

Freshmen At State For Baptismal Test

By JOHN MONTAGUE

Coach George Barclay will take a "pro formation" and two "first-string" quarterbacks to Raleigh tonight, hoping for a successful debut of his 1963 freshman football team.

The Tar Babies, with 2 1/2 weeks of practice under their belts, tangle with NC State's Wolflets in Riddick Stadium on the State College campus. Kick-off time is 8 p.m.

Like Jim Hickey's varsity, the UNC frosh will run from a "pro" type formation which features a split end and a flanking halfback.

The end will be Bobby Knott (6-2 190) from Roxboro. The wingback will be 6-0, 198-pound Tom Lampman, a native of Lynchburg, Va. Both will be pass-targets for two promising quarterbacks, Danny Talbott and Jeff Beaver.

Talbott, (6-0, 180) the most sought-after schoolboy in the state last year, is from Rocky Mount. He is rated as a strong runner who also throws the ball real well.

More noted for his passing ability is Beaver, a 6-2, 180-pound Charlotte product. Barclay intends to alternate the two about equally with Talbott getting first call.

The two backs who will handle most of the running are fullback Spencer Barrow (6-1, 220) from Ahoskie and running back Leon Fonvielle. The latter (6-0, 175) is from Tabor City.

With Beaver in the second team backfield are running back Jim Fortune of Brevard, fullback Tim Reardon of Washington, D. C. and wingback Bud Phillips of Charlotte.

Coach Barclay has no idea what to expect from State. He is also uncertain of how his own boys will react in game situations, but he is confident that his team has the ability.

After the opener, the Tar Babies will meet Wake Forest on October 11, Virginia on October 18, Duke on October 25 and Maryland on November 1. The home games are with Wake and Duke.

Sketch Class

A public sketch class will be held at the Ackland Art Center this semester, according to course instructor Prof. Kenneth Ness.

"The class will feature drawing and sketching from models, and will be concerned with problems in composition, structure and design", said Ness. "The class will work in charcoal, pencil, pen and ink and color."

"It is an excellent course for the beginning artist, but may also serve as a refresher for the more experienced."

The course, open to all residents and students, will cost $15. Registration will be held Wednesday at 7 p.m. in room 210 of the Ackland Building.

—a smart, steady defender. Since UNC's best passer is also its best pass defender, Junior Edge, though he may be relieved often by Black, will be the right safety.

SPECIALISTS

In recent years, UNC has not drawn too many raves for its kicking game. In 1960, the Tar Heels beat Duke 7-6, but the losses due to kicking have far outnumbered the wins.

This year, due to the emergence of two sophomores, the kicking will be better—far, far better. And it will surprise most people.

Bill Edwards (6-0, 182) is slated to be the punter. There is every reason to believe he can handle his new job capably, but if he can't, Edge (who averaged 36.1 yards in 37 kicks last year) will get the call.

In the matter of place kicking, Hickey must have a hard time keeping himself from doing hand springs. In Max Chapman (5-11, 187), he has a kid that can consistently put the ball in the end zone on kickoffs and has demonstrated in practice a propensity for booting field goals.

There is no question about his ability to get good distance on the three-pointers, and from 15 to 30 yards, he is considered quite accurate.

How much this will effect Hickey's game strategy in certain situations is a moot point. But the kid is there, and it's a good feeling.

Extra point duty will fall to Dave Braine. Hickey feeling Braine is more accurate from in close than Chapman.

Receiving kickoffs and punts and returning same is in the hands of Willard, Ward, Kessler and Barden with occasional help from Tuthill, Smith and Jackson.

UNC Co-Captains Express Confidence

Tackle Gene Sigmon, from Newton, and wingback Roger Smith, from Albemarle, are co-captains of 1963's UNC football team. The following is an exclusive report on their outlook for the coming season.

By GENE SIGMON And ROGER SMITH

We've had the toughest and best pre-season practice in our four years here.

There is a lot of confidence on the squad because we have a lot of experienced players. The team has the enthusiasm of sophomores to go with the experience of the veterans.

Actually, it wouldn't matter who started, because both the first and second teams are equally strong. We doubt whether you could tell the difference if they squared off on the field. Perhaps, then, you could say our strongest point is depth.

We have several outstanding players who should be there when the post-season honors are handed out. Their accomplishments speak for themselves.

Junior Edge was eighth in the nation in passing last season. Bob Lacey set a conference record for pass receptions. Ken Willard was second unit all-conference as a sophomore and figures to be even greater this year.

The team lost its top two centers and we thought that might be the weak spot, but Chris Hanburger has been outstanding thus far.

It's going to be a tough schedule but, to use the old saying, we're just going to play them one at a time, starting with Virginia on Saturday.

All in all, it looks like the most wide-open ACC race we've had here in quite a while.

WE URGE YOU TO SEE IT FROM THE START BECAUSE THAT'S WHEN THE EXCITEMENT BEGINS!

Under-equipped?

Not at all. The average foreign car requires very little in the way of tools to keep it in top fighting trim. Periodically, of course, we do get some unusual cases, but we manage to take them in stride. The little buggy pictured above, for instance, belongs to an eccentric Scot who claimed he lost his penny in the gear box. Believe it or not, we could make change.
