

Two Women Are Handed Honor Council Reprimands

Two coeds were campused and reprimanded and another was excused for being late by the Women's Honor Council in its last trial session.

The coeds received sentences for lying on house offense slips, used in residence halls to record lateness or other rule violations.

The two women wrote on their slips that they were two minutes late. According to the clock in the dormitory office, which is used as the official college time, they were 14 minutes late. The hostess noticed the difference and called the students' attention to it.

The coeds said they recorded two minutes because this is what they watches said. However, they admitted that they knew that they were to go by the office clock in such cases.

They pleaded guilty to their Honor Code charge.

Another coed was excused for being three hours, 45 minutes late in returning from the Thanksgiving holiday, because of heavy traffic.

Testimony verified that she left her home in plenty of time to reach UNC normally by closing hours and that she called her residence hall before closing hours.

The delay in hearing the case was caused by difficulties in getting a statement from New Jersey Turnpike officials about the traffic there when she drove on it.

The Faculty Review Board reduced a sentence of one semester suspension to one semester definite probation for a coed charged with plagiarism.

New evidence, showing that the plagiarism was unintentional changed the Women's Council decision.

Spot The Spot: No. 4

If you find this spot on campus, please be careful not to bother it. The inside ring of writing on it reads: "$250 fine or imprisonment for disturbing this mark." So look, but don't disturb. The date on the mark is 1963.

The DTH has so many prizes for the Spot the Spot Contest winner that we can't get them all in one issue, but prize No. 1 is 12 LP albums from Kemp's. More goodies will be announced.

Save these pictures from each day's DTH, identify them and turn them in at the DTH office in Graham Memorial after 7:30 a.m. Thursday. Earliest entry wins.

Universities Get Direct Dial Phones

Direct dial phone service between the three Consolidated University campuses — Chapel Hill, Raleigh and Greensboro — will be in operation Jan. 18.

The University is renting about 24 Bell System long-distance lines between the three points. The cost will be $2,000 a month, about the cost of toll calls between the three campuses now.

A. H. Shepard, business officer and treasurer of the Consolidated University said that "The new system will be more efficient in placing calls and setting up conference calls between the three campuses."

The $2,000 is a straight rental fee for the lines and the number or length of calls placed will have no effect on the cost.

A Chapel Hill caller will dial a Raleigh number by first dialing an "8" prefix, and then the five digit number of the extension he wishes at N.C. State. For Greensboro the same procedure will be followed after dialing a "7" prefix.

A combined directory of numbers for the entire system is being prepared.

Shepard said the trunk line system will be confined to the University and that department heads will be responsible for the calls placed from their respective departments.

Peace Corps Test

The Peace Corps Placement Test will be given at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the main post office in Durham.

Applicants should bring along a completed questionnaire unless one has already been sent to Washington. The questionnaire forms are available at most post offices and can be obtained from the Peace Corps, Washington.

There are two parts to the placement test: a general aptitude test and a modern language aptitude test—for which knowledge of a foreign language is not necessary. Applicants should plan to spend about one-and-a-half-hour at the test center, unless they wish to take the Spanish or French achievement test, which takes another hour.

No passing or failing marks are given out, nor will the applicants ever learn their scores.

tylene and designed an apparatus for the analysis of gases. Due to research he instituted, Union Carbide became the first American producer of polyethylene, a plastic, and the corporation's largest selling product.

During World War I he served under Bernard Baruch on the War Industries Board. Commissioned a major on the general staff, he later was a lieutenant colonel in the Army Reserve.

His first wife, Genevieve M. Birkhoff, died in 1945 after 30 years of marriage. In 1948 he married Mrs. Lella Duckworth Houghton, a Savannah, Ga., native, who had spent much of her life in England. She died in 1961.

A step-daughter by his second marriage lives in England. She is Mrs. Desire Roderick of Liss, Hampshire. Other survivors include four great-nieces, a great-nephew and a first cousin, Mrs. T. J. Burns of Lynchburg, Va.

Two years ago North Carolina alumni honored Morehead at a 92nd birthday dinner in New York. William B. Aycock, then chancellor of the University, called him "one of the greatest and noblest sons of our University. His name, his deeds, his love for alma mater, expressed in numerous ways—both tangible and intangible—will live on long as the University shall endure."

Peace For Patients Said Not Found In Capsules

"Peace does not come to patients in capsules."

With this premise in his favor, an American Medical Association spokesman told a staff conference at Memorial Hospital that medical doctors and ministers must work together "for the wholeness of man."

Arne E. Larson of Chicago, assistant director of AMA's Department of Medicine and Religion, reported that half of the patients in doctors' waiting rooms and in hospital beds are there suffering from "the vicissitudes of life."

"Unfortunately," he said, "doctors can prescribe medicines for the symptoms of this emotional stress, but tablets do not cure the underlying causes."

"There is more to the healing art than administering medications," he continued. "Science is not enough."

Larson said health problems today demand close liaison between the physician and the clergyman. "Life and death decisions face both professions," he said.

He said the sole purpose of his Department of Medicine and Religion is to "create the proper climate for communications between the two professions."

"This is no effort to evangelize physicians. It is not a social program to get the professions on a first-name basis. And we're not out to get all hospitals to have chaplains."

Larson's appearance was an introduction to a special elective course in medicine and religion to be offered for the first time to medical students at the School of Medicine beginning Jan. 25.
