Sharp, Cathey Against Rule

Discriminatory Housing Law May Be Repealed Monday

By FRED SEELY
And HUGH STEVENS
DTH Editors
A University pro-segregation housing rule apparently will be repealed Monday.
Dean of Student Affairs C. O. Cathey said yesterday he will propose repeal of the rule, which states "insofar as possible, initial room assignments will be made according to race." The rule went into effect Oct. 13, 1963.
Chancellor Paul F. Sharp apparently did not know of the rule, and said he would do everything possible to gain repeal. It will be considered at the Chancellor's cabinet at 9 a.m. Monday.

The rule was not publicly acknowledged until it was confirmed by Dean Cathey yesterday to Student Body President Bob Spearman and the Daily Tar Heel.
"The rule was put into effect because of the great number of parents who might complain of their son or daughter being placed with a person not of their race," he said.
A Negro student had complained of the segregation to Spearman and the DTH Monday, and student leaders made a spot-check of several dorms Tuesday night.

All-Negro Rooms
It was discovered that in many instances rooms were occupied only by Negroes, especially in the Lower Quad.
Also, there were several complaints from Negro and white students who had asked to be allowed to room together, yet had been given separate housing.
Dean Cathey confirmed a report that parents had to approve any request by their son or daughter to live with a person of a different race.

A mimeographed form has been sent to all such parents informing them that their child wished to room with a Negro or white student, and the housing office was ordered to split up students who did not obtain parental permission.
The policy of the University in the past few years has been to assign initial room assignments without regard to race, and allow anyone who was dissatisfied to move. Last year only one complaint was made by a student, and he was moved immediately.
Dean Cathey also confirmed that Negro housing slips on file in the Housing Office were marked "N", and that a room having a vacancy would have a blue tab affixed to it if an occupant was a Negro.

Meet With Sharp
Spearman, Student Body Vice-President Don Carson and the editors of the DTH met with Chancellor Sharp late yesterday afternoon to tell him of the rule now in effect.
Expressing surprise that such a rule was in effect, Sharp said he "would fully support repeal."

"A thing like this puts us right back where we were, and does absolutely no good to the students or the University," he added.
"We have to go slowly in correcting this. It is a regressive law, and it will take some time to adjust to the change."
Neither had any immediate ideas as to what could be done about the situation.

"I will appear before the Chancellor's cabinet meeting on Monday morning, September 28, to urge that the University immediately adopt non-discriminatory procedures in the housing of students and the use of special permission forms be immediately discontinued."

"I feel that the current housing policy is fundamentally unjust and that it is totally inconsistent with the values which the university hopes to promote. Students should have free choice in the selection of their roommates. The University should not act as an agent requiring or promoting racial discrimination."
"In the past two days I have discussed this problem with a number of University officials," Spearman continued. "I have been assured by the Dean of Student Affairs, Dr. C. O. Cathey, that he supports a change of policy so that future housing assignments will be made without regard to race."

"I will appear before the Chancellor's cabinet meeting on Monday morning, September 28, to urge that the University immediately adopt non-discriminatory procedures in the housing of students and the use of special permission forms be immediately discontinued."

Spearman Addresses UP Meeting Tonight

Student Body President Bob Spearman will give a brief speech on Student Government and the University Party at a UP meeting tonight at 7:30 in Gerrard Hall.

Highlighting the program will be a panel discussion of Student Government and student parties. The panel will accept questions from the floor.

The panel will be composed of Spearman, Student Body Vice-President Don Carson, party chairman Jeff Adams, and Student Body Treasurer Jim Light.

"This will be primarily an organizational meeting," Adams said.
The party will also discuss several formal resolutions which will be introduced from the floor.

Join Parties, Harriss Urges

Former Student Body President Bill Harriss urged all UNC students to join a campus political party in an address before approximately 150 Student Party members and guests Tuesday night in Peabody Hall.

Describing student political parties as organizations in which one can become familiar with campus issues, Harriss said, "There is a lot to learn and a lot to gain from discussion of the University's problems."
Harriss cited the decrease in number of students willing to participate in student government in recent years.

Besides the opportunity for forensic development, Harriss said, "the experience and education of campaigning is an important part of party experience."
Turning his remarks along party lines, Harriss urged new students at the University to join the Student Party.

In an apparent attack on University Party organization, Harriss said, "Here, you're an individual. Party decisions are not made by an executive committee but in open discussion at open meetings."
The party issued its official welcome to Chancellor Sharp at the meeting.

After a statement by Representative Don Wilson on the difficulty of students getting into student section of Kenan Stadium for the Carolina-State game, the party agreed to investigate the problem and seek a possible solution.

The next meeting was set for 8 p.m. Sunday. At that time the party will fill legislative vacancies in Mens' District I (area outside the Chapel Hill-Carrboro city limits), Men's District X (Ehringhaus), Women's District II (Alderman, Kenan, and McIver), and Women's District V (Cobb).

Trio Charged With Attack At Party

All Are Released On Bond

Three Chapel Hill men have been arrested, one of them on two charges, in connection with an incident at an integrated student party here last Saturday. The party was reportedly broken up by members of the Ku Klux Klan.

Chapel Hill Police Chief William Blake said warrants charging William Earl White with burglary and resisting arrest and Tommy White and Earl Hoisclaw with assault on an officer were served by Orange County Deputy Sheriffs yesterday morning.

All three, Blake said, have been released on bond pending trial Tuesday in Chapel Hill Recorder's Court. William White is free on $500 bond, while the others are free on $200 bond each.

Warrants were sworn out Tuesday afternoon in Hillsboro, one by Joel Edwin Causey, a UNC senior from Southern Pines and one of the occupants of the house where the party took place, and three by Hugh Wilson, constable of Bingham Township in Chapel Hill.

Wilson said he intended to swear out another warrant against Peter Rashkis of Chapel Hill for reckless driving and assault with a deadly weapon.

About 75 University students and townspeople attended the party on Route 2, University Heights Saturday night and reported they were repeatedly harassed by a group of about 18 unidentified men. Witnesses said the men were firing rifles and shotguns from the woods nearby. They also said bottles and bricks were thrown at the house.

Chapel Hill Police, Sheriff's Deputies, and UNC Security Officer Arthur Beaumont were called to the party. But friction between the party and its attackers flared again whenever officers left.

Causey said it was William White's entering the house and his flight that formed the basis for the warrants against him. Burglary is defined as breaking and entering the dwelling of another person at night with the intent of committing a felony therein.

Wilson said he charged Hoisclaw and Tommy White with assault because they struck him while he was leaving in his pickup truck after police arrived at about 2:45 a.m. Sunday.
Wilson also charged William White with resisting arrest.

Times Office Is Bustling; Sign-Up Deadline Extended

By JOEL BULKLEY
Chapel Hill's distribution office of the New York Times was bustling with activity yesterday afternoon despite rumors that the delivery service would be closed down.

Enterprising Chris Wright, 20-year-old UNC student and manager of the office, said the subscription deadline, originally set for next week, has been extended until Oct. 22 in an effort to solicit more subscriptions. Delivery service is now scheduled to begin Oct. 28, one month later than planned.

Wright, disappointed with the number of subscriptions solicited so far from the Times' first student delivery point in the South, said unless the subscription business showed a great increase the delivery service would be cancelled.

About 200 daily and 250 Sunday subscriptions have been sold so far, he said, and more are coming in at a rate of about a dozen a day.

He added, however, that unless 1,200 subscriptions were received it would be a "losing proposition." At our present level, we would lose roughly $100 a week. Subscription rates are eight cents a day for the daily paper, and fifty cents for the Sunday issue.

Delivery A Problem
"Our biggest problem," Wright conceded, "will be delivery. Our subscribers are all over the campus and the Town." Delivery is expected to be finished by 2 p.m. on weekdays and 11 a.m. Sunday, he added.

The papers are to be flown to Washington and then bussed to Chapel Hill.
"It's still a tremendous potential market," he said, adding that once the delivery service began it would probably increase at a rapid rate.

Maryland Tickets
Athletic Business Manager Vernon Crook has announced that there are 450 student tickets left for the Oyster Bowl game against Maryland at Norfolk, Va., on Oct. 17.
All students planning to attend the game are urged to purchase their tickets NOW because all tickets not sold before Oct. 5 will be returned.

Legislature Postponed
Student Legislature will not meet tonight as scheduled. The meeting has been postponed until Thursday, Oct. 1.
Speaker Don Carson said the postponement was required by Student Government by laws, which state that the Legislature may not meet during the first week of school.

Rusk To Receive Honorary Degree
Secretary of State Dean Rusk is expected to deliver a major U.S. foreign policy speech here Oct. 12.
Rusk's topic could not be learned at this time, but it is expected that the address will deal with a major area of concern in U.S. foreign policy. He will be here for UNC's annual University Day celebration.

He will be awarded an honorary degree during the ceremonies, one of three to be presented at that time.

The address will be delivered in Memorial Hall at 11 a.m. on Oct. 12. A formal academic procession, complete with caps and gowns worn by the faculty, will form at the Old Well and march to Memorial. A reception will be held in Woolen Gym afterward.

Rusk's appearance here was planned for some time last year, but was canceled after his schedule developed a conflict.

His visit and the awarding of the honorary degree follows by exactly three years the late President John F. Kennedy's address at University Day ceremonies held in Kenan Stadium. At that time, President William C. Friday awarded President Kennedy and Gov. Terry Sanford honorary degrees of Doctor of Law.

Rusk was appointed by President Kennedy as Secretary of State to succeed Christian Herter. He has served since that time under President Kennedy and President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Rusk served as Undersecretary of State under Dean Acheson during the administration of former President Harry S. Truman.

He is a native of Georgia, where he was schooled. Among his teachers was Kenan Professor Emeritus of Greek, Dr. Preston H. Epps of Chapel Hill.

He attended Davidson College, graduating Phi Beta Kappa.

He received two degrees as a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University, England.

Purses Found
Two pocketbooks thought stolen over the weekend at a DKE fraternity party were recovered yesterday by Chapel Hill police.
Police said one pocketbook was found in the Chapel Hill High School playground and the other in a yard of a home on Colony Court. Police used UNC ID cards to identify the pocketbooks as belonging to Cynthia F. Craven and Katybird Hansen.

Last year's Student Directory listed Miss Craven as a junior from Lakeland, Fla. Police said Miss Hansen now attends Randolph-Macon College.

Reserve Course
Naval Reserve Officers in the Chapel Hill-Durham area can earn promotion and retirement credit through participation in the Naval Reserve Officers School. Meetings are held each Monday evening at 8 at the NR-OTC Armory on S. Columbia St.

Around The Campus
in Chapel Hill. Classes will continue through June, 1965.
Lt. Cmdr. Robert B. Midgette, head of the Chapel Hill division of NROS, said that the program is designed to give Naval Reserve officers, regardless of specialty, an opportunity to improve their proficiency and capabilities as Naval officers.

Completion of an NROS course credits an officer with 24 promotion points and a year of satisfactory federal service for retirement purposes. Among the 35 participants in the program are aviators, physicians, legal specialists and supply corps officers as well as line officers.

The faculty includes Lt. Cmdr. Myron C. Banks, Chief Postal Clerk W. Frank Pendergraft, and Chief Commissaryman Alfred S. Stephens.

Firemen, Enginemen Vote To Strike
The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen announced today an "overwhelming" vote for strike action in a wage dispute with the nation's railroads.

H. E. Gilbert, BLF&E president, said the vote was more than 99 percent in favor of a strike. He said the union would be free to strike on or after Sept. 25.

Under the Railway Labor Act, President Johnson can appoint an emergency board to report on the dispute and delay any strike action at least 60 days.

Workshop Meets Oct. 2

UNC Opera Workshop will hold its first meeting of the year at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 2 in Hill Music Hall.

Singers who are interested in performing with the workshop may audition for membership at that time.

"An opera workshop requires the services of many interested persons," said director Wilton Mason. "We will be happy to see not only singers interested in starring roles but also those who wish to be chorus members and spear-bearers."

"We will need technical helpers, costumers, scene designers, lighting assistants, and the like. They need only have an interest in opera and in what we are trying to do in these productions," he said.

Singers who wish to audition should bring an operatic or musical comedy selection which they think displays their voice. An accompanist will be available.

The first production scheduled for this year will be Puccini's masterpiece "La Boheme."

FCA MEETING

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) will have its first meeting on Thursday, Sept. 24 in 304 Woolen Gym at eight o'clock. All interested persons are urged to attend.

Gemini Flight Crew In Training Here

By KERRY SIPE
More Room
"There is considerably more room in the Gemini capsule than we had in the Mercury ship," said Young. "We have much greater freedom of movement."

Still, their view will go through a window less than six inches square. Consequently recognition of star positions must be immediate and accurate at all odds.

Grissom will make all command decisions during the three-orbit flights and will do most of the manual guiding of the ship.

"There'll be plenty to keep us both busy," said Young.

The two man team will run tests of almost every control system in the capsule.

"We'll run tests on food and water consumption, communications systems, flight control systems, attitude control and a thousand and one other things," said Young.

"Actually the duties are pretty well divided between Gus and me."
This is the third trip to Chapel Hill for Grissom and the fourth for Young on similar training missions.
"There are a number of places in the country where these sessions could be held," said Grissom. "But the people here have always given us a great job. They put together this whole set-up with only one week's notice."
