

Babies Pull Claws Of Tiger Cubs, 86-50

CLEMSON, S. C. — Tar Babies put together a well-integrated offense, a tight defense and wide rebounding edge to charge to an 86-50 rout off Clemson's Tiger Cubs in their season opener here last night.

Heading the scoring for Coach Larry Brown's club in this loosely played match was Dick Grubar and Bill Bunting. Grubar, who flashed some tenacious defensive prowess in addition to his shooting touch, topped all scorers for the game with 24-17 in the opening half — while Bunting fired away for 23.

Rusty Clark, who went scoreless in the first half after picking up three quick fouls, barged into the spotlight after the second period tapoff, hitting five straight shots. He fouled out with 17:38 remaining, but, luckily, was not needed. The Frosh had built a 54-26 lead by that time.

Bunting divided his scoring fairly equally between the two halves, but his spurt — like Clark's — for ten straight points midway through the final period, was impressive.

Clemson grabbed a 2-0 lead at the game's outset, but Grubar (twice) and Gerald Tuttle connected quickly for Carolina and the Frosh were away and running. The Cubs trailed by only nine, 23-14 with 8:57 left. But then Grubar asserted himself by scoring ten of the next 14 points to run his team's lead to 37-19 with 2:45 left in the half.

Clark, who was forced to the bench twice during the opening half when he got his third and fourth fouls, broke from the starting gate like a man possessed after controlling the second half tapoff.

He tapped in one basket, took a Tuttle pass for a lay-up, jumped one in from the foul line and overpowered his defender for a drive shot before hacking on a rebound for his fifth foul.

There were some catcalls from the stands while the big boy suffered through the first 20 minutes. But he showed them a nice comeback before fouling out.

In a good reserve role, Jim Bostick played a strong game off the board. Joe Brown grossed 11 points and rebounded equally with Bunting, who blocked numerous shots.

Then Paul Camnitz, Bill Adams, and Don Rindfleisch came in to score and round out the well-coordinated team victory.

Richie Mahaffey, fourth of the Mahaffey brothers who played for Clemson led his team with 20 points.

Just a football note here and there before we wrap up the season.

Of course the name of Tar Heel quarterback Danny Talbott comes to mind. Final ACC statistics show Talbott the total offensive leader — edging Virginia quarterback Tom Hodges. Talbott passed for 1,080 yards, rushed for 397 to post a total of 1,477 yards. Hodges, who led the offensive chase much of the season, checked in with 1,382 total yards — 1,299 yards of which came through the air.

Talbott ran away with the scoring department. He scored seven touchdowns, kicked 13 extra points and five field goals for a total of 70 points. The closest competitor was Duke sophomore fullback Jay Calabrese with 54 points.

In the pass receiving department, the Tar Heels placed two in the top ten. Wingback Bob Hume placed sixth in the department with 30 receptions for 266 yards.

Right behind in seventh place was tight end John Atherton with 29 catches for 433 yards and one touchdown.

John Pincavage of Virginia was the pass receiving leader with 45 catches for 572 yards. The 45 receptions were four short of the ACC record of 49.

The Tar Heels placed three men in the rushing top ten. Fullback Tom Lampman placed sixth in the overall standings with 444 yards in 108 carries. Close behind in seventh place was senior Max Chapman with 415 yards in 103 carries.

Of course a familiar figure was ninth in ACC rushing. You guessed it — Danny Talbott claimed the spot with 397 yards in 96 carries.

Three Tar Heel gridders received honorable mention nods on the Associated Press All-America football team.

Talbott was selected in the backfield, Ed Stringer at center, and Joe Fratangelo at a defensive middle guard.

Turning to basketball, junior Bob Lewis has taken over for Billy Cunningham in more ways than one.

The Washington, D. C., native has inherited the final spot in the pre-game player presentations. Four starters are introduced then out comes Bobby — just like old times.

But Lewis has also inherited the Billy Cunningham "towel-clinging" act. Remember the pre-game player introductions last season? Cunningham's name would be announced and he would take a few reluctant steps, flip his towel to one side, then join the four other starters.

Well, Lewis has the same moves. At least he displayed them in the pre-season scrimmages with the frosh.

Pre-season predictions for the ACC basketball race are running hot and heavy. The consensus seems to tab Duke the class outfit. The Blue Devils have two of last season's all-ACC performers, Jack Marin and Bob Verga, and second team choice Steve Vacendak.

Picked for second are the Maryland Terps. Coach Bud Millikan has all five starters returning from last season.

Picked for third is defending conference champ N. C. State.

The Tar Heels grabbed the fourth position. In fifth place are the Tigers of Clemson. In sixth is Wake Forest; seventh, Virginia; eighth, South Carolina.

Dolphins Dunk VMI 76-18, Tigers, Gamecocks Next

By BILL HASS, DTH Sports Writer

The UNC Dolphins opened the swimming season with an easy 76-18 win over VMI yesterday at Bowman Gray indoor pool.

Carolina swept first place in every event and had only two third places.

In the 50-yard freestyle, Jay Scattergood of UNC came in first with a time of 23.1. McGee of VMI was second, Strud Norfleet of Carolina third and Todd of VMI fourth.

Steve Hildenbrand captured the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 1:55.9. John Sheldon of Carolina was second, Goodall and Shackelford of VMI were third and fourth.

Pete Worthen had an easy time winning the 500-yard freestyle in 5:27.1. Sheldon finished second in the event, too, while VMI's Shackelford and Hedquist were third and fourth.

The 100-yard freestyle went to Russ Sleeper with a time of 51.0. Jim Bernuth of UNC was second, Goodall and Todd of VMI brought up the rear.

Lee Domina won the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 2:14.5. Van Landingham of VMI was second, Meybin of VMI was third. UNC's Rick Forum actually finished first, but was disqualified when he failed to touch the side with both hands.

Tom Adams barely nosed out Hosket of VMI to win the 200-yard butterfly. Hosket appeared to catch Adams in the last 25-yard stretch, but Adams won with a last surge in a time of 2:18.4. Carolina's Dan Bissell was third.

Rick Mercuri zipped his way to the 200-yard backstroke win with a 2:10.5 time. Jack Hayden of Carolina was second, McGee and Augustine of VMI third and fourth.

Joe Lea won the 200-yard breaststroke in 2:30.0. Jim Britt of UNC was second, Meybin and Sadler of VMI third and fourth.

In the diving competition, Rob Aydelette of Carolina scored 159.7 points to beat Morin of VMI, who totaled 132.8.

Carolina's 400-yard medley relay team of Gaye Strat-Lipp and Ed Ragland won in a time of 3:59.1. The 400-yard freestyle relay team of Rick Miller, Ron Miller, Lee Domina and Ed Ragland splashed to a 3:29.9 winning time.

Coach Pat Earey of Carolina said the meet "went exactly as expected." The Dolphins hit the road for a meet with Clemson today and South Carolina on Friday.

General Electric is an easy place to work. All you need is brains, imagination, drive and a fairly rugged constitution.

Oh, yes. Something else that will help you at G.E. is an understanding of the kind of world we will live in, and the kind of world we will live in.

There's a lot happening: The population is continuing to explode. The strain on resources is becoming alarming. At a time when men are being lured by the mysteries of space, we're faced with the task of making life on earth more livable.

There's a lot happening at G.E., too, as our people work in a hundred different areas to help solve the problems of a growing world: Supplying more (and cheaper) electricity with nuclear reactors. Controlling smog in our cities and pollution in our streams. Providing better street lighting and faster transportation.

This is the most important work in the world today: Helping to shape the world of tomorrow. Do you want to help? Come to General Electric, where the young men are important men.
