

Blunders
See Edits, Page Two

The Daily Tar Heel

Seventy Years Of Editorial Freedom
CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA, FRIDAY, APRIL 5, 1963

Weather
Clear skies with temperatures falling and wind.

Offices In Graham Memorial

UPI Wire Service

Kennedy's Pollster To Give Address In Carroll Tuesday

Lou Harris, 1942 graduate of UNC and nationally-known public opinion analyst, will speak in Carroll Hall Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Harris's talk, sponsored by the Carolina Forum, will be "Reflections of a Public Opinion Pollster."

Harris is President of Louis Harris and Associates, a marketing and public opinion research firm which he established in 1956 after resigning as partner in the Elmo Roper organization.

He is best known as a political opinion analyst; he and his organization have become closely identified with President Kennedy's campaign and Mayor Robert Wagner's campaign although his association with the successful elections of dozens of Governors, Senators, Congressmen and Mayors is recognized as well.

Harris's political opinion research is, however, only one side of his organization and actually constitutes far less than a third of his firm's business; the bulk of his opinion research is conducted for such commercial, industrial, and financial firms as the New York Stock Exchange, Johnson and Johnson, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Liebmans Breweries, McGraw Hill Publishers, MJB Coffee Company in San Francisco, Granny Goose Foods in Oakland, Puget Sound Power and Light Company in Seattle and others.

Harris was born in New Haven, Conn. He attended New Haven High School and at UNC he majored in Economics, minored in Philosophy and wrote extensively for the Daily Tar Heel.

Drama Festival Begins Tuesday

Theatre groups from 13 North Carolina cities will be here today and tomorrow for the 40th Drama Festival of the Carolina Dramatic Association.

The producing groups will present a total of 17 plays during the two-day festival at the Playmakers Theatre. All productions in the state festival received distinguished ratings in regional drama festivals across the state this spring.

The production schedule for the festival is: today, 10:00 a.m.: "A Phoenix too Frequent," Western Carolina College, Cullowhee; "Impromptu," Wingate College; "The Happy Journey from Camden to Trenton," St. Andrews College, Laurinburg.

At 2:30 p.m.: "The Undercurrent," Broughton High School, Raleigh; "Antic Spring," Myers Park High School, Charlotte; "The Miracle Worker," (Scenes), Roanoke Rapids High School.

At 7:30 p.m.: "Half-Pint Window Rides Again," Asheville Country Day School; "Materia Medica," Campbell College, Buies Creek; "The Tiny Closet," Wingate College; "Mooney's Kid Don't Cry," St. Andrews College, Laurinburg.

Saturday at 10:00 a.m.: "Chain of Jade," Community Youth Group, Kannapolis; "Manikin and Minikin," Gray High School, Winston-Salem; "The Intruder," Page High School, Greensboro; "A Cry of Freedom," Mars Hill College; "November Requiem," Davidson College.

American Ballet Appearance Set Tonight At 8

The American Ballet Theatre will perform at Memorial Hall tonight at 8. The performance will be an unscheduled attraction in the Chapel Hill Concert Series.

The program will consist of three numbers: "Les Sylphides," with music by Frederic Chopin; "La Fille Mal Gardee," a ballet in two acts with music by Wilhelm Hertel; and "Theme and Variations," with music by Tchaikovsky (theme and variations from Suite no. 3 for orchestra).

The American Ballet Theatre Company was organized in 1940. Since then, it has produced 110 ballets and many of these have become American classics—"Fall River Legend," "Fancy Free," "Rodeo," "Pillar of Fire," and "Billy the Kid."

Agnes de Mille was choreographer for the company during its first season. In 1944, when Jerome Robbins did his first ballet, "Fancy Free," a young unknown composer named Leonard Bernstein was asked to do the score.

Stars of the American Ballet Theatre are Lupe Serrano, the company's Chilean prima ballerina, and Royes Fernandez.

Tickets for the performance are on sale in Chapel Hill at Danziger's and at UNC's Graham Memorial Student Union. All seats for the performance are reserved at $2 and $3. Available tickets will be sold at the box office.

THE NIGHT OWLS—Nancy Jones, a KD from Raleigh, stands with an owl, one of Rufus King's "famous world-renown" Night Owls which will provide the entertainment for tonight's Senior Class Combo Party. Starting at 8 at the American Legion Hut, the dance will be $1 stag or drag and BYOL. —Photo by Jim Wallace

SPU Picketing Of Carolina Cafe Starts

The Student Peace Union Wednesday night announced plans to begin picketing of the College Cafe, a Franklin St. restaurant, at 7 a.m. today.

The picketing stems from an SPU resolution instituting a boycott of 13 Chapel Hill establishments which practice racial discrimination. The resolution was passed unanimously by the local chapter last month.

Pat Cusick, chairman of the local chapter, said the SPU feels this action is necessary because continued negotiations with the management of the College Cafe have proved futile.

"The continuation of racial discrimination in Chapel Hill is an insult of the spirit of a free university and to the fundamental precepts of human dignity and freedom," Cusick said.

John Dunne, a member of the SPU steering committee, said the Student Peace Union was taking action on civil rights because "the members feel that any effort toward peace must involve attempts to end domestic injustice."

"The problems of world peace and the problems of civil rights and human freedom are not separate, but are both a part of SPU's concern for the human community as a whole," Dunne said.

Both Cusick and Dunne urged students and townspeople to boycott the establishments involved and, if possible, to help on the picket line.

TALBERT TO SPEAK

Ernest W. Talbert, Renaissance scholar and UN professor of English, will speak to the English Club at 8 p.m. today in the Faculty Club Lounge.

His lecture is entitled, "The Ritual and the Non-Ritualist," and deals with Elizabethan drama.

Professor Talbert is a graduate of San Jose State College, and received his doctorate from Stanford University. He has written extensively on John Wycliff, Ben Jonson, and the mythological dictionaries of the Renaissance.

Coffee will be served at the English Club meeting at 7:30 p.m. The public is cordially invited.

Judy Frieder, a junior from Cincinnati, Ohio, has been elected president of the Carolina Women's Council.

"I hope that next year's council will favor the spring semi-formal dance CWC sponsored this March," she said. "Next year we'd like to have it in a smaller place than Woolen gym and serve refreshments."

Judy, a transfer from Woman's College, is an English-education major. She studied her freshman year at Endicott Junior College, Beverly, Mass.

Bawdy Stories Get Attention At UNC

Bawdy stories and tales about beasts are included in a series of books which are put out by the UNC Department of Romance Languages.

Best-seller stardom cannot be claimed by this series of foreign language publications. However, there are scholars throughout the world who avidly look forward to each new book produced in the series.

Entitled "University of North Carolina Studies in the Romance Languages and Literature," the series consists of a group of 42 books ranging over a variety of romance subjects such as: medieval allegorical stories on beasts (like the well-known "Uncle Remus Stories"); a group of lively, witty, and somewhat bawdy stories of the renaissance; and an exciting play by Spain's most famous dramatist, Lope de Vega, accompanied by a comparative study of the dramatist's place in world literature.

"Our books form one of the most prolific foreign language series in the country," says John E. Keller, UNC Professor of Spanish, who is the managing editor of the series.

The editor is UNC's Prof. of Romance Languages Urban T. Holmes Jr., a widely known scholar whose knowledge embraces 28 languages.

Repeat Elections Slated For 10 Legislative Seats

Lawler Commends Dorm Men For Stopping Demonstration

By VANCE BARRON, JR.

Mike Lawler yesterday commended Lower Quad residents for their "responsible action" Wednesday night in refraining from a planned demonstration against adoption of 3-man dorm rooms next fall.

Lawler said, "The students were very responsible. They seemed to realize the danger that a demonstration against 3-man rooms could easily turn into another 'panty-raid'."

Wednesday evening Lawler called a meeting of 20 student leaders from the upper and lower quads and neighboring dormitories. The purpose of the meeting was to forestall the demonstration planned for that evening.

Lawler told the students that such a demonstration could seriously damage the University's hopes for a new student union in the event of unfavorable publicity. He also emphasized that the issue of student responsibility in handling such affairs was at stake. He then sent the students back to the dorms to talk to the residents and urge them to refrain from participating in the demonstration.

Immediately after the meeting, Lawler approached Dean of Men William Long and requested that he call off the dormitory meetings scheduled that evening by the dormitory advisers and allow the students to handle the affair in their own way. Long agreed to the request, and Lawler said that he would talk to dorm presidents and others who might be able to stop the demonstration.

The attempt was successful. One resident of the lower quad remarked, "The quad was as quiet as a tomb."

Lawler said yesterday that "Bob Spearman and I thank Dean Long for his decision. We feel that students have acted very responsibly and have emphasized our responsibility for jurisdiction in these matters. It was essentially the guys who lived in the dorms who made this a success."

Lawler said that he felt that a "constructive demonstration" against 3-man rooms or against an increase in dorm rents might be in order, but that it would have been ill-advised to schedule one at that time.

Dean Long had nothing but praise for Lawler's actions yesterday. "I think it was in the highest tradition of student Government. I can't say too much about it," he said. "It was a splendid piece of work and I take my hat off to him. I think he talked sense to the boys and handled it beautifully. What we saw last night was the way student government ought to act in theory but has so seldom acted in practice. I'm very much impressed."

Mis spelling Was Factor In Balloting

By LOUIS LEGUM

The Constitutional Council unanimously ruled yesterday that there will be re-elections for the Student Legislature seats in Dorm Men's III and Town Men's IV. These elections will be held Tuesday.

The Council's ruling was based on the contention that names printed on the ballots in both districts were misspelled, thus giving an unfair advantage to other candidates. On this basis the election was judged illegal.

In Dorm Men's III, which has four seats, the name of Rick Kramer (UP) was listed on the ballot as "Dramer." In the original election Kramer finished in a three-way tie with Bill Baynard and Juan Carvajal for the fourth seat. The elected members were Charlie Liler (SP), Gordon Appel (SP), and Doug Freeman (SP).

On the ballot for Town Men's IV the name of Bill Davis (UP) was listed as "Dairs." He finished behind Bill Bowerman (SP), Harry DeLung (UP), Rufus Edmisten (SP), John Getsinger (SP), Danny Edwards (SP), and George Newsome (SP), who were elected to fill the six seats in that district.

Arthur Hays, speaking in behalf of the SP, stated at the meeting that there should be a run-off in DM's III since there was such a wide margin between the three winners, who received as much as 240 votes, and the three candidates deadlocked at 172. Hays contended that these results made a complete re-election unnecessary, and that a run off for the remaining position should be held.

However, it was the contention of Mike Chanin, chairman of the UP, that the misspellings could have affected the entire structure of the results, no matter how spaced the voting. Chanin felt that a run-off would have put the SP at a distinct advantage.

Adam Powell Hit For $211,500 Libel

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Superior Court jury decided Thursday that Rep. Adam Clayton Powell libeled a 66-year-old Harlem widow and ordered him to pay her $211,500.

Mrs. Esther James charged that the Negro congressman called her a "bag woman" (graft collector for the police department) in a television interview.

Powell allegedly said that she collected protection payoffs from gamblers.

Mrs. James had asked the jury to award her $1 million.

In Washington, Powell said through an office aide that he would appeal the verdict. The congressman would make no other comment.

The all-white seven-man, five-woman jury handed down its verdict after four hours of deliberation. It said that the New York Democratic congressman must pay Mrs. James compensatory damages of $11,500 and punitive damages of $200,000.

The jury said it was unanimous in its decision. It affirmed its decision when a poll was requested by Powell's attorney, William McKinney.

Powell failed to show up for the trial, although his attorney had pledged he would appear. The congressman was reported to be in Washington while the trial was in progress.

McKinney asked the verdict be set aside on grounds that it was against the weight of evidence presented at the trial, and that the award was "extremely excessive." Judge Thomas A. Aurelio denied the motion.

Griselda Robbed, Says Her Manager

Tony Mason, campaign manager for Griselda the Pig, yesterday announced that he will appeal his case to the Constitutional Council to seek redress due to the fact that the elections board refused to count Griselda's votes.

Mason said that he accepts the disqualification of his candidate as enumerated in Article Seven, Sec. 6 and 7 of the Elections Laws, but questions the board's action on the basis of Article XII, a. and b. which states that there will be a runoff election when no candidate for the office of Secretary of the Student Government has received a majority of the votes cast for that office.

Mason claims that the elections board violated its own laws by not counting Griselda's votes which were clearly votes for this office.

According to this, Mason contends, Bonnie Hoyle cannot officially take office since she did not receive a majority of the votes cast. She did however receive a majority of the votes cast for both her and Sarah Broadhurst.

Hoyle received 1,849 and Broadhurst received 1,522. The total number of ballots cast was 4,240. If Mason's claims are upheld by the Constitutional Council, Hoyle did not receive a majority. The Elections Board may have to declare a re-election, depending on the outcome of Mason's appeal on the basis of Article XII of the Elections Laws.

GRISELDA, and her campaign managers David Bobrowskie and Tony Mason sit glumly beside the Old Well after learning that all write-in votes cast for the pig in Tuesday's election were not counted. Mason announced yesterday that Griselda's case is being brought before the Constitutional Council. —Photo by Jim Wallace

DU MEET

The North Carolina Chapter of Delta Upsilon will be host to the Province V Convention of the Delta Upsilon General Fraternity this weekend. Twenty delegates from seven chapters in the south-east will attend.

Friday night Dean of Student Affairs Charles Henderson will address the delegates at a banquet at the Carolina Inn. Following the banquet there will be a reception at Graham Memorial.

Saturday night Holt McPherson, Editor of the High Point Enterprise and a Delta U alumnus of UNC, will deliver the keynote address at the Carolina Inn. Mr. W. A. Butler, General Secretary of the fraternity, will also attend the conference.

Saturday morning and afternoon, the delegates will attend discussion groups on different areas of fraternity operations, such as rush and administration and finance. Sam Jones, chairman of convention arrangements for the UNC chapter, said that the purpose of the convention would be to "discuss common problems facing the chapters and to pool resources in these areas. We are looking forward to a very successful convention."

GERMAN TEACHERS

The North Carolina Chapter of the American Association of Teachers of German (AATG) will hold its spring meeting at the University Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m.

The AATG provides German teachers from both high schools and colleges an opportunity to compare notes and to keep abreast of developments in teaching methods and scholarship.

The active North Carolina chapter, headed by Professor Anne F. Baecker of Woman's College, draws upon more than 35 educational institutions for its membership.

The spring meeting of the chapter will feature lectures by Dr. Cornelius Kruse, professor of philosophy at Woman's College, and Dr. Beate C. Berwin, now retired from her teaching at Greensboro College and at A. & T. College in Greensboro.

Professor Kruse will discuss the German philosopher Immanuel Kant and his proposals for eternal peace, while Dr. Berwin will speak on the famous German poet J. W. von Goethe.

- Campus Briefs -

WESLEY FOUNDATION

The Wesley Foundation will hold its regular meeting at Wesley House Sunday at 6:30 p.m.

The Foundation will hold a retreat at Hanging Rock April 20-21. All interested persons should contact Lou Calhoun (968-8607) or Ken Warmbrod (968-9028).

YACK INTERVIEWS

Interviews for staff positions for the 1964 Yackety Yack will be held TODAY from 1-5 in the Yack office in GM. All interested persons, experienced or not, are urged to apply.

CCF

The Carolina Christian Fellowship will meet at 6 p.m. Friday upstairs at Lenoir Hall. UNC Physics Professor Dr. Thomas Noonan will speak on "The Historical Content of the Old Testament."

LOST

One pair of sunglasses, with gray frames and lenses and probably in a gray case, was lost recently. Finder contact Don King at 968-9123 for a $5 reward.

FOUND

Fifty dollars worth of Travelers checks have been found in Lenoir Hall. The name on the checks is Stanton Van Abrams, Leverett B-23, Cambridge, Mass. Finder contact the director's office in Lenoir.

ELECTIONS BOARD

The Elections Board will meet at 6 p.m. today. Chairman Polly Hastings asks that all board members attend to help recount elections returns.

(Continued on Page 3)