Reapportionment Studied

RALEIGH (AP) - A tentative reapportionment plan being studied by North Carolina House members would give the Piedmont and bordering counties control of the House of Representatives.

The plan, a knowledgeable source said yesterday, would reduce the representation from far western and eastern counties, cutting the House membership from a dozen northeastern counties from 12 to 16-member committee and has been distributed to the 120 members of the House for study. House Speaker Pat Taylor has indicated the plan will be made public tomorrow. Under the tentative plan, 33 counties in the Piedmont would gain 12 seats in the House. Currently, the counties have 50 representatives. If the tentative plan is adopted by a special session of the General Assembly, the counties in the Piedmont and along its border would have 62 House The plan was drafted by a members - or a majority.

CU Tutoring Programs Help Image Of Students

University are working in many ways to kill the stereotyped image of the demonstrating - picketing agitator. Volunteer tutoring programs at all four branches of the Consolidated University are demonstrating how helpful and community-oriented North Carolina's college students are. These tutoring centers work in a social and educational setting with elementary and high school children who don't achieve as highly as they could, and try to get these children interested in education. Right now 3 programs (Charlotte University tutors are just Students at the Consolidated beginning their service) have about 350 volunteer student tutors helping over 700 children from 1st grad up through high school.

Michael H. Lawler, coordinator for Youth Educational Services, (YES) a newly formed consulting service for college-based tutoring services throughout the state, explains why these tutoring services are purposely centered around col-

"College students have a high sense of community progress. Where they used to be thought of as lazy and passive, they are now getting concern for the state and its people. The students are extremely enthusiastic about these projects, and readily take on the responsibilities that go with them. Also, the kids being helped feel much closer to college age people."

YES began last September, when it received grants totalling $30,000 from the Ford Foundation, the North Carolina Fund and the Learning Institute of North Carolina. Its headquarters at the Quail Roose Conference Center 12 miles north of Durham was also given to it by the Learning Institute.

Beer on the # rocks?

(Oh, no!)

The other day, for the first time, our brewmaster heard of "beeron-the-rocks." He fell apart.

He really doesn't have anything against ice cubes . . . for scotch or old-fashioneds or lemonade. But not for beer. Especially the King of Beers.

You see, he knows how much extra time and expense it takes to get that Budweisers taste and smoothness and drinkability. Add a couple of ice cubes and "bloop"... there goes all that extra effort.

Ice cuts down the head and waters down the taste. And, with Budweiser, that's a tragedy. Budweiser is the only beer in America that's Beechwood Aged. We allow Bud to brew its own tiny bubbles . . . slowly, naturally . . . over a dense lattice of beechwood strips. That's why Budweiser tastes better, foams better and sets better-glass after glass.

So if you know somebody who likes to plunk ice cubes in his Budweiser, please don't tell our brewmaster. (We hate to see a grown man cry.)

it's worth it...it's Bud.
