Tar Heels Demolish Hapless Tulane, 109-81

Maybe On 28th

Oh, For Warm Sun

By JOHN MONTAGUE
It may be warm in Jacksonville on December 28, but it was a little on the chilly side in Kenan Stadium Monday afternoon. The Tar Heels tried to forget about the cold as they began their first full week of heavy drills since the Duke game.

Bundled up in long-sleeved sweatshirts under their practice uniforms, the players divided up the hour-long workout between defense and offense. All of the squad participated in the drills except Bob Lacey and Dave Braine.

Lacey did put in an appearance, taking a leisurely lap or two around the field. The All-American end is expected to be ready for the Air Force, but probably will stick to sweat-suit conditioning workouts until the team goes to Florida on December 23. The tall flanker is recovering from a twisted knee.

The outlook for Braine is not as bright. The defensive back and kicking specialist has a hair-line fracture of the fibula (one of two lower leg bones) just above the ankle. Braine is off crutches now and was an observer at practice yesterday.

"I hope to run some in the next few days, but it's up to (trainer) John Lacey," said Braine. "Maybe I'll be able to do some kicking when we get down to Jacksonville."

The team will practice today and tomorrow, and most of the players will leave for their homes Wednesday night. All players will fly to Jacksonville on Monday. It will mean Christmas away from home, but nobody is complaining.

"Only rich people get to spend the holidays in Florida," said Braine. "We're all eager to play in the bowl game."

RUNNING MATE?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson had a brief social call Monday from Cleveland Browns quarterback Frank Ryan and fullback Jimmy Brown.

The National Football League stars were accompanied to the White House by Rep. Charles A. Vanik, (D-Ohio). Brown and Ryan were in Washington for Sunday's Cleveland Browns game with the Washington Redskins. They led their team to a 27-20 victory.

Biggest UNC Point Output In 5 Years

NEW ORLEANS—North Carolina went on its biggest scoring spree in five years here Monday night, demolishing an obviously outclassed Tulane quint, 109-81.

It was the most prolific point production by a UNC team since the 1958 Tar Heels blasted South Carolina, 115-38 (which is a school record). In addition the rout of the witless Green Wave meant victory No. 4 for the Tar Heels on the season and a 2-0 mark on the Louisiana trip.

Charlie Shaffer came through with the biggest night of his career, hitting for 32 points to lead all scorers. The converted guard cashed in on lay-up after lay-up as the UNC cagemen showed something new—speed. The fine passing of Billy Cunningham, Mike Cooke and Billy Gallantai made the fast break go as the Greenies were caught napping on many occasions.

Cunningham came through with his usual fine scoring performance, netting 27 points.

But it was his passing which seemed to most impress the small crowd at a school where basketball success simply is not this year. It was the fifth setback of the year for the Tulane cagers.

Both Coach Dean Smith and Tulane's head man, Ted Lenhardt, cleared their benches in the free-scoring affair which was surprisingly close for the first seven minutes. The Greenies, who never led, did tie the count at 10-10 with 13:02 left, but Bob Bennett hit a free throw, Shaffer made a three-point play and UNC waltzed to a 55-30 halftime lead.
