

Gets Favorable Report

SL Expected To Act On Expulsion Bill

Phil Baddour, chairman of the Student Legislative Judicial Committee, announced yesterday that the committee had acted favorably on the expulsion penalty requested by the Honor Councils. The issue is expected to be heard by Student Legislature tonight.

Baddour said the committee met Tuesday afternoon and heard testimony on the expulsion issue. Woody Harrison reported that he had polled a number of students and found reaction "generally unfavorable." Jim Riley reported a similar reaction from members of his fraternity, and a representative from the Nurses' Dorm said the feelings there were split about even.

Baddour said the point was made that this case is one in which it is difficult to tell how majority of students feel about the issue.

"We felt that the legislators have access to all sides of the question," he said. "They should be able to make their decisions and then explain them to their constituents."

PLANETARIUM HAS ARTIST

The Morehead Planetarium has acquired a staff artist, its first student artist since it opened in 1949.

Philip Whitley, a UNC sophomore art major, guitar player and skin diver, has taken the Planetarium position and has already demonstrated his skill by creating striking astronomical exhibits for the Planetarium.

REMSBURG AWARDED

Frank Raine Remsburg, a graduate student in the Master of Business Administration (MBA) program at UNC is the recipient of the 1963-64 Cargill, Wilson, and Acree Scholarship, awarded by the advertising agency with offices in Richmond, Va., and Charlotte.

The $500 scholarship is awarded annually to an outstanding student entering the UNC MBA program.

FRESHMAN PRE-REGISTRATION

Freshmen must sign up now for preregistration for the spring semester on the third floor of South Building.

Thanksgiving vacation, and any bill not acted upon after tonight must be reintroduced and face the legislative process again.

"I hope that the students of this campus will avail themselves the opportunity to visit the student legislature," said Speaker Bob Spearman yesterday. "SL handles all the student fees, and everyone should watch the group in action."

Roundtable

Mayor Sandy McClamroch of Chapel Hill and two other panelists will discuss law and government in relation to desegregation as the second of a three-part series on "Desegregation in a Small Southern Town" tonight at 7 p. m. on WUNC radio, 91.5 on the FM dial.

Dr. Earle Wallace, associate dean of the Graduate School and associate professor of political science is moderator for the three-part program.

Other guests are Professor Daniel H. Pollitt of the Law School and Robert B. Midgette, assistant judge of the Chapel Hill Recorder's Court.

A segment of "Carolina Roundtable," the panelists invite listeners to telephone questions to 942-3172 while the program is on the air.

Need A Job?

The following organizations will recruit on campus from November 25 through December 6:

Monday, Nov. 25—The Upjohn Co.; American Viscose Division, FMC Corp.; The Kendall Co.-Textile Division; E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.

Tuesday, November, 26—E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.; Baxter Laboratories, Inc.; Dover Textile Group; Liberty Mutual Insurance Co.

Wednesday, Nov. 27—E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.

Tuesday, Dec. 3—Cornell University Graduate School of Business and Public Administration; Union Bag-Camp Corp.; United Aircraft Corp. Research Laboratories; United Church for World Ministries; U. S. Army Materiel Command-Biological Laboratories.

Wednesday, Dec. 4—New York University Graduate School of Business Administration; National Security Agency.

Thursday, Dec. 5—General Aniline & Film Corp.

Friday, Dec. 6—Research Analysis Corp.; Bureau of the Budget.

Students desiring interviews with the above organizations should contact the Placement Service, 204 Gardner Hall.

CURED

Citizens United For Racial Equality and Dignity (CURED) will launch a local voter registration campaign at an open meeting Friday night at 8 p. m. in the First Baptist Church on Roberson St.

Professor Donald R. Matthews of the Political Science Department will speak on "Negro Voter Registration in the South."

Challenge

The staff of the Daily Tar Heel challenges the yellow-bellied members of student government to a tag football game on the lawn of Graham Memorial at 4 p. m. Monday.

Each team will field nine members, and the game will consist of two 15-minute halves. Referees will be announced in the DTH and the winning team will be awarded one typewriter by the losing squad. Cheerleaders for the journalists will be Swivel-Hips Simmonds, Fan-Jet Riggs and Give-Em-Hell Hile.

Student Nite Is Successful

By SOT BOBSAM

The Carolina Playmaker's second Student Night was a success. All seats were taken Tuesday night when "Long Day's Journey Into Night" opened in the Playmakers Theatre.

Mr. John W. Parker, Playmaker's business manager, announced that Student Night performances will be held for the remaining three plays this season. Ticket sales for this play had a very slow start, but were heavy during the last two days. The last forty-five tickets were sold at the box office before curtain time.

Ninety-six season tickets were bought, and only 234 tickets will be on sale for each of the remaining Student Nights at $1.00 each. Advantages for theatre-going students will probably be increased next year.

"It is thrilling to see so many more students coming to the plays, both on Student Night and on other nights," said Parker.

Frosh Committee Interviews Set

Interviews for the Freshman Class cabinet will be held today and Friday in Roland Parker 2 of GM from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m.

Chairmen will be selected for the Finance, Publicity, Talent Show and Social Committees of the freshman class. Several sub-committees will also function under each committee. All interested freshmen are urged to apply for cabinet positions.

Jim Brane, freshman president, announced yesterday that a calendar of activities for the class is currently being drawn up by the class officers. Among the scheduled projects is a Merchant's Sale during the first week of December, when freshmen will work as salesmen with their commissions going to the class treasury.

UNC PROF HELPS MAINE

UNC professor has developed a set of welfare work concepts which have been adopted for use by ministers, student deans, probation officers, medical teams, the U.S. Agricultural Service, and the Maine Department of Health and Welfare.

For the past five years Dr. Alan Keith-Lucas, Alumni Professor of Social Work at UNC, has headed a project sponsored by the Maine Welfare Department to upgrade the skills of Maine's welfare workers.

His teaching methods are so effective that courses can be taught in short periods of time without losing their effectiveness.

The New Christy Minstrels

SINGING AND SWINGING — The New Christy Minstrels will twang and swing Saturday night at the fall German's Concert in Memorial Hall at 8 p. m. The group, composed of eight men and two women will show how to swing out with a fiery combination of the charm of the Norman Luboff Choir, the Weavers and the Kingston Trio all rolled into one record-hot group. The New Christies are patterned after the original Christy Minstrels who started in 1942. They are following the same tradition in an effort to make folk music "more fun than ever."

Voter Registration Fund Drive Is Initiated By SPU

A fund-raising campaign to aid Negro voter registration in Danville, Va. was launched here yesterday by the campus chapter of the Student Peace Union.

The money will be used to pay the $4.76 poll tax needed to register a voter in Danville and to finance projects by the Danville Christian Progressive Association (DCPA), according to Rick Doble of the SPU.

Doble indicated the SPU would be soliciting contributions this week at its headquarters in the Y building and that contributions could be mailed directly to the DCPA, 220 N. Union St., Danville.

The DCPA, which conducted anti-segregation protests in Danville this summer, is trying to register at least 1000 additional Negro voters by the Dec. 5 deadline, Doble said.

He added that the civil rights groups there recently began a new program, "Operation Dialogue," to improve relations between Negro and white communities. In the program, white and Negro members of integration groups visit door-to-door in Danville to establish a dialogue between communities.

Other campus organizations are expected to support the fund-raising projects, Doble said.

It's 'Beat Dook' Parade Time Again

Start with tons of Kleenex, yards of chicken wire, assorted paint and crepe paper. Add beautiful girls, a really swinging band, and a frenzied anti-Dook atmosphere.

Now put 'em all together. What have you got?

If you said the "Beat Dook" Parade, you were right. The annual event kicks off tomorrow at 3 p. m., sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. It will feature the "Beat Dook" Queen and float competition among fraternities, sororities, and dorms.

Tommy Harris, parade chairman, said yesterday the queen will be chosen from five finalists selected Thursday night. They include Joanna Houston, Jaene Yeager, Nancy Pruitt, Susan High, and Joye Cain.

Harris said 31 floats have been entered, including 21 by fraternities and sororities and 10 by dormitories.

The Lincoln High School band, a feature for many years, will group from the Air Force and return, along with marching Navy ROTC units.

The contestants in the queen contest will ride in the parade, along with 1963 Homecoming Queen, Miss Mary Cherry.

The parade will begin at Woolen Gym and proceed down Raleigh Street. It will then turn left on Franklin, left on Columbia Street in front of fraternity row, and finally down Cameron Avenue, ending near the lower quad. The floats at 9 a. m. Friday and again at 2:30 to make sure all entries are acceptable for public display. The inspection was ordered after last year's parade in which several floats brought widespread protests.

FOOTBALL MARCH

Head cheerleader Tom Gruen announces a march to UNC's football field this afternoon at 4:30.

One group will leave from Craig and Ehringhaus, another from Graham Memorial, both marching down to the field which is located on the level below Fetzer Field and behind Parker and Teague dormitories.

The pep marchers will surround the team as it goes about its regular afternoon workout. Several sororities have promised to have girls there at that time.

Weekend "Beat Dook" spirit will continue on Friday with the "Beat Dook" Parade in the afternoon. Also, the DTH Sports Staff and the cheerleaders have announced that a telegram will be sent to the Wake Forest football team Friday night, to let the Deacons know they have UNC's full support in their game against N. C. State Friday night.

A gigantic pep rally, featuring a fireworks display, will blow the lid off the whole thing—Friday night at Fetzer Field.

Speaker Ban Is Unconstitutional, Says GOP Sen.

By SUSIE LEWIS

GOP State Sen. Charles Strong of Guilford County said Tuesday night the spirit, procedure and enforcement of the Speaker Ban Law is un-American and the Little Federal Plan is an affront to intelligent people.

Senator Strong told the UNC Young Republican Club that the Gag Law indicates people think they can avoid facing their problems if they outlaw the persons whom they do not approve of.

"I am not concerned with the direct application of the law but of the principle behind it and how it was passed.

"I was in the House on the afternoon the bill was passed. I was fraternizing with Thad Eure, who is always in a back corner of the room. Eure was very much aware of this bill, although it was in the waning hours of the session and everyone was tired and worried about the bills which had not been considered. There were more than 100 still pending in the House and some were very pertinent.

"Then this bill was introduced, and without being studied by a committee, it was passed with virtually no comment."

Senator Strong described it as the kind of bill which appeals to the emotions and can be passed under suspension of rules with no evaluation.

"The implication was given that if you were against this bill you were not quite all true blue. (Continued on Page Three)

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Lady Godiva On A Motor Scooter?

CHINGFORD, England (UPI)—A modern Lady Godiva—a nude girl riding a motor scooter—has started a storm here.

The nude, wearing only a crash helmet, has been suggested as a poster for a council road safety campaign aimed at young people. It carries the slogan: "But always wear a helmet."

Road safety officers are for it but the town's clergymen are against it.

"Disgusting," said the Rev. Harold Goldsack, a Methodist.

"The slogan seems to suggest that they can do what they like provided they wear a crash helmet."

But Charles P. Henderson, the town's chief road safety officer, said "let's face it—we are living in the age of the nude. If the body beautiful will help to save lives, why shouldn't we do this in road safety?"

Quiet Returns To Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI)—Government forces acting on "get-tough" orders from President Romulo Betancourt appeared Wednesday to have smashed terrorist attempts to strong-arm Venezuela into a general strike.

Comparative quiet returned to Caracas Wednesday after Tuesday's terrorism, the most widespread for one day since the pro-Castro underground declared war on Betancourt's pro-Western democratic government nearly two years ago.

Khrushchev Told To Rock In Time

MOSCOW (UPI)—Danish Foreign Minister Per Haekkerup presented Premier Nikita Khrushchev with a rocking chair Wednesday.

nesday and said he hoped the Soviet leader would rock in the "same rhythm" as President Kennedy.

A T&T To Give Another Bonus

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. electrified the business community Wednesday by promising stockholders a bulging package that included a dividend boost, a two-for-one stock split and a large new offering of stock.

The nation's largest corporate entity told its more than two million stockholders they will have their quarterly dividend rate boosted from 90 cents a share to $1 a share next April, a stock split next June.

Congolese Arrest 2 Soviet Diplomats

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Congo state security police arrested two Soviet diplomats, beat them, tore the shirt off of one of them and seized "compromising documents," it was disclosed Wednesday. There were strong government hints the "compromising documents" involved a plot to overthrow the central Congolese government.

Queen Elizabeth Said Threatened

LONDON (UPI)—London police today charged a man with writing a letter threatening to kill Queen Elizabeth.

George William Mead, a 40-year-old clerk, appeared at the Mansion House Court today, and was ordered held in custody until Nov. 28. He was charged with "uttering a letter threatening to kill the queen."

Mead was picked up by detectives after he had spoken with a clergyman at historic St. Paul's Cathedral.

Lenoir Hall: Campus Center

By MARGARET LANEY

Busy... vibrating... cosmopolitan is Lenoir Hall, the campus dining center. Here, three times daily UNC students gather at mealtime.

The atmosphere of Lenoir is all its very own. Collegiate informality sets the mood for students who represent a wide range of interests.

But, perhaps, the unique setting is best described by the students themselves.

"I like to eat in the main dining room so I can see everybody," says Jim Hutchens, a junior in education.

"Lenoir is just great!" according to Carol Brown, a bacteriology major. "The people are interesting, and the prices are grand for students."

Student employee Harold Stevens called the atmosphere "down-to-earth." "Here," he said, "you can feel right at home and use the manners you want to—that is—if Otella isn't looking."

The staff members at Lenoir likewise find the atmosphere stimulating.

"It is a pleasure to work here, because the students are nice to get along with," line-worker Nellie Crocker of Chapel Hill said. "I look forward each morning to getting up and coming to work." She has served at Lenoir for 21 years, the hall's longest employment record.

But, away from the changing scene of people is a phase of Lenoir Hall that is seldom thought about.

This is the drama of management and kitchen production. "Feeding hungry students is 'big business,'" Manager George Prillaman said.

Prillaman has been at Lenoir for 15 years. He bases his philosophy of food service on student benefit. "Our aim is to give students good wholesome food in sizeable amounts at the lowest possible prices; and, at the same time, to make enough profit to reinvest in their best interest."

Vice-president of the National Association of College and University Food Service, Prillaman calls the "Student Special" the heart of cafeteria operation.

"Outside of the University, this 40-cent special is a freak," he said. "We are not subsidized by either North Carolina funds or federal surplus; and yet, we have been able to maintain this complete meal at its 1951 price in the face of rising costs of labor and raw food materials."

"I feel that this special is helping to keep many students in school by giving them basic food for a dollar per day."

Prillaman said that two-thirds of the 14,000 meals served daily are the Special. Two favorites are Canadian bacon with applesauce and liver with onions.

Lenoir Hall has 225 employees, 150 regular and 75 students. The full-time workers spend approximately 1,200 manhours daily in food preparation.

This work centers itself in the 120-by-50 foot kitchen where vegetables are cooked in 80 gallon steam kettles.

The electrical appliances are large, modern, and efficient. Among the newer items is a pie crust machine.

"One of the reasons we haven't had to turn to mixes is our pie crust machine," Prillaman said. "I can turn out finished pie crust, which has hardly been handled, in minutes."

All pies, cakes and rolls are baked in the kitchen from Lenoir's own recipes.

The 42 basic menus served in Lenoir were developed through a scientific study in 1948. At that time every imaginable food was offered in the line and student response was recorded.

A typical breakfast menu is composed of eggs in three styles, four meats, hot cereals, grits, pancakes, dry cereals, pastries, and a wide variety of fruits.

At any given breakfast 300 dozen eggs, 120 lbs. bacon, 25 lbs. oatmeal, and 50 gallons of orange juice may be consumed.

Lunch and dinner menus feature five entrees, six to eight vegetables, 20 different salads, and 12 different desserts.

Prillaman said that business is heaviest at the lunch meal and that weekend figures are off considerably.

Lenoir Hall will be spotlighted in an upcoming edition of a national industrial magazine, Plant Food Management.