Long Campaign Trail Ends With Election Day

Two Teams Seek Tar Heel Editorship

The Daily Tar Heel editorship, Senior Class offices and Athletic Association posts will also be selected in today's balloting.

Candidates Fred Seely and Hugh Stevens oppose Candidates Curry

Ballot counters will be needed tonight on the second floor GM beginning at 6:30.

Khrushchev Is Not Dead, Says TASS

MOSCOW (UPI) — Dmitri P. Goryunov, director-general of the official Soviet news agency Tass, has denied a rumor abroad that Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev had died.

"This is just a silly rumor," he told newsmen here.

Meanwhile, the duty editor of the Tass news agency also said the rumor was "absolutely not true."

Asked if Tass would publish an official denial, he replied: "Why should we publish a denial? These are just evil rumors." The rumor began when the German news agency DPA transmitted a report at 3:53 p.m. (EST) Monday that Khrushchev had died at 2:19 p.m. (EST). The German agency said the source of its information was Tass.

Mural Referendum On Ballot Today

A referendum to approve an increase in residence hall room rent by $30 per semester to pay intramural managers will appear on the ballot in today's elections.

The referendum, if passed, would continue the paid intramural managers program as initiated this year with the Administration matching Student Government funds to pay the managers.

The Administration agreed several weeks ago that they would continue to provide half of the necessary funds. Student Legislature then passed the referendum that will be voted on today.

A Constitutional amendment

a write-in campaign. Seely, DTH Managing Editor, and Stevens, Associate Editor, are endorsed by both the University Party and the Student Party. Kirkpatrick and Blackwell announced their candidacy Wednesday.

The hotly-contested race for Senior Class offices finds the present president and vice-president of the Junior Class vying for the coveted Senior presidency. Harrison Merrill (UP) and Paul Chused (SP) wound up their campaigns yesterday with both predicting victory.

Clay Moore (SP) and Gene Barrier (UP) are the candidates for the vice-presidency. Moore has never run for campus office, while Barrier was defeated for Junior Class president by five votes. It is expected to be the closest race.

Carol Miller (UP) and Kay Hoyle is presently secretary of the Junior Class.

Incumbent Susan Powell (SP) is running against Dave Wiles (UP) for treasurer of the class.

Six-foot-two Roxanne Kalb (SP) and five-foot-two Pam Hooper (UP) are the candidates for social chairman.

Doubly-endorsed Rick Kramer and Milt Baugess are the only announced candidates for chairman of the Carolina Athletic Association.

Tina Nicholson, an independent candidate, is unopposed for chairman of the Women's Athletic Association.

Candidates for chairman of the Women's Residence Council include Mike Newton, Sylvia Shields and Anita Strickland.

Carolina Women's Council chairman candidates include Jodie Payne and Gayle Raulason.

Newsman's Wife Fills In For Journalism Class

Well known feature writer and author Willie Snow Ethridge, wife of journalist Mark Ethridge, took her husband's place at the lecture yesterday to address his class in newspaper management on the facets of her specialty.

Mrs. Ethridge, author of 12 books, is the mother of DTH co-editor David Ethridge. She quipped her way through the lecture, pointing out as she went along that the feature story lends itself to more elasticity than any other form of journalism.

"You will find," she said, "that the feature story is the oasis in every editor's life. The closer the writer can come to the subscriber, the more intimate, the friendlier, the greater his hold upon the subscriber."

"The roommate," as Mrs. Ethridge calls her husband, "started my interest in writing by buying me a typewriter for Christmas instead of a steam iron." Actually the former Mrs. Snow had been writing for the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph when she met Ethridge, now editor of Newsday in New York City.

Mrs. Ethridge has just written a new book entitled "I Just Happen to Have Some Pictures," which is currently being released here in North Carolina. The book is about her experiences as a grandmother. She has 12 grandchildren.

GOING TO THE DOGS?

James E. Wadsworth, UNC housing officer, was reported in fair condition at Memorial Hospital yesterday after his bicycle accident Thursday.

He is in traction with his head swathed in bandages. He sustained a broken right shoulder, a broken left thumb and a cut over one eyebrow.

Wadsworth was thrown off his bicycle when he collided with one of the campus dogs, apparently in hot pursuit of a squirrel.

Wadsworth has been riding his bicycle about campus for 15 years now.

The Candidates

In an effort to let the student know a bit more about the candidates for President of the Student Body, Paul Dickson (SP) and Bob Spearman (UP), the DTH sent ace reporter Kerry Sipe on the campaign trail to find out exactly what the candidates were like.

Sipe sat down with each at breakfast, and these are the impressions he received.

Dickson

By KERRY SIPE
"Just a poor little country boy trying to get along in the big city," was how Paul Dickson, Student Party candidate for Student Body president, described himself as he pushed his breakfast dishes away and lighted a cigarette.

His story, however, was that of a man who had been out of the country for quite a while.

"I started out from Raeford, about 83 miles to the southeast. I went to high school there, played a little football, was editor of the school newspaper, and played E-flat tuba in the band."

Paul says his life didn't really begin until he joined the Air Force in 1959.

"I graduated from high school on June 4 and by June 5 I was on my way to Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio."

From there it was to Rantoul, Ill. for Air Force weather training and then to Fort Belvoir, Va. and the U.S. Military Academy Preparatory School.

"I joined the Air Force with the intention of working my way into the Air Force Academy. When I finally made it, I stayed just long enough to flunk chemistry and I was on my way back."

"It didn't bother me a whole lot at the time," he said, "I got out just in time to come home for Christmas."

"For a couple of months, I thought the Air Force had completely forgotten about me. Finally, he was transferred to Seymour Johnson Air Force Base in Goldsboro. Here he was promoted to the rank of Airman Second Class.

"I was in the service too short a time for much promotion. Let some poor sack who'll spend the rest of his life in the army have the stripes."

After a short stay at Goldsboro, Paul got orders transferring him to Saigon, Viet Nam. "We had to catch a plane for Japan in three days. This guy named Ken from the Tennessee mountains and I got the idea to try to drive to San Francisco from Raeford."

"We bought an old '49 Chevy, stuffed the back seat with our duffel bags, some of Mom's fried chicken and cake and were on our way."

"I told Ken not to drive the car over 60. We ought to have driven it at 50 so it would last."

After a series of burnt-out voltage regulators, dead headlights, a flat tire and a broken alternator, we finally made it to San Francisco. (Continued on Page 3)

Spearman

By KERRY SIPE
Bob Spearman, University Party candidate for Student Body president, sat across the table from me and drank his coffee black.

The campaign issues were buzzing inside his head. Every time he opened his mouth one would unintentionally escape. It was only with some persuasion that he began to talk about himself.

Bob is a local boy, from Chapel Hill, 21 years old, a graduate of the elementary and junior high schools here, currently a junior majoring in political science and history, reading for honors in both majors.

The four years before he came to UNC were spent at Groton School in Groton, Mass. He graduated valedictorian.

His prep school years were spent in "a large amount of studying and academics." There was some sports participation—football, tennis, basketball. He was co-captain of the basketball team his senior year and set a single-game scoring record of 31 points.

"When I came to Carolina, I had no intention of going into Student Government. I was mostly interested in the Debate Team and in working on the Daily Tar Heel." Bob's father was editor of the DTH in 1929.

Student Government became his chief interest in the fall of his freshman year when he was elected on the UP ticket for class president. He won a legislative seat that spring endorsed by both parties.

"Student legislature is the one student activity where you have the chance to accomplish something good for the whole university," he said.

Of all his experience in Student Government what are his proudest accomplishments?

"Number one—being a part of the establishment of the National Merit Scholarship Program on campus. Then—the proposed Residence College System; the founding of the Fine Arts Festival; re-founding the Carolina Political Union; and the legislation of the paid intramural manager's program."

Quite a record. Has Bob ever thought seriously about politics as a career?

"I've thought about it, but I don't see how I could do it. (Continued on Page 3)

Campus To Elect 'Big Four' Today

The student body goes to the polls today to select their officers for next year, as well as National Student Association representatives, Editor of the Daily Tar Heel, Senior Class officers, legislative representatives and Men's and Women's Council seats.

For Presidential candidates Paul Dickson (SP) and Bob Spearman (UP), it's the end of a long and sometimes fierce campaign. Both political parties have engaged in several controversies during the election—the first over an editorial in the Daily Tar Heel questioning Dickson's stand on Civil Rights and the second over a surprise University Party bill presented in Student Legislature Thursday night calling for a referendum on the student boycott.

Jeff Davis (SP) and Don Carson (UP) are on the ballot for vice-president.

Priscilla Patterson (UP) and Madeline Gray vie for secretary. (This has been one of the most hotly contested races, with both girls campaigning vigorously.)

Lanny Shuff (SP) and Jim Light (UP) are the candidates for treasurer.

The first controversy arose when an editorial in the Daily Tar Heel charged that Dickson had wavered in his stand on the Public Accommodations Law. Dickson defended his position, claiming it had been the same throughout the campaign.

The second battle arose over a bill introduced by George Ingram (UP) in student legislature calling for a referendum on the student boycott. The Student Party charged that the University Party used unethical tactics in attempting to get the bill passed. Several letters were distributed around the campus by both parties after the session.

Candidates for National Student Association include Pete Wales (UP), the only incumbent; Karen Rawlings (SP), the only girl; Bill Lucas (SP); Neal Jackson (SP); Ron Hendren (UP); Bo Edwards (UP); Mike Chanin (UP); and Jim Brame (UP).

Candidates for student legislature include:

Valkyries corresponds to the highest men's honorary, the Order of the Golden Fleece. It was founded in 1941 when it replaced Alpha Kappa Gamma, national women's honorary society. Members are recognized for excellence in scholarship, leadership, character or service to the University; however they must be outstanding in each of these areas.

Citations to the new members read as follows:

Miss Allison: one who has shown enthusiastic and creative leadership in her campus activities, achieving excellence in her work with the YWCA. Through her guidance in Perspectives, she has awakened those around her to the challenges and responsibilities that confront them. Her inquisitiveness has served as a stimulus for her academic endeavors. She will always be remembered for her vital interest and devotion to her friends, her activities, and her University.

Miss Clark: one who has demonstrated excellence in her position as dormitory president. By her enthusiasm and sincere interest in her dormitory and those she serves, she has conveyed to all a sense of pride and a desire to play an active part in dormitory activities. Not only has she given unselfishly of her time, but she has shared with others her quiet strength and wisdom. Her curiosity and desire for knowledge is reflected in the superior scholastic average she has maintained.

Miss Culler: one who has shown excellence in her leadership of the Women's Residence Council.

Miss Foote: one who has given tirelessly of herself to the 1964 Carolina Symposium. Without desiring recognition, she has graciously and willingly assumed responsibilities for tasks which contributed significantly to the success of the Symposium. In addition to these responsibilities, she has rendered invaluable service to the language department. Sensitive to the needs of others, Diana is loved and respected by faculty and students alike.

Miss Shields: one who has achieved academic excellence; her record attests her high intellect.

FRENCH COMEDY TONIGHT

"Les Caprices de Marianne," a two-act comedy by Alfred de Musset, will be presented in the original French by the Alliance Francaise tonight at 8 in Gerard Hall.

The play is considered one of the finest works in the French romantic theatre, although it was not originally written for the stage. It was not performed during the author's lifetime.

VON LAZAR SPEAKS HERE

Professor Arpad von Lazar of the Political Science Department will speak on "Political Systems in Europe" tonight at 9 in the YMCA.
