Speaker Ban Commission Will Give Report Friday

RALEIGH (AP) — The Speaker Ban Study Commission will make its report to Gov. Dan Moore Friday. The report may lead to a special session of the General Assembly later this month consider amending the controversial law.

Chamber at the State Capitol at 2:30 p.m. Friday. If the commission should recommend repeal or amendment to the law, the governor may call a special session of the General Assembly to act on the recommendation. Some Capitol Hill observers believe a special session will be called for later this month. The report follows public hearings and long weeks of study by the nine-member commission.

The speaker ban law forbids communist or persons who have pleaded the Fifth Amendment in loyalty hearings from speaking on the campuses of state-supported colleges.

At the study group's hearings, representatives of most of the state-supported colleges appeared to urge that the law be repealed or substantially amended.

They contended it violates the principal of academic freedom and takes from the college trustees the power to decide who is to speak on the campuses.

The college spokesmen also pointed out that the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools has stated the law threatens the accreditation of State-supported colleges and universities.

They said loss of accreditation would mean the loss of faculty members. Some said the schools already have lost faculty members because of the law.

A number of persons appeared before the study group to urge that the speaker ban be retained without change. These included representatives of the American Legion.

The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools will meet at Richmond, Va., the last of the month. An official has expressed the opinion the state-supported colleges and university will be placed on probation if the law is not repealed or amended.

Constitutional Council Says Recall Petition Not Valid

More Names Can Still Be Put On Lists

By ED FREAKLEY
DTH Staff Writer

The Student Government Constitutional Council ruled last night that the Dickson recall petition "has not attained the status of a valid petition."

But the council also said the petition was still "living" and that names could be added or subtracted until an election is held or the student in question leaves office.

After hearing two hours of arguments from David Kiel, who represented the petitioners, and Arthur Hays, who represented the Elections Board, the Council reached a decision after a 50 minute deliberation.

Chairman Van MacNair read the unanimous decision of the seven member council: "This petition has not attained the status of a valid petition because approximately 33 of the sheets were signed with the intention that a recall election would be held on or before Tues., Oct. 12, 1965, or on Tues., Oct. 19, 1965." Since these dates have passed we feel that the names there on are definitely invalid.

"We feel the rest of the names are valid and will remain so until a recall election is held or the student in question leaves office. In other words, we feel that the signatures represent a 'living petition,' the names of which can be added or subtracted until the election.

"We realize the inconvenience of this action, but until laws are passed in this area we are given no other alternative."

Following the decision Kiel said, "I can't help feeling that the Council in this matter based its decision upon a minor technicality. This is not the first time the rights of the students have been frustrated by legalisms.

"Nevertheless it is still heartening that the record will show that 1,900 students, almost half the normal voting students, had enough concern about their Student Government to support this petition. I share their disappointment."

Kiel said he would have to think about further action before saying whether he would continue with the petition.

During the arguments Kiel maintained that the Elections Board was not the proper body to make decisions which were not covered in the constitution and the validating of the petition should be supervised by the Council.

Keil also said there was much ambiguity and mismanagement on both sides.

Hayes argued that the Elections Board did their best and the most any "reasonable man" could expect.

"Dragging this out makes many students feel Student Government is Mickey Mouse. I sincerely do not believe it is."

Hayes said the students accept Paul Dickson as their president. "I'm sure the administration accepts him also," he said.

Hayes alleged DTH Editor Ernie McCrary had called a "certain organizer" of the petition to tell him to bring in more names the night the petition was invalidated.

Di-Phi Resolution Asks Faculty Support Of Code

The Di-Phi Senate passed a resolution Tuesday night calling for all faculty members to observe the Honor Code "in the fullest spirit of cooperation."

John Harrison, President of Di-Phi, said, "The faculty should be under the same discipline in regard to the Honor System as the students." He said today they are not and added, "This is a dual standard and is intolerable."

Harrison said that faculty members that violated the code should be tried by a faculty court with fines imposed for violations.

He said the Honor System needed "the continued support of all the members of the university community."

The resolution was introduced by Baxter Linney, Critic of the Society, who handles all complaints given to the Senate. The Di-Phi Senate heard the complaint "about non-adherence to the Code by certain members of the University Community" since the two societies were "the creators of the Honor Code."

Harrison said fines for violations should be $100 or less. He said repeated offenses should mean suspension. If a faculty member refused to abide by the code, "he should be fired," Harrison said.

Harrison said the first time an instructor proctored a quiz, students should refuse to sign the pledge. The second time, students should refuse to take the quiz, he said.

The resolution was passed after debate on whether the U.S. should legalize the sale of dope. Richard Starling of the State Bureau of Investigation was the principal speaker. The Senate decided "no" on the question.

Appointment System To Get Vote

By JOHN GREENBACKER
DTH Political Writer

A bill which will allow the student body to vote on constitutional amendments making the positions of student body secretary and treasurer appointive was passed by Student Legislature by a vote of 24 to 9 Tuesday night.

The referendum will be held during the fall elections next Tuesday.

According to the text of the constitutional referendum, the student body secretary will or will not become an appointee of the student body president, according to the outcome of the student vote.

If students vote "yes" to the second constitutional amendment, the former elective position of student body treasurer will be filled by a qualified student selected by a special Student Government board of financial experts.

'Non-Political'
The bill was supported by legislators who felt the two offices were non-political, non-policy making jobs which needed competent persons rather than attractive candidates to fill them.

The legislature voted down another constitutional amendment bill which would give the students the opportunity to require candidates for the president Government presidency and vice presidency to be elected from the same ticket.

The secretary-treasurer bill, introduced by Elaine Carlson (SP), was originally worded to propose the student body president be allowed to appoint the treasurer. Student Party Floor Leader Don Wilson successfully amended the bill to propose a special board to choose a qualified treasurer.

Board Composition
The board would be composed of the current student body treasurer, the Student Government Budget Committee chairman, the Student Legislature Finance Committee chairman, a faculty member of the Audit Board, the Audit Board chairman and the incoming and outgoing student body presidents.

The board would meet within two weeks after the spring elections to choose the new treasurer.

Wilson told the body he didn't want just the student body president to select the treasurer.

Commenting on the possible loss of direct student body control over the selection of the treasurer, Wilson said, "If the students want to deprive themselves of this right, let them do so. "This way we will get the best possible treasurer for the student body," he said.

Committees Opposed
Wilson's proposal met opposition from Speaker Pro Tem Jim Little (SP), who said much selection boards were "cluttering up Student Government."

Wilson's selection board proposal passed 21 to 15.

Miss Carlson sought support for her bill by reading the body a statement in its favor written by current treasurer Tom White.

She listed the names of past student body secretaries and treasurers who supported the bill.

Kathy Cauble (UP) attacked the treasurer selection portion of the bill because she said there was no need for such legislation.

"The students have done a good job of selecting the treasurer in the past," she said.

"This bill's supporters say they want to relieve the position of student body treasurer of political qualifications," she said.

"They don't seem to realize that there is nothing more political than a political appointee."

Miss Cauble later attempted to move privileges of the floor to Student Body Secretary Sherry O'Donnell, but the body voted not to allow her to speak.

Statement
In a statement issued yesterday, Miss O'Donnell said she objected to Student Legislature's seeking to eliminate "the only campus-wide elected position that a coed can presently hold on this campus."

Coed Suffers Sever Burns

An 18-year-old coed was severely burned on her right arm Tuesday night while working on a painting in Smith Residence Hall.

Linda Ruth, a freshman from Hendersonville, is in North Carolina Memorial Hospital. A hospital spokesman said doctors have not determined how bad the burns are or whether Miss Ruth will have to undergo plastic surgery.

Lindsay Gets Word From LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York's Republican Mayor - elect John V. Lindsay, first of his party to capture that title in 24 years, got congratulations and a promise of cooperation today from President Johnson.

Both Democrats and Republicans claimed comfort in the outcome of yesterday's off-year elections, which saw Democratic campaigners capture the other two top prizes, the Governorships of New Jersey and Virginia.

Lindsay, the lanky, 43-year-old Congressman from Manhattan's silk stocking district, hit the New York sidewalks again, this time to thank the voters who zoomed him to victory over Democrat Abraham D. Beame.

Johnson told Lindsay he will work to make sure that Federal and city officials join forces "to make New York a good place to live."

Lindsay's triumph, by a 136,144-vote margin in a heavily Democratic city, vaulted him to the vanguard of the GOP, even though his campaign stance shunned the party banner. Some Republicans talked of a potential Presidential future for the handsome young

New Yorker.

Democrats scoffed at Republican claims the Lindsay victory would bolster the GOP, trounced across the nation in Johnson's Democratic landslide a year ago.

In the two big victories for Democrats, New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes rolled up a record, 318,000-vote re-election margin, and Lt. Gov. Mills E. Godwin, Jr. was chosen Virginia's 21st consecutive Democratic governor.

Lindsay, who refused in 1964 to endorse Republican Presidential nominee Barry Goldwater, withstood the Johnson tide to win his fourth term in the House.

Goldwater his silent today on the New York City outcome.

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey, said the Lindsay triumph could not be rated a victory for the Republican Party," Bailey said, "and in his campaign for mayor he stayed as far as possible from the Republican label."

"Congressman Lindsay carefully dissociated himself from the national policy program and leadership of the Republican party," Bailey said, "and in his campaign for mayor he stayed as far as possible from the Republican label."

GOP National Chairman Ray C. Bliss said Republican big-city gains will help his party.

"The good candidates will look at this," he said, "realize that a Republican can win if things go right and get out and file."

"We did make gains," Bliss added, "and thereby provided impetus to our efforts to strengthen the Republican position in metropolitan areas of the nation." He pointed to Philadelphia, Louisville, and his home town of Akron, Ohio, as other samples of Republican victory in the cities.

In Philadelphia, Republicans won their first citywide office in a dozen years. They did it with Arlen Specter, a registered Democrat. He beat Democratic Dist. Atty. James C.

Crumlish, Jr., by 35,000 votes.

"The adage that Republicans cannot win in the big cities is now out the window," said Gov. William W. Scranton. But the GOP news wasn't so good in some Pennsylvania cities.

A Democrat, James T. Walsh, topped the Republican Mayor of Scranton, the Governor's home town. Democrats ousted Republicans in Erie, Lancaster, and Allentown, too.

Honor Council
There will be a compulsory meeting for all Honor Council candidates this afternoon at 3 p.m. in Roland Parker Lounge I of Graham Memorial according to Elections Board Chairman Alvin Tyndall.

Wabash Students Angry; Depauw Has Their Bell

GREENCASTLE, Ind., (AP) — A friendly "si, si, Senor" and the next thing Depauw University knew the Monon Bell was gone.

The bell, symbol of victory in the annual football clash between Depauw and Wabash, had been at Depauw for 10 years before it was snatched by a group of Wabash students.

One student posed as a reporter from Mexico City doing an article on college life in the United States. Well versed in Spanish, he had lunch with the Depauw president, discussed scholarships with the director of admissions, conversed with other officials and finally was shown the secret hiding place of the treasured bell.

Depauw officials today confirmed Monday night's prank. They do not expect the bell to show up again until Depauw plays Wabash here Nov. 13.

Wabash is in Crawfordsville, Ind., 30 miles north of here.
