

Archaeology Talk Friday

Martin Biddle, lecturer in mediaeval archaeology at the University of Exeter, England, will speak Friday at 8 p.m. in Murphey auditorium.

Biddle is the archaeologist in charge of the excavations in progress in the town of Winchester.

He will give an illustrated lecture, showing the progress of the excavation there.

Last summer a group of some 50 students and instructors from UNC and Duke worked under his direction. There will be another cooperative venture of this kind in 1965.

Those who are interested in participating should contact Vice Provost Frank de Vyver of Duke or Dean Holcomb of the Graduate School here.

Theologian Sets Address To CCF

Rev. Horace L. Fenton Jr., D.D., associate general director of the Latin America Mission, will address the Carolina Christian Fellowship in III Murphey at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

A graduate of Wheaton College and Princeton Theological Seminary, Fenton served as a chaplain in the U. S. Air Force before going to the mission field.

He has served in Costa Rica under the Latin America Mission and has participated in evangelistic campaigns in various Latin American countries.

RATE DROPS

The death rate for rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease among children and young adults (ages 5-24) has dropped about 85 per cent over the past 20 years, according to the North Carolina Heart Association.

Flutist, Organist In Concert Sunday

The Department of Music will present Sue Guerry, organist, and John Culp, flutist, in a recital at 3 p.m. on Sunday in Hill Hall. The public is invited.

Mrs. Guerry, a student of Rudolph Kremer, attended the University of Georgia where she was a member of the honorary freshman scholastic sorority, Alpha Lambda Delta. She will play Bach's Prelude and Fugue in A Minor; the two chorale preludes "Schmucke dich, o liebe Seele" and "O Gott, du frommer Gott," the last works of Brahms; and Mendelssohn's "Opus 65, Number 2, the Sonata in C."

Seminars Abroad Applications Are Due Friday

Applications for participants in the YMCA - NSA — sponsored Seminars Abroad program will be accepted through next Friday.

Applications are available at 102 or 105 Y-Building.

The seminar, which will take students to 11 European countries from June 15 to August 19 at a cost of $1,300, will feature visits to such places as Paris, London and Berlin.

Participants will be given maximum opportunity to meet and talk with students and political leaders in France, Switzerland, Italy, Greece, Yugoslavia, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Germany, Denmark, Holland and England.

Student members of organizations similar to NSA will serve as guides and interpreters in each country.

Sidewalk Art Show: And A Big White Rat

By KERRY SIPE
DTH Staff Writer

An enormous white rat, four feet tall, peered with huge pink eyes from his dark mousehole yesterday and wondered at the strange and colorful activity that was going on on the sidewalk in front of Battle - Vance - Pettigrew.

What he saw was the first day of the annual UNC Student Art show. He was one of over 450 paintings, prints and sculpture displayed by 70 local artists.

Several feet to the left, an overweight canary had crashed headlong into a big red barn while traveling 60 m.p.h.

Leaning against a bush by the side of the building was a portrait of three seagulls weaving a spider web.

A reconstruction of the bottom of a cock fight pit flapped in the wind from its two cloth-holders.

A two-year-old, wrapped tightly in a pink fuzzy cap and held in her father's arms, had one critical comment on her favorite painting. "Goo," she said.

The jolly green giant stood akimbo beside a poplar tree. He was suffering from some type of skin disease.

In another painting, a ladybug with a face like Donald Duck was playing checkers on a piano while her pet daschund chewed on the tip of its tongue.

"You can just feel the power exploding from this canvas," said one bearded admirer. "What glorious color," said his chair. Another legislative year had passed.

Whether Student Government had seen the last of the wonderfully devious smile, the slap of the hand against the table and the burning ambition of the former speaker, no one could tell.

"Its Dickson's show now," he told one of his friends after the recent election. He was right.

Carson said he would devote his last year to "a little studying." Most people think he took it all very well, from his remarks, at least.

Whether he will return to the halls of Graham Memorial no one can tell. He probably doesn't know himself.

IS EUROPE?

College life is such a busy one, what with learning the Maxix, attending public executions, and walking our cheetahs, that perhaps we find ourselves sometimes neglecting our studies. Therefore this column, normally a vehicle for innocent tomfoolery, will occasionally forego levity to offer a quick survey course in one of the learned disciplines. Today, for an opener, we will discuss Modern European History.

Strictly defined, Modern European History covers the history of Europe from January 1, 1964, to the present. However, in order to provide employment for more teachers, the course has been moved back to the Age of Pericles, or the Renaissance, as it is better known as.

The single most important fact to remember about Modern European History is the emergence of Prussia. As we all know, Prussia was originally called Russia. The "P" was purchased from Persia in 1874 for $24 and Manhattan Island. This later became known as Guy Fawkes Day.

Persia without a "P" was of course called Ersia. This so embarrassed the natives that they changed the name of the country to Iran. This led to a rash of name changing. Mesopotamia became Iraq, Schleswig-Holstein became Saxe-Coburg, Bosnia-Herzegovina became Cleveland. There was even talk about changing the name of stable old England, but it was forgotten when the little princes escaped from the Tower and invented James Watt. This later became known as the Missouri Compromise.

Only last week he invented the German short-haired pointer.

Meanwhile Johann Gutenberg was quietly inventing the printing press, for which we may all be grateful, believe you me. Why grateful? I'll tell you why: Because without Gutenberg's invention you would not have this newspaper to read and you might never learn that Personna Stainless Steel Razors are now available in two varieties—the regular double-edge blade we have all come to know and love, and the new Personna Injector Blade. Users of injector razors have grown morose in recent years, even sulen, and who can blame them? How would you feel if you were denied the speed and comfort and durability and truth and beauty of Personna Stainless Steel shaving? Not very jolly, I'll wager! But injector shavers may now rejoice—indeed all chavers may—for whether you remove your whiskers regularly or injectory, there is a Personna blade for you—a Personna Stainless Steel Blade which will give you more luxury shaves than Beep-Beep or any other brand you might name. If by chance you don't agree, the makers of Personna will gladly buy you a pack of any brand you think is better.

Yes, friends, we may all be grateful to Johann Gutenberg for inventing the means to spread this great news about Personna. The next time you're in Frankfurt-am-Main, why don't you drop in and say thanks to Mr. Gutenberg? He is elderly—408 years last birthday—but still quite active in his laboratory. Only last week he invented the German short-haired pointer.

But I digress. Returning to Modern European History, let us now examine that ever-popular favorite, France.

France, as we all know, is divided into several Departments. There is the Police Department, the Fire Department, the Gas and Water Department, and the Bureau of Weights and Measures. There is also Madame Pompadour, but that is a dirty story and is taught only to graduate students.

Finally we take up Italy—the newest European nation. Italy did not become a unified state until 1848 when Garibaldi, Cavour, and Victor Emmanuel threw three coins in the Trevi Fountain. This lovely gesture so enchanted all of Europe that Metternich traded Parma to Talleyrand for Mad Ludwig of Bavaria. Then everybody waltzed till dawn and then, tired but happy, they started the Thirty Years War. This later became known as Pitt the Younger.

Space does not permit me to tell you any more about Modern European History. Aren't you glad?
