Draft Call Continues Rise, Reaches Post-Korea High

WASHINGTON (AP) — The military draft continued to climb steeply as the armed services asked yesterday for 45,224 draftees in December — an increase of 8,774 over the November call of 36,450.

It is the biggest request to the Selective Service System since near the end of the Korean War, when 53,000 men were inducted into uniform in May 1953.

The rising calls are in line with President Johnson's decision to build up the armed forces to deal with the conflict in southeast Asia and keep needed strength elsewhere. Plans are to increase U. S. forces by 340,000 men, bringing the total to about three million.

The Marines, who for the first time since the Korean War resorted to the draft in the quota set a month ago, asked for 5,024 men in December. That compares to a November request for 4,050 draftees.

The army's share of the December quota is 40,200, compared to a request of 28,400 for November.

The Navy, which asked for 4,000 men in November — the first such call since 1956 — made no request for a December quota.

The Air Force continued to ask for no draftees, confident of meetings its manpower needs with voluntary enlistees.

The Army procurement objective for enlisted men with no prior military service in December is 47,900 of which it expects 7,700 to be voluntary recruits.

The Marines are counting on 3,400 volunteers to fill out their no-prior service procurement goal of 8,424.

Today's announced quotas brings the total of draftees since September 1950 to 3,243,324. Quotas fell as low as 3,300 men a month a little more than a year ago.

But a lag in enlistments and then the buildup ordered because of the deepening U. S. involvement in Viet Nam led to the steeply rising inductions.

Although enlistments have risen in all the services since Johnson announced plans to double draft calls, the volunteer system has not been adequate. The draft always has served as a prod for young men to sign up with the service of their choice.
