'Tidal Wave' Hits Admissions Office

By STEVE HOAR
DTH Feature Writer

"The tidal wave of students is hitting its crest," says UNC Director of Admissions Charles Bernard, and his office in South Building is feeling the pressure. With "post-war baby boom" students reaching college age, applications to the University have reached an all-time high. Bernard's staff has sent out almost 23,000 forms this year — a 40 per cent increase over 1963-64.

Freshman applications for next fall already exceed 10,000, with more yet to come in. Last year's total through first semester registration was 8,500.

"We'll have no problem filling this class up," notes Bernard. There will be 2,095 spaces for 1965 freshmen, only about 200 more than in 1964.

The increase in applications will make it harder to get into the University. Minimum legal requirements for state residents are still Scholastic Aptitude Test scores of 800 and a predicted grade average (based on high school grades and other data) of 1.6.

But Bernard says that, in practice, few applicants with grades below 2.0 will be accepted for next fall. The University hasn't been able to take all students meeting minimum standards since 1958.

A new policy admitting first-year women in all majors has brought a flood of female applications—nearly 1,600 for the 240 spaces—so women's qualifications will be a good deal higher. The current cutoff is a 1,200 SAT score, and it may have to be raised.

"If these girls produce according to their records in high school," predicts Bernard, "they'll make the boys look sick."

Frequent visitors add to the admission staff's burden in processing applications—more than 4,500 came through the office last year. Two of Bernard's three assistants also have to be away often visiting high schools across the state. And sometimes the director gets 30 or 40 long-distance phone calls per day.

Many of the calls—and numerous letters—come from parents, teachers and alumni who want to "put in a good word" for an applicant. "The pressure per square inch," Bernard observes with a grin, "would blow up Nagasaki."

Sometimes there is comic relief. A New York student who wrote for application blanks said that the "swinging courses at your hangout have sent me... My thyroid glands thirst to play the jazz with your baltpoppers (sic)." More recently Bernard turned down an application request from an out-of-state prospect whose test scores were too low to deserve consideration. "Well," the boy wrote back, "I'm not going to get down on my hands and knees and beg for one."

Fortunately, the "tidal wave" won't last long. Bernard expects the number of applications to reach a plateau in a year or two and stay there until about 1970.

For the present, however, the admissions staff has its hands full. "Business," says the director with a sigh, "is good."

Late News Briefs

From DTH Associated Press Wires

GOV. DAN MOORE'S $300 million road bond issue sailed through the Senate Friday, but his plan to make Charlotte College a branch of the Consolidated University remained bogged down in the House.

Without debate, the Senate passed 47-0, the road bond issue which goes to the House where it is expected to get the same quick approval.

The Charlotte College bill, already passed by the Senate, was carried over to Tuesday's House calendar. It has run into opposition over when the school should become the fourth branch of UNC.

The House did take fast action in approving a bill to make it a felony to attempt to set fire to any state owned building. The measure now becomes law. The Senate acted in similar fashion Thursday and passed the bill which was prompted by the recent fires on the North Carolina State campus. Police say the fires were set by arsonists. The state attorney general's office found the previous law did not cover fully buildings at state-owned colleges. Atty. Gen. Wade Bruton says his office will offer a complete revision of the state's arson laws later.

RESCUERS RECOVERED two bodies Friday and searched for three others after a light plane believed carrying a Richmond, Va., doctor and his family crashed into a lake.

The plane, en route from Daytona Beach, Fla., to Richmond, was last heard from late Thursday night when it approached the Raleigh-Durham airport to land. The pilot radioed he was running out of fuel. Indications were the victims were Dr. James G. Rice, a senior resident physician in obstetrics and gynecology at the Medical College of Virginia, and his wife and three sons. The plane, a Cessna 182, plunged into a 55-acre lake in William B. Umstead State Park just east of the airport.

Arthur McCall, 26, Negro laborer, of The Bronx, was indicted Friday by a New York County grand jury on one count of first degree murder and two of attempted first degree murder. The charges were in connection with the stabbing of three white persons including former UNC student Larry Phelps, in the Harlem office of the Progressive Labor Movement Jan. 21. In the fracas Phelps, 23, was fatally injured, and his wife, Linda, 22, and a friend, Tara Forsythe, 22, were injured.

Phelps, of Burlington, was active in the Progressive Labor Movement at UNC.

A MARKED LULL in Viet Cong activity suggests the massive raids by U.S. Air Force jets are getting results. The red guerrillas staged fewer incidents Friday than in any other 24-hour period since the jets were unleashed last Thursday.

No major ground engagements were reported. B57 Martin Canberra bombers pressed the Air attack. In 47 sorties from the flight line at Bien Hoa Air Base they showered more than 150 tons of high explosives on suspected Viet Cong hideouts in the jungles by Phuoc Tuy Province, on the South China Sea East of Saigon.

At the same time, however, there was report that elements of a new Communist division trained and equipped in North Viet Nam have shown up to reinforce the Viet Cong in the 1st army corps area fronting on the 17th parallel. Authoritative military sources at the Da Nang Air Base, 380 miles Northeast of Saigon, said the newcomers moved via the Ho Chi Minh trail through eastern Laos, which American warplanes have been raiding for several weeks.

THE FIRST DIRECT police linkup of the Black Muslims to the assassination of Malcolm X came Friday with the arrest of a husky Negro enforcer for the militant anti-white sect. Held without bail on a homicide charge, he was the second man accused in the slaying.

Since the 39-year-old Malcolm was shot down at a black supremacy rally last Sunday, police have worked on the theory that his bitter 1963 break with Elijah Muhammad's Chicago-based Black Muslims lay behind the slaying. Thirty-five hours after the assassination, the Black Muslim's Harlem Mosque 7 was wrecked by an explosion and fire, in apparent revenge for Malcolm's killing.

However, it was not until early Friday that police charged a direct role in the assassination to a known Muslim. They arrested Norman 3X Butler, 26, a practitioner of the deadly art of karate. He reportedly is a member of Muhammad's elite guard of disciplinary enforcers. Free in bond, Norman 3X was accused last month of taking a shot at another defector from the Black Muslim ranks. The victim escaped with his life, however.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., has hired a former Playboy Club bunny girl who can type 90 words a minute for the House Education and Labor Committee, which he heads.

Mary Ellen Terziu, a blonde from Laurel, Md., who worked briefly for Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., as a volunteer in his election campaign last fall, will join the committee staff Monday as a $7,300-a-year typist.

Miss Terziu, who lost her job in the Baltimore Playboy Club after joining the Tydings campaign team, has been working as a camera girl in a Cincinnati restaurant.

Tydings had planned to keep her on his staff after he won his election, but dropped the idea when her former employment as a bunny girl was publicized.

Powell hired her after talking to her by telephone. He said she was willing to take the job at much less pay than she has been making because she is interested in political affairs and wants to work in Washington.

Miss Terziu will be one of about six girls working in a typing pool for the committee and its various subcommittees.

Benefit Concert

Wednesday

Arthur Kreutz and Joan Melton will present a Concert in Hill Hall at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The concert will be a benefit performance for the Arthritis Foundation. Works of Mozart and Brahms will be featured.

Kreutz has taught at the University of Texas, Columbia University, the University of Wisconsin, Brooklyn College, and the University of Mississippi. He has served as guest conductor for the New York Philharmonic Symphony and Carnegie Pops.

Miss Melton, a native of Alabama holds bachelor and master's degrees from the University of Mississippi. She was Miss North Carolina in 1957. She studied piano under the late Hans Barth. She has been soloist with the North Carolina Symphony and joined Kreutz in concerts all over the country.

In addition to works of Mozart and Brahms, the Concert will feature "Three Characteristic Pieces" by Miss Melton and "Jazzonata" by Kreutz. There is no admission charge for the concert. Those attending will be asked to make a contribution to the Arthritis Foundation for its work in North Carolina.

3-Day Institute Designed To Aid Mentally Retarded

UNC will be host to an institute on recreation for the mentally retarded Thursday and Friday at Camp Betsy-Jeff Penn near Reidsville.

Dr. Douglas Sessoms, chairman of the recreation curriculum at UNC, is coordinator of the institute. He is a consultant to the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation, which is financing the three-day meet.

Sessoms said the purpose of the institute is to "show how good recreation programs can improve the health, appearance, intelligence and job capabilities of the retarded."

He said about 50 or 60 persons, from Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee and possibly West Virginia, will attend the sessions.

ed by Howard Hendrick, chairman of GM.

A second spark was ignited after the general agreement had been reached that there is a need for an open forum on which any person can voice his opinions at any time. John Greenbacker, president pro-tem of the Di-Phi Senate stepped into the circle and reminded the group that his organization exists for the purpose, "Next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. we will present a discussion of the Gag Law," he said.

The FSF member pointed out that they want a more "informal" program "in the open air." They then asked the Di-Phi president if he didn't think both organizations could exist.
