Christmas Shopping Edition The Daily Tar Heel

Wild Edition

* * *

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1963

Generally fair and colder,

United Press International Service

Today's Weather

Offices in Graham Memorial

Phi Beta Kappa Takes 23

FURRY STRIKES BACK THE BRONX - Furry Mirkpatrick, the Sports Blurrier of he Daily Tar Head, announced yesterday he was protesting a picture in yesterday's Head which, he said, "casts an unfair light on my reputation and public Furry, reached here for comment on his exclusion in this ear's Who's Who in the Bronx too, said he was not disappointed "as long as they give credit where it is due-to King Wayne (Arctic Splash Editor of the DTH) and Wellessly, Blackmix (Corpulence Editor).

it is an established fact that infinite number of monkeys can type on an infinite number of typewriters for an infinite amount of time," said Furry as he munched on his ever-present banana. "The edit page is living proof of this," he added.

Co-editors Bary Glandchump and Jesus Ethereal were unavailble for comment on their Blurrier's statement.

HOOTENANNY

hootenanny is coming to Memorial Hall on December 13. Ticket proceeds will be given to the Heart Fund, and prices are 1 per person, $1.75 per couple.

61 Jets Are Sabotaged

WILLIAMS AIR FORCE BASE, Ariz. (UPI)-61 jet training planes were discovered sabotaged at this desert Air Force base and an immediate investigation was launched, base officials said Tuesday.

Wing Commander Col. William C. Lindley Jr. said electric wires leading to the gears of the T38 supersonic trainers

He said the planes were expected to be put back into operation late Tuesday and the base's training schedule would not be seriously disrupted.

Lindley said the damage "could have had very serious and dangerous consequences had it not been discovered" in pre-flight checks Monday.

The planes carry no classified equipment and are not Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and other military security agents immediately began investigating the incident.

Ceremonies Tuesday For Honor Society

Phi Beta Kappa increased its ranks by 23 yesterday as it held fall initiation ceremonies.

The new members include Newton Franklin Adkinson, Jr., Forest City, N. C.; Scott Newton Brown, Jr., Chattanooga, Tenn.; James Dinsmoor, Jr., St. Mary's, W. Va.; David Garnett, Washington, D. C.; Forrest Benedict Green, Rehoboth, Mass.; David Fletcher Harper, Rocky Mount; Florence Ann Hedrick, Orlando, Fla; Robert White Hill, Charlotte: Patricia Padgett Holden, Rosman; William Carl Imes, Exeter, N. H.; Peter David Krones, Chapel Hill;; Steve Findley Moore, Raleigh; Jesse Ronold Oakley, Mebane; Marcus Hilton Ollington, Adelaide, Australia; Jerry Eugene Patterson, Kings Mountain; William Anthony Smithson, Winston-Salem; Grace Mildred Stoddard, Avondale, Pa.; Judith Ann Tart, Palo Alto, Calif.; Bessie Touls Vallianos, Wilmington; Wayne Marshall Vickery, Lithia Springs, Pa.; Albert Franklin Walser, Salisbury; Mary Ruth Walters,

Workers Are Needed By UNC Campus Chest

Betty Ward of the Campus Chest is looking for men to help fill the ranks of her organiza-

The Chest, which is the only official charity drive on campus, has an overabundance of pretty secretaries but very few men to provide the necessary leader-

The Chest has a variety of activities planned for this year, including the annual carnival, an auction of valuable merchandise, and a program of related events.

The Carnival, which is the highlight of the Campus Chest drive, has netted as much as $6000 in the past, and she hopes for a large sum this year. "There is no fair in Orange County, and therefore we have had large turnouts in the past," she said. Besides the usual rides, such as the ferris wheel and the tilt-a-whirl, the residence halls, fraternities, and sororities will be asked to set up booths, and a competition will be held to determine the most original one.

The Chest's special events committee has sponsored air shows and parades in previous years to help in the pubilcity for the drive, and added money will be collected for it in door-to-door canvassing.

Cosmo Club Holds Dance

The Cosmopolitan' Club's semiformal Christmas Ball will be held in the Naval Armory Saturday night.

Music for the Ball will be provided by the Southern Gentlemen, a 10-piece orchestra, and will consist of standard ballroom dance music with some twist and rock and roll sounds. During intermission excerpts from Tchaikovsky's Nuteracker Suite will be played.

An executive committee of club members, headed by John Clinard, will handle all arrangements.

Youngest In History

Dook To Inaugurate Dr. Knight As Prexy

Duke University will inaugurate its fifth, and youngest, president today.

He is Douglas Maitland Knight, 42-year-old English scholar and former president of Lawrence College in Appleton, Wis., who took over the reins of Duke on Sept. 1, succeeding Dr. Deryl

The formal inaugural convocation, which will be open to the public, is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Wednesday in Duke Indoor Stadium. B. S. Womble, Winston-Salem attorney and chairmen of the University's Board of Trustees, will install Dr. Knight in the presidency.

The inauguration ceremony will have the added distinction of observing Duke University's 39th Founder's Day. It was on Dec. 11, 1924 that James B. Duke signed the historic Duke Indenture which provided for the creation of Duke University, using small, but highly regarded, Trinity College as its nucleus.

Dr. Knight brings to Duke an Lawrence from his English litimpressive record of accomplishservice to higher education at the national level.

Nine years ago he went to

DR. DOUGLAS M. KNIGHT

erature teaching post at Yale ments at Lawrence College and University, where he had taught for eight years after receiving A.B., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees there. Lawrence has gained a nationwide reputation as a spawning ground for presidents of major institutions. Dr. Knight's own predecessor there was Harvard University President Nathan M. Pusey.

> Dr. Knight's administration at Lawrence saw the college prepared for university status, which it expects to gain in 1964. There also was a 150 per cent increase in the book value of the endowment and a doubling of the book value of the college's phyiscal plant. A successful development campaign was waged, and faculty salaries were increased and the curriculum strengthened.

He holds four honorary degrees including the LL.D from Ripon, Knox asd Davidson Colleges, and the Litt.D. from St. Norbert College.

Strong To Keep Title On Advertisement

World News Briefs

Viet Nam Premier Warns Newspapers

SAIGON, South Viet Nam press. (UPI)-An irate Premier Nguven Ngoc Tho Tuesday accused Saigon newspapers of sensational reporting and outright fabrications and warned of a government crackdown on the local

The ruling military junta restored press freedom after the Nov. 2 coup which overthrew the regime of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, who had maintained tight controls over news.

In his message to Congress,

Johnson indicated his request was prompted in part by similar appeals from "many Americans" in letters written since Kennedy's

The same sort of widespread public demand was credited by a Treasury spokesman for adoption of only two other such designs, the Lincoln penny in 1909 and the Roosevelt dime in 1946.

Barron said. "Students are pretty limited in their means, but we hope that many will be able to donate textbooks. We all know that the Book Exchange doesn't

Because of the high cost of shipping the books overseas, it will be necessary to select the books carefully, Barron added. "We are seeking quality above quantity, but we need both. Of course many of the books donated will have to be weeded out. These will be sold and the money given to the Uni-library are not needed, he em-

There are two central collec-versity of Algiers."

pay that much for used texts."

assassination on Nov. 22.

LBJ Asks Kennedy 50-Cent Piece

NSA Wants Books

For U. Of Algeria

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Johnson asked Congress Tuesday to honor the memory of John F. Kennedy by authorizing a new 50-cent piece bearing the late President's portrait.

If approved, the new coin would replace the 15-year-old Benjamin Franklin half-dollar and would be the first of the denomination to bear a likeness of a former president.

The National Student Association today begins a drive to collect books for the University of

In June of 1962, the Library and Faculty of Medicine of the University of Algiers were bombed by terrorists of the

O.A.S. (Secret Army Organization) in a last wave of violence before Algeria gained its independence. The library building was gutted and over a half-million books were destroyed, included many irreplaceable

The local drive to collect books manuscripts of Arabic literature.

is part of a nationwide drive conducted by N.S.A. and the World

University Service, according to committee spokesmen. The drive will continue until the

"What we really need are textbooks in all disciplines," Vance

Barron, a member of the committee, said yesterday, "The University of Algiers has an immebackground publications in all disciplines that would be suitable for any university collection

"The University of North Carolina Press has already generously offered any of the books it has published," he continued.

"We are also soliciting books from faculty members. We are hoping that they may have many books which are sent to them by publishers which they do not diate need for textbooks, but

Christmas vacation.

are also needed."

Republican State Senator

Atlanta, Ga.; Jerry Morris Whitmire, Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Charles W. Strong, denying any wrong intentions, said Tuesday he has no plans to remove his title of "Senator" from insurance advertising materials which are "blanketing the state." In a telephone interview,

Strong also said he has found "Tremendous Eastern support for my candidacy for governor," and no support for the Speaker Ban law "once I explained to the people what it's all about."

Strong, on a three-day tour of eastern North Carolina to gauge support for his candidacy for Congress or the governorship, said he does not think anyone is misinterpreting his title use to imply State endorsement of the student life insurance plan he is selling, nor should they . The Greensboro legislator and minister said he has assured himself that no illegality or "conflict of interest" is involved in his title use.

The Valley Forge Life Insurance Company of Reading, Pa., which Strong represents, last week began bulk-mailing sales materials about the insurance plan to parents of North Carolina college and high school stu-

Strong is identified several times in the material as "Senator" Strong. He said last week that this was done to eliminate confusion between him and another Charles Strong in Greens-

"We have checked the insurance laws," he said Tuesday, and can find nothing illegal about this. I checked with the company this morning and they felt there's no conflict of interest whatever - I'm not seeking business with the State, and the legislative session is already past."

acted last summer without fortion points on campus-at Graham Memorial and at Y Court. "The comment I've had so To supplement these, the presifar is just 'Forget it.' I know dents of each living unit on cammy intentions and motives were pus are being requested to faright and still are," he said. cilitate collection in their respec-Strong said his company is tive dorms, fraternities, or so-"blanketing the state" with rorities, according to Barron. mail to the parents of college

All books donated concerning students and high school juniors the sciences and mathematics and seniors about the plan. should be up-to-date, he contin-Of his tour Strong said he is ued. Other kinds of books that finding that "the Speaker Ban would be useful he listed as fol-'scare' is just not there in the lows: background publications on grass roots, once I explain to the social, cultural, political, and people what it's all about - that economic affairs; atlases, disserthis is an emotional piece of tations, scholarly journals, diclegislation designed to appeal tionaries from and into French to our glands rather than our or Arabic. General books such as minds." would be more suitable to public The controversial law was en-mal hearings or prior notice. Criticized as "vague and un-CHRISTMAS RIDES necessary," it forbids known Communists, advocates of vio-The Daily Tar Heel will print lent overthrow of the U.S. or requests for riders or rides for State constitution or Fifth the Christmas holidays. Re-Amendment pleaders in loyalty quests should be no more than 25 words, due to space limitacases from speaking on statesupported compuses.

Cameron Ave. Becomes One-Way Street Today

By MICKEY BLACKWELL Cameron Avenue, from the Carolina Inn to Grimes dormitory at Raleigh Street will tempo-

9 Jailed In Danville

By JOEL BULKLEY

DANVILLE, Va. - This city lived up to its reputation as a center of racial segregation Tuesday when at least nine persons were jailed and others were harrassed by police after trying to gain service at five downtown businesses.

About 25 persons participated in sit-ins at a Howard Johnson Restaurant, the Charcoal House, The Charcoalette, Virdan's Motel Restaurant and the Capital Theater Tuesday afternoon. Danville authorities refused to say how many of these were arrested.

A witness at the Howard Johnson sit-in said he saw a young Negro girl beaten and kicked by two Danville policemen when she refused to move from her seat at the soda counter.

Of the nine being held on trespass charges, only two would give their names, authorities said. Bond was set for these two at $300 apiece with trials scheduled for Dec. 13. Authorities said many of those arrested gave their names as "Freedom Now." "Black And White Together." "Equality and Freedom Now."

Those arrested in Danville's first anti-segregation demonstration in 16 weeks were believed to include three local Negro ministers, who serve as leaders of the Danville Christian Progressive Assn. and three field workers for the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and the Congress of Racial Equality. The other three were reported to beseniors in the John M. Langston High School.

A large-scale street demonstration protesting the "Absence of an open city" was scheduled here yesterday, but only a handful of students appeared willing to participate. A parade permit for the march had been sought Monday by integration leader Rev. L. G. Campbell but was turned down because it had not been requested 30 days in advance.

Several hundred students were jailed in Danville early last summer and about 35 others reportedly were injured during civil rights demonstrations.

rarily become a one-way street beginning today.

The one-way traffic situation, going west to east, was necessitated by a series of ditches being dug to accomodate new power and telephone lines.

"The new lines will replace old existing power lines which are inadequate," J. S. Bennett, director of development said.

"It will step up the line voltage three times, from 2400 volts to 7200 volts," he said. Bennett said the one-way traffic situation will be in effect for about 30 days, but he added that much of the work will probably be done during the Christmas holidays.

"We will try to minimize traffic congestion as much as we can," Bennett said. "But it is important that everyone be aware of the one-way traffic. That way, with everybody cooperating, the situation can be handled easily and the project can be completed as soon as possible."

After the Cameron Avenue work is completed, the street will be opened again for twoway traffic. Meanwhile, the line will be moved down Raleigh Street to Woollen Gym where it will connect with the present

"While the project may cause some inconvenience, it will be much better for everyone concerned in the long run" Bennett

Pacifist Lecture Is Given Tonight

David McReynolds, 34, of the pacifist War Resisters League will speak in Carroll Hall tonight at 8 p.m. on "The Relationship Between Peace and Civil Rights." McReynolds, a Californian, is being sponsored by the local chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and the campus chapter of Student Peace Union (SPU) for whom he is an advisor. Since his college career at UCLA in the early 1950s, Mc-Reynolds has been a part of movements against college ROTC and Civil Defense. He ran for Congress from New York City in 1958 on the Socialist Party ticket backed by Norman Thomas. He has been a field secretary for War Resisters League since 1960. All students and guests are in-

Johnson Presses For Rights Bill To Get To Vote Soon

Intern Program Is Worth Doing

By HUGH STEVENS

(Second of four articles) "I can think of no more valuable experience than the State Summer Internship program," Bill Aycock said.

"I don't usually get enthusiastic about something like this, but this is worth it," Gil Stallings agreed.

Aycock, a junior from Chapel Hill, and Stallings, a law student from Louisburg, were two of the twenty participants in the 1963 Internship Program in state government, and both are enthusias-

Both were employed by agencies of the N. C. government last summer for ten weeks, a period in which they worked on special government projects and attended seminars concerning every phase of North Carolina life.

"I came away tremendously impressed with abiilty and efficiency of the people who run our state," Aycock said. "I found people who are dedicated to good government, with a deep sense of responsibilty to North Carolina."

Stallings, who worked for the Public Welfare department, studied the characteristics of children placed in foster homes in North Carolina. "These were children who,

in North Carolina.

as well.

for one reason or another, had to be taken from their permanent homes temporarily." he said. "I was designated to undertake a series of statistical studies, the findings from which I presented in conferences with the agency heads." Both Stallings and Aycock agreed that such work was not only rewarding, but educational Aycock was employed by the State Board of Education and did research on community colleges "This is the best way I know of to get first-hand experience in the workings of the state." Aycock commented. "You can read a lot in textbooks, but nothing matches the laboratory experience of seeing the work firsthand." "This is a unique program," Stallings said, "in that it offers participation in the dual capacity of student and employee."

The two students also agreed that the seminars were as rewarding and informative as the actual work. "We heard leading political scientists, the heads of state agencies, state political leaders, and many others-in short, the leaders in every important aspect of North Carolina life," Stallings said.

"I personally found this the most rewarding segment of the program. I think it was the key to the whole summer."

Aycock also said he found the seminars "interesting and informative." "They were outstanding, in that we met the actual persons responsible for our state, and could ask them questions about their work."

"The discussions begun in the seminars were continued by the students when they sat down together during their free hours,' he said. "I think that living with the other interns (in a dormitory of N.C. State) helped us to learn about all the agencies, as well as our own."

"It was certainly stimulating to live with the others in the program and share their experiences, questions, and insights,' Stallings commented.

Both gentlemen agreed that their impressions of the state were not so much changed as solidified by participation in the

"Probably the greatest value of the program is getting leading students interested in being responsible, participating citizens of North Carolina," Stallings indicated, "While none of them may seek public office or state employment, they will be members of boards, committees, and action groups that will influence the future of North Carolina."

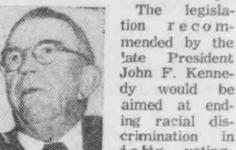

Aycock agreed, saying, "the program unquestionably builds leaders for the state. In the future, we will always come back to this experience as one which gave us a new understanding as citizens."

Both urged students interested in the state to apply for the program, whatever their future field of endeavor.

"It offers an unequaled opportunity," they said. (Tomorrow the DTH will continue with profiles on student participants in the intern program.)

WASHINGTON (UPI)-President Johnson instructed his congressional lieutenants Tuesday to continue jogging the House and Senate for action as soon as possible on the controversial civil rights bill.

At a White House conference, he told the leadership to impress on House members and senators that the issue cannot be "ignored for another 100 years or even another 100 days.

John F. Kennedy would be aimed at ending racial discrimination in jobles voting. Howard W. Smith schools and public accommodations. At present the bill is bottled up in the Smith, a foe of the legislation, has promised to begin a rules committee hearing on the measure sometime in January after Congress convenes for the new session.

House Rules Committee headed by Rep. Howard W. Smith,

However, proponents of the bill have launched an effort to pry the bill from the committee and bring it up for floor action by means of a discharge petition. When the petition was formally submitted Monday, 131 members quickly signed it but there was little immediate hope the move would win the 218 signers required.

The best estimate was that the total would run to about 165 or 170 signers. Should Smith continue to stall action, however a renewed drive might send the move over the top.

Speaker John McCormack told newsmen that Johnson was "very much interested in the discharge petition.'

He then read from a typewritten note: "The President urged us to impress on the House that this great issue cannot be ignored for another 100 years or even another 100

Johnson in his first appearance before Congress following Kennedy's assassination, assigned top priority to the civil rights and the tax cut bill which had been advocated by his dead predecessor.

The civil rights bill is expected to win House approval when it is brought to the floor.

"We also feel that students have an important obligation and an excellent opportunity to help their fellow students in another land at a time of great need,"