and judiciously grants recognition to both." Sharp commended the Sunday DTH editorial as an "excellent statement." He quoted it in part: "The students are, in fact, being short - changed by the non - researching teacher. Most students say they consider 'good teachers' to be those who inspire them - cause them to think for themselves. It is absolutely contradictory to say research and publication hinder a teacher in providing such a classroom atmosphere." Sharp said the University has three functions - teaching, research and public service. He stressed the "quality of teaching that comes from the expert knowledge of a man who proudly calls himself a professor." He added that the university "cannot diminish the stature of a professor by assigning to him only one role."

—Students For Teachers—

(Continued from Page 1) vited to speak at the rally and had accepted, but "last night he turned it down." "We have concrete reason to believe that he had calls by the administration not to appear here," Wales said. "Why did the administration not want a clear statement on this issue? Why were they trying to keep people away from our rally?" he asked.

Wales said there are "certain rumors going around about the character of Dr. Goodykoontz" which have been fostered by the refusal of the administration to make the reasons for his dismissal clear.

"There might be other reasons," he said. "There is a controversy that he (Goodykoontz) has an unclear past. They say he's 51. They said he is a 19th century man, and although he has never taught a 19th century course, we don't need a 19th century man."

Wales said that Dr. Harper gave a "great vague catch-all of reasons" why Goodykoontz was not rehired. Because of this, he said, "people are slandering Goodykoontz up and down thinking there are other reasons."

"Well, darn it, let's hear some real reasons and let's hear them now." Wales said Dr. Goodykoontz was not at the rally because he was teaching a class at the time.

He said that SFT was not against scholarly research, but to "publish for the sake of publication was silly." He questioned the policy of the "publish or perish" policies of the University.

"Are these to be taken as the policy of the University?" he asked. "We want to know ... now."

Wales referred to a speech made Sunday by Chancellor Sharp in which he cited certain "professional students who become professional agitators." Wales denied that SFT was an "agitator" group of irresponsible students. He named himself, president of the Men's Honor Council, Student Body President Paul Dickson, former student body president Bob Spearman, former N. C. State University teacher Al Lowenstein and former Daily Tar Heel editor Hugh Stevens as supporters of the movement.

He said SFT was not trying to "pervert the truth," as Chancellor Sharp had charged.

"By golly, I'm not trying to pervert the truth... I'm trying to get at it, now," he said, "and we're not getting much of it."

Are these students "professional agitators?" he asked. "No. These are people trying to further the truth of their University, trying to further the goals of their University, and trying to make a better University, and to maintain the good position that made it as great as we are."

"That's why we are here today."

Al Lowenstein, a former teacher at N. C. State, spoke at the meeting, saying that it was useless to confuse the issue by adding a so - called "X-factor" into the "publish or perish question."

He noted that he was an alumnus of UNC and that he had also been "let go" by N. C. State University because he was "also a controversial teacher."

"Controversy over my teaching came from outside the administration," he said, drawing the parallel between his situation and Goodykoontz'. "In this case (his own) the University usually behaves very well." He said that in the case of Goodykoontz the controversy came from within the University.

Lowenstein said, "It is a good thing that this question is being considered by serious students. I say this matters because this is a serious issue."

Naval ROTC Midshipmen Receive Service Awards

Twelve midshipmen of the Naval ROTC Unit were presented awards Saturday for outstanding contributions made to the University and NROTC.

The awards were presented by Chancellor Paul F. Sharp and Captain Rex Warner, Commanding Officer of the Naval ROTC Unit.

Alan V. Monette received the Professor of Naval Science Award, a cup presented to a midshipman who has made an exceptional contribution to NROTC unit activities.

William M. Parham was awarded the Sons of the American Revolution Medal, for demonstrating outstanding qualities of military excellence and leadership.

The American Legion Medal was presented to Ronald Jay Lamb for the qualities of devotion to country and unselfish service.

Thomas F. Scott, Jr., the graduating senior who has obtained the highest average in academic courses, was presented the Josephus Daniels Scholarship Award.

Awards from the Reserve Officers Association were presented to William P. Aycock, II, Richard S. Johnson, Jr., Lane S. Anderson, III, and Edward C. Hammerbeck.

Aycock attained the highest combined Naval Science grade and aptitude rating during his four year at Carolina, while Johnson, Anderson, and Hammerbeck were judged to be the outstanding second, third and fourth class midshipmen in the unit.

Kenneth R. Furr was awarded the Marine Corps Gazette award for having attained the highest standing during the Marine Corps Officer Candidate School.

The U. S. Naval Institute Proceedings Award, given for exceptional interest in professional and scientific knowledge of the Navy, was presented to Fred C. Thompson, Jr., and Milton V. Bauguess.

Herold J. Weiler, III received the General Dynamics Award, a plaque given to that midshipman who attained the highest standing during the aviation phase of summer training.

We say our cordless shaver is the best because it costs a bit more.

Want to take our story apart?

We've saved you the trouble.
Obviously, one of the reasons the REMINGTON® LEKTRONIC II costs a bit more is because it's cordless. Works on rechargeable energy cells. (Also works with a cord, if you forget to recharge.) Frees you to shave upstairs. Downstairs. On the stairs. The other reasons? Read.
Sideburn trimmer. Flick off the head case, you've got a straightedge for neat, trim sideburns.
348 cutting edges. We hone them from surgical high-carbon steel, so the story's always the same. Short and sweet.
The shaver head. Biggest around. We gave it 756 slots. Once a whisker goes through, bye, bye baby.
The motor. Most powerful in the business. Never slows down even at tricky jaw areas and sensitive upper lip.
4 tiny rollers. Safety's their main job. Gently channel whiskers into the slots. Let cutters in close, but no burn.
