disagree with their position." Y.M.C.A. Director Claude Shotts said he did not object to the Goldwater banner on the building and added, "You can put anything up as far as I'm concerned."

The controversy erupted early Friday morning when Rick Edwards, Y.M.C.A. President, and Miki Nicholson went to the room on the second floor of the Y building which is being used as Goldwater headquarters for the convention, and told a student working there that the banner must come down. Edwards said, "It has been the policy of the Y in the past not to display political banners and I think we should attempt to remain non-partisan."

Friday afternoon, Supervisor of Operations John Bennett sent a University employee to the Y building to take the banner down. After a call to Dean Long by a Goldwater partisan, the employee left without disturbing the Goldwater sign.

Bennett said he did not know in connection with the Mock Political Convention which is an authorized University function. However, both Dean Long and Bennett stipulated that the sign must come down after the convention is over Saturday night.

And so, the Arizona Senator's banner, at last report, still hangs from the Y building.

NC Demos Hold Rally

The political spectrum will still maintain a top spot over the weekend as two Democratic gubernatorial hopefuls host youth rallies in Raleigh.

Youthful political forces will stage separate rallies for two of the major Democratic gubernatorial candidates. Dan K. Moore and L. Richardson Preyer will appear at the respective rallies which are being sponsored by various youth groups backing each candidate.

Bus loads of supporters will leave the campus early this afternoon — Preyer's at 12:30 p.m. from the Morehead Planetarium and Moore's at 1 p.m. from Woolen Gym.

Tonight, the political factions will join forces for the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner, which is expected to attract hundreds of North Carolina Democrats to Memorial Hall.

Officials estimate that 1,400 Democrats would pay $50 per plate to hear Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., the evening's principal speaker.

On Tuesday of next week, L. Richardson Preyer will address a joint meeting of the Orange County YDC and the UNC Democrats to be held at 8 p.m. in Carroll Hall.

Bill Ca'frey of Greensboro, district coordinator of the Preyer campaign, said the public is invited both to the speech, and to an informal reception in Graham Memorial following the address.

State Drama Festival Ends Today

The final three sessions of the Carolina Dramatic Association's 41st annual state drama festival will be held today and tonight in the Playmakers Theatre.

At 10:30 a.m., three one-acts—"The Lesson," "The Friend" and "The Accident" will be presented. "Christ in the Concrete City," "The Workhouse Ward," "This Property is Condemned" and "Suppressed Desires" will begin at 2:30 p.m.

"Swan Song," "Gloria Mundi" and "The Potboiler" will close the day starting at 7:30.

Tickets for the performances, at 50¢ per session, will be on sale at the Playmakers box office one hour prior to each session. Presentation of awards will follow the final performance.

Banquet Opens International Student Week

The International Students' Board, the Cosmopolitan Club, the YWCA, and the Men's Residence Council have combined to make this week "International Student Emphasis Week."

The purpose of the week's activities are to make more students aware of the cosmopolitan nature of the UNC campus. The ISE Week formally begins tonight at six o'clock with the "International Night Banquet," sponsored by the Cosmopolitan Club. This dinner annually attracts hundreds of students, both foreign and American.

On Tuesday, April 21, a folk group, The Echoes, will perform at the Hill Foundation at 8:00 p.m. These performers are well known artists from Israel, sponsored by the United States National Students Association.

Wednesday, April 22, the International Students' Board will be selling cookies in the lobby of the "Y" in order to raise funds to support the Chilean literacy campaign. A daily forum will be conducted in the DTH by foreign students in attendance at UNC. Jim Fulwood and the Men's Residence Council have scheduled meetings with foreign students and the dormitory residents.

Kellis Parker, chairman of the International Students' Board said that "UNC has failed to make foreign students feel that they are a real and significant part of the University community. Our great injustice to the students is that we are ignoring them. This situation is irritated by the fact that the University is expanding in area and numbers. Concomitantly, the number of foreign students at the University is increasing by leaps and bounds. The International Student Emphasis Week is designed to make students aware of their responsibility to integrate foreign students into normal campus life."

Car Wash

They're at it again. Yes, friends, the Stray Greeks will sponsor another car wash today from 11 a.m. until 6 p.m. at Barclay's Texaco Station, beside the Carolina Theater.

Last week's car wash was such a success that Susan Zehmer talked the rest of the girls into doing it again. But it's all for a worthy cause—the Chile Literary League.

and 15 minutes of sit-up exercises every day to strengthen the back muscles."

Otelia said she has had a couple of embarrassing events during her good manners crusade.

"One day, a nun put her tray on my table. Automatically, I corrected her. It just popped out. When I see something wrong, I just have to correct it."

Otelia has become quite an integral part of campus life here. She was asked and eventually joined a campus political party. She has her name listed on the official student roster. She has audited several courses. The only thing she hasn't been able to secure is a student's pass book.

"If I'm going to write about these things," she said, "I ought to be able to get in them free of charge. I'm still working on that."

Otelia said that since she began her good manners crusade, several years ago, she has had to be doubly careful about her own manners.

"I feel like I'm in a glass cage all the time," she said. "I know that people are watching me and trying to catch me doing something wrong. They want to get something on me because I'm always getting something on them."

"Don't get me wrong," she declared. "I'm not trying to criticize everybody. Far from it. I'm trying to get the students to go out of the University as good ambassadors. People expect college students to go into the world with good manners."

"I think the students realize this, too, and I also believe that most of them realize that I'm only trying to help them."

Mississippi Jury Deadlocked Again In Trial Of Beckwith

By AL KUETTNER

JACKSON, MISS. (UPI) — A Circuit Court jury deadlocked at 3 to 4 for acquittal Friday and a mistrial was declared for the second time in the case of Byron De La Beckwith, charged with the ambush slaying of Negro leader Medgar Evers.

"No sir," the jurors one by one told Circuit Judge Leon Hendrick when he asked them individually if they felt they could come to a unanimous decision.

Hendrick promptly declared the mistrial, the same action he took in February when another all-white jury deadlocked 6-6 in its deliberation of the case. Hendrick said later Beckwith's case would be continued until the May term of court. This is automatic in the case of criminal cases.

Within 30 minutes of the decision, bond for the 43-year-old white fertilizer salesman was set at $10,000. Defense attorney Hardy Lott said he did not know when the bond would be posted with the Hinds County sheriff.

District Attorney William Waller said he would not oppose the release of Beckwith, who has been jailed since his arrest last June.

The 12 white men had deliberated 10 hours since receiving student in question."

Rauchfuss lived in Ruffin Hall first semester. He moved into the Phi Gam House second semester. One of his best friends there was John Hughes.

"I thought he was somewhere in Florida looking for a job. Are you sure this happened at Myrtle Beach?" Hughes asked.

Police Move To New Quarters

The 24-member Chapel Hill police force has moved out of its congested three-room quarters into greatly expanded and remodeled offices on four levels of the Chapel Hill Town Hall.

The newly completed, bond-financed $40,000 project for remodeling the Town Hall gave the police force almost all of the area formerly occupied by the fire station. Through a complete rebuilding of the area the department was able to expand into much-needed quarters.

Police Chief W. D. Blake took the Chapel Hill aldermen on a formal tour of the new facilities following their Monday night meeting. He said a public open house is planned in the near future to show off the station. On the main floor of the Town Hall is the chief's office, which now occupies almost all of the area taken up by the department previously.

Adjoining is the traffic clerk's office and public reception room. Walled off in one corner is a radio operator's room. The jail area in the basement was remodeled to provide for a booking room, so that prisoners would not have to be brought through the main area of the building.

In the former engine room of the fire station offices have been built for Capt. C. E. Durham, Detective Sgt. Howard Pendergraph, the Orange County sheriff's deputies assigned to Chapel Hill, parking meter patrolman E. B. Cozart, a public waiting room, storage room, police photo darkroom, and an arms vault. Above, on a newly created floor level, is an assembly room, locker room, interrogation room (featuring one-way glass so that suspects can be viewed (undetected by witnesses), and an office for each of the three shifts on the force.

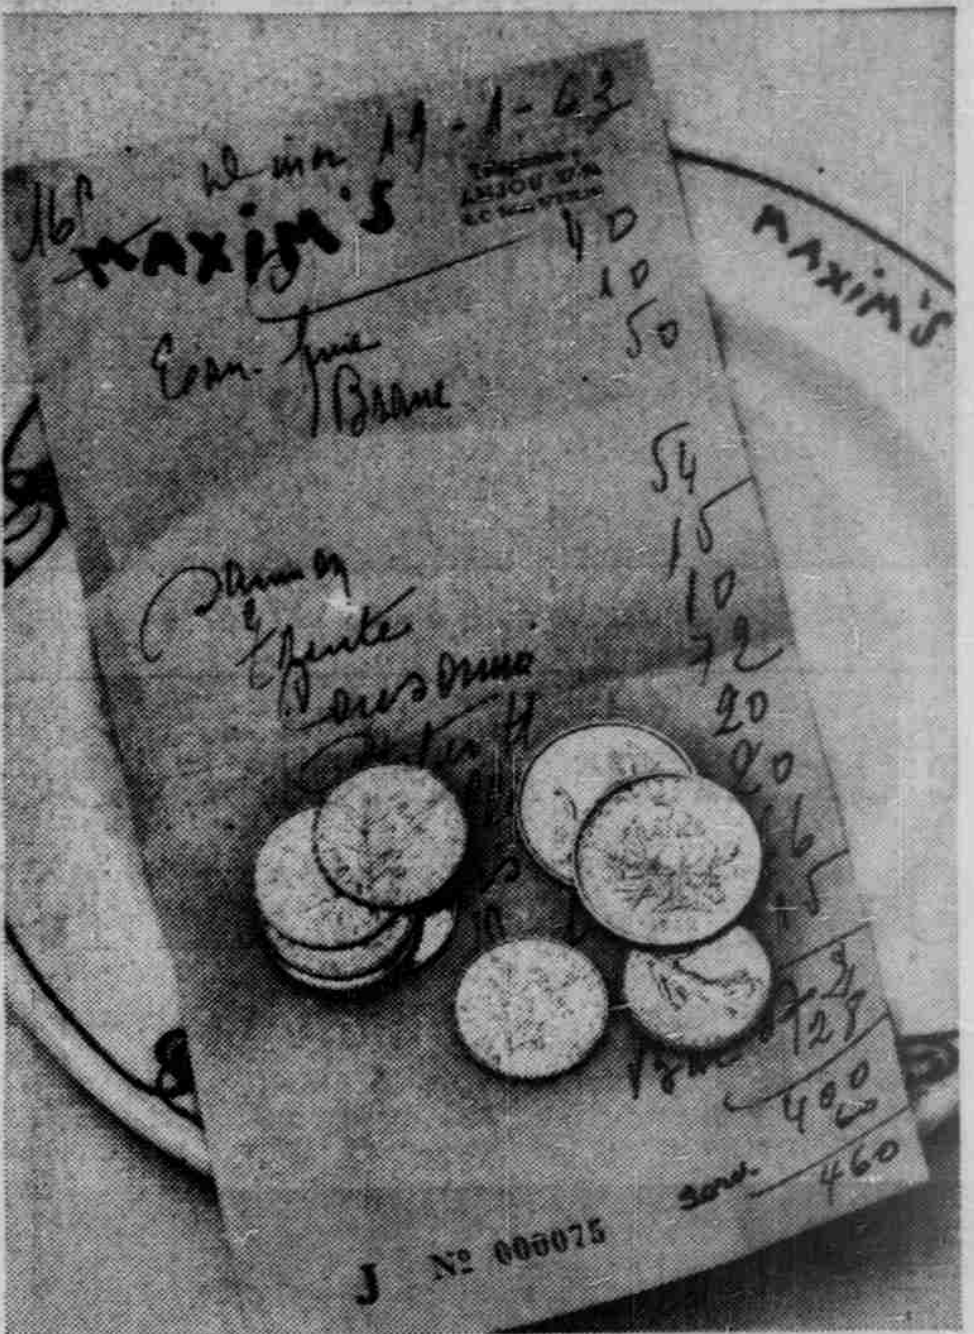

the case Thursday. In Beckwith's first trial the jury stayed out eleven hours and one minute.

There is nothing in Mississippi law to prevent the 43-year-old Beckwith member of an old-line Southern family, from being tried a third time on the same charges, but there was speculation prior to the verdict that if another mistrial was declared the entire case might be dropped in the inactive file.

The verdict was returned at 11:35 a.m. CST and two hours later Beckwith was set free and was rushed from the jail in a car driven by Sheriff Fred Pickett.
