NSA Publicity Bill Sent To Committee

By JOHN GREENBACKER
DTH Staff Writer

A bill requiring the NSA Coordinator on campus to submit monthly reports on NSA activities to the Daily Tar Heel was sent back to committee by a vote of 21 to 18 by Student Legislature, Thursday night.

Recommittal of the measure came after the body was read a statement by NSA Coordinator Neal Jackson, who criticized the bill for ambiguities in its text and the lack of notification he had about it.

Introduction of the bill came on the wake of the NSA-UNC affiliation battle on campus, during which NSA was criticized for not offering substantial benefits to the student body for the money spent for affiliation.

Citing several articles on the activities of NSA which weren't printed by the DTH, Jackson said in his letter, "I can see no reason for my writing a news story which has only a one-in-three chance of ever being printed."

Jackson quoted a section of the Student Legislature by-laws in his message to the body which suggested that the introducer of a bill consult the head of the organization whose structure or policy might be altered by the measure before submitting it to the Legislature.

Jim Little (SP), author of the bill, told the body, "NSA has not been publicized in the past, and this is the only way the students will be able to tell whether NSA is any good to them."

"I'm sorry Mr. Jackson was left in the dark about this bill," Little added, "but I'm even more sorry that the students have been left in the dark about NSA."

University Party Floor Leader Mal King said, "NSA should be publicized, but Neal Jackson should have been notified before this bill was introduced."

The vote of the body sent the bill back to the Ways and Means Committee for further study and modification.

The Legislature also appropriated money for a loan to establish the freshman class treasury, for the salaries of secretaries in the Attorney General's office, and for unforeseen expenses that have occurred in the Columbian Exchange Program.

A bill to increase the size of the Orientation Reform Committee and direct its investigation of orientation was passed.

A resolution calling for the establishment of a U. S. Post Office on campus was passed by the body after King, its introducer, explained the University wanted an indication of student opinion on the matter.

Student Party Legislators absent from Thursday's session were Jim Brame, Paul Dickson and Chuck Neely.

University Party Legislators absent were Shery Stanley and Frank Willingham.

Independent legislator Lewis Burton was absent.

Boozin' May Cause Hemochromatosis

The use of alcoholic beverages may be related to hemochromatosis, a professor of medicine at the University of Pittsburgh said here Friday.

Dr. Wallace N. Jensen said the disease causes skin discoloration, liver infection, diabetes and an excess of iron in certain areas of the body.

He was speaking at symposium on diseases of the blood.

Craige Wins Best Over All In '64 'Beat Dook' Parade

The biggest Carolina football of the season was officially kicked off yesterday with the annual Pi Kappa Alpha "Beat Dook" Parade.

Betsy Ross, a junior from Concord, as queen of the festivities, reigned over the celebration as it marched from Woollen Gym down Franklin Street. Her court, Denni Saunders of Kappa Delta; Pam Hooper of Phi Gamma Delta; Zackie Murphy of Delta Delta Delta; and Karen Gibbons of Phi Kappa Sigma rode on a float close behind her.

Of the 25 floats entered in the parade competition, five were chosen by judges as best.

Craige Residence Hall won the trophy for "Best All Over" with the largest and most colorful float. Ehringhaus won the Men's Residence Hall division with a float depicting a Roman gladiatorial bout. The Fraternity Men's division was won by Phi Gamma Delta.

Alpha Delta Pi Sorority won the Sorority competition with a tissue paper caterpillar chasing an apple. The float with "the most original thought" was a large tank sponsored by Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The Women's Residence Hall category had no entries. The

4 Newsmen Needed By Campus Station

WUNC-TV needs four newsmen—two to edit wire copy and deliver two daily newscasts, and two announcers.

One of the newscasters is needed for the noon broadcast and would work 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Friday. The other would do the evening newscast and work 4 to 6:15 p.m.

Students interested in any position should contact Mrs. White, 214 Swain Hall, for an interview appointment and audition schedule.

"most original thought" award was given instead of the Women's division.

Judges for the parade competition were Charles Bernard, UNC Director of Admissions and Joy Hartzog from the office of the dean of women.

Don Bumgardner, marshal for the parade said, "PiKA wants to thank everyone for their help, especially the judges and Tex McGill who loaned us motorcycles so that we could get the parade organized."

After the parade there was a pep rally led by the cheerleaders in the middle of Franklin Street.

The parade kicked off Germans weekend and Beat Dook time. Last night The Brothers Four and Ian and Sylvia performed in Memorial Hall for the Germans-sponsored folk-singing concert.

"Beat Dook" spirit will get in full swing today at the game at 1:30 p.m. in Kenan Stadium.

Arch Rivals Square Off For 'The Game' — Grrr

By PETE GAMMONS
DTH Asst. Sports Editor

The up-and-down Tar Heels have finally come to that game which can atone for all the disappointments of a mediocre season.

It's the Big Game—the Dook game.

A capacity crowd of over 45,000 and an additional audience via regional television will watch this 50th meeting of the Blue Devils and the Tar Heels.

The two arch rivals met on the gridiron for the first time in 1838. Since then Duke holds a slight 25-21-3 lead over the Tar Heels, and have outscored the Heels 568-549.

However, Carolina Coach Jim Hickey has a 3-2 record against Duke, and the two losses came by scores of 6-3 and 16-14. Blue Devil Coach Bill Murray has a 9-4 mark against Carolina since taking over in 1951.

The Tar Heels enter the game with a 4-5 mark while the Blue Devils have a 4-3-1 record.

The last four games have been decided by a boot. In 1960 Bob Elliott's extra point gave the Heels a 7-6 win; in 1961 and '62 Duke's Billy Reynolds kicked last minute field goals to top the Tar Heels 6-3 and 16-14; of course no one around Chapel Hill could forget Max Chapman's dramatic 41-yard field goal to win 16-14.

In case you forgot, in 1959 the Tar Heels won, 50-0.

This year both teams have had disappointing seasons. The Blue Devils were picked as ACC co-favorites mainly due to the sensational sophomore performance last year of Scotty Glacken. But erratic performances by everyone on the team have led to three straight losses and a 4-3-1 record.

Both squads can move the ball. The Blue Devils ride with a well-balanced attack led on the ground by fullback Mike Curtis and halfback Sonny Odum, while

Men's Council Gives Two Suspensions

Two men were suspended and three Men's Council trials Thursday.

A sophomore was given a court reprimand for striking a University employee. The student was rushing to see a doctor and was somewhat drunk at the time.

The Council ruled that the action was unintentional, but that the defendant might have avoided the incident had he been in better control of himself. The action was taken as being not very serious.

Two freshmen were placed on two-semester probation for collaborating on a take-home quiz. There was some question in the trial as to how specific the teacher's instructions had been when passing out the quiz.

The Council decided that the men should have known they were not to work together both from the teacher's telling them so and from the fact that they pledged their papers when they turned them in.

They were not suspended, however, due to the fact that they are freshmen and had not understood their responsibilities.

In the longest case of the evening, three students were charged with breaking and entering, a Campus Code offense, and two of them were charged with lying to the Dean of Men about their actions.

The trio entered a classroom through the window at night and were caught by the Dean of Men. One made a hasty exit before the dean entered.

The other two made up stories for a few minutes, then admitted what they had done. The third later turned himself in.

All three pleaded guilty. The Council suspended the two who had lied and placed the third on one semester probation.

The probation sentence is normal for cases involving breaking and entering.

Ehringhaus Still Leads The 'Uglies'

Late returns in the Ugly Man on Campus contest will be announced at the football game today.

Leading in the balloting yesterday was still Frank "Honeybun" Hodges of Ehringhaus, with Bob Payton—"The P-T-A Pog"—a close second.

Other leaders are Pat Feagan—"The Aycock Aardwolf," Mike Siwik—"The Mangum Pacifist" and Charlie Gowen—"Rogah's Ratfink."

Over $125 has been collected from the penny balloting and entry fees, but late sealed bids are expected to raise the total as high as $500, a large increase over last year's $200 total.

Proceeds from the contest, which is sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity, will be contributed to Project Hope. Project Hope is the hospital ship which travels to foreign countries, treating the world's sick.

The contest closes Wednesday. Winners will be announced Dec. 10 at the UNC-Tulane basketball game.

Glacken is the passer. The Tar Heels supposedly are cooking up something such as the shotgun formation which Navy utilized so well last week against the Devils. Whether they do or not All-American candidate Ken Willard will be the big running threat with the combination of Gary Black to Ronnie Jackson the feature of the passing game.

JAPANESE STUDENTS

Three UNC students from Japan will present a film and talk on Japanese art at 3 p.m. Sunday in 115 Ackland Art Center. The three have been visiting colleges in the United States since September to familiarize American students with Japanese culture.
