Profs Traveling Abroad

By BONNIE PLEASANTS

The sun will never set on UNC professors this year. It will find 22 professors and one instructor at work from Maine to South America, and from Hawaii to England.

Arthur Murray Whitehill of the School of Business Administration is in the Pacific. He is spending a year in research at the University of Hawaii.

Not far beyond and also doing research is Ernest Craige. He is at the Institute of Verology in Kyoto, Japan. Craige, of the School of Medicine, was granted an Alan Gregg Fellowship for medical study.

Edward G. McGavran, dean of the School of Public Health, is visiting India. His trip was made possible through a Ford Foundation grant.

William Adolph Terrill is in Ankara, Turkey. Terrill is working with the department of business management of the Middle East Technical University under the guidance of Cornell Univ. He is from the School of Business Administration.

Greece Gets Classicist

Greece will have a UNC faculty member soon. Henry Rudolph Immerwahr of the classics department is going there in the spring of 1964.

William Edmund Lassiter is in West Berlin doing medical research. Lassiter is in the School of Medicine.

John W. Thibaut is making advanced studies at the Sorbonne in Paris. Thibaut, chairman of the department of psychology, had a choice between two grants to pursue this work.

David R. Hawkins, a staff psychiatrist at North Carolina Memorial Hospital, is working with medical men in France and Great Britain.

Three other men have recently arrived in England to do research work.

Phillip P. Green, Jr. of the Institute of Government is there on a Fulbright Scholarship.

Walter L. Smith of the statistics department is doing research.

A National Scholarship Fund Fellowship provided money for physicist Wayne A. Bowers to pursue research at Cambridge. Wood Returning Home

Ernest H. Wood of the School of Medicine is returning to the United States soon. He spent the past year at St. George Hospital Medical School in London.

Another professor will go to Britain next spring. Victor A. Greulich of the botany department will do research in British laboratories.

George C. Hamm, chairman of the department of psychiatry, is winding up a year of research in genetics. He has traveled throughout Europe and the United States this year.

Seymour Walter Wurfel of the Law School is making a study of the legal environment in Columbia.

Virgil Iron Mann of the geology department will make a study of mineral deposits of the Sierra Nevada Province this fall.

Other professors are working closer to home. Donald B. Hayman is a visiting professor of Political government at the University of Kansas.

Milton S. Heath, Jr. of the Institute of Government is acting as assistant to the director of the Federal Power Commission.

S. Sheppard Jones is a visiting professor of political science at the Naval War College.

Others Work Stateside

A staff recently established for mental health planning in North Carolina is directed by Harvey Liss Smith. Smith is in the Social Research Section, Division of Health Affairs.

Daniel O. H. Price, director of the Institute for Research in Social Science, is in Palo Alto, California, making advanced studies in the behavioral sciences at Stanford University.

Michael Kalen Berkut of the School of Medicine is a biochemist with the Medical Research Branch of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission in Washington.

Louis Gordon Welt, School of Medicine, is completing a year's work this month at Duke University under Dr. James Wyngaarden.

Ancel Mewborn of the mathematics department is working on constructing a correspondence course for mathematics teachers to keep them up-to-date. He is the head of a five-member writing team working for the Minnesota State Department of Education.

The project is being supported by a grant from the National Science Foundation.
