Playmakers Hold Auditions Monday

Auditions for the Carolina Playmakers 200th bill of new one-act plays will be held at the Playmakers Theatre Monday, March 18, at 4:00 p.m. The bill of three plays will be presented: "Fifty Has a Human Face," by Scott Byrd, is the first play. The comedy will be directed by Larry Warner. Of special interest in this play are roles for a 99-year-old invalid woman, a Negro boy and a Negro woman. "Folly," by Wesley Van Tassel, has several roles for men and women, including a saxophone player. The drama will be directed by Ralph Swanson. "Clown for a Day," a children's play by Reginald Spaulding, will be directed by Patricia Lynch. Several children are needed for the comedy. Those interested may obtain further information from the Department of Dramatic Art.

sponge throws, greased-pig races and penny tosses. Five trophies from T. L. Kemp's will be awarded to the best booths, and points for the highest percentage of pledge-participation will be given to individual fraternities for this Greek Week competition.

The swing, tilt-a-whirl, ferris wheel, paratrooper and octopus rides will begin operating as soon as people get on the field. Among the many attractions will be the gift certificates given by Town and Campus for the lucky number on the back of the Campus Chest buttons, and the concession stands offering of popcorn, peanuts, candy, cokes, ice cream and cotton candy.

EXAMS SCHEDULE
Miss Rachel Nunley, Secretary, North Carolina Examining Committee of Physical Therapists has announced the licensing examination will be given, March 29th, in Chapel Hill.
Any person qualified to apply for licensure should make application to Miss Nunley, Section of Physical Therapy, at the UNC School of Medicine.

APPLICATIONS DUE
Saturday, March 16, is the deadline for returning applications for the Experiment in International Living Ambassador Program. Applications must be turned in at the Y.

GLOBE-CIRCLING FOLKSINGER Josh White will appear March 29 in Memorial Hall in a concert sponsored by Phi Mu Alpha, national music fraternity. Admission is $1.60 and tickets may be obtained from any Phi Mu Alpha member. White has played to sellout crowds in England, Norway, Sweden and Denmark. His United States appearances include several performances at the White House and the Library of Congress. Proceeds from the concert will go to the James Michael Barham Scholarship Fund. Tickets will also be on sale at GM and Kemp's.

So far the Campus Chest fund has collected $2,008 in solicitations, $1,100 of which was handed in Friday, according to Mac Boxley, solicitations chairman. The auction netted $650 and the shoeshine $100.

Jordan Talks To Democrats Tuesday Night

State Senator John R. Jordan, Jr., Democratic Senator from Wake County, will address the UNC Young Democrats Club Tuesday evening, March 19 at 7:30 p.m. in Gerrard Hall. Jordan will speak on "The Role of the Democratic Party in N. C."

Jordan, an announced candidate for the position of lieutenant governor in the 1964 state Democratic primary, is expected to discuss some of the issues on which he will base his 1964 campaign.

Senator Jordan, a native of Winston, is a 1942 graduate of UNC and a 1948 graduate of the Law School here. He was a member of the N. C. Attorney General's staff for two years, until 1951, and has since been a practicing attorney in Raleigh. Currently in his third term as State Senator, Jordan has held numerous positions in the state government and the Democratic Party.

Senator Jordan's speech could mark the beginning of open discussions of the issues which are of importance now and will continue to be so through the 1964 campaign, UNC-YDC president George Korndigay said yesterday.

PAINTINGS ACCEPTED

Fifteen UNC art students have had paintings accepted in the Fifth Carolinas' College Art Annual exhibit at the Columbia Museum of Art in Columbia, South Carolina. The show which has 31 paintings of various media is sponsored jointly by the Art Department of the University of South Carolina and the Columbia Museum of Art. The purpose behind this annual exhibit is to afford student artists the experience of open show competition under professional standards.

Three UNC students: Harold H. Bass, Chapel Hill; Harold Mandell, Hendersonville; and Marjorie Weiss Schiffman, Washington, D. C., received Honor Awards.

Others in the UNC representation were Margaret Crosier, Union, West Virginia; Florence Evans, Joy Randall, and Helga Saunders, Durham; Marlene Ginsburg, Worcester, Mass.; Thomas Grant, Cedarhurst, N. Y.; Dwayne Lowder, Albemarle; Timothy Murray and Kay Travis, Winston-Salem; Martha Parham, Oxford; Robert Poe, Greensboro and Sarah Switzer, Kingsport, Tenn.

Joseph Dodge, Director of the Cummer Gallery of Art, Jacksonville, Florida served as a one-man selection and awards jury. The show will continue through March 31.

NOTICE TO CANDIDATES

All nominations for office in the Spring elections must be made in writing and presented to the Elections Board, Information Office, GM not later than Tuesday, March 19 at 6:00. All candidates endorsed by the Parties shall have their nominations signed by the chairman of the Party. All candidates endorsed by an established selection board shall have their nominations signed by the chairman of said board. Any other student of the University may become a candidate for an office provided he submit to the Elections Board a petition signed by twenty-five (25) constituents of the office he seeks and by himself.

The compulsory candidates meeting will be held Wednesday, March 20 at 9:00 in Howell Hall. There will be no excused absences without the consent of the Chairman of the Elections Board, Polly Hastings.

Dormitory Spotlight: Grimes

After a slow first semester Grimes dormitory has begun to participate in campus activities.

Under the leadership of President Fred Harwell and Intramural Manager Jerry Rutledge, Grimes is entering soccer and softball teams in the all-campus competition. The dorm is also planning a series of faculty discussions and several parties.

Since no adequate provisions were made by the IDC for adequate leadership in this all-freshman dorm, residents had little awareness of what the dormitory program could be like. It was not until December that the residents (in the first all-dorm effort) deposed their first "caretaker" president and elected a full slate of officers.

Dormitory leaders and advisers say the major problem with a freshman dorm is the lack of continuity and attachment to the University community. Freshmen take too many of the same courses and are at similar stages of intellectual development with the result that the richness and diversity of isolation life remains abstract. The isolation of the first semester appears to be aggravated by dormitory segregation.

The President, who flies back to the United States Wednesday night and reports on his visit at a televised news conference the following afternoon, will be joined at San Jose by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and key Democrats and Republicans from the House and Senate Foreign Affairs committees.

GARDNER AWARD

The winner of the 15th annual Oliver Max Gardner Award will be announced at a dinner here Friday night, March 22, at 6:30 p.m. in Lenoir Hall.

The recipient, whose identity is never revealed until the award dinner, is chosen as "that member of the faculty of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, who, during the current scholastic year, has made the greatest contribution to the welfare of the human race."

The award carries a cash grant from the income of the original $25,000 bequest left by the late Gov. Gardner.

Fred M. Hechinger, education editor of the New York Times, will be the speaker for the occasion.

Last year the award went to poet Randall Jarrell of Woman's College, Greensboro.

HONOR COUNCIL ENDORSEMENTS

The nine students endorsed by the Honor Council Commission for the coming elections are: Stuart Kagel, Perry McCarty, Terry Reeves, Ted Steinberg, Walter Graham, Alex Shaw, Gerry Hancock, Alice Schmidt, and Marion McAdoo.

Senate Unanimously Votes Four Year Draft Extension

Kennedy Defers Fathers Through Executive Order

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—President Kennedy, bound for an important meeting of Central American presidents in Costa Rica, Friday ordered the Selective Service deferment of all fathers except doctors, dentists and veterinarians.

Draft-age registrants with children and previously classed as I-A will, under an executive order signed by the President, be placed in class 3-A. Thus the President provided for the deferment, but not the exemption of fathers. Few fathers have been drafted in recent years, but many of them were eligible for classification in I-A. The President's order Friday made formal what had been a general practice with many Selective Service boards.

The President signed the Selective Service order shortly before he took off from Washington at noon Friday. The chief executive stopped off for two days of rest in Palm Beach before continuing on to San Jose, Costa Rica, early Monday when he will join the presidents of five Central American republics and Panama for talks about hemispheric economic improvement.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger referred inquiries about the draft order to Selective Service headquarters in Washington. Salinger said, however, that generally it meant that chances of a father being drafted had been lessened considerably by the order.

The resolution, as okayed by SL, says that Germans Club should act as a coordinating organization for "Big" weekends, concerts by nationally known performers and any other event which the group could effectively sponsor. It also states that conditions for membership in the Germans Club "should not be based upon any socially selective system but instead upon the ability to pay admission to the concerts.

U.S. support for Central American economic integration. The "little summit" gathering will attempt to speed progress in coordinating the area's economic programs.

It will mark Kennedy's third trip to Latin America. He went to Venezuela and Colombia on one trip last year and made another journey to Mexico. Both involved U.S. interest in the Alliance for Progress program.

Mrs. Kennedy, who made such a hit on the trips to Venezuela, Colombia and Mexico, will not go to Costa Rica.

The following representatives were absent from Thursday's session: Bill Bowerman (UP, TM 4); Roy Kirk (UP, TM 3); Fred Kadin (SP, DM 3); Bill Waumett (SP, TM 4); Harry DeLung (UP, TM 4); David Henry (UP, TM 3); and Gordon Shapiro (UP, TM 3).

His "dreams" on the TV screen will be presented in a comedy variety show by the Junior Class Thursday, March 21 at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

Flashing on the video screen will be well-known TV-show characters, such as Paladini, Marshall Matt Dillon, Drs. Kildare and Ben Casey, and a host of others.

Student script writers will picture the TV personalities as prominent faculty members and administrators in the University.

Among faculty appearing in the show are Chancellor William B. Aycock, former Chancellor Robert B. House, Prof. Charles Henderson, dean of student affairs; Dean of Women Katherine Carmichael, Prof. J. Penrose Harland, Dean of Men William Long and others.

Correction: The Student Party has endorsed the following 40 candidates for student legislature seats:

Bob Smith, Clark Brewer and George Rosental, in Dorm Men's I; Phil Baddour, Jack Harrell and Lanny Shuff, in Dorm Men's II; Charles Lefler, Gordon Appel, Fred Kadin and Doug Freeman, in Dorm Men's III; Arthur Hayes and Hugo Spechar, in Dorm Men's IV; Neal Jackson, and John Atkins, in Dorm Men's V; Bill Straughton, Martin Lancaster and Harvey Kline, in Dorm Men's VI; and Hugh Blackwell, Frank Hall, Dennis Mayers and Chuck Downton, in Dorm Men's VII.

From the women's dorm districts are: Judy Anapol and Evelyn Morris, in Dorm Women's I; Mary Gray Teague and Linda Cogdill, in Dorm Women's II; Judy Tyson and Carol Mashburn, in Dorm Women's III; and Bambi Ainsley and Juddy Merritt, in Dorm Women's IV.

In the town districts: Hugh Stevens, Paul Chused and Bill Mitten-dorf, in Town Men's III; Bill Bowerman, Danny Edwards, Rufus Edminsten, Johnny Gelsinger and George Newsome, in Town Men's IV; and Linda Colvard, Beth Walker and Barbara Mansfield, the Town Women's district.

No candidates have been endorsed yet for Town Men's Districts One and Two.

Volunteers Held Not Sufficient For Top Strength

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate approved by voice vote Friday a four-year extension of the military draft law, the first major bill of the present session to be sent to the White House.

The Senate action followed a brief speech by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., influential chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, who said continuation of the law was of "vital necessity to our defense posture."

Russell said the Defense Department cannot rely on voluntary enlistments to keep the armed forces up to strength and no one has proposed a "fair and satisfactory" substitute for the draft.

The bill, which ran into minor opposition in the House by some who favored a two-year extension rather than four years was passed almost routinely by the Senate in contrast to the early days of the program when it was a matter of major debate.

The measure would extend the draft to July 1, 1967. It makes qualified males between the ages of 18 and 26 years liable to two years of military service.

The Army expects to draft about 76,000 men this year. The law is also considered a stimulus to enlistments in the army and the other services.

The bill also would: —Suspend for another four years the ceilings on the size of the armed services. The restrictions have been dropped regularly since 1950, the year the Korean War began.

—Extend for four years the government's authority to draft physicians and dentists. The Pentagon expects to call 1,300 doctors in the fiscal year beginning July 1, but may reduce this quota if enough physicians volunteer.

—Extend authority for special pay for the doctors and dentists. —Extend authority to increase the quarters allowances of enlisted men with dependents in the lower pay grades who allot a portion of their own pay.

The only opposition to the bill came after its passage from Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore. Morse, en route to Costa Rica with the President, got Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., to offer a statement asserting that Morse would have voted with "real regret" against the four year extension because there was no opportunity to vote on a two-year bill.

Wesley Players Give Dennis Play At Duke Tonight

The Wesley Players are presenting Nigel Dennis' "Cards of Identity" at the Duke Methodist Student Center in Durham this week. The play is a bitter laugh-filled account of members of the Identity Club—an organization devoted to the principle that none of us knows who he is.

Dennis has received less attention in this country than the angry young John Osborne and the angry young Kingsley Amis.

Like many of the now-not-so-young "angries," Dennis spent some time in the United States before returning to England to continue his work.

"Cards of Identity" was first published as a novel and received enthusiastic praise from W. H. Auden and other noted critics. The author's dramatic adaptation achieved a remarkable reproduction of his irreverent, meaningful book.

A large and exceptionally talented cast has been assembled under the direction of Richard Dozier, featuring Lola Powers Kramer and Carolina Playmaker Bob Malone, who just appeared in the Rhinoceros. Remaining performances are scheduled for this afternoon at five o'clock and tonight at eight o'clock. Tickets are one dollar each and may be obtained at the door. The Methodist Student Center is located on Oregon Ave., off Myrtle Dr. in Durham.
