AND THE BILL IS $24 MILLION

This Place Just Keeps Getting Bigger And Bigger And..

Arthur Branch Points To Another New Addition

By PATTY NASH

UNC refuses to stop growing. Business Manager Arthur Branch has estimated that capital improvements during the next few years will amount to a cost of over $24,000,000.

"These projects are financed by the state, loans and grants from the National Institute of Health and the National Science Foundation," he said.

The first major project is the Ambulatory Patient Care Facility at North Carolina Memorial Hospital. It will provide additional patient care facilities and lab space, and will cover 215,000 square feet. This addition will be on the south side of the hospital, and the main entrance will be changed from the north to the south side. A small enlargement will be built where the main hospital entrance is now. It is hoped this $7 1/2 million project will be completed by May, 1967. Bids will be accepted in January, 1965.

Books are already being collected for the new Undergraduate Library to be built on the east side of Wilson Library at a cost of $1,315,000. Students will be able to get their own books from the open shelves, without the aid of an attendant.

The library, along with the new Student Union and Book Exchange is "a unified project under one architect, working with our engineers and planners," said Branch. "It will be a focal point on campus for all students and will be the principal gateway to the old campus from the south."

The Student Union will be built where Emerson Field is now. Since it will be so close to Lenoir Hall and the Pine Room, it will contain no eating facilities, but will have a snack bar and a banquet hall to be catered from Lenoir Hall.

The Book Exchange will be between the other two new buildings. All the books and supplies that students and faculty will need can be bought here. Bull's Head Book Shop, now in the library, will be moved to the Book Exchange in order to give the library more space and to put all books under one roof. The building will be well-arranged and spacious.

These three buildings will be separate, but will be tied together with patios and walks. They will be ready for use by the Spring of 1966.

The new Cameron Morrison Residence Hall is already under construction behind the hospital. It will complete the triangle, begun by Craig and Ehringhaus Dorms.

The new dorm will house 925 men and will be 10 stories high. Its basic design will be like the other two, except for the height. The ground floor will contain a snack bar, rooms for the housemaster and his wife, mail boxes and study and recreation space. Each floor will have a study room in the central part of the building. The total cost of the dorm will be $2,544,000 and it will be completed by the fall of 1965.

The Harry W. Chase Cafeteria will also be ready by the fall of 1965. It will be built in the middle of the triangle formed by Craig, Ehringhaus and Morrison, and will also serve Parker, Avery and Teague.

The William D. Carmichael Jr. Auditorium "will be ready by next commencement, we hope," said Branch. It will be attached to the east side of Woollen Gym and will be able to accommodate more than 9,000 people for basketball games and special occasions. "When chairs are added, up to 11,000 people can be seated comfortably," Branch added.

A hydraulic stage will be built on the west side of the auditorium which can be raised and lowered for special occasions. The contract has been let and the addition will cost $1,724,923.

Work will begin this summer on an addition to Wilson Hall. More instructional space and labs for research will be added. This project will be completed within two years, at a cost of $1,591,377.

Architects are now working on the design and plans of the front part of Davie Hall, which will be destroyed and rebuilt, beginning next spring. The front part was built in 1908 and is not fireproof, as is the wing which was added in 1925. The building will be used by the Psychology Department.

Renovation of the old part of Phillips Hall will begin this summer, at a cost of $460,000.

Plans are well along on several minor projects which will be completed by September.

Wilson Library will be completely air-conditioned this summer and the ground floor of McNider Hall of the School of Medicine will be renovated.

Additions to the heating plant are necessitated by all the new buildings. This project is now underway and a new boiler has been added to provide steam for new and future buildings. Steam pipe lines to the campus are also being added. No completion date has been set for this $1,380,000 project.

Emerson Field will be moved to across the street from the football practice field, between Avery and Ehringhaus. This is necessary because the Student Union will be built on the present Emerson Field. "If there's room, we hope to add a few more tennis courts, too," said Branch.

Saturday Deadline

Primary Registration Books Are Still Open

There's still time for most Carolina students to register to vote in the May 30 Democratic Primary.

Registration books will close this Saturday in all but 11 of the state's counties. The books will remain open at the homes and businesses of precinct registrars through Friday and will be at polling places Saturday.

That's the word from Jim Hunt, a Carolina law student, who recently completed a check of registration dates in all North Carolina counties. Hunt is a former official of the National College Young Democrats Club. "A great many students are actually eligible to vote this month, but don't know it," he noted. North Carolina law allows persons who will be 21 years old by November 3rd—the date of the general elections—to vote in the primary.

"This idea that you have to be 21 to vote is just a lot of misinformation," Hunt said.

Married students can usually register in the college town where they live, he said. Single students, however, are expected to register in their home precincts.

"You must have lived in North Carolina for a year prior to the general elections to vote," he added. Absentee ballots are allowed only to military personnel in primary elections.

Registration has closed in 11 counties which have "year-round" registration systems. They are Cumberland, Durham, Forsyth, Gaston, Guilford, Mecklenburg, Stanley, Union, Wake, Wayne and Wilson counties.

UNC Press Club Banquet Saturday At Schraft's Inn

The UNC Press Club will have its tenth annual awards banquet at Schraft's Country Inn on Saturday evening.

Richard Harkness, NBC news commentator, will be guest speaker. Harkness has been with NBC in Washington since 1943, covering Capitol Hill, the White House and the State Department.

Journalism scholarships will be awarded and members of Kappa Tau Alpha, journalism honor society, will be initiated. Awards to the outstanding senior man and woman will be presented by Sigma Delta Chi.

Donna Fagg, Press Club President, urges all journalism students to attend the banquet.

interest in the welfare of their fellow man."

The Ernest H. Abernethy Award was given to Gary Blanchard and David Ethridge, immediate past co-editors of the Daily Tar Heel. The Abernethy Award goes to the student who has "done the most distinctive work during the year in the field of student publications."

Jorn Christopher, a mathematics major from Detroit, Mich., was given the Eben Alexander Prize in Greek. The award is given to the person who places highest in a sight translation of Greek.

Sarah Elizabeth Parker of Charlotte, an education major, won the Mngum Medal in Oratory. The competition is based on a 10-minute speech and is judged by Dr. Donald Springen, coach of the Debate Team.

Chancellor Gives Awards To Seniors

Seven UNC seniors have been named to receive the top awards given annually by the administration.

The awards were given earlier in the week by Chancellor William B. Aycock in a ceremony in his office.

Whitney Durand, a Morehead Scholar from Chattanooga, Tenn., will receive the John J. Parker, Jr. Award, given to the senior who "has demonstrated most clearly the highest qualities of leadership in perpetuating the spirit of honor and the process of student self-government."

Tom Henley of Pittsboro and Jaene Yeager of Winston-Salem received the Algernon Sidney Sullivan Award, given "to the man and woman of the graduating class who have best demonstrated an attitude of unselfish

Bulletin

The International Students Board announces a full scholarship for one UNC undergraduate to study at the University of Paris, France, for the coming academic year. Any rising junior or senior with two or more semesters of French should apply immediately. Application blanks are available in 216 Dey Hall and the Y-Office. They must be returned by May 25; selections will be made on May 28.

GYM BASKETS

With all students please turn in their gym baskets at the basketball room in Woolen Gym. All baskets will be cleaned out at the end of summer school so each student should remove all personal equipment (shoes, etc.) before leaving school.

New baskets will be assigned at the beginning of the fall semester.

UP Elects Executive Committee

Jeff Adams, John Roney, Jean Renfrow, John Mundy, and George Ingram were elected to the University Party's Executive Committee in the party's annual election held last Tuesday.

Adams, who replaced Mike Chanin last November, was re-elected as party chairman.

Roney, a sophomore from Williamson, was elected as the party's vice-chairman. Roney will also be serving as a resident adviser next year.

Serving as party secretary for the next year will be Jean Renfrow, this year's co-chairman of the Campus Chest Carnival. The position of treasurer was filled by John Mundy, a freshman Morehead from Lynchburg, Virginia.

The only re-elected officer besides Adams was George Ingram, UP legislative whip, who will serve as Sergeant-at-Arms.

The meeting attracted approximately 75 persons. After the elections, chairman Adams said, "I feel that the newly elected officers will help the UP to continue its growth as the all-campus party. The new members of the Executive Committee are well qualified and exhibit great enthusiasm which will lend to the support of a strong party spirit in the coming year."

GRADUATION INVITATIONS

All those seniors who ordered Graduation Invitations and have not yet picked them up may do so at 206 South Building any time from now to the end of school. If you have not done this please do so as soon as possible.

LAWLER LOOKS BACK

Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of three articles by Student Government reporter John Greenbacker dealing with former Student Body President Mike Lawler and some of the observations he made while serving in office.

By JOHN GREENBACKER

Mike Lawler was battling the first crisis of the 1963-64 academic year before he took office. The controversy of the Apartment Rule had been raging before the inauguration, and the Women's Residence Council's legislating a more liberal rule precipitated what Mike terms "one of the most misunderstood incidents in my experiences with the Administration."

When the WRC legislated the new rule they anticipated the criticism of Dean of Women Kitty Carmichael, but her power to veto WRC legislation had been stricken from the WRC Constitution by an earlier action of the body.

According to Mike, Dean Carmichael didn't know about the loss of her veto power.

"I learned Dean Carmichael would try to veto the new rule as being contrary to the best interests of the students," he said. "I pleaded with Charles Henderson, then Dean of Student Affairs, not to let Dean Carmichael make a statement on the situation. I was unsuccessful."

When the dispute was made public, the Administration and Student Government officials entered into negotiations. The students' plans for a more liberal law never were fully realized.

"When the negotiations began," Mike said, "the then Faculty Committee on Student Discipline heard the arguments. A great proportion of the faculty opinion on the matter was based on special facilities or the minimum amount of information. They didn't get the picture."

Mike charged former Dean Henderson with "lying, openly and blatantly" during the proceedings. "The faculty members were concerned with University relations with the State, their responsibility towards the students and maintenance of a rigid standard of moral conduct. I was concerned with modifying a rule which wasn't respected and setting a reasonable standard for a new generation of young people."

"The only argument the faculty and Administration had was the old law protects the image of the University. They knew it wasn't fulfilling its responsibility."

"One of the most shocking things that evolved during the negotiations was the disillusionment of the students with the faculty involved. The committee and the Dean showed a lack of ability to handle a touchy situation with tact."

The negotiations produced no real agreement.

THE GAG LAW

"I don't think the Gag Law will be repealed," Mike said. "I think everyone knows how the law was passed and why we are against it. It is hard to say what will happen to it, but I think it will be amended and the substance of the bill placed in the hands of the University Trustees."

"I wish I could tell what they will do."

INTEGRATION

During the past year, Mike was forced to take several actions concerning the pressing problem of civil rights in Chapel Hill.

When the question of discrimination by local merchants against University students arose, Mike, at his own admission, pondered the problem for an entire month before taking a stand. He is still being criticized for it.

"I talked with students, merchants and townspeople before urging the students to join me and stop patronizing segregated establishments."

"Merchants were discriminating on an unjust basis, not by clothing or conduct, but by color. Legally this is the merchant's right, because there has been no decision on a state or federal level which says he doesn't have it."

"However, this doesn't mean that we as students aren't morally bound to seek a solution on these grounds. We are under the strongest obligation to seek equal service for all students on campus, and a withdrawal of economic support as a means of expressing solidarity seemed a good recourse."

"A minority of people, Clark Crampton, Armistead Maupin and Borden Parker, utilized the situation and distorted it for political and personal reasons. They distorted my statement and the resolution Legislature passed."

"Whether a boycott will accomplish its purpose or not, it still must be presented as an issue to grapple with, not an emotional one to argue about."

"I favor a referendum on this problem, but I think it should be held in the fall, when the new freshmen are here and the vote will be more significant to local merchants. At that time it can be handled properly."

Mrs. Rose Kennedy To Be Here Sunday

Thousands Expected At Kenan

Mrs. Rose Kennedy, mother of the late President John F. Kennedy, will be in Chapel Hill Sunday to receive North Carolina's contribution of the Kennedy Memorial Library.

The anticipated $250,000 gift will be presented Sunday afternoon in ceremonies at Kenan Stadium. Hugh Morton of Wilmington, State Chairman of North Carolina's tribute to President Kennedy, said that Mrs. Kennedy might be accompanied by her son-in-law, Stephen E. Smith of New York, national coordinator of the Kennedy Library campaign; or by her son, Massachusetts Senator Ted Kennedy.

The University band will play for the program and the Rev. Billy Graham will deliver the tribute message. Gov. Sanford and Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges will also speak.

The names of all persons attending the tribute will be taken from ticket stubs and turned in to the Library with the cash gift from the people of the State.

A full-color movie will be made of the hour-long ceremonies for presentation to Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and to the Library—a $10 million research and leadership training facility to be built at Harvard University.

The mother of the late President visited Chapel Hill on her campaign tour in behalf of her son in the fall of 1960. She is expected to arrive by air Saturday afternoon for her second visit to Chapel Hill.

Orange County Campaign Chairman Roland Gkutz said that the local drive had more than passed the half way mark toward its goal of $2,500 from the sale of 50 tickets to the tribute program.

He said he was certain that the goal would be met. The tickets will be on sale through (Continued on Page 3)

JAPAN-AMERICA

West coast-bound students interested in international relations are urged to apply for the Japan-America Student Conference which will be held June 12 through June 17 at Reed College, Portland, Oregon.

The conference will consist of 77 Japanese delegates and 77 United States delegates. UNC has been allotted two of the 77 U.S. delegates.

Any student who is interested in the conference is urged to call Student Government, 933-1257 for information regarding the conference.

JFK Tribute Speaker Billy Graham

Moore Visits Here May 19

Gubernatorial candidate Dan Moore will visit Chapel Hill and Carrboro next Tuesday, May 19. The announcement was made by Judge Moore's Chapel Hill-Carrboro campaign chairman, R. B. Fitch Jr.

Judge Moore will begin his visit at 8:30 a.m. at the Carrboro Town Hall. From there he will walk through Carrboro and Chapel Hill as far as the Chapel Hill Post Office.

On the way, he will spend about an hour at his West Franklin Street headquarters, starting at 10 a.m., talking informally with visitors there.

All citizens are invited to meet Judge Moore at his headquarters. He has expressed a particular interest in meeting people of the Chapel Hill area because of his long association with the University. He was an undergraduate and law student here during the 1920's.

After the reception at his headquarters, Judge Moore and a group of his supporters will continue the tour of the Town.

Playmakers Present Capers On Saturday

The Carolina Playmakers will hold their annual capers and award night activities here Saturday. The once-a-year-night, in which Playmakers students have an opportunity to satirize the staff and the season, will include spoofs on all the major of the 1963-64 season. These include "Little Mary Hoo-Ha," "Long, Long, Long, Long," "The Busy Measle," "B. S.," and "The Faggot Soldier."

Curtain time for the capers is 8 p.m.; there is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.
