'I Don't Share Distrust' Sharp Tells Class of '69

Chancellor Paul F. Sharp told 2,400 freshmen Friday that "the greatest weakness of the speaker ban law is its distrust of you."

Sharp declared, "We do not share that distrust. We know that you are here to learn, to weigh carefully and critically what you hear and read."

Freshmen were told by the Chancellor Sharp. He said of naive to think that a speech will send you stampeding to the front to join with the speaker in his enthusiasm.

"We know students to be a tough and durable lot," said that not one college graduate had been among the defectors in Korea. "Education is the greatest guarantee of true patriotism this nation possesses; men who do not understand freedom will not defend it."

$60 million at Chapel Hill. Mr. Sharp said. "All that they ask in return is that you conscientiously fulfill their faith in you as carriers of promise."

Anthropology Chief Named

Dr. John Gulick has been named chairman of the newly-created separate department of anthropology.

Morehead Show Stars Are Stars

Morehead Planetarium will present a program entitled "The Earth in the Universe," beginning Sept. 28.

This presentation, scheduled to continue through Nov. 22, will explain the effects of the earth's rotation, movements of the moon and the planets and the predicted future of the Solar System 11,000 years hence.

The Planetarium's Zeiss Projector, well known for its ability to simplify astronomy's complexities, is featured in the program, which until Sept. 28 will be centered around Mars.

After featuring a program about the Zodiac (a band of 12 constellations lying in the plane of the earth's orbit), Morehead will repeat still another holiday special — "Easter, the Awakening," expected to be attended by thousands of school children.

"Zodiac" will run from Jan. 11 through March 7, and the Easter program from March 8 through April 18. Between April 19 and May 31, the planetarium will present "All About Planets."

Morehead admission fees are 75 cents for adults, 50 cents for students grade 7 through college, and 35 cents for children grade 6 and lower. One adult chaperone is admitted free with each 10 pupils in organized groups.

Acting Physics Head Named

Dr. Eugen Merzbacher has just been appointed acting chairman of the Department of Physics at the University.

He replaces Dr. Everett Palmatier, who was recently appointed Vice Chancellor for Graduate Studies and Research of the University.

Merzbacher, who has been with the University since 1952, will serve a one-year term.

"The Department," says Merzbacher, "has prospered under Dr. Palmatier. I have a good launching point."

The first major task Dr. Merzbacher will have will be to set up the Department in the recently renovated 'old wing' of Phillips Hall.

Solid state physics and the well-known Institute of Field Physics are the strongest areas in the Department, says Dr. Merzbacher. "But, we will try to open up some new areas; in particular we are hopeful that we will be doing more nuclear physics."

"My own interests are in the teaching of quantum mechanics at all levels — making it more accessible to people at earlier stages of their development."

"I am also very interested in using the computer for our physical problems. I am looking forward to the new computer center in the Research Triangle in which we will participate."

Merzbacher is Associate Editor of the American Journal of Physics. He is also the author of Quantum Mechanics, a text book used at the University, and at several other college and universities throughout the country.

Report on Dusty Treasure

Here's a special report for faculty and students who spent the summer in far places:

Philosophy Library — There are still a few books left from that great collection we put out last April. Everything in that batch was top-notch, but we've trimmed the prices on what's left so as to make room for some lively libraries that are still to come.

Poetry — In the space under our limited editions display, we've set up a permanent poetry shelf. Here are obscure poets, the faint voices of bygone days crying for immortality — at low prices!

German Books — During the summer we bought in a rather nice collection of German literature. What's left of it is in our Foreign Language shelf.

Facsimile Manuscripts — Another summer success was a collection of facsimiles of manuscripts in the British Museum. If you'd like to decorate your room with something by Browning or Wellington, in his own handwriting, now's the time to check up on this offering.

Shucks — Everything is either changed or reduced! — We were checking up the other day, and in theory we've sold out the entire contents of our 29c shelf twice over this summer. We know this is some kind of a statistical trick, but we do feel somewhat like a traffic cop at a busy intersection, and we'd suggest that you lovers of dusty treasure might profit from a browse sometime soon.
