Yankees And Grits: What's In A Name

STUDENT OPINION

Grit Yankee.
These words are used widely on campus, but can they be strictly defined?
A grit lives south of the Mason Dixon Line, and a Yankee lives north of it. But to students it's not quite that simple.

Here are some definitions given by students from both sides of the line:

Ken Saunders, junior, Groton, Mass.
"A grit is a tradition-bound Southerner with his mind closed to change or anything that imposes on his traditional way of life. He's a person who can't start his day without grits for breakfast. There're nice guys, but when I find one who is bound by tradition, I feel sorry for him."

Calvin Deans, junior, Selma
"Yankees are generally a little arrogant and a little cocky. They think their mode of dress beats our's, and that we're behind or out of it just because we don't dress the way they do. Their sense of humor is not as wide as ours, they take things too seriously."

Warren Bloom, sophomore, Bridgeport, Conn.
"Take a left at Pittsboro Street, ride for 10 minutes, take another left. A fellow comes out of the house with a shotgun and before you can open your mouth, he says: 'Git offn' mah property, boys!' That's a grit."

Bill Hatch, senior, Birmingham, Ala.
"In general Yankees don't dress as well as we do. They are abrupt and lack manners, probably because of the fast pace they are used to. They're always running around like a bunch of chickens with their heads cut off. They live like ants. New York City is the biggest of any anthill I've ever seen."

Rosemary Simpson, freshman, Washington
"A grit is someone who wears V-neck sweaters and weejuns, hates the North and can't speak English. They hate big cities and they generally don't know what's going on. They are afraid to be different. They make lousey dates."

Jule McMichael, senior, Reidsville
"Some Yankees here seem to feel like they should be head men on campus, and when they're not, they slide over to some group that causes a lot of trouble around here."

Evan Harrar, senior, Westport, Conn.
"A grit on this campus is a North Carolinian whose universe ends at the state borders. The grit takes on the attitudes of his fellows and never questions their meanings. They say a lot, but communicate nothing."

Donald Singleton, junior, Morganton
"Yankee is just the Southern word for an individual who is better educated, more aware of life per se, certainly more sophisticated, and in general shrewder in any type of deal. It's a word that means jealousy to the typical Southerner."

Y Sets Tutorial Meeting

The UNC YWCA will host a three-day tutorial conference beginning Friday.

Registration will be at Y-Building starting at 1 p.m. Friday. The opening session is scheduled at 8 p.m. in Peabody.

Sponsors of the conference, in addition to the UNC - YWCA, are the National Student YWCA and the North Carolina Intercollegiate Council on Human Rights.

On Saturday there will be three workgroup sessions and a dinner at the Faculty Club. The first workgroup, "Introduction to Tutorials," includes discussion on cultural barriers, campus politics, community relations, and school administration.

The second workgroup, "Tutorial Project Improvement," covers refinement of mechanics, development of material, and new directions for volunteer projects. Mike Lawler, former UNC student body president and currently NSA student government vice-president, will be one of the co-chairmen of this meeting.

"Pre-School Work" is the topic for the third workgroup. Included in the discussion will be goals, parental relationships, community resources, and training.

CLAYTON TO SPEAK

Dr. John Clayton of the Department of Radio, Television and Motion Pictures will discuss "TV, Radio and Way-Out Motion Pictures" at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow in Parker social room. The program will be part of the Y-Dorm Speaker series. Interested students are invited.

1. Hitting the books?

No, I was just thinking about what to give Sue. It's our anniversary.

2. You're not even married.

We've known each other three full weeks.

3. You give a gift every week?

We try to remember the important dates.

4. Isn't that overdoing it a bit?

Not when you're in love.

5. You'll be broke before you get to the altar.

Oh, we're very practical. Sue gave me a pocket pepper grinder and I gave her my B+ theme on Parental Attitudes Among the Arawak Indians.

6. If you really want to be practical, why don't you get a Living Insurance policy from Equitable—and give her security. That way, when you get married, you'll know that she and the kids will always be provided for if something should happen to you.

Swell idea. Now, what do you think she'd like for National Crab Apple Day?
