Legislature Takes No Action On Bill

By HUGH STEVENS and ANDY MYERS

Student Legislature deferred action on the Honor Council's request for the expulsion penalty in its regular meeting Thursday night.

The delay came after a number of legislators said that more hearings and information were needed in order to properly evaluate the campus feeling on the expulsion penalty.

Phil Baddour, chairman of the judicial committee, said that the committee had heard testimony from both factions in the case. He indicated that the committee would hold further hearings on the issue if it were re-committed.

Whitney Durand, chairman of the Men's Council, was granted privileges of the floor to speak for that body. He asked that the issue be given immediate consideration.

"We have a large number of cases upcoming, and it is difficult for a representative of the Council to appear before the Legislature, as our meetings are held on the same night," he said.

"We feel that members of the Legislature have had sufficient opportunity to consider this matter, and they may speak here tonight if they desire."

Dick Ellis said he felt that members of the Student Government had been occupied with the Student-Faculty Review Board case, and thus had not been able to discuss the matter enough.

"There was only one person who spoke in opposition to expulsion at the Judicial Committee meeting last week," Ellis continued. "I feel that the opinions of the campus should be heard on this."

John Ulfelder also called for recommitment, saying "we should be as well prepared as possible to consider this matter."

Mike Lawler, president of the student body, also rose to urge a delay on the matter.

The motion to recommit was approved, and included a phrase stating that the action would be held "until such time as the chairman of the Men's Council may appear before the body."

Baddour announced that the judicial committee will hold further hearings Tuesday at 3 p.m. in Graham Memorial, and urged all those interested in making their views known to be present.

In other non-legislative action, Richard Johnson was seated as a new UP legislator from Town Men's II, and the appointments of Linda Cogdill and Thompson Mann to the Student Carolina Athletic Council were given unanimous approval.

Absent from Thursday's session was Erwin Parrott (UP), TW.

In further action: A bill re-organizing the Dormitory Improvements Committee and re-naming it the Residence Hall Improvements Committee was passed.

Another bill appropriating $120 for an NSA-sponsored leadership institute next spring was passed after representative Hugo Spechar (SP) gave a favorable report on a trial conference.

Minataurs Called For Bad Conduct

By HUGH STEVENS

Another Gag In The Bag!

RALEIGH (UPI)—N. C. Secretary of State Thad Eure told American Legionnaires Friday if opponents to the anti-Communist speaker ban were successful in getting it repealed "I've got another one."

Eure told an American Legion meeting here "this hand wrote every word in that bill" passed during the closing hours of the 1963 General Assembly and assailed by educators across the state.

"I know my name has been kicked about since the closing days of the General Assembly," Eure said. He added that if the law was repealed he had another ready for a future General Assembly to enact and "I will keep on as long as I can, striking a blow at communism wherever I can."

Eure made his remarks at a membership meeting of the local Legion post. State Legion Commander L. J. Phipps of Chapel Hill also addressed the meeting.

Phipps said most of the people he talked to thought the bill was a good one.

COMBO PARTY

Ehringhaus Hall will sponsor a combo party immediately after the football game today. The party will be held in the social room, and music will be by the Jammers. The public is invited.

The Attorney General's office said yesterday that the members of the Order of the Minataurs are scheduled to appear before the Men's Council at Thursday's session.

The 20 members of the group will be charged with violations of the campus code for their actions prior to, during, and following last Saturday's football game.

Dean of Men William G. Long said yesterday that the group appeared in Y-Court last Saturday morning and engaged in "the most indecent mass verbal outpourings I have ever heard."

Long said the group apparently has no official function except to appear in public during one football weekend every year and engage in drinking, cheering, and other assorted activities.

He said a number of people, including several students, had complained to his office about the actions of the group, including "a young lady who was propositioned in a most gross manner." Long said he had referred such complaints to the Attorney General.

A question arose yesterday as to whether the matter should be referred to the newly-established IFC Court. It was the opinion of the judiciary leaders that the court lacked the necessary penalties and procedures to handle such a case at the present time.

The members of the judiciary agreed to confer with the president of the student body further on the matter.

Dean Long, however, raised another point, saying that he felt

Clemson Tough Chore In Homecoming Today

UNC Analysis - 8 Big Front Line

By JIM HICKEY
UNC Head Coach

Today we play what is perhaps the strongest team physically in the whole league. Clemson has got plenty of big boys up front, they've got a fine passer and they've got two of the best full-backs around.

In many respects, we feel that this is the most important game we'll play all year. Of course not having won from Clemson in five years gives us a special incentive. But this game is more than that. We must win this one in order to hold our present advantage in the ACC race.

Frank Howard has a real good football team, and he's lost some real tough games. His bunch is ready to win now. Their quarterback Jim Parker seems to be fully recovered from his knee injury and he is by far their best passer. He's a pretty good runner too. He likes to run the roll-out. He'll do this more than he'll drop straight back.

The two halfbacks I mentioned are Pat Crain and Bob Swift. Crain is their No. 1 man, but Swift is almost as good. They are strong and quick. The full-back off-tackle has been Clemson's "bread-and-butter" play so far. But Howard will also have his halfbacks running the sweep. None are exceptionally fast, but all can go with that football.

Clemson also has a good kicking game. Their punter doesn't get great distance, but he gets it high and the coverage is excellent. Their kick-off man gets it nice and deep and is also a field goal threat.

Our boys are in good shape too—maybe as strong as we've been all year, especially up front. Ends John Atherton and Joe Robinson are both ready to play.

I hope that we are up and that we play like we've been playing. I have no reason to think that we won't.

Heels Seeking Tie For Title

By JOHN MONTAGUE
Carolina's football team can start reaching for the stars, but it has to do something which it has not done in five years. The task is simply defined, but difficult to carry out. In two words: Beat Clemson.

It's Homecoming in Chapel Hill today and 30,000 fans are expected to be on hand in Kenan Stadium to see if Jim Hickey's charges, currently ranked 19th in the country, can overcome the snarling visitors from the Red Hills of South Carolina. Kick-off time is 1:30, and right from the on-set the old grads should be treated to a real battle.

The importance of this contest to the Tar Heels could not be more obvious. A win will clinch at least a tie for the ACC championship, something which has escaped the Heels since the loop was formed in 1953.

Also at stake is UNC's 5-game winning streak, the Tigers' national ranking as the No. 2 pass-defense team, and, confidentially, the team's chances for a post-season bowl game. For those of you interested in ancient history, a win today would be the Heel's seventh this fall—which would be the first time since 1949 that a Carolina team has won that many games in a single season.

But all of this rests on a mighty big "IF."

A wounded Tiger, they say, is twice as mean, and the Tigers have been wounded. In mid-September Frank Howard, the Tigers' 240-pound, tobacco-chewing coach, was talking in terms of the strongest team he's ever had at Clemson.

Today the muscles are still there, but the surface has been scarred. Though fresh from shut-

Debate Highlights 'Roundtable' Meet

Chapel Hill's proposed public accommodations law brought on a sharp exchange Thursday night on WUNC-FM's weekly panel show, Carolina Roundtable, as panel members disagreed on its justice and whether it could be enforced.

James Shumaker, editor of the Chapel Hill Weekly, said that if a merchant covered under the law refused to serve a white man, he would be considered cantankerous, but if he refused service to a Negro, he would be breaking the law.

Dr. Earle Wallace, associate professor of political science and associate dean of the graduate school, moderator of the show, pointed out that the white man would have the same recourse to the law against the merchant that the Negro would.

Joe Augustine, executive director of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro Merchants Association, defended the traditional right of a businessman to serve whom he pleases.

Hilliard Caldwell, chairman of Citizens United for Racial Equality and Dignity, asked why a businessman opens his doors if he doesn't want to serve the public.

The show was the first of a three-part series discussing "Desegregation in a Small Southern Town." Shumaker, Caldwell and Augustine, on the panel, discussed "Business and Desegregation." The next two shows will be concerned with the law and government, and moral and ethical considerations in the civil rights issue.

Caldwell said Chapel Hill Negroes are basing their desegregation demands on the concept of "public businesses." He said the license given businesses by city or state makes the business "public", and when a man opens his business to the public, "public means everybody."

I am a member of the public," Caldwell said, "and this (giving of a public license), gives me as a citizen, the right to seek service."

24 Named For Canadian Swap

Twenty-four students and six alternates have been selected as members of this year's Toronto Exchange, co-chairmen Jaene Yeager and Kellis Parker announced yesterday.

They urged all students interested in the program to meet the Canadian students when they visit Chapel Hill Nov. 22-24.

Selections include Patricia Armstrong, Myrtle Moon Bilbro, Linda Cogdill, Barbara Craig, Aimee Gibson, Heather Humphrey, Dee Johnson, Lucy Kennerly, Elizabeth Lackey, Bonnie Raines, Lili Ridenhour, Missy Westmoreland and six alternates Roxanne Kalb, Betsy Meade, and Jane Moore.

Also Phil Baddour, Steve Dennis, Whitney Durand, Chris Farran, Gerry Good, Pete Jason, Shelton Langford, Gudger Nichols, Brick Oettinger, Tim Oliver, John Ulfelder and alternates Al Snead, Gerry Hancock and David Henry.

Pledges

The following are more of the students who pledged fraternities this fall. The remainder will run in later editions.

SIGMA NU

KAPPA SIGMA

Alger, Marian; Coleman, William Stydien; Colo, Michael S.; Griffin, Ray W.; Johnson, Bob A.; Lamm, David; Lanney, Brian Michael; McClain, Richard; Morgan, Stanley Eugene and Nash, David Alan.

Also Newsome, William Edward; Robbins, Jim; Sherrill, William Frederick; Solomon, Lucas Debon; Strickland, Ralph Bowling; Taylor, John H.; Vinson, James Allen and Whittlehill, David Barnard.

Correction: The pledges listed in Thursday's edition as Pi Kappa Phi should have been listed as Pi Lambda Phi.

Di-Phi Slams Fraternities

By CURRY KIRKPATRICK

The Di-Phi Society voted 13-2 this week favoring a resolution urging the University Administration to revoke charters of fraternities which have racially discriminatory clauses in their charters, by-laws or rituals.

The lopsided vote came after opponents of the resolution argued that it would withdraw the right of free association, a basic principle of democracy. The opposition said that to make a fraternity remove a discriminatory clause would lead to further regulations which would increasingly control a fraternity's selection of members, thus defeating the purpose of fraternities.

The proponents of the bill argued that it is the administration's duty to take such action because racial discrimination is contrary to the ideals of this university. It said that such action would be legal since fraternities can exist only if they are sanctioned by the administration.

No Reversal In Recounts

There were slight changes in vote totals but no reversals in six recounts by the Elections Board yesterday.

Gene Barrier (SP) picked up one vote in the junior class president race but still lost to Harrison Merrill, (UP) 454-449.

Dick Baddour (SP) maintained his lead over Bernard Baldwin (UP) for sophomore vice-president, 354-305.

For sophomore treasurer Jeff Davis (SP) beat Jerry Teale (UP), 350-303.

John Hedrick (SP) beat Mickey Gamble (UP) for freshman vice-president, 635-603.

In Men's Judicial District V, the new totals were: Bryan Simpson, 203; Pete Wales, 200; Mac Boxley, 163; Bill Taylor, 153; George Butler, 151; and Steve Hoyle, 87. Three seats were open.

Football Horrorscope

The mad Frenchman of Franklin Street took one look at the customer by the front counter and made an equally-mad dash to accommodate him.

It was the fabulous Kemp Battle Nye being visited by the equally-fabulous Horrorscope, but you'd think it was a naive and deaf and dumb freshman the way Kemp hustled up to him, eyeing his pockets or anything else where money might be sprouting.

Kemp could indeed help us. Pick some football winners, baby. He was glad to and, like Billy Cunningham and Spero Dor ton before him, was also ready to pick the exact scores.

The wild one picked upsets by VPI, Georgia, Michigan, Notre Dame, UCLA and California before giving way and handing the paper back. He didn't blow the big and bellowing horn, but, when told his picture would be taken for his trouble, jumped back, gave the famous smile, and fairly yelped "Preciate it!" We preciate it too, Kemp. Thank you.

Al Kaplan, who is putting on a late push for the number one spot, became the first man to get over 15 of the 20 games right last week when he hit 16 correctly.

Kirkpatrick, who has held first place since opening day, had a 14-6 week last time and is now at 92-36-7 for the year.

Behind Kirkpatrick and Kaplan are Ron Logan (88-40-7), Mat Friedman (85-43-7) and John Montague (82-46-7). The guest stars' record took a severe jolt last week when "Chance" House could only manage 8-12. This reduced their overall mark to 69-59-7.

Phillips Named Law School Dean

By MICKEY BLACKWELL

RALEIGH — James Dickson Phillips, 41, has been named new Dean of the University of North Carolina Law School. His appointment was announced Friday by the executive committee of the Board of Trustees which met in Raleigh.

Phillips will replace retiring dean, Harry P. Brandis, Jr., whose resignation is effective July 1, 1964. Brandis has headed the law school here since 1949.

In announcing the appointment, Consolidated University President William C. Friday said that he was "fully confident that Mr. Phillips will provide the law school with excellent administrative leadership and will build upon those constructive developments that Dean Brandis brought to the law school during his administration."

UNC chancellor William B. Aycock, who will resign that position this summer to rejoin the law school faculty said, "I am looking forward to being a member of a faculty in which Mr. Phillips is dean. I think he will be a worthy successor to Dean Brandis who has done an outstanding job over the last 15 years."

Phillips said he was "proud to follow" in the footsteps of Maurice T. Van Hecke, Robert H. Wettach and Brandis, who have served as deans since 1931.

"Each of these men came to the deanship from this faculty and by choice of the faculty, and each still serves on the faculty," he said in a statement. "This evidences a spirit of continuity possibly unique in institutions of this kind over such a period, and in my judgment has been one of the greatest sources of strength of this school."

"Each of these men has been my teacher, my colleague and my friend. I therefore have no lack of appreciation of the responsibility which this history and their parts in it place upon me, and am naturally proud to follow in this succession."

Phillips, a native of Scotland County, practiced law in Fayetteville from 1949-1960. One of his former partners was Gov. Terry Sanford.

A graduate of UNC law school himself, Phillips was associate editor of the N. C. Law Review when he was a student here. He was a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Davidson College in 1943, receiving the bachelor of science degree.

During World War II, he was a first lieutenant in a parachute rifle platoon of the 17th Airborne Division, U. S. Army.

He became an associate director of the Institute of Government in 1948 and served until 1949 when he went into private practice. He returned to Chapel Hill in 1960 and taught property law and procedural law.

Phillips is a member of the Board of Governors of the N. C. Bar Association, and on the American Bar Association's Committee on Continuing Legal Education.

He has served with the North Carolina Court Study Commission and on the N. C. Wildlife Commission. He is a member of the drafting committee revising the North Carolina General Statutes Governing Civil Procedure.

He is married to the former Jean Duff Nunalee of Fayetteville. They have three children, two girls and a boy. Two other older children are by Mr. Phillips' first wife, Evelyn Butler, who died in 1957.

They are members of the Presbyterian Church.
