All newspapers aren't part of the yellow press. DTH columnist Mike Jennings has had experience with one of the nonyellow ones. See his report on Sports Editor Gene Rector and Staff Writer Bill Rollins have pregame stories on the freshman and varsity encounters with N. C. State. See page 4 on the details.

Volume 74. Number 78

page two.

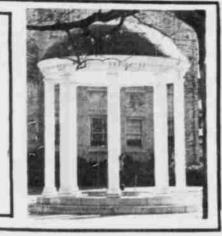

CHAPEL HILL NORTH CAROLINA WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 12, 1966

The South's Largest College Newspaper

Founded February 23, 1893.

CAROLINA STYLE

with Ed Freakley

-$$, &(?_3/4!x:

Chapel Hill is a prison.

The jailors here consist of what we call middleclass merchants. They have a captive audience-12,000 University students-for nine months every year.

During the summer there is a decrease and these jailors only have to worry with about 5,000 inmates. Punishment is dealt out in dollars and cents. Prison guards get together every so often and decide how much punishment is to be taken in.

Last summer the laundry wardens conferred and decided that 25 cents wasn't quite stiff enough for a clean shirt. Up went the price to 28 cents.

The average prisoner is paving roughly an extra $4.05 over the nine-month period, if you assume that he or she wearing shirts or blouses has them cleaned after wearing them two times.

This means the laundries are bringing in about an extra $48,600 from the regular 12,000 inmates.

Of course, this does not include the steep prices for dry cleaning.

Take a look at the menu in any dining hall. Notice how old prices are scratched out? Even in the main campus eating establishment the so called "student special" has gone up 10 cents over last year. Perhaps they are cooking the food now.

Clothing wardens, who sell everything from shoes to striped shirts, probably run death row more efficiently than the rest.

True, they have their regular pardons two or three times a year. But even then the prices only come down to a little above normal.

The book sellers make a killing, too. When inmates sell a book back they have to take less than half of what they paid for it. The dealer then resells the book for a dollar or so under the previous price.

After three or four rounds of buying the book back and reselling it again the dealers are making a 200 per cent profit. But some writers cut them short by putting out a new edition every year.

However, even here the inmate takes the pocket punishment. The dealer won't buy back his book if it isn't being used, and he is stuck once again.

The walls here get steeper every year. It won't be long before inmates won't be able to afford to come to this prison.

Attorney Stresses University Image

Monday night that UNC professors should exercise self-

The Durham attorney called for increased communication between the professor and the people of the state at the meeting, which was held in the Morehead Planetarium

"We have seen that the principles of academic freedom may be temporarily lost or curtailed," he said "Academic freedom is such a just and necessary thing that it could never be withheld for long by any administration or

Board of Trustees. "This, however, does not relieve them from the obligation to distinguish between right and wrong, or between truth and falsity," he said.

Bryant told the professors that they had a duty to uphold the "image" of the University.

"The faculty members themselves should enforce discipline in their own ranks." he said. "In this way only can real protection against the abuses of academic freedom be effectively exercised. Bryant cited a section of Victor S. Bryant, a mem- the University Code which ber of the Executive Com- states. "The professor should mittee of the UNC Board of recognize that accuracy, Trustees, told the local chap- forthrightness, and dignity, beter of the American Associa- fit his association with the tion of University Professors University and his psoition as a man of learning."

He described the supporters restraint as well as academic of the recently modified Speaker Ban Law as "friends of the University, acting in what they believed to be its best interests.

"They had just granted the largest appropriations on rec-ord for the University," he

"The professor has been set apart from the man who pays his salary check," Bryant said. "There exists a gap between the two.

"The taxpayer and the university professor have had no misunderstanding," he said. 'They have simply failed to have an understanding. "This lack of understanding can be attributed in large measure to the failure of the professor and the public to communicate with each other," Bryant said.

"There must be an intelligent study and careful consideration of both their points of view," he said.

"The responsible guardians of academic freedom look upon communication with their colleague, their trustees and the public as a definite responsibility." Bryant said.

Selection Committee

Faculty members and students who have suggestions for changing the office of Chancellor of the University or know of someone who might fill the office are asked to write to Dr. William Wells of the English Department in 305 Bingham Hall.

Wells is the chairman of a special committee to select a new chancellor and study the office of chancellor.

The committee has planned a special conference with outgoing Chancellor Paul Sharp, who resigned his position Dec. 9 to assume the presidency of Drake University.

Other committee members include professors Kenneth Brinkhaus, John N. Couch, Frank W. Klingberg, William S. Mason, John Charles Morrow III, and Rollie Tillman

Sharp came to UNC in July, 1964 from the presidency of Hiram College. He declined to comment on the reasons for his resigna-Dr. J. Carlyle Sitterson, Kenan Professor history, is serving as acting Chancellor until the committee can find a replacement.

Consolidated University President William C. Friday, who named the committee, said he would speak to alumni and other interested groups before presenting his recommendations to the Board of Trustees.

UNC Blood Drive Wants Ideas Begins Next Month

By ERNIE McCRACY DTH Editor

A blood drive for Viet Nam will be held on the UNC campus Feb. 16 and 17. The Daily Tar Heel has made arrangements with the American Red Cross to have a drive here as a part of the Defense Department's College Blood Donations for Defense program.

Bill Cade, representative from the Piedmont Carolina Blood Center in Charlotte, visited Chapel Hill yesterday to help organize the campaign.

A goal of 600 pints has been set. "Even though we're sending all our available equipment," Cade said, "we just can't collect more than 300 pints a day."

None of the blood will go for civilian use, although little of it will be sent to Viet Nam as whole blood because it is perishable and difficult to store.

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara said several months ago, "I want to express my deepest appreciation to the thousands of students and other groups across the country who have volunterred to donate blood as a gesture of support for our servicemen fighting in Viet Nam. "Although at the present time our blood supply for Viet Nam is adequate, the Department of Defense does have a requirement for blood which can be processed into antihepatitis globulin and albumin for treating shock. These two derivatives, unlike whole blood, can be stored for long periods of time and are being used to protect and support our military forces in Viet Nam. Reserve supplies of antihepatitis globulin have been particularly depleted as a result of the build-up there," McNamara said.

Red Cross spokesmen told the DTH that Defense Department needs for blood have doubled since the first estimate was made last year.

Sonny Pepper, president of the Men's Residence Council, has consented to coordinate the drive to get blood donors and workers to man the collection facilities. Some campus groups have been discussing the possibility of a blood drive and two of them, Arnold Air month, is held in plastic bag by Irene Ferris, medical tech-Society and Sigma Nu, have expressed interest in working with Pepper. Any other campus organization wishing to help should call Pepper at 929-5282 or at the Dean of Men's office between 1 and 3 p.m.

Dean of Student Affairs C. O. Cathey strongly supported the blood drive in a statement yesterday. "I think this is the most helpful contribution students can make. I am confident that the program will be supported from all over the campus," he said.

New Student Union To Be Inadequate When Finished

By TONY GARDNER

Special To The DTH Construction of the $2 million Frank Porter Graham Student Union Building will begin on Emerson Field this spring with a tentative completion date set for November.

The new union will be too small "even before ground is broken," according to Dean of Student Affairs C. O. Cathey, 'but it is far better than the facilities now available." Originally, construction was to have started in December, 1963, Cathey said. The new student union is one of three new buildings to be built together and it was desirable to let the contract for all three to one contractor.

Letting the contract to only one contractor eliminates any confusion that would result in three different contractors building three buildings next to each other.

In order to get bids and let the contract all the plans must be complete. The plans were held up when it was decided to redesign the Book Exchange Building to house the Duplicating division and some administrative offices from Steele Hall as well as the Book Ex. This meant changing the building from five to nine stories and causing the delay. The new Union will be located in the heart of student traffic, which will be increased by this building as well as the new Book Exchange and the new Undergraduate Library.

At five times the size of Graham Memorial, the new Union will have 100,000 square feet of floor space and be capable of expanding another 74,000 square feet with the addition of a wing on the east end and by adding another

The building will be three stories with an entrance on the ground floor from Raleigh Road and an entrance on the main floor from the Lenoir

The ground floor will contain service areas, the air conditioning unit, storage rooms, a snack bar, 12 bowling lanes. 17 billiard tables, an arts and crafts shop, a lounge for chess, checkers, cards, etc., and a barber shop.

The main floor will have the main desk and information service, a snack bar, a lobby lounge and a south lounge. Daily Tar Heel space, and a large general purpose lounge for lectures, plays, dances.

Peddlers Caught Selling In Dorms

WARM BLOOD, just like the kind you can give next

DTH News Editor

nologist in the Blood Bank.

Four magazine peddlers were arrested in Craige Residence Hall Monday night, according to Campus Security Chief Arthur Beaumont. They were charged in the Chapel Hill Recorders Court and convicted for soliciting, said. No sentence was made provided they left town. Beaumont said their crew leader was not able to post bail for his salesmen because "he was on probation for doing the same thing last

They represented the Union Circulation Co. of Peach Tree Street, Northwest Atlanta, Ga. "Various" addresses were given, Beaumont said, but none of them was local.

Chief Beaumont has "at least 15 checks" the solicitors had collected from students, and some ten more orders for which checks had already

"They have the students make the checks out to them," he said, "and they cash the checks as soon as possible.' They admitted soliciting without licenses in Grimes, Morrison. Beaumont said they Manly, Old West, Craige and had tried to obtain a license earlier Monday but were denied one. "They went ahead and tried to sell anyway. These peddof magazine available. "You name it, they had it," Beaumont said. Students who bought magazines from them can pick up their checks from Beaumont lers had almost every kind on the second floor of the Y-Building at 8:30 a.m. or 3:30

However, some of the checks were already cashed Beaumont said. He indicated that some orders might have been hidden by the salesmen, so not all of the money was recovered.

Playmaker Play Begins Run

The Carolina Playmakers will open tonight in Playmaker's Theater with Ugo Betti's comedy "Holiday Mountain." The play will run through Sunday night, including a Sunday matinee at 2:30 p.m. Evening preformances will begin at 8 p.m. Harry Davis, director of the Playmakers, has selected Anne Mallard Davis of Chapel Hill, and veteran of the New York professional stage, for the leading role. Others in the production include Ben Jones of Chapel Hill, Sherry Elledge of Marion, J. Earl Lasater of Pittsboro and Catherine Waring of Goldsboro.

The settings for the production are by Tommy Rezzuto, costumes by Irene Smart Rains, and the lighting by Russell B. Graves.

Playmakers Business M a nager John W. Parker announced yesterday that good seats still remain for all performances. Reserved seat tickets are available at the Playmakers Business offices, 214 Abernathy Hall, and at Ledbetter - Pickard's on Franklin Street.

Tickets will also be available one hour before each performance at the box - office in the Playmakers Theatre

Rush Registration

Today is the last day for junior, sophomore, and freshmen women to sign up for so-rority spring rush according to Madeline Gray, president of the Pan Hellenic Council. Women should sign up in the Dean of Women's office, 202 South Building.

Astronauts Visit Campus

Gemini IX astronauts Elliot See, Charles Bassett, and Eugene Cernan have just completed the first step in their training at the Morehead Planetarium.

The Gemini VIII through XII missions will concentrate on perfecting rendezvous and docking techniques. The three began their study

10 and left yesterday after-Each team of astronauts regularly comes to north Carolina two or three times for an intensive study session, according to planetarium direc-session Monday evening, Jan.

Morrison Gets Pins

tor A. F. Jenzano.

Morrison Residence College is the first hall on campus to have its own fraternity-type pins. According to Jim Lenz, president of "A" House, Morrison is probably the first in the nation to have them.

The idea originated last fall in the minds of Lenz, John Ellis, Byron McCoy, and College Master Chuck Longine. The plan is designed to add to the unity of the dormitory.

There is no intention of detracting from fraternities, but simply to add loyalty to Morrison, according to Lenz. The pins, to be distributed initially to Morrison officers, include actual diamonds set in the gold trim. After officers receive their pins, sales will be made to all residents of the College.

are diamond shaped with an inlaid onyx. Later models will

Room Rent Refund

All students eligible for the $12.50 room rent refund this semester who did not pick up their check, have had the amount credited to their accounts, according to University cashier, M. E. Woodard. These refunds total $8,937.50. Seven hundred and fifteen men students were eligible to receive them.

Students who were eligible for the refunds and do not owe the university money may have their fees and tuition for the spring semester reduced by $12.50. Students who will not be here for the spring semester will be mailed their checks if they do not pick

K Lot Expanded

The K parking lot behind the Carolina Inn will be changed during semester break in order to create more spaces for students, according to Assistant Dean of Men Bob The lot is shared by students and the employes of the The change will provide about 18 more spaces for stu-

Kepner said there were about 100 students spaces before Thanksgiving at which time the lot was changed to provide more spaces for Inn employes. The new change is designed as a compromise between the number of spaces in the old lot and in the present one.

Ham To Tour World

Dr. George C. Ham, clinical professor of psychiatry and former chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at the North Carolina School of Medicine, will leave late this month on a seven week world tour as a consultant for the National Institute of Mental Health, the Peace Corps and other agencies.

lulu, Japan, Hong Kong, Bangkok, Ceylon, India, Nepal, Kenya, Ethiopia, Israel, Greece, and Italy,

Spitaleri Wins

Mario Spitaleri, a graduate student in the Department of Radio, T.V., and Motion Pictures at North Carolina has been awarded a $1,000 prize for dramatic playwriting by the University of Los

He won the award for a two act play "Pantero."

WUNC Seeks Help

WUNC-FM radio is looking for people interested in working for them.

They need music continuity writers, announcers, engineers, interviewers, news reporters, and anybody with an idea for a program they would like to see produced. Anyone interested in doing

Library Schedule

any of these or something else should contact John W. Dawson, program coordinator.

Wilson Library will go on a special schedule during the semester break from Jan. 27 through Jan. 31.

On the 27th it will be open from 7:45 a.m. - 5 p.m.; on the 28th from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.; on the 29th from 9 a.m. - 1 p.m. The library will be closed on Sun. the 30th. On Monday the library will be opened

The library will resume its regular schedule on Tues., Feb. 1 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Internship Program

Governor Dan K. Moore today urged college students interested in state government His tour will include Hono- to apply for the 1966 Summer Internship Program.

He said 25 students will be selected to take part in the 11 week program.

Pub Board Will Meet

Editors and business managers for the Carolina Handbook and the Course Evaluation Booklet will be selected Thursday. Interviews will be held by the Publications Board at 3:00 in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial.

The Carolina Handbook is published each spring and distributed to freshmen and transfer students in the fall. It contains a synopsis of campus organizations and extra curricular activities as well as a "Majors Handbook" and Carolina "Who's Who."

The editor is responsible for revisions, layouts and materials. In the past this position has commanded a $100 salary. The business manager so-ments for the handbook. He receives a straight ten per cent commission. The Course Evaluation Booklet was first published last spring by the Academic Affairs Committee. The Student licits and collects advertise-annual publication. As set up last year, the booklet gives a brief review of favorite elective courses and the professors teaching them.

Legislature hs voted to make the booklet a permanent, bi-

The editor is responsible for collecting information and layout. No salary has yet been established for the editor, but according to Hugh Blackwell of the Student Government Finance Committee, payment should parallel that of the Carolina Handbook editor.

the Course Evaluation Booklet will also receive a ten per cent commission on all advertisements. Any student in good standing who is unable to attend the Publications Board meeting should contact Dave Heacock at 968-9215.

The business manager for work is never done. What about us guys? This

THAT'S A BUNCH of stuff about a woman's laundry jazz gets old week after week. -DTH Photo by Ernest Robl