Students Harassed At Party; Klan Implicated

By JOEL BULKLEY
The State Bureau of Investigation has apparently ruled out any further investigation into a student beer party here Saturday night that was reportedly broken up by members of the Ku Klux Klan.

SBI agent Frank Satterfield said yesterday he had conferred with officers of the Orange County Sheriff's Office earlier this week about the incident, but added, "we're not going to do any further investigating." Satterfield indicated his conference with the Sheriff's Office was nothing but routine.

Sheriff's Office and the Chapel Hill Police Department reported they had closed their books on the matter.

Police Called
Both were called several times Saturday night and early Sunday morning to the home of UNC student Ed Kalsey and former University student Tom Brame. They were called, officers said, to investigate complaints of shooting and bottle throwing in the nearby woods. The complaints, officers said, were lodged by UNC students and townspeople attending the party at the house in the University Heights section, outside Chapel Hill near the Old Durham Road.

The callers said a group of a dozen or so unidentified men, had the house under fire from the woods, and were harassing those at the party.

Witnesses said there were at least five or six incidents of shootings, beginning at 10:30 p.m. and 2:15 a.m. The shots witnesses said, were fired into the air near the house, and were heard whistling through the nearby trees.

After the first shots were fired, witnesses said, they saw a group of men gathering about a block up the street. They said about eight to ten men were seen walking up the street away from the house. They said several were armed.

More Shots
A few minutes later, witnesses said, another round of shots was heard. The police were called, but when they arrived most of the men had disappeared. Several remained, however, witnesses said, to talk with officers from the Sheriff's Department. Two of the men later joined the party. One man, witnesses said, identified himself as a former Klansman from Durham. They said he indicated some of the other men were also KKK members.

After the police left, witnesses said, the shooting continued again and bottles and rocks were thrown at the house. They said the men in the woods were taunting them into coming out into the open.

The police were called again, witnesses said, and returned to ask those at the party to move their cars from the street and to go on home. Most of the people left, witnesses said, but several remained. Several of those who stayed were armed.

At about two o'clock, one witness said, a man approached the front door to the house and made an effort to grab a gun away from a boy who was "standing guard." They wrestled each other to the ground, with a loaded shotgun between them, the witness said.

Fighting continued, the witness said, until another person hit the man on the head. The man later fled the house.

One witness claimed a man was injured when he was hit by pellets from someone's rifle, but no one could confirm the report.

There were no other reports of injuries.

After the police arrived again, everyone left the party.

Police reported Tuesday that no warrants had been sworn out in connection with the incident, although several witnesses were reported to have identified some of the men.

Both Kalsey and Brame are moving to another house, Dean of Men William Long said yesterday. Long said he didn't have any first-hand information on the incident.

Witnesses said this was not the first incident of this kind at this house although it was the most serious. They said bricks and rocks had been thrown through the windows several times earlier this year.

Satterfield said he was not able to make any further comment on the incident.

IFC Votes 'Strict Silence' For Entire Fall Semester

By HUGH STEVENS
DTH Co-Editor

The Interfraternity Council voted overwhelmingly Monday night to enforce "strict silence" between fraternity members and prospective rushers for the entire fall semester.

The decision nullifies a "modified silence" arrangement adopted by the IFC last spring.

Under the new system, fraternity men may not converse with freshmen at any time during the semester, except for perfunctory greetings.

The restrictions will be lifted during holiday periods.

Most of the 21 fraternities which supported the move indicated their dissatisfaction with the "modified silence" plan, calling it unworkable.

The IFC also voted to allow bull pledges full house privileges, including eating and sleeping in fraternity houses, during this semester.

"Burden Lifted"—Martin
Ned Martin, IFC president, said the strict silence rule would "lift a great burden from all prospective rushers."

"A freshmen will not have to worry any longer about whether he is allowing himself to be dirty rushed," he said. "He simply cannot talk to a fraternity man at any time."

Martin indicated his feelings that the new rule would also prevent fraternity men from interfering with freshman study time.

He said that summer rush rules, under which no parties may be held in Chapel Hill or Orange County, will be enforced during vacation periods.

"This will also be the easiest type of deferred rush for the IFC to regulate," Martin said, "there is only one rule and it

Astronauts Virgil Grissom, John Young, Thomas Stafford and Walter Schirra, the four-man Gemini flight crew, are in Chapel Hill today and tomorrow for special flight training at the Morehead Planetarium.

Special simulators will be able to reproduce hypothetically the sky as it will appear on the day of launch. A tandem seat arrangement will simulate conditions inside the Gemini capsule.

Through special "windows," the astronauts will see the stars as they will appear along the planned orbital route.

Tony Jenzano, Planetarium director, stated that new simulators were made to replace the obsolete ones used for the Mercury Program.

is clear—you cannot speak to freshmen except to say hello."

Passed Overwhelmingly

The strict silence amendment to the IFC by-laws was introduced by Barry Hyman, Pi Lambda Phi president.

Hyman said the "modified silence" system placed a burden on fraternity men in interpreting the rules, and it also encouraged fraternities to spend too much time seeking out prospective rushers.

The move was opposed by Tau Epsilon Phi president David Robbins, who indicated his feeling that the freshmen would not be sufficiently exposed to the fraternity system under strict silence.

Robbins introduced a motion to impose strict silence only during the first half of the semester.

Robbins' motion was defeated, and Hyman's proposal passed overwhelmingly. Hyman was supported by remarks from representatives of Delta Upsilon, Sigma Nu, Kappa Sigma, and Phi Delta Theta.

Fall Rush Period

The IFC will hold a Fall Rush period next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday for all UNC transfer students and all regular students with an overall "C" (2.0) average.

Preference cards for the rush period may be picked up in the Dean of Men's office during the remainder of the week.

Sophomore, junior, and senior transfers interested in fraternities are eligible for rush. No UNC student who has less than a 2.0 average may participate.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Warren Commission report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy will be released for use by news media at 5:30 p.m. EST Sunday, the White House announced Tuesday.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, and the six other members of the Presidential Investigating Commission created nearly 10 months

House To Study Justice Dept.

WASHINGTON (AP)—An investigation of the Justice Department, requested by the Teamsters Union for its president, James R. Hoffa, was ordered Tuesday by the House Judiciary Committee.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., who opposed it, said "This might be called the Hoffa Resolution. Nobody asked for the investigation except those involved with the Teamsters Union."

It was offered by Rep. William M. McCulloch, R-Ohio, as a substitute for a resolution specifically directing an investigation of Hoffa's conviction on jury-tampering charges in Chattanooga, Tenn. That case is now on appeal.

Jury Blasts Trip 'Conspiracy'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal grand jury in Brooklyn, N. Y., indicted two women and seven men Tuesday on charges of conspiring to organize and promote an illegal trip to Cuba by 84 Americans in July and August.

Two defendants — Lee Levi Laub, 25, and Phillip A. Luce, 27 — are already under indictment on similar charges in connection with a trip to Cuba last summer.

None of the nine completed the trip to Cuba this year.

The indictment charged that they conspired "to induce, recruit and arrange for a number of American citizens to depart from the United States for the Republic of Cuba, that republic being a place outside of the United States for which a valid passport is required."

'Young Citizens For LBJ' Open Orange Headquarters

Young Citizens for Johnson and Humphrey opened Orange County headquarters Monday.

UNC student Vance Barron, an official of the organization, said Young Citizens is a bipartisan group which includes "lots of independent Republicans."

Chairman Roy Sparrow estimated that 400 UNC students have expressed interest in working for the group.

"We are just as much interested in saving the Republican Party from an extremist faction as we are in getting President Johnson re-elected," Sparrow said.

Young Citizens will open its drive to bolster local Johnson-Humphrey support with an extensive voter registration campaign.

Also planned are such election day activities as babysitting for voters, free transportation to the polls and an extensive telephone campaign.

Young Citizens headquarters is on Franklin Street in an office over the Intimate Bookshop. Office hours are from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Interested persons should call Young Citizens headquarters by contacting telephone information.

To Receive $30,000

Friday To Get $6,000 Increase

By FRED SEELY
DTH Co-Editor

President William C. Friday will no longer be fourth man on the financial totem pole.

The Consolidated University head will receive a salary boost of $6,000, retroactive to Sept. 1, which will bring his salary to $30,000, higher than the three chancellors under him.

The raise was revealed yesterday morning to newsmen at a press breakfast by Gov. Terry Sanford, who added the raise had been decided upon in August.

Later in the day, the governor's office released a statement saying the additional pay had come from the state's "overhead funds, cash which had been appropriated in the past but never used."

'Appropriate Lever'
"The understanding at the time," the statement continued, "was that the president's salary would then be set at an appropriate level above that of the chancellors."

Friday had been making less than Chancellors Paul Sharp of UNC, Otis Singletary of UNC and John Caldwell of State.

The chancellors' salaries were raised when Sharp was negotiating with UNC this summer. The UNC salary was upped from the $23,000 Chancellor William B. Aycock was receiving in preparation for the former Hiram College president to Chapel Hill.

A spokesman for the governor's office said yesterday the delay in the announcement of Friday's raise was due "to several factors."

"The proposal had been acted upon in August, but the final paperwork had not yet been done. When it was revealed Saturday that the president was receiving less than the chancellors, the final work was hurried so as to get it done as soon as possible."

Plans Disrupted
The spokesman said it was originally intended that the salary raises for the four would be announced at the same time, but that newsmen had found out the pay boost for the three chancellors had already gone into effect and revealed the difference.

Sharp still makes more than Singletary and Caldwell, who received raises to $27,000.

Most North Carolina newspapers reacted angrily after it was revealed Friday was making less than men under him, and Trustee Watts Hill called the former wage "a bot-boy's salary."

There have been rumors in the past two months that the educators would receive pay raises, but none were announced until this weekend. There is already speculation that a move will be made in the 1965 General Assembly to raise the governor's salary, with possibilities that other state workers would also get more money.

Moore Pledges
Democratic gubernatorial candidate Dan K. Moore has pledged he will work to raise all state employees' salaries by 10 percent.

Administration officials had given no indication that Friday's salary would be raised so soon.

State Director of Administration Hugh Cannon said Monday Friday had sought higher pay for the chancellors and did not make an issue of his own earnings.

Cannon added that "no doubt Friday's salary will ultimately be raised above those of the chancellors."

Sharp Gives First Address On Oct. 12

Chancellor Paul F. Sharp will make his first major address since taking office at UNC during the annual University Day observance here Oct. 12.

Faculty, students, alumni and friends of the University will attend a convocation at 11 a.m. Oct. 12 in Memorial Hall for the founder's day observance. It will mark the 171st birthday of UNC.

Three honorary degrees will be awarded during the ceremonies. Names of the recipients are customarily withheld until time of the ceremonies.

Reports reaching the Daily Tar Heel indicate that a high cabinet official may be awarded an honorary degree.

Faculty members will march in academic procession from the Old Well into Memorial Hall just prior to the ceremonies. The University Band and Glee Club will provide music.

President William C. Friday, Governor Terry Sanford and others will participate in the program. Dean of the Faculty James L. Godfrey is in charge of the event.

A reception for Chancellor and Mrs. Sharp will be held Monday in Woolen Gymnasium. Faculty, townspeople and other friends of the University will attend.

University Day activities are an annual feature of the autumn program at Chapel Hill. It is a traditional observance of the laying of the cornerstone of the Old East Building, the oldest state university structure in the nation.

UNC was the first state university in the United States to open its doors to students.
