

Rain, Rain Go Away

The Weatherman reports that Jubilee weekend may be in for more trouble, unless some clouds pack up and move in the other direction. "Risk of showers" is predicted by Raleigh-Durham Airport. Let's hope not.

Schedule For Parents Day Announced By Fraternity

Chancellor Paul F. Sharp will officially open the 15th annual Alpha Phi Omega Parents Day celebration May 9 with an informal address it was announced yesterday.

One day in May of every year is chosen for the University to serve as hosts to parents of students. The day-long program is sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity.

Parents are invited to attend 11 a.m. church services in Chapel Hill on Sunday morning.

At noon, there will be a Bell Tower concert. At 1 p.m., a pass-in-review and awards ceremony will be held by the Air Force and NAVY ROTC Units on Fetzer Field. Open House will be observed in all living units on campus from 1 to 6 p.m.

The UNC Gleemen will give a concert at the Old Well at 1:30 p.m., to be followed by a UNC Band concert at 2:15.

Chancellor Sharp will speak at 3 p.m. in Hill Hall.

At 4 p.m., the faculty and administration will hold a reception for parents in the lobby of Hill Hall. Sharp and other faculty members will attend.

At 5:30 p.m., parents are invited to attend Student Suppers in local churches.

In case of rain, concerts at the Old Well will be held in Hill Hall.

Departmental exhibits will be on display in the Louis Round Wilson Library from 2 p.m. all day. The Ackland Art Center will be open from 2 to 5 p.m. Starting times for Morehead Planetarium exhibits and public programs will be at 2, 3, 4, and 8:30 p.m.

Other points of interest to parents will include the Computation Center in Phillips Hall, WUNC-TV Station in Swain Hall, Kenan Stadium, Carmichael Auditorium, Coker Arboretum and the Forest Theater.

Charles Spring of Kensington, Md., is chairman of this year's parent's day program. A senior economics major, he is a former vice-president of Alpha Phi Omega.

APO will maintain information booths at South Building and at Graham Memorial Student Union during the day.

PROF FROM HARVARD

The Department of Information Science will hold a seminar today at 2 p.m. led by Dr. Gerrard Salton, assistant professor of Applied Math at Harvard University. The meeting in Swain Hall Annex is titled "Evaluation of Automatic Indexing and Search Techniques."

Y-Dorm Speakers Set For Tonight

The YMCA dormitory speaker program travels to Cobb dormitory and to Morehead College tonight, with another program in Joyner tomorrow.

William Geer, professor of Modern Civilization, will lead the discussion in Morehead College, beginning at 8:30 p.m. in the basement of Graham House. His topic will be "The Garrison State," and he has said that he will include remarks on the present situation in Southeast Asia.

"The topic on the garrison state is, with the state of operations in Viet Nam, of such current significance, that it will be absolutely necessary to discuss the Viet Nam situation on Wednesday night," Geer said yesterday.

Also speaking tonight will be Miss Daryl Farrington of the office of the Dean of Women. She will lead a discussion of the book "The Feminine Mystique" in Cobb dormitory, also at 8:30. Miss Farrington said that the essence of the book and of her discussion is the importance to a college-trained woman of constant self-evaluation and correction.

Tomorrow night Dr. Lewis Lipsitz of the Department of Political Science will lead a session on Viet Nam in Joyner dormitory.

CBS Newsmen Dies At Farm

PAWLING, N. Y. (AP) — Edward R. Murrow, the CBS Radio and television news commentator, and former head of the U. S. Information Agency, died at his farm here today after 18 months of cancer. He was 57.

Murrow was an habitual smoker of three to four packs of cigarettes a day, even after some medical experts claimed to have found a link between smoking and cancer.

Murrow built an international reputation for his World War II broadcasts from London. They were a vivid re-creation for American radio listeners of the courage of the British people beneath the lash of Hitler's air blitz.

Jubilee Will Not Be Moved: (Except In Case Of Rain)

Jubilee weekend, surprisingly, has remained in the same location for well over a week. GM Director Howard Henry said yesterday that he's sure nothing less than thunder and lightning will force the event from Polk Place.

In that case, however, Jubilee will make its last move — to Memorial Hall. Henry said, "You figure out how to keep it from raining, and we'll thank you."

WCHL Radio station reported yesterday that the five-day weather forecast ending Saturday calls for "unsettled weather, all week with a risk of showers every day." Temperatures will range from "cool to mild" for Jubilee weekend.

The Four Preps are scheduled to sing Friday evening, beginning at 7 p.m. in Polk Place. Friday's free flick is Alfred Hitchcock's thriller "Psycho," starring Janet Leigh and Tony Perkins. It will be shown at 6, 8, and 10 p.m. in Carroll Hall.

The only change in the festival program this week was the location of the combo party Friday night featuring the Jammers. Originally scheduled for the Ramshead Parking Lot when Jubilee was to be held in Kenan Stadium, the combo will rock until midnight in the parking lot between Caldwell and Bynum Hall.

Henry said that one student ID will admit up to three people. A student and his date will be admitted with one ID card, and each student is entitled to two guest tickets which will admit an additional couple to all events without charge.

family, including the kids," he said. "But the kids (of faculty members) can't come alone," he added.

Henry said that as of yesterday 780 students had picked up guest tickets. "They're moving out rapidly," he said. He expects a steady increase in the next two days before Jubilee.

Uprising Goes On In Santo Domingo As Bosch Returns

From DTH AP Wire Reports

Forces opposed to the restoration of ex-President Juan Bosch crashed into Santo Domingo yesterday after the capital had been softened by naval and air bombardment.

Two tanks and about 200 troops loyal to Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin, who helped overthrow Bosch in 1963, entered the city and resistance was light. Triumphant Wessin broadcasts said the fighting was "the last stage of the battle."

The Dominican Navy turned against pro-Bosch army forces and opened a bombardment of the capital that lasted for about 10 minutes. Lining up along the waterfront, the naval units fired three salvos against the presidential palace. The palace was not hit but some houses nearby were damaged and one person was reported killed.

Meanwhile, the evacuation of from 800 to 1,000 American citizens began at Haina, a small port 30 miles west of Santo Domingo.

The people were loaded aboard landing craft as six naval ships, including the carrier Boxer stood five miles off shore.

President Johnson termed the situation "grave" in the Caribbean country.

"It is our hope that order can be restored and that a peaceful settlement can be found," he told a news conference.

The president reported on the transfer of the Americans shortly after he ordered a U. S. naval force standing off the island to send landing craft ashore to remove Americans wishing to leave.

He said the 1,000 who wanted to leave have been taken aboard at the port of Haina, about eight miles from the capital city of Santo Domingo.

"Public order in Santo Domingo to has broken down" and fighting is going on among the Dominican armed forces, he said.

State Department Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said the 1,000 Americans gathered at the Hotel Embajador, just outside Santo Domingo, before going on to Haina. He said the evacuation order was given at midday.

Air Force pilots loyal to Wessin also attacked an army camp outside Santo Domingo, setting several buildings afire. Casualties, if any, were unknown.

The rebels are seeking the return of ex-President Juan D. Bosch, an exile in Puerto Rico since the military ousted him in the fall of 1963.

Twelve bodies were counted after fighting Monday, but some unofficial estimates put the death toll as high as 50 with another 100 injured.

The rebels overthrew a U.S.-supported civilian junta Sunday, but military leaders then split over a new government for the Caribbean nation — still striving for stable rule after the 1961 up-heaval that ended the Trujillo dictatorship.

Top Republicans Schedule Future Appearances Nearby

Two top Republicans, one a party stalwart and the other recently taken into the GOP fold, will make area appearances in two weeks.

The stalwart, former Vice-President Richard M. Nixon, will speak in Winston-Salem May 8 at the North Carolina Young Republicans College Council conference.

The other, former South Carolina Democratic now Republican Senator Strom Thurmond, will speak here May 9 as a guest of Carolina Forum.

Nixon's speech, at 11:30 a.m. in the ballroom of the Robert E. Lee Hotel, will be part of a weekend rally of YRC College Council.

Some 400 student delegates, party leaders and guests are expected to attend the dinner address.

UNC YRC President Charles Hooks said yesterday that the campus YRC chapter will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday to select 12 delegates to attend the convention.

The YRs will get things underway at 6:30 p.m. May 7 with a congressional testimonial dinner honoring all North Carolina Republican congressional candidates who ran in the 1964 national election.

Republican Future A seminar on "The Future of the Republican Party" will be held at 9 p.m.

The five speakers for the seminar will be David Flaherty, candidate for chairman of the Young Republican National Federation, acting as moderator; James C. Gardner, Republican candidate for Congress for North Carolina's Fourth District in 1964; Dr. Roy D. Morey, assistant to Congressman Robert P. Griffin of Michigan; Thomas Pauken, candidate for chairman of the Young Republican National College Service Committee; and J. Herman Saxon, chairman of the North Carolina Republican Party.

The convention's second seminar, "American Foreign Policy in Asia," will be held at 9 a.m. May 8.

Speakers will be Dr. B. G. Gokhale, chairman of the South Eastern Regional Conference of the Association for Asian Studies; Dr. Khalid Sayeed, visiting professor of political science from Queens University, Canada, at Duke University; and Dr. George Yu, professor of political science at UNC.

The seminar topic will be discussed in three areas — American foreign policy and (1) America's allies, (2) America's enemies, and (3) the neutrals in Asia.

Thurmond's speech is scheduled for 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

Thurmond began his career in the Senate in 1954 after election to office on an intensive write-in campaign. He served as a Democrat for 10 years, until he switched party affiliation during the 1964 national election.

Thurmond charged that the

Old Inn To Get New Look

By MARY ELLISON STROTHER
DTH Staff Writer

The Carolina Inn, "home away from home" for alumni, visitors and University students' families for the past 40 years, stands at the threshold of face lifting.

Plans are currently before the State General Assembly for a $1,200,000 development program designed to meet the growing needs of a growing university.

The Inn's management and the North Carolina General Assembly, are determined that when it is unveiled with a new 48-room look, it shall retain its southern style and charm.

The Inn's motif is accurately portrayed in the motto above the mantle of its main parlor fireplace — "A cheerful inn for visitors, a town hall for the State, and a home for returning sons and daughters of the Alma Mater."

One of the highest compliments ever paid the Inn, which was donated to the University in 1935, was voiced by a recent guest who declared — "The more Chapel Hill changes and the University grows, the more the Inn remains the same charming place it has ever been for all its guests."

The proposed improvements' expense would temporarily limit the amount of money the Inn transfers yearly to the UNC library, but the additional facilities will greatly increase its resources.

University Business Manager J. A. Branch included in the plans the following: a new cafeteria to seat 300; enlarged and renovated kitchen facilities; a new lobby where the present cafeteria is located; a bedroom wing with 48 hotel guest rooms; a banquet hall seating 450-500; several additional combination dining and meeting rooms and renovation of the existing banquet hall into a main dining room to seat 150; adequate parking facilities; renovated and enlarged basement facilities to accommodate linen supplies and employees' dressing space and lockers; site work and landscaping to develop a new main entrance from Pittsboro Street.

The total cost of $1,200,000, if approved, will be allotted as follows: building, $933,000; utilities, $10,000; access including parking facilities and landscape, $42, 000 air conditioning, $75,000; equipment, furnishing and furniture, $115,000; curbing and paving, $25,000. The improvements will be paid from the Inn's operations; no funds are provided by the State of North Carolina.

The present lobby will be made into multi-purpose rooms for reading, eating and meetings. With the new rooms, the expanded Inn should be able to house 350 people. Of the 101 units now used for guest rentals, 25 of them are always reserved for Memorial Hospital ambulatory patients.

Mr. Carl Moser, manager of the Inn since 1962, points out that the growth of the University has made it necessary to expand the Inn to meet the needs of the professional educational groups who desire to hold their meetings on the University campus.

According to Moser, plans are practically complete. He estimates that the actual construction work will require a year and a half.

Moser regards the parking problem as serious because of the vast amount of usage the existing three lots get. The paved and dirt lots now hold 123 cars. The new plans call for adequate parking facilities easily accessible to the Inn.

A new entrance to the Inn will be constructed facing Pittsboro Street. Patrons will enter by a circle drive leading into a columned porch, much like the one now existing except on a smaller scale.

Since its founding, Carolina Inn has roomed and boarded many alumni, guests tourists and a number of celebrities. Not only do all the North Carolina governors stay at the Inn, but other well-known legislators as well. Such people as Scotland's Lord John Cameron, John Motley Morehead, actor Robert Strauss, Montovani, Clifton Daniel and wife (the former Margaret Truman), Eleanor Roosevelt, Tyrone Power, Charles Laughton, Marge and Gower Champion, Bette Davis, Gary Merrill, Constance Bennett and others.

A few famous authors have stayed at the Carolina Inn including James Street, Thomas Wolfe, John Selby and more. Newspaper men like James Reston, Walter Lippman and others have roomed there.

The Inn has long been the center of a number of conventions and national and regional meetings.

With the increased number of students, faculty, alumni and visitors, the Inn simply had to expand. In 1940, a $290,000 program was initiated which, though still not sufficient, greatly improved its facilities. With the exception of minor changes in 1957, the Inn has remained relatively the same.

Its original total of 52 rooms grew to 108 with a capacity of 150-160 people including twelve, two and one-half room apartments and 30 suites. The lobby, parlor, dining room, cafeteria, ballroom and function rooms were much the same as they are today.

There were seventy workers and sixty students employed there which nearly tripled the original total.

But the Inn still was not large enough to house all who entered her doors. People by the thousands were turned away. The need for more rooms, more adequate office space, better parking facilities, and other improvements still existed as great problems. And the proposed expansion, regardless of its initiation, was inevitable.

THE FRONT VIEW of the Carolina Inn has had the same unique colonial look for many years. . . and it will for many years to come. Officials say that when its new $1,200,000 remodeling job is completed, it will still put forth the same comfortable colonial facade. — Photo by Jock Lauterer.
