Lotz coached there until last year.

At Carolina Lotz's job will include not only coaching but also scouting and recruiting.

Coach Smith plans to have Lotz become the freshman coach after two years, switching places with Larry Brown.

Lotz is a coach steeped in "I come from a back ground where it is necessary to play defense," he said. "A player needs ability, but he needs desire to go with it. My players were always well conditioned."

"I have never been associated with a team that doesn't give a total effort on the court. We have a great group of boys with a wonderful attitude this year."

He cites the main difference in high school and college coaching as "the time element."

"In college you spend more time in different areas, especially. There is an enjoyment in working with these young athletes."

For the first time since he has a three-man coaching staff. Everyone knows head coach Dean Smith and fresh but few people are familiar with Smith's new assistant, John Lotz.

John is the brother of Danny Lotz, who played on the pionship team and captained the 1959 team. John played his college ball at Baylor University and East Texas State University, graduating from East Texas in 1957.

His coaching career started in Norwich, N. Y., in 1959. Taking over a team that had a dreary 117 record the year before, Lotz produced a squad that won 15 games in his one year there. From Norwich he moved to Berner High School, in Massapequa on Long Island.

With its first senior class and with Lotz as head coach Berner won a division championship in his second year.

FCA Expects Biggest Year

By RON SHINN
DTH Sports Writer

Carolina's chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) is now being organized for the fifth year.

FCA chairman Albert Long, himself the second and last three-letter man at UNC, is in charge of the program. The originator of the program at Carolina, Danny Lotz, is also back this year as an adult leader.

Long describes the Carolina chapter as "one of the outstanding chapters in the nation." The national organization is celebrating its tenth anniversary this year.

The FCA is a purely voluntary organization, connected in no way with the athletic department or the school administration.

Its purpose is to confront athletes — and through them the youth of the nation — with the challenge and adventure of following Christ in the fellowship of the church.

"Sixty percent of the American youth have little or no religious training," explains Long. "The FCA tries to reach those youth."

The local group meets every other Thursday night to discuss mutual problems and to report on their speaking engagements. Starting in November, Carolina athletes will begin to speak at youth meetings across the state, telling their audiences why they believe in Christ.

Officers this year are Mike Knowles (baseball) and Bill Edwards (football), co-presidents, and Bud Phillips secretary-treasurer. The UNC club will also become chartered this year for the first time.

Ken Willard, one of the UNC chapters most active members, summed up the club's attitude with a saying that he used frequently during his speeches.

"If being a Christian is sissy, then I'm one of the biggest sissies in North Carolina."

Writer Leads UNC Scoring

Jackie Writer is doing what comes naturally again this year — leading his booting buddies in scoring.

He was the head man last fall with seven goals in nine matches. This year he already has six, in only four games, all victories.

Larry Heath trails him with five scores, John Loud and sophomore Jimmy Johnston have four each, William Polak has two, and Danny Galves and Co-captain Drew Murphy each have one.

North Carolina has rolled up 23 goals to only one for its opponents, defeating the Air Force Academy 4-0, East Carolina 13-1, American University 3-0, and N. C. State 3-0.

The Tar Heels play Pfeiffer here on Fetzer Field tomorrow at 3 p.m. in their next match and then host Belmont Abbey Monday. Then they dive back into ACC play with a road game against Virginia.
