GOP Seeks Death Of Loan Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Republican leaders agreed Monday to try to scuttle a student loan feature of President Kennedy's program of federal aid for medical education.

The GOP Policy Committee voted to wage a floor fight Tuesday in an attempt to knock out the $61 million loan feature provision but took no stand on the rest of the measure. The administration bill would authorize a $175 million program for constructing and rehabilitating medical and other "health profession" schools.

John W. Byrnes, Wis., refused to predict whether the GOP drive could attract enough votes to eliminate the loan feature.

But he said that if the attempt was unsuccessful, there would be "considerable opposition" to the whole bill from Republicans.

Some traditional friends of aid-to-education, including both Democrats and Republicans, have already indicated that they are dissatisfied with the bill. They feel it should be part of a general bill to assist all colleges.

Manned Flights Set

CAPE CANAVERAL — A crucial "mating" of two machines at "spaceport U.S.A." and a satellite shot from behind the Iron Curtain Monday indicated American and possibly Russian will launch new manned flights into space within a few weeks.

At Cape Canaveral, a bell-shaped space capsule named "Faith-7" was installed atop a silver Atlas booster rocket to carry U. S. Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper, Jr. on this nation's longest orbital flight next month.

The Soviet Union launched a new satellite called "Cosmos-15" into orbit around earth. The moon-let was unmanned, but observers in Moscow believed it might be in preparation for a space flight by a new Russian Cosmonaut-possibly a woman.

But on both sides of the world, the exact dates for the next manned space ventures remained unknown.

Informed sources said "around May 14" was the most likely time for the launching of Cooper on a flight that, if all goes well, would take him 22 times around the globe in 34 hours.

King Goes On Trial

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Southern integration leader, and some 20 other Negroes today went on trial on a contempt of court charge stemming from a racial protest march on Good Friday.

King's attorneys filed a motion to dissolve and vacate the injunction but Circuit Court William Jenkins overruled the attempt.

Attorney Arthur Shores argued that if the order was dissolved there would be no need for the contempt hearing.

However, Jenkins said "the only thing before this court is whether these respondents were served with the injunction and whether or not they violated it."

He agreed to a motion to postpone for two weeks a hearing on the second ground on which the city seeks to cite for contempt.

The first witness for the city was W. J. Haley, chief inspector for the Birmingham police department. He described the Good Friday and Easter protest marches, the first led by King and the second by his brother.

Five Parking Tickets

... bad news for drivers

Several Have Reached Ticket Limit

Parking Rights Endangered

By MICKEY BLACKWELL

Some 125 students are on the verge of having their cars sent home because they are approaching the five-ticket limit on illegal parking, according to Bill Harriss, Assistant to the Dean of Men.

Harriss said that his office had sent home only 20 cars so far but "when a student gets five tickets his car goes home."

Harriss said there was ample space for students to park their cars. "The space might not be convenient, but it's there just the same."

He said that Craige parking lot isn't being used to the capacity and neither is the Ram Varsity Parking Lot.

"Several students failed to register their cars and even after doing so, many of them failed to apply the registration sticker to the car windshield."

"A student must display the sticker on his car within 24 hours or it is considered a violation and will be dealt with accordingly," Harriss said.

Unregistered Cars

Prior to the Easter vacation period, he said, his office ticketed 110 cars in the fraternity areas. He said most of their owners were guilty of not registering their cars. "The standard procedure when a student fails to register his car is for the Dean's office to cancel his University registration and charge him a 5-dollar re-enrollment fee," Harriss said.

A total of 150 students have been notified about failing to register their cars. The students were either fined 5-dollars or asked to send their cars home.

Harriss said the rules for proper car registration will be strictly enforced from now on. His office plans to check the Bell Tower Parking Lot and the Craige dormitory parking lot in the near future for car registration. Dean of men William Long said that only in special circumstances will a freshman be allowed to keep a car on campus.

He said that if a freshman were caught with a car that had not been registered, he would not be allowed to bring his car back until his Junior year.

Long also said that if a student failed to comply with the ruling on car registration, or if he refuses to send it home, then he could be suspended from school.

He said however that such drastic action has not been taken and he "hopes it won't be."

21 Americans Get Release From Cuba

Six Make Trip To South America

HOMESTEAD AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (UPI) — Twenty-one Americans held prisoner in Cuba flew to freedom here today and six more went to South America, apparently clearing Fidel Castro's dungeons of American citizens.

New York attorney James B. Donovan, who arranged the release of the Americans and flew here with them, said three Americans and three Cubans of Cuban birth chose to go to South America when they were released. This was not immediately explained, and these men were not identified here.

One of the 21 who arrived at this airbase south of Miami was ill, identified as Richard Allen Pecora, 30. He was taken off the plane first, and the others walked off under their own power.

Donovan, the red-faced New Yorker who has arranged the release of some 6,000 Americans, Cuban-Americans and their dependents in the past year, was last off the plane.

He announced before leaving Havana that he had also arranged for 1,000 more Cuban-American refugees to come to the United States this week by boat, probably on Wednesday.

Austin F. Young of Miami, an American adventurer who helped Castro in the beginning of his fight against former dictator Fulencio Batista, was the "long-termer" of the group which arrived at this base south of Miami. He had been in jail only six days short of four years, and originally was condemned to die.

"I'm very glad to be back," Young said.

The Pan American World Airways DC6B carrying the men and Donovan landed at this air base south of Miami at 11:33 a.m. Donovan, who arranged the release of Cuban invasion prisoners in December, was in Havana over the weekend to complete the arrangements.

The men had been held in a variety of prisons around Castro's island, but most of them were in the prison at the Isle of Pines, about 40 miles off the southern coast of Cuba — Cuba's "Devil's Island."

String Group Recording Is Successful

Another distinctive product representing North Carolina and the University has come out of Chapel Hill this season and is now enjoying good circulation, not only in the state but throughout the country. It is a fine recording by the North Carolina String Quartet, and it has been produced by Music For Children, Inc., an all-community organization of Chapel Hill, in commemoration of the Quartet's twelfth season.

In the years since its founding at the University, North Carolina's String Quartet, whose members are Edgar Alden, Dorothy Alden, Jean Heard, and Mary Gray Clarke, has achieved high artistry and a place among the distinguished musical ensembles of the country, playing in many other states as well as in North Carolina. The idea for a permanent record of this artistry impressed Music For Children, Inc., which had sponsored many of the Quartet's school concerts.

From the large variety of musical literature performed by the Quartet it was decided to select for Side One of the record the one Debussy Quartet, a minor, opus 10, one of the finest examples of French impressionism, and for Side Two the Bartok Quartet No. 2, opus 17, a fully mature work employing characteristic rhythmic and melodic ideas from the composer's native Hungary.

The recording may be purchased for $2.75 at Kemp's, the Country Store and Pace's.

Post Writes To Explain Its Stand

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Saturday Evening Post, commenting editorially on the reaction to the story in its March 23 issue which opened football's Wally Butts-Paul Bryant telephone case, said Monday, "we believe that anyone who rigs a football game should be exposed."

"If another story of similar nature should come our way in the future, we will not hesitate to pursue the same course we took with this one: track it down, satisfy ourselves that we have the truth and then publish it," the Post said.

In the March 23rd story, written by Frank Graham Jr., the Post reported that Butts, then athletic director of the University of Georgia, gave Georgia football secrets to football coach Paul Bryant of the University of Alabama in a telephone conversation in advance of the Georgia-Alabama game of Sept. 22, 1962, Alabama, a 17-point favorite, won the game, 35-0.

Butts and Bryant have denied the accusation and have filed libel suits against the Post.

The Post said Monday it "first received a report that a college football game had been fixed" in February. The report was that George Burnett, an "obscure Atlanta insurance man," had accidentally overheard the Butts-Bryant conversation. Burnett, the Post said, "swore he had heard Wally Butts giving Bear Bryant significant Georgia football secrets."
