student refugees on scholarships in American colleges in 1956, and is now building dormitories in Concepcion, Chile, which was recently struck by an earthquake.

The basic goals of the WUS are to help meet the needs of universities and students and to promote the sharing of knowledge throughout the world regardless of racial, religious, or political factors.

Last year, the Campus Chest donated $1,200 to WUS. Approximately one half of the proceeds from this year's drive will go to the WUS program.

UP To Probe Opinion On New Union

The University Party Poll Committee will take a survey Monday night to determine student opinion on the Student Union and the housing problem.

Questionnaires will be distributed by Committee members, and students will be asked to express their feelings concerning three-man rooms, increased dorm rent, and the Student Union. The poll will ask students if they feel the Student Union is adequate, how often they use the Student Union, and if they feel there is a need for a new one.

Members of the committee are Gary Grosboll, chairman; Bill Stuffer, Jerry Teale, Jim Barbour, Bill Feingold, Sand Grossbart, and Chip Sadow.

Grosboll asks all students to cooperate and express their views fully so that various University organizations may gain a deeper insight into the needs of Carolina students.

SG Cluttered, Allen Claims

Student Body President Inman Allen asked Student Legislature to decide if probationary sentences should be retained as a punishment for a violation of the Honor System.

In his "State of the Campus Address," Allen also noted that plans for legislation for either consolidation or dissolution of "certain student government committees" are now being worked on.

Allen cited the attitude which the Honor Council has exhibited in recent months — "an attitude which has seen a definite increase in the number of sentences of suspension and a similar decrease in the number of probation sentences" — as a reason for the possible deletion of the probation sentence.

"Student government is too diversified," Allen remarked as he explained the purpose of the proposed re-organization of student government. The proposed revision would involve strengthening the executive branch, "with particular emphasis being paid to gaining more adequate fiscal control and a greater efficiency in communications."

Those interested in being candidates for this scholarship may secure applications beginning next Thursday at the YMCA or Graham Memorial.

These should be returned to the YMCA by March 22, and interviews will be held during the first week of April. For further information, contact Ben Newlin at 968-9073.

Former Belgian King Tours UNC Campus

Leopold III, former king of Belgium, and his wife, the Royal Princess Liliane, visited medical and scientific facilities here Friday and capped off their tour of the campus with a luncheon, with Governor and Mrs. Terry Sanford and University Officials, in the Morehead Planetarium.

The royal couple was greeted at a morning coffee hour in the Carolina Inn. There to meet them were Consolidated University President William C. Friday, Chancellor William B. Aycock, Dr. W. Reece Berryhill, dean of UNC's School of Medicine, Dr. Nathan Womack, head of the Department of Surgery, Dr. Charles H. Burnett, head of the Department of Medicine, and the medical and scientific faculty who later conducted them on tours of selected campus facilities.

The royal couple toured UNC facilities devoted to their particular fields of interest.

Princess Liliane, accompanied by Dr. Ernest Craigie, associate professor of medicine and a specialist in cardiology, visited Memorial Hospital's heart disease treatment and research areas. In her homeland, the Princess is a great patron of research and is particularly interested in the treatment of heart patients.

King Leopold, whose interests are in mathematics and physics, was hosted by Dr. Everett D. Palmatier, Kenan professor of physics; Dr. John W. Carr III, professor of mathematics and former director of UNC's Computation Center; and Dr. William M. Whyburn, Kenan professor of mathematics.

The King toured the scientific facilities here and visited the Mathematics Library, where a special display of books and journals of Belgian origin had been prepared in his honor. After meeting senior math faculty, he toured research project facilities in physics and the Computation Center.

The royal couple, accompanied Governor and Mrs. Terry Sanford to Morehead Planetarium where a luncheon was held in the visitors' honor. Among those attending were Chancellor and Mrs. Aycock, President and Mrs. Friday, President Deryl Hart of Duke University and Mrs. Hart, Dr. Pierre Bernard Louis Rijlant, professor of physiology at the University of Brussels and director of the Belgian Research Institute of Physiology, who had accompanied the royal couple on their flight to the triangle area, where he is spending the month of February conferring with groups at UNC, Duke, and the Research Triangle Institute; and Dr. Gertrude Cox of the RTI.

Cellist To Perform In GM Sunday At 8

Reine Flachat, the young French cellist and winner of the Prix Piatigorsky at the age of fifteen, will appear at Graham Memorial Lounge Sunday night at eight o'clock as a part of the Graham Memorial Spring Concert Series.

The concert is part of an exchange program arranged by Carnegie Hall in association with the International Federation Jeunesses Musicales, through which European artists tour American colleges and universities.

Born of French parents in Argentina, Miss Flachat began playing the violoncello at the age of eleven. A daughter of a university family, she had been encouraged to pursue a classical education and she received her bachelor's degree in philosophy.

After completing her work at the university, she returned to music and studied under Gregor Piatigorsky and Pierre Fournier. In 1960 she was honored by the Russian composer Aram Khataturian by being asked to appear as a soloist in his "Cello Concerto at the festival given in his name at Paris. Prior to her tour of American colleges and universities Mme. Flachat appeared as a soloist with the American Symphony Orchestra at Carnegie Hall.

Reine Flachat will appear here accompanied by Alan Motard, an artist in his own right. Motard was the recipient of the Marquise Long-Jacques Thibaud Prize for pianists at the Academie Musicale Napoletana and won first prize at the Nice Conservatory, where he began his musical studies.

Exchange With Panama Scheduled

The International Students' Board has established an exchange scholarship with the University of Panama for the coming year.

This exchange will serve a dual purpose: that of a cultural exchange in addition to the strengthening of the relations between the two countries. The importance of the exchange is directed toward decreasing the distrust and misunderstanding between the Panamanian and American students which has arisen as a result of the lack of contact with the Canal Zone.

In this aspect, the Latin American Exchange will differ from the already established European Scholarship in that the former will encompass political situations of international importance.

The University of Panama, located in Panama City, was only established about 25 years ago and now has an enrollment of 4,000 students. Classes are set up on the two semester system with semesters beginning in May and September.

The "summer session" operates from February through the end of April. Lectures, which are usually large groups as opposed to the seminar type, are held five days a week.

Consisting mainly of night students in the field of liberal arts, the University is a center of political activity within the country.

Those interested in being candidates for this scholarship may secure applications beginning next Thursday at the YMCA or Graham Memorial.

These should be returned to the YMCA by March 22, and interviews will be held during the first week of April. For further information, contact Ben Newlin at 968-9073.

Mock Assembly Votes To Admit Red China Debate Is Fiery In Opening Meet

A student session of the United Nations Model General Assembly here yesterday did what the real U.N. hasn't done—it voted to admit Communist China.

The resolution to admit the Red Chinese was presented by the U. S. delegation, made up of the Air Force Academy. The resolution allowed the Republic of China to retain its seat on the Security Council. The U.N. would maintain the neutrality of the waters between Formosa and the mainland.

The USSR promptly moved to amend the resolution to read that the People's Republic of China take its rightful position as one of the five permanent members of the Security Council. This issue claimed the attention of the session in one way or another for the rest of the afternoon.

The Russian delegation cited the original purpose of seating China on the Security Council in 1945, as to represent the largest single nation in the world on the Council. It then asserted that Chiang Kai-Shek's government no longer fulfilled this function and was therefore not a legitimate member of the Security Council.

Ireland countered this by saying that there were no two Chinas, and that though the People's Republic should be represented, it should not be on the Security Council because its actions don't demonstrate an accordance with the principles of the Charter.

Accusation followed counter-accusation, with the Ukraine charging that there is only one China, that being the People's Republic, and Algeria insisting that one China or the other be recognized as China. At this point, a delegate from the non-existent delegation of the Republic of China seized the floor to denounce capitalism and defect to the USSR in an emotion-charged scene.

After further debate on this amendment and often excessive parliamentary maneuvering, the amendment was brought to a vote and defeated 35 to 10 with 11 abstentions.

Debate then returned to the original resolution, and the USSR again gained the floor to reiterate that Taiwan can't possibly be said to represent the 700 million people on the mainland. Maylaya countered this by charging that the People's Republic was too "aggressive and irresponsible" to represent anybody.

Albania spoke against keeping the Republic in the United Nations and the People's Republic out of the Security Council.

Russia then moved to strike the clause in the resolution for the Republic of China to retain its Security Council seat. This would leave the question undecided until after Red China gained admission when it would then be easier to get her seated on the Council.

Yugoslavia spoke against the motion, and a vote defeated it. A motion for adjournment of debate was then passed.

In a last effort to keep the question of the Security Council seat open, Russia moved for a vote on each of the clauses separately. This motion was defeated, and the resolution was submitted to a roll call vote, passing by 43 to 4, with 11 abstentions.

Assembly President Duke Mars-ton of Duke was in charge of the Plenary Session.

The session opened explosively with an immediate resolution from Pakistan to expel the delegations from France, Belgium, and the Soviet Union for being behind in their dues and assessments. The chair denied this motion, and then ceded the floor to Algeria's Premier Ben Bella, who expressed Algeria's gratitude at the UN membership, sympathy for the Arab, Asian, and African states, and dedication to the principles of peace and socialism.

Late yesterday, the Assembly began debating a second U.S. resolution, this one from the Economic Committee, calling for a U.N.-administered program to utilize the present economic groups and organizations for the mutual benefit of all nations.

It has yet to consider a Ghanaian resolution from the Social Committee to continue expanding the relief programs for refugees of South Africa and Angola.

In another resolution concerning Angola, Chile submitted a proposal calling for the immediate preparation of the people for self-government and independence soon.

The delegates plan to consider an Ad Hoc Committee resolution submitted by Guatemala calling for a U.N.-administered insurance fund for economic rehabilitation.

Today's Schedule

8-10 a.m.—Plenary Session, Carroll Hall
10-10:15 a.m.—Break
10:15-12—Plenary Session, Continued
12-1 p.m.—Lunch

GRANT WHEELER

Honor Council Picks Wheeler For Chairman

Grant W. Wheeler was elected Chairman of the Men's Honor Council Thursday night. Wheeler succeeds Walt Dellinger who resigned earlier in the week to prepare his Political Science thesis and will serve as Chairman until one month after the April 2 campus elections.

Other officers elected are Whitney Durand, Vice-Chairman, and Peter Jason, Scribe.

Wheeler, a senior from Needham, Mass., has served on the Council since his freshman year and had served as Vice-Chairman under Dellinger. Last year he served as Summer School Chairman. Wheeler is also a member of the DKE fraternity and the Order of the Grail.

Recorder Purchase Approved

SL Sets Elections Tuesday, April 7

Student Legislature Thursday night passed a bill appropriating $1060 for the purchase of two steno and autograph machines for use by the Men's and Women's Honor Councils. Also approved was Tuesday, April 2 as the date of the spring campus elections.

Larry McDevitt spoke in behalf of the recorder bill and stated that it was essential that two machines be purchased instead of just one. The bill, as it was originally introduced in October, requested money for two machines, but had been cut to an appropriation for one by the Finance Committee. McDevitt read statements by both Bev Haynes, Chairman of the Women's Council and Walt Dellinger, ex-chairman of the Men's Council, which urged two machines be bought in order to provide for the maximum amount of protection for the student during an honor Council case.

An amended version of the first four sections of the general election laws was also okayed. The only changes were that, in the Men's Dormitory districts, DMI would include just Craigie dormitory and Ehringhaus dorm would be considered in the new DM VII district.

The rest of the proposed changes will come up next week and will include a proposed reduction from five to four legislative seats for Town Women's district. Dorm Men's I would also be reduced, from seven to four legislative seats, and DM VII would be allotted four seats, thus leaving SL with 50 representatives.

Queen's Crowning Features UNC Military Ball Tonight

The crowning of a queen at tonight's Military Ball will be the social highlight of the year for the military organizations on campus.

The annual ball will conclude the first UNC Military Week, which has seen daily athletic competition between the UNC Air Force and Naval ROTC units.

The combined enrollment of 595 Air Force Cadets and Navy Midshipmen, plus over 70 special guests, have been invited to attend, according to AFROTC Cade Capt. Charles R. Brown, Jr. Brown is the commander of the UNC chapter of the National Society of Scabbard and Blade which is sponsoring both Military Week and the Military Ball.

A sacred arch will salute the Queen of the Ball, who will be selected from a court of five nominees. After her entrance, the robe bearers will form a figure, and the queen and her escort will begin the Queen's Dance within 15 minutes.

The Queen's Court consists of five young ladies nominated by members of Scabbard and Blade. —Miss Carole Ansley, a junior English major at UNC, from Jacksonville, Fla. She was nominated by Midshipman Capt. Leon Gordon of Chadwick, Ill.

—Miss Jeanne Dixon, a UNC freshman physical therapy major from Rocky Mount. She was nominated by Cadet 1st Lt. Richard A. Lennox, Jr.

—Miss Joyce Louise Colson of West Suffield, Conn., is a junior at the University of Connecticut majoring in education. She was nominated by Battalion Commander Robert C. Jones.

—Miss Muff Greason, a UNC graduate with a B.S. in psychology and a resident of Morristown, N. J. Miss Greason is now in a graduate program at the University of Pennsylvania. She was nominated by Cadet Lt. Col. Bruce B. Greene, the Cadet Group Commander.

—Miss Elizabeth Mills McDermald, president of Pi Beta Phi Sorority at UNC, is a senior from Salem, Va. She was nominated by Midshipman Lt. (j.g.) Charlie Shelton.

The Military Ball will begin at 8:30 at the Durham Elks Club. Coeds have been granted late permission to 1:30, provided they are out for the ball.

Music will be furnished by the Sto Fox Combo, with additional entertainment by Daniel and the Lions, a campus folk-singing group.
