

The Daily Tar Heel

Weather
Tomorrow's the day for winter weather, according to the DTH weatherman. Break out the scarfs.

Founded Feb. 23, 1893

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1965

Volume 72, Number 87

Council Chairman Says Trial Procedure Question Settled

By JOHN GREENBACKER
DTH Staff Writer

Men's Council Chairman Pete Wales said yesterday that all questions had been resolved concerning council procedures which were attacked last week in a report submitted to Student Legislature by Bo Edwards.

Wales said certain procedures, which former University Party legislator Edwards claimed tended to place a student in possible "double jeopardy," were modified after a meeting Friday of Student Body President Bob Spearman's cabinet.

Edwards' report charged that two students were tried by the council this year for cheating, and after their conviction on that charge they were subsequently tried by the council for pleading not guilty on the original charge.

Wales, claiming that Edwards had misinterpreted the motivations of the council, said the two students had been tried a second time after their testimony in the first trial was proven false by subsequent evidence.

Option Given
In both cases the students had the option of either being tried a second time that same evening as an extension of the original trial, or waiting for the customary 72 hours in order for defense to be prepared and the Attorney General's staff to collect evidence.

This procedure had been questioned by Edwards, UP legislator Britt Gordon, Student

Aycock Making 'Good Progress' After Surgery

Former Chancellor William B. Aycock is "making good progress after his collapse Saturday from a hemorrhage. He underwent surgery Sunday to correct the condition, caused by an ulcer.

He is now out of the intensive care section of Memorial Hospital and in a regular room.

Aycock was stricken at the Law Building Saturday about 9 a.m.

He was taken to Memorial Hospital by ambulance and given several blood transfusions.

He resigned last year after seven years as chancellor to return to teaching law.

Jose, Group Visit Campus

Jose Molina and his Bailes Espanoles came to Memorial Hall tonight for a performance of Spanish songs and dances.

Tickets for the 8 o'clock show are available from Graham Memorial Information Desk. Student tickets are 50 cents; others are $1. The program is sponsored by Graham Memorial.

A dancer of 15 of his 25 years, Molina came to the United States from Spain in 1957. He appeared on television, was seen by Jose Greco and was signed as principal male dancer in the Greco company.

Molina stayed with the Greco group for five years, then returned to Madrid to form his own company. He made his North American debut in May, 1962, and today the Bailes Espanoles has been called the best touring Flamenco dance attraction in the United States. The company has 10 Flamenco dancers, singers and instrumentalists.

A 40-week tour has been set for the Molina company this year—the longest ever played by a Flamenco dance company in a single season in the history of American show business.

The program consists of songs and dances from all of the Spanish provinces, from the court of Charles III, from the great Spanish operas and ballets and from the gypsy camps. Works by some non-Spanish composers are also included.

The company's wardrobe is an outstanding attraction in itself. It was specially designed in Spain and made at a cost of $80,000. It would cost many times that to replace.

Many of the fabrics are hand-woven and laces have been made by hand by natives of several Spanish provinces. Elaborately embroidered stockings have been hand-knit. The costumes, which took months to make, are exact copies of apparel worn in many parts of Spain today. Elaborate measures are taken to care for the expensive wardrobe. Every costume is cleaned at least once a week—by a dry cleaning company in New York City.

Molina began dancing at the age of three and began formal training when he was nine. He won the role of second dancer on the Soledad Miralles company in Spain at the age of 14 and within three years had a European reputation for his mastery of all aspects of Spanish dance.

Model U.N. Convenes Tonight

By ALAN BANOV
DTH Staff Writer

George Allen, former director of the United States Information Agency and onetime ambassador to India, will replace Arthur Larson as keynote speaker tonight for the Model United Nations.

Allen, now director of the Tobacco Institute in Durham, will speak at 7 p.m. in Hill Hall.

Larson, who was undersecretary of labor, director of the USIA and special consultant to President Eisenhower, wired here Monday to cancel his speech. He told Model U. N. Secretary General Jim Medford he could not speak because of an "emergency due to illness in the family."

To Tape Speech

Allen's speech will be taped by WUNC-TV for broadcasting Friday night. The Voice of America will use tapes of talks and proceedings for possible programming overseas.

A general debate will be held at 8, after his address, when each delegation will explain its country's policies. The security council—comprising China, the U. S., U.S.S.R., United Kingdom, France, Brazil, Czechoslovakia, Bolivia, Ivory Coast, Norway and Morocco—will also meet tonight.

Over 500 Students

Over 500 students from about 70 colleges will represent delegations from about 100 nations at the Model U.N. The mock U.N. is modeled after the actual world body and will function with a General Assembly, Security Council and committees.

UNC will have five delegations: The Di Society will represent Cyprus and the UAR, the Phi Society will serve as Brazilians and Byelorussians and the Collegiate Council for the United Nations will be Icelandic delegates.

The CCUN's Middle South Region is sponsoring the Model U.N.—its seventh annual one. Last year it was held at Duke, where UNC won the award for the best delegation.

Mike Lawler, president of the UNC student body last year, will be chairman of the Economic Committee.

Lawler, president of last year's Model U.N. General Assembly at Duke, is student government vice-president of the National Student Association.

Doug Tilden, president of the national CCUN and a senior here, is also helping the local chapter. The president and vice president of the General Assembly, Craig Worthington and Timothy Anna, are from Duke. Executive secretary Ellen Gilkeson is from UNC, as are the other officers of the Secretariat.

Steve Robbins, president of NSA will speak at 7:30 Thursday, on how international student politics affect the U.N.

Dr. Arthur Waskow, of the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington will address the Model U.N. at 8 p.m. Friday after a dinner in Lenoir.

About 315 visiting students are staying on some 140 homes in town, and 148 are housed on campus. Of these, 50 women are in women's dormitories, 48 men are in Parker-Teague-Avery and 50 men are in the Kenan Stadium field house.

The four main committees will meet from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. tomorrow and will convene from 2:30 to 6:30 p.m. They will reconvene from 8 to 11 p.m.

By KERRY SIPE
DTH Staff Writer

Charlotte College took another step yesterday toward becoming the fourth campus of the Consolidated University when 49 of the state's 50 senators and 59 of the 120 House members added their names in approval of the measure.

The two bills before the General Assembly yesterday proposed that the college, located eight miles from downtown Charlotte, become a branch of the Consolidated University on July 1 and that it be known as "The University of North Carolina at Charlotte."

The upgrading of Charlotte College to university status was approved Nov. 16, 1964 by the University Board of Trustees. The measure has the support of Gov. Dan K. Moore and the state Board of Higher Education.

"We are certainly very pleased that this step has been taken," said Miss Bonnie Cone, who has been president of the college since 1958. We are hopeful that the measure moves all right through the legislature," she said. "We're anxious for some more action."

Sen. Irwin Belk and Rep. James Vogler sponsored the Charlotte College measure in the General Assembly. "The people of the state are behind the bill and when the people are behind a thing, it will go through," the Associated Press quoted Belk as saying.

Sen. Tom White of Lenoir, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, was the only member of the Senate who

Take 107-91 Win Heels Walk Past Wake

Frosh Thump Deacons

The UNC Tar Babies broke loose for 16 straight points early in the first half last night and coasted to an easy 115-61 victory over the Wake Forest Freshmen.

Sparkling in every phase of the game, the Heels raced from a 4-6 deficit to a 20-6 lead, moved ahead 52-23 at the half, and helped greatly by a 19-consecutive point burst midway through the second half rolled to the easy win. The Deacons had numerous shots blocked and passes stolen and couldn't stop UNC from dominating the boards.

Larry Miller played what may have been his best game in his short tenure here as he hit for 41 points before leaving the game with 2:25 left. Just as important he blocked about five shots and stole the ball the more about fifteen times.

He was not alone as a star, however. The other four starters all hit in double figures and two reserves turned in shining performances in their brief appearances.

Dickson Gribble (17), Jimmy Shackelford (15), Greg Campbell (14) and Jim Frye (12) all played well offensively but were more impressive on defense. All of them harassed the confused Deacons so badly that the Tar Babies were handed layup after layup.

Coming off the bench late in the game, substitutes Willie Cooper and Cliff Butler played excellently. Cooper blocked five shots, stole the ball four times and scored six points while Butler poured in six points in two minutes.

UNC (115): Miller 41, Gribble 17, Shackelford 15, Campbell 14, Frye 12, Cooper 6, Butler 6, Fletcher 2, Hall 2.

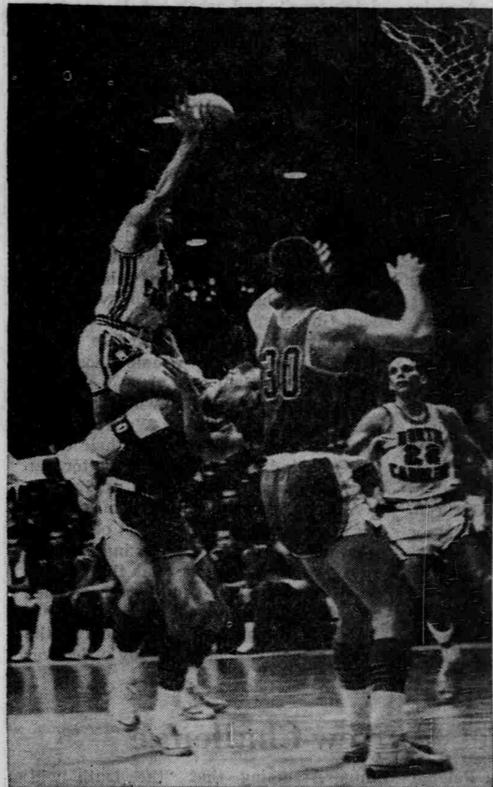

Wake Forest (61): Broadway 6, Campbell 14, Crinkley 12, Stroupe 9, Thompson 8, Cain 6, Mayhew 6.

Japan Conference Applications Due

Sunday is the deadline for submission of applications for the 17th annual Japan-American conference to be held in Tokyo Aug. 14 to Sept. 4.

This is the second year UNC plans to send delegates to the conference designed in the belief that democracy and world peace can never be secured unless they take root in the mind of the people.

The conference will last five days with several weeks set aside for travel throughout Japan. Interested students should contact Sally Bahnsen, 942-1872.

UNC GUARD Ed Yokley leaps high over the shoulder of a Wake Forest defender to get off a shot during first half action last night at Woolen Gym. The Tar Heels went on to a 107-91 win.

—Photo by Jock Lauterer

Playmakers Choose Leads For 'Oh Dad'

Martha Nell Hardy will play the role of Madame Rosepettle in the Carolina Playmakers production of "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mamma's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feelin' So Sad."

The cast was announced Sunday for the Feb. 23 to 28 production.

Michael Carrington will play the timid son Madame Rosepettle keeps locked in her suite. Sara Karavitz will portray the doll-like girl who chases the son. George A. Gray III will appear in the role of Commodore Roseabove, a millionaire who barely escapes with his life after a flirtation with Madame Rosepettle.

Mrs. Hardy received an M.A. in dramatic arts here. She has performed at Tanglewood Theater at Clemmons, Dunes Summer-Theater in Michigan City, Ind. and Playmaker Theater here.

He has played leading roles in "Tea and Sympathy," "Marriage Go 'Round," "Glass Menagerie," "Horn in the West," and "Private Lives."

Carrington directed the musical production "Fantasticks" last year for the Playmakers. He appeared in "Hamlet" and

"My Fair Lady." He won the John Golden Fellowship last year which allowed him to spend two weeks in New York City observing the theater.

Miss Kravitz appeared in several plays at State College, Boston.

Gray played leads in "Renegade" and "Rainmaker" for the Playmakers. He won the Fredrick H. Koch award in playwrighting in 1963.

Other members of the cast are Steve Chandler, Robert Batson, Douglas Barger and Colin Ferguson.

"Oh Dad" centers around a woman who keeps the stuffed body of her husband hanging in a closet and smothers her son with attention and protection. She checks into a Caribbean hotel with the corpse, the son, two Venus flytraps and a fish named Cleo.

The son, tired of fussing with stamp and coin collections, watches a girl through a homemade telescope and goes into a panic when she turns her attentions toward him.

Tickets for season ticket holders will be available Monday. Tickets will go on sale to the public Feb. 18.

By LARRY TARLETON
DTH Sports Editor

North Carolina's twin scoring machines, All-American Billy Cunningham and Bobby Lewis, combined for 70 points last night as the smooth-scoring Tar Heels ripped through Wake Forest 107-91 at Woolen Gym.

The 107 total marked the second consecutive game in which the Tar Heels hit the century mark. The win avenged an earlier 107-85 loss suffered at the hands of the Deacons earlier in the season.

By defeating the Deacons, the Tar Heels took over fourth place in the ACC with a 5-4 mark and a 10-8 overall record. The Deacons are now 9-11 overall and 5-5 in the conference.

"When Cunningham and Lewis are hitting like they were tonight, the Tar Heels can beat anyone," moaned Wake Forest coach Bones McKinney after the game. "Cunningham showed he was an All-American tonight."

Cunningham and Lewis each hit for 35 points. The 70 combined points were the most scored by the duo this year and set a Carolina record. Against Tulane Cunningham had 48 and Lewis had 21 for a 69 total, and they combined for 68 against Virginia.

In addition, the Kid pulled down 19 rebounds and Lewis had nine grabs. Cunningham hit 15 of 25 from the floor, and Lewis scored on 14 of his 22 field goal attempts.

The twin scoring terrors received double digits help from Tom Gauntlett who tallied 13 and Ray Respass who added 11.

The Tar Heels never relinquished the lead after bursting from the starting gate with eight straight points. The closest the Deacons came was at 8-6 with 16 minutes left in the game. During the first half, the Heels led throughout with a 2-10 point spread, and when Mark Mirken hit a follow shot with two seconds left in the half, they went into the dressing room with a 49-40 advantage.

The Deacons cut the margin to four points on two occasions in the second half, but with 6:57 left the Tar Heels began their surge. Leading 81-73, the Tar Heels scored six straight on four charity shots by Gauntlett and a layup by Cunningham. They kept increasing the margin until, with 2:59 left and the score 99-80, Coach Dean Smith pulled his starters. They hit the century mark when Bill Brown converted two free throws with 1:55 left.

UNC—Cunningham 35, Lewis 35, Gauntlett 13, Respass 11, Yokley 1, Mirkin 4, R. Hassell 4, Smith 2, Brown 2.

WAKE — Leonard 19, Anderson 18, Boshart 16, Pool 16, Walts 13, Whitaker 4, Herring 3, B. Smith 2.

Conference To Discuss U. S. Affairs

"The Role of the United States in World Affairs" will be the theme of the 15th annual World Affairs Conference scheduled here March 11.

The conference, sponsored by the North Carolina Council on World Affairs in co-operation with the University, will begin at 9:30 a.m. in Hill Hall.

Some 500 to 700 adults, college students and selected high school students are expected to attend. The N. C. Council on World Affairs consists of representatives from 23 statewide organizations. Its purpose is to promote public information programs on world affairs and to encourage the study of international relations.

Dr. Harlan Cleveland, assistant secretary of state for international organization, affairs, and William S. Gaud, deputy administrator, agency for International Development, will be chief speakers for the conference.

Cleveland will discuss "The Role of the U. S. in World Affairs" at 10:30 a.m.

Gaud will speak on "United States Foreign Aid: Political or Moral Issue" at 2:45 p.m.

A panel discussion on "The United States Citizen and United States Foreign Policy" is planned for 1:45 p.m. Panelists will include Jack Lasley, moderator; Chancellor Paul F. Sharp; Sam Levering and Dr. Anne Scott, assistant professor of history, Duke University.

Legislators Endorse CC Bill

did not sign the bill. He indicated he would study the measure before pledging himself. "I don't like to be stampeded into anything," he said.

Miss Cone does not place any "wrong interpretations" on White's move. "The fact that he didn't sign doesn't necessarily mean he's opposed to it," she said. She said that the college will be ready to meet the July 1 acceptance date. The school's fifth academic building opened for classes Monday to accommodate the present enrollment of 1,515 day students.

Bids for $2,600,000 in new construction projects are being advertised this week. Plans are for a new English-Math-Computer center and an administration building to be begun by late March.

"We do not expect to reach University status overnight," she said. "But we feel we have made a good start and that it shouldn't take too many years to reach that status. The University will be able to guide us along the right track. We know that we're a young institution, but we can look at the University at Chapel Hill and know that it is something that we want to become part of."

"We already have a land grant and a library started and some buildings. It should not be as hard to start a branch of the University here as it would if we were building everything from scratch as some other state universities have done. If you know the direction you're going and what your goals are you can approach your objectives with a much greater ease. We have our goals already in mind," she said.

Charlotte College began in 1946 as an eastern center of the University.