

CH Planning Board Rejects Fraternity Zoning Extension

The Town Planning Board Tuesday night rejected extension of fraternity zoning along Pittsboro Street, between McCauley and Vance Streets, and approved a rezoning request by University sociology professor S. H. Hobbs Jr. The Aldermen will consider both items at their meeting next week.

Hobbs requested rezoning from RA-10 to the fraternity zone of RA-10A for his property at 311 Pittsboro Street. Hobbs had said he intends to sell his property to the Kappa Si professional pharmacy fraternity. His property, however, does not qualify for a special use permit needed for a fraternity. The matter of a special use permit was only briefly discussed by the Planners.

Attorney John Manning, representing Hobbs, told the planners that Hobbs realized a special use permit was required for a fraternity, but added that the rezoning would "open up the possibility of selling the property." Hobbs had told a public hearing last month that he had tried unsuccessfully for seven years to find a buyer for the property.

Mrs. Dana Phipps Ray, daughter of Recorder's Court Judge L. J. Phipps voiced the only objection to the request. Mrs. Ray said she and her parents objected to having a fraternity house or boarding house (also permitted in the RA-10A zone) next door. She said this would cause property values to drop.

Planning Board chairman Ross

Stassen Speaks Today At Duke

Former Minnesota Governor Harold E. Stassen will discuss "Disarmament after the Test Ban Treaty" at 10 a.m. today at Duke Law School.

The address, sponsored by the Duke International Law Society, is open to the public.

A question and answer period will follow.

Stassen was a member of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations organizational meeting in San Francisco in 1945.

He has since served as deputy representative of the U. S. to the U. N. Disarmament Commission.

Seroggs broke a 3-3 tie in favor of the rezoning.

The Board took a uniform position on the request for extension of fraternity zoning in the Pittsboro Street area, voting 6-0 against it.

Strong opposition had been voiced at the public hearing in November against the proposal. Objections had come from property owners involved and residents of nearby homes.

Several residents expressed their objections last night, saying that the rezoning would constitute "creeping zoning," and ruin the neighborhood.

Seroggs said long-range plans for the University called for the University to acquire property along Pittsboro Street for expansion of the Health Affairs complex.

The Planners also approved a final plat for a subdivision in Lake Forest Estates, and briefly discussed possible apartment zoning for Chapel Hill.

Strong said he has heard rumors of card-trading, but "no one has brought me any instance of it. If it is being done, it is done without our knowledge or permission."

Courses Closing 'All The Time'

By MARTHA TEMPLE

"It's closed out? Oh, no!"

And so the pangs of pre-registration continue.

Ray Strong, director of the Office of Records and Registration said yesterday that 43 courses out of 3,000 sections were closed by late afternoon. "More are closing all the time," he added.

The number of courses which were filled early this year is greater than ever.

"This is because an increasing number of students—the 'war babies'—are getting to the sophomore and junior level. The courses are closed simply because the departments don't have the professors to teach them," Strong said.

"Tickets have been set up for 100,000 places in classes and we usually use about 75,000 of them," he said.

The first courses to be closed were in political science. There are 339 undergraduates in political science this year. Business courses take second place.

"It may be that a lot of the 'crib' courses were closed early," Strong said. "That doesn't concern me much. There are plenty of courses students can take in their majors. That's the important thing."

He said his office feels seniors ought to have priority. "We go to a lot of trouble to fix this. It's harder for us, but the students are satisfied with it."

Strong said he has heard rumors of card-trading, but "no one has brought me any instance of it. If it is being done, it is done without our knowledge or permission."

Yule Concert Set Sunday In Hill Hall

Everyone in the Chapel Hill community is invited to recapture the magic of real Christmas feeling Sunday at 3 p.m.

Music for Children, Inc., a community organization, is presenting an old-fashioned Christmas Carol concert Sunday in Hill Hall.

The Bell Ringers' Choir of Durham and the Recorder Consort, whose members are UNC and Duke faculty musicians, will perform.

Betty Vaden Williams, well-known folk musician from Raleigh, will appear with a dulcimer.

Everyone present may take part in carol singing, to be accompanied by the performing musicians and music department students in piano and organ.

CHRISTMAS BALL

The Cosmopolitan Club will hold a campus-wide Christmas Ball Saturday night at the Naval Armory from 8:30 to midnight.

The Sinfonians, Phi Mu Alpha's jazz band will provide dance music, and ballet and folk singing are also featured. Tickets, at $2.50 per couple, are on sale at Danziger's, the Y office and at Lenoir during lunch and dinner.

Today's Campus Calendar

All Campus Calendar items must be submitted in person at the DTH offices in GM by 2 p.m. the day before the desired publication date (by 10 a.m. Saturday for Sunday's DTH). Lost and Found items will be printed on Wednesdays and Saturdays only.

Missing Duke Coed Found Napping In Sleeping Bag

A Duke University graduate coed who just "wanted to get away from it all" was found yesterday afternoon camping beside a dam near Chapel Hill. Joanna DuBerry, 21, Chapel Hill, was found by a 50-man search party.

Red Tyler, head of the local Boy Scout district, came upon her camp about 200 feet below a dam at the end of Taylor Street. She was in her sleeping bag taking a nap.

Campus Police Chief Arthur J. Beaumont said she seemed quite unconcerned about the situation.

Miss DuBerry, a psychology major, left the house, which she rents with three other girls, on Monday morning. They reported her missing when she had not returned by Tuesday night late.

She had not told anyone where she was going.

Chapel Hill police began the search Wednesday morning and were joined by numerous local people, including Tyler and AFROTC volunteers from UNC.

An airplane had also missed in the search by the time Miss DuBerry was found.

Conference

"The Student-Faculty-Administrative Committee on the Residence College System found itself being propelled by a surge of interest in moving toward the residential college concept," Long said.

Petitions circulated in the lower Quad and the Avery-Parker-Teague areas have caused them to be named the first "colleges" on a trial basis.

Conference Scope

The conference will cover these proposals in detail and attempt to resolve some of the problems arising from them.

Student Body President Bob Spearman, who initiated plans for the conference, said, "We will talk in general terms of how the Administration and Student Government can cooperate in meeting the Problems of the University."

Each discussion group will arrive at conclusions about the system and report to the entire conference at a plenary session.

The conference will be held off campus in order to maintain a unity of purpose and foster objective analysis of the entire program.

Sophs Add Five Committee Heads

Sophomore class secretary Sandra Burden announced additional class committee appointments Wednesday: Kelley Hunter and Gwyn Branon, co-editors of the newsletter; D. A. Humphreys and Penny Cromatic, secretariat; and Janie Lowery, scrapbook.

Any sophomores who missed the interviews can still participate on the committees, she said, if they come by the Grail Room Monday, from 3-4 p.m.

Watson To Address Statistics Meeting

Professor G. S. Watson of Johns Hopkins University will speak at a Statistics Colloquium Monday at 4 p.m. in room 264 Phillips Hall.

Dr. Watson will discuss "The Statistics of Directions," which deals with statistical questions arising from distributions on a sphere. One topic will be a circular version of the Cramer-Smirnov statistic and another will be the so-called "girdle" distributions.

Dr. Watson is from Australia and has held academic positions in Melbourne, Canberra, Princeton and Toronto. Recently he visited Antarctica to give statistical help on a survey of penguins.
