'Mikado' Opens Playmakers' Season

Tickets go on sale Thursday for the Carolina Playmakers' season - opening production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado."

Sixteen years ago, the Playmakers staged the world-renowned musical with student-actor Andy Griffith playing Ko-Ko and Barbara Edwards, Griffith's real-life wife, in the role of Yum-Yum.

To be performed Oct. 15 through 17 in Memorial Hall, the play features Prof. Walter Smith of London, England, as Ko-Ko dramatics major Anne Peacock as Yum-Yum; UNC Glee Club Director Joel Carter as the Mikado; Kenneth Smith of Los Angeles as Pooh-Bah; James Slaughter of Kannapolis as Pish-Tush; Campbell Read of Edinburg, Scotland, as Nanki-Poo; Margaret Buxton of National City, Calif., as Katsisha; and Susan Quinn and Judy Logan, both of Chapel Hill, as Pitti-Sing and Peep-Bo.

A chorus of 32 "Ladies and Gentlemen of Japan" and 20 Musicians, playing the original D'Oyly Carte orchestration, complete the performing company.

Foster Fitz-Simons, veteran Playmakers director-choreographer, is staging this new interpretation of "The Mikado," with James Holmes, composer of "Con Amore," assisting as musical director and conductor.

Season tickets for the year's five major productions are still available.
