

Wrestlers Win Two In Season's Openers

By PETER GAMMONS
Ass't. Sports Editor

The UNC wrestlers got off to a good start Wednesday night by sweeping a doubleheader against Pfeiffer and St. Andrews, 15-14 and 21-13 respectively.

Heroes of the Pfeiffer win were Roger Oxford (167) and Bill Johnson (hw), whose pins brought the Heels back from a 9-point deficit and gave them the 15-14 victory.

Roy Hagerty (147) was the other UNC winner in that match while Elliot Dworin (177) fought to a draw.

Pins by Bill Cook (147), Wayne Verleden (157) and Dworin (wrestling in both matches because of a shortage at 177) highlighted the St. Andrews victory. Tom Spencer (177) and Jim Goodwin (137) won by decision. Coach Sam Barnes said that "it is always good to win, although we didn't look good. Unless something happens between now and Saturday we are going to have real trouble with Virginia." Barnes was surprised by the manner in which Carolina won. He had expected to roll up points early in the lighter weights, then try to hold on. However, exactly the reverse happened.

"We kept fighting and never gave up, and even the boys who lost did their best. Their A-plus effort couldn't have been better."

"We may be better than we looked since, however, we didn't fight our match."

The Virginia match will be preceded by a freshman match when Grover Wilhoit's team will get its first chance of the year.

Lewis, Billy Honored By Publication

Carolina's fabulous twosome, Billy Cunningham and Bobby Lewis, have come in for another pre-season honor.

The January Sport magazine selected Billy the Kid on their third All-American team, and selected Lewis on their first all-Sophomore team.

The monthly magazine realizes that they may be slighting Cunningham, an All-American last year. They clarify their choice somewhat by saying, "Cunningham, a superior ball-player for two years, merits consideration for a first-team berth. But Sport places him on the third team because it's uncertain whether he will recover fully from a broken ankle sustained in August."

Then they add, "Billy stands out immediately because of his incredible jumping ability. But there's more to the slim kid from Brooklyn than mere bounce. He's a good shooter and the type of driver who'll hit off-balance shots and give you good second effort."

"Claire Bee, former Long Island University coach, watched Cunningham against NYU last season and then said, 'Cunningham would be my number one pick for the pros right now. He's a terror on offense and he plays great defense. He can rebound.'"

About Lewis, the publication says, "Lewis, a fine leaper and fine playmaker, is an extraordinary shooter."

Ian Morrison, the sophomore guard who broke the Clemson game open Tuesday night, was also listed as one of the top soph in the nation.

Everett Edges Law School

By BILL LEE
DTH Sports Writer

The Everett Rogans pulled themselves from the brink of defeat to score in the last 15 seconds of the game and beat the Law School Barristers 30-25 in the all-campus football semifinals.

The winning TD by Jim Hugschmidt came on the kickoff after the Law School had scored to go ahead 25-24, with 30 seconds left on the clock.

Jackson Tops Receivers

GREENSBORO (AP)—Going into the fifth game of the football season, North Carolina senior flankerback Ronnie Jackson had caught just nine passes in his previous 15 games—carrying over through the entire, 11-game '63 campaign.

In his final six outings of the season just completed, the swift little Tar Heel grabbed 31 passes for 484 yards and four touchdowns in the process capturing the Atlantic Coast Conference pass receiving championship.

Jackson's final total showed 34 catches for 512 yards and five TDs, but his last six alone would have given him the season pass-catching title in the ACC.

Final ACC Service Bureau figures show another flankerback, John Pincavage of Virginia, in hottest pursuit of Jackson, with 30 receptions.

Ends Rich Cameron of Wake Forest and Jim Scott of Duke tied for third with 29 each, but another flankerback, North Carolina's Ken Willard, was fifth with 24 as three of the first five places went to halfbacks.

Jackson made a clean sweep of the receiving laurels. In addition to leading in number of catches, he also had the most yardage gained on receptions 512, the most TD catches and the best average gain per reception, 15.1 yards.

Scott was second in TD passes caught with four and halfback Joe Carazo of Wake Forest, with 22 receptions to tie for the No. 6 spot, had the second best average gain per reception, 13.7 yards to Scott's 13.4.

Brian Piccolo of Wake Forest easily captured the rushing championship with his record-smashing 1,044 yards in 10 games. Bo Hickey of Maryland was second with 894 yards and Ken Willard of North Carolina third with 835. Hal Davis of Clemson had the best rushing average, 6.1 yards a try. He finished fourth in total yardage with 533.

Wake Hurt By Graduation

By RICHARD MILLS
Old Gold and Black
Wake Forest College

There are three pairs of shoes sitting in the equipment room that won't be filled this year, but they might be needed as the Wake Forest basketball team begins its 1964-65 season.

The Demon Deacons are without the services of the former wearers of those shoes, tri-captains, Frank Christie, Butch Hassell, and Richard Carmichael—all of whom were starters for the ACC runners-up of Coach Horace "Bones" McKinney.

There are six lettermen with whom Bones can build this year and eight sophomores as well as two returning junior non-lettermen. The squad lists six forwards, two centers, and eight guards.

With four conference games in the first six, there will be little time for experimentation. Coach McKinney has narrowed his starting choices to six. He will alternate sophomores Jim Boshart and Jim Altengarten at a forward spot, giving each of them an opportunity to nail the post down.

The other forward is Richard Herring. The center is Rommy Watts and the two guards are Bob Leonard and John Anderson. Anderson, Watts, and Herring are seniors.

No Prayers Needed

Coach McKinney, who is also an ordained Baptist minister, has been suspected of mixing prayers with his plays on offense. But there will be no need for that this season if speed has anything to do with it. "We are faster than any club I have had in a long time. This will be a fast break team. We will run, throw it around a little, and shoot—but fast."

Shooting is no problem according to Bones, but his losses were heavy in that department. In Christie, the team had a player who could drive, hook from the pivot, and jump-shoot with equal ability. Hassell had the deadliest jump-shot on the team and a passing knack that set up many scoring plays. Carmichael was a hot and cold player, but his "on" days won many a ball game. Together, the threesome accounted for 1091 points, well over half of the total Deacon output.

Scoring this season will be more evenly balanced. The forwards are stepping into starting positions for the first time, but both are excellent from the outside. Herring has the moves of a big man and can shoot over anyone although he is only 6-5. Altengarten and Boshart excelled as freshmen and both can make their own scoring opportunities.

ACC Basketball

(Fourth of a Series)

There is no change in the center position, but there will be improvement. Watts' shooting is noticeably improved and unbelievably better than his gawky freshman days. At guard, there should be no shortage of accuracy. Leonard hit at a 47.5 clip last season despite a bad start and Anderson's precarious one-handed shot has steadied immeasurably.

In the rebounding department, the number two man in the ACC returns in Watts. The forwards must prove themselves, but all of them have the size and ability. Leonard, despite his 6-2 frame, is one of the best rebounders in the league.

No Major Changes

There will be no drastic changes in the McKinney system, despite the departure of
