SDS Radical: 'Going To Roots'

By GLENN MAYS
DTH Staff Writer

It's called the Students for Democratic Society, or SDS.

That is the name of the organization that, by its invitation of Dr. Herbert Aptheker to speak on the campus, has caused another state-wide stir concerning "intellectual freedom," "constitutional rights" and "free speech."

SDS, a recognized campus organization, is small as far as membership goes. It's made up of about 25 or 30 members.

"We're not sure just how many members we have," says Gary Waller, SDS vice chairman. "We don't keep any records of membership. We're probably the least bureaucratic organization on campus."

The UNC-SDS chapter was formed last spring, according to Waller, "when several students wanted an organization which would express our views."

"We wanted something that would represent the liberal thought on campus. I saw something about SDS in a magazine and liked it and told the others about it. We had a couple of meetings and that's how we got started," Waller said.

Norman Gustavson, the director of the campus YMCA, was also consulted about forming the SDS chapter, Waller added. Gustavson was one of the first advisors for the group. Dr. William Wynn and Dr. Joseph Straley are the other advisors.

"The advisors take a very active part in the organization," Waller said. "They attend our meetings and give opinions on what we should do. We consult them frequently and use them more than other groups use their advisors on campus."

The SDS is made up of both undergraduate and graduate students and by in-state and out-of-state students.

Until now it has been headed by Jim McCorkel. He resigned as chairman Wednesday, however, in the heat of the controversy over Aptheker's invitation to speak here. A new chairman is to be chosen today, McCorkel said he resigned in order to devote more time to the dissertation for his doctorate.

The group is committed to a "participatory democracy" according to Waller, and that is what he calls its philosophy.

"People should take part in the decisions that affect their day to day lives," he said.

"Our purpose is to promote debate," Waller said, "not to promote our philosophy. We just make it available."

The vice chairman said the members range from "moderate liberals to radicals." However, he said "radical" was used in the sense of "going to the roots of issues."

"There are no ideological meanings to SDS," Waller added. "We would probably be on the 'left' of most issues but there is no commitment to Marxism."

The UNC-SDS chapter is associated with the national SDS organization, Waller said, but is not associated with any other groups on campus.

"We share some members with the Student Peace Union," he said, "but we are not associated with them."

SDS is totally operated by students, Waller said. Dues for the organization are $3 for the first year and $1 for each year after that. Waller said other finances are gained through the sale of pamphlets, buttons and through private contributions.

Dickson Calls Mass Meeting On Aptheker

Executive Board Decides Monday

By ED FREAKLEY
DTH Staff Writer

A building tide of support for Communist Herbert Aptheker's acceptance as a speaker here grew yesterday as Student Body President Paul Dickson called for a mass student meeting at noon Monday in Memorial Hall.

Dr. William Fleming of the political science department said late yesterday that younger faculty members, 40 and under, were going to present a statement to the board of trustees and the Governor Monday.

Raleigh Man On Red Ban

There has been no word from Raleigh since the exploding reactions of students, faculty and others in the University community concerning Gov. Dan K. Moore's denunciation of an invitation to Communist Herbert Aptheker to speak on campus March 9.

The executive committee of the University board of trustees will meet in Raleigh to decide the Aptheker case.

Fleming said he didn't know how many faculty members would be able to get away for the meeting, but most of them are in favor of the move.

"These are associate and full professors," Fleming said, "who are deeply concerned about the future of the University."

"They are afraid that if the committee decides against Aptheker that this University will have no future — and they in turn will have no future at this University," Fleming said.

In his statement Saturday Dickson said the purpose of the student meeting is to draft two telegrams to be sent to Gov. Dan K. Moore and the executive committee.

"I will explain the various factors involved in our current action and I will seek approval of my action from the student body," Dickson said.

Also expected to speak at the meeting are Wilson Clark of the Carolina Conservative Club, Dr. Lewis Lipsitz of the Political Science Department, Dr. Joseph W. Straley of the Physics Department and SDS faculty advisor, and Gary Waller vice chairman of SDS.

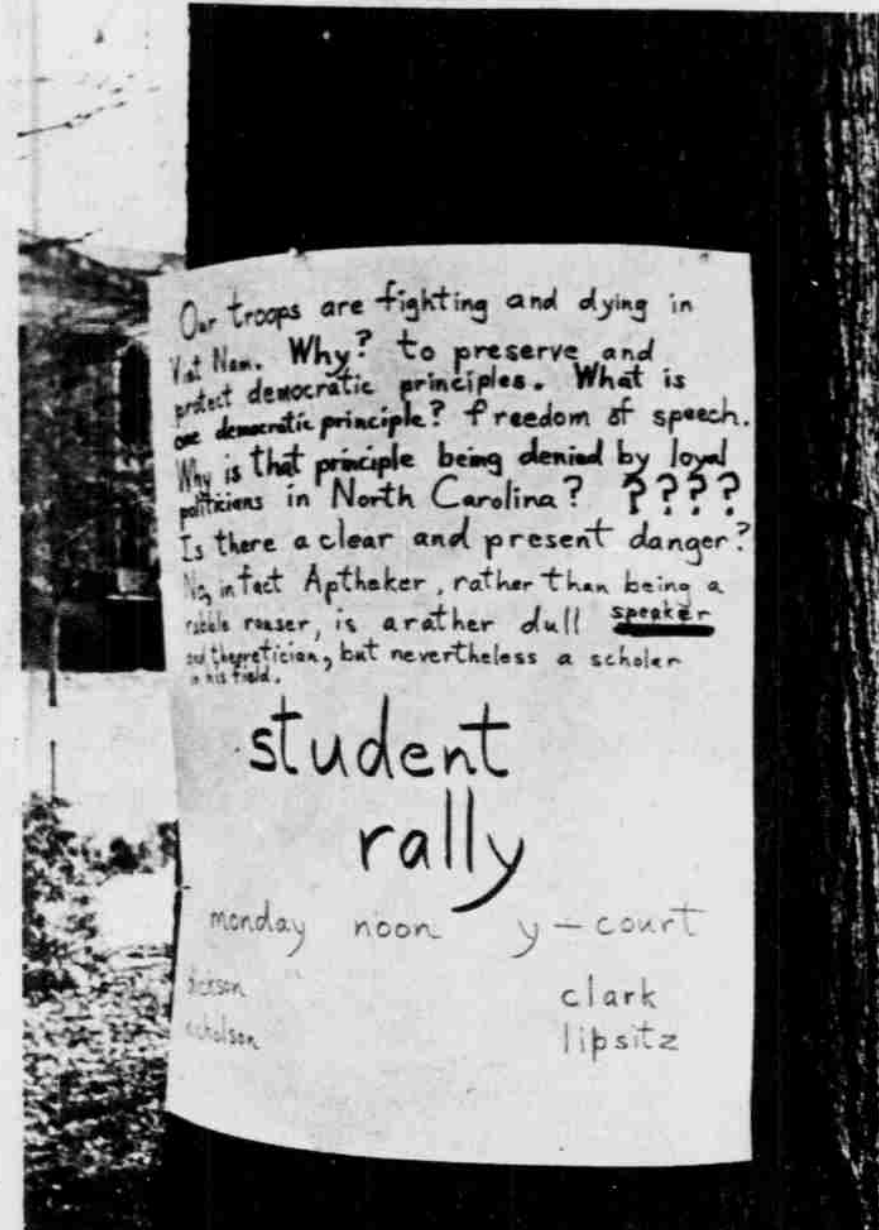

Dickson asked that no students or faculty members attend the meeting in Raleigh unless they have permission to speak.

"The presence of a large number of students and faculty could give the appearance to the trustees that Dr. Aptheker's appearance would create serious disturbance on the campus which would introduce an unnecessary factor into their considerations," Dickson said.

Friday, three students, Dandra Burden, Nancy Barrett and Charles Evans, organized and began circulating a petition around campus supporting Aptheker's right to speak, but disagreeing with what he represents.

"It is my hope that every student will sign the petition by 1 p.m. Monday so that I can take them with me to the meeting," Dickson said.

The petitions will be circulated in Y-Court, Lenoir Hall and the Pine Room Monday morning. Copies will also be passed around at the student meeting at noon.

THIS POSTER announcing a mass student meeting on Monday appeared on a tree in Polk Place yesterday. The poster maker erred, however, since the meeting will be held in Memorial Hall. The poster is only one of many indications showing the rising interest in the Aptheker issue.

Marching Mavericks

The Mavericks of Craige Resident Hall have done, and are doing more than any other group to improve and build the image of this University.

This weekend they have been hiking 140-miles on behalf of the Heart Fund.

The group will march into Chapel Hill sometime between 4 and 4:30 this afternoon to assist in the ground breaking ceremony for the Hinton James Resident Hall at 4:30. We urge everyone to turn out and welcome the Mavericks home.

Thoughtful is a good word for Mavericks — unselfish is a better one.

Two Stands Not In Conflict

It is true that we want a Communist to be permitted to speak on campus. Freedom of speech is important to us and it belongs to us, not the State Government or the board of trustees — it belongs to each individual.

At any rate, we back the war effort in Viet Nam. And we are backing the boys over there.

Congressman On Viet Nam

Time for some more of that popular game called Trivia. It seems to be catching on around here so we offer you a few more questions.

1. What is the name of the son on the television program "Father Knows Best?"
2. What is the name of the editor Clark Kent works for and what is the name of his paper?
3. What was the first movie Liz Taylor (Burton) starred in?
4. What day is "Anything Can Happen Day?"
5. Who was Artie Katz?
6. Who did Charlie Chaplin borrow his first pair of baggy pants from?
7. What is Lady Bird Johnson's real first name?
8. What is the name of Sgt. Preston's dog?
9. Who is known for the saying: "There are ducks on the pond, part'nar?"
10. What was the name of the old woman who sold apples in "Pocket Full of Miracles?"

ANSWERS:

1. Bud Anderson; 2. Perry White and The Daily Planet; 3. "National Velvet"; 4. Wednesday on the "Mickey Mouse Club" show; 5. Star Carolina basketball reserve during the 63-64 season; 6. Fatty Arbuckle; 7. Claudia; 8. King; 9. Dizzy Dean; 10. Apple Annie.

DTH Increases News Coverage

Readers of The Daily Tar Heel have most likely noticed the changes which have taken place since two more pages were added this semester.

Page one will remain the campus news page, page four will contain world and state news from the two wire machines in the offices of the DTH.

The sports page has been moved inside to page five. More space has been provided for intramural coverage and commentary.

The DTH is open to comment, suggestions and criticism about any phase of the new layout.

Page three will be devoted to feature stories, letters, TV listings and columnists, all of which are welcomed and invited.

Page six will carry the Campus news and other announcements. Any campus organization may make announcements through the Campus Calendar.

New stories about coming events concerning a greater number of people may be submitted to the News Editor for use in the news briefs section of page one.

Students are welcome to submit columns to the DTH, and arrangements may be made with the Associate Editor by anyone wishing to write weekly columns.

Hikers To Arrive Today; Building Ceremonies Set

By STEVE BENNETT
DTH Staff Writer

The last members of Maverick House taking part in the Hinton James Hike for Hearts will arrive in Chapel Hill this afternoon.

They will be carrying a torch, symbol of the Heart Fund, which has been relayed the past two days and nights during the Mavericks' 140-mile hike to Chapel Hill.

The first hikers left Burgaw on Friday afternoon at 2:30 to begin re-enactment of the two-week walk Hinton James made to Chapel Hill in 1795. James became the first student at UNC.

The hikers went west on 53 from Burgaw to 421, then north on 421 to Clinton. They were met in Clinton at 8 a.m. Saturday by the Sampson County Heart Association.

Henry Skinner, Maverick House originator of the Hike for Hearts, was one of the first walkers to complete his part of the relay hike.

Skinner said: "Hiking is good for the heart but bad for the feet."

The hikers continued relaying the torch through Dunn to Apex. The Wake County heart officials were to meet them at 8 a.m. this morning in Apex.

After leaving Apex the hikers will continue on 55 until they reach 54 near Durham.

The last torch carriers will follow 54 into Chapel Hill. They will be joined by other students, faculty, administration and guests for the ground breaking ceremony for Hinton James Residence Hall this afternoon at 4:30.

President Friday, State Chairman of the 1966 Heart Fund Drive, and Chancellor Sharp will represent the University.

The N. C. Heart Association will be represented by Board Chairman Hargrove Bowles, President Daniel T. Young and the 1966 Heart Research Queen Jeanne Rhodes.

Mrs. Everett (Ann James) Durham, great granddaughter of Hinton James will also be present.

The ceremony will be held on the new Hinton James Residence Hall site on Manning Road across from Chase Cafeteria.

Undergraduate Library Larger Than Expected

A $657,000 federal grant will make it possible for the new North Carolina undergraduate library to be expanded before it is even built.

Plans for the library had called for a $1,315,000 structure of approximately 60,000 square feet. With the new grant a $1,972,000 building of close to 80,000 square feet will be constructed. The federal money was awarded under the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963.

Expected date of completion of the library, which will be named for former chancellor

Robert B. House, is mid-1968.

To be located beside the present L. R. Wilson Library, it will be a three-level contemporary style and will be air-conditioned and carpeted throughout.

An attempt to provide as many individual comfortable seats as possible is being made and 2,000 seats will be available, as contrasted with the undergraduate section of the present library which only has seats for 200. Space will also be arranged to house 75,000 volumes.

Service, 204 Gardner, and make an appointment.

SP To Hear Dickson

Student Body President Paul Dickson will address the Student Party Tuesday night in Howell Hall at 8:30.

He will discuss the Aptheker issue and the role of Student Government and the DTH in issuing an invitation to Aptheker to speak on campus.

After President Dickson's address, questions will be received from the floor, followed by the election of legislative vacancies in MD IX, Avery Parker, and Teague; MD I, outside the corporate limits of Chapel Hill and Carrboro; and MD XII, Morrison.

All faculty members, students, and townspeople are invited to this meeting. Anyone interested in the legislative vacancies should also attend.

Firms To Interview

Six companies will be on campus to recruit Monday. They are Coca-Cola, Ferris State College, General Foods, Communicable Disease Center, U. S. Public Health Service, and DCSLOG Data Processing Center.

On Monday Radio Corporation of America, Texaco, Scott Paper, Thalheimer Bros. Hallmark Cards, and Arizona State College will have representatives on campus.

Anyone wishing an interview should come by the Placement

Fellini Film Monday

The Italian Cultural Society will present Federico Fellini's film "I Vitelloni" tomorrow at 8 p.m. in rm. 2, Carroll Hall.

A contribution of 25 cents from non-members would be appreciated though not required.

Same Fiance, Girls Discover

LEXINGTON, N. C. (AP)—Harold Peoples had been courting two girls at the same time and promised to marry both, they said.

One girl lived in Lexington and the other in Thomasville and woe was last Christmas Day when the found out about each other.

There wasn't any hair-pulling. Instead they turned on Peoples—or rather his car. "Totally demolished," Peoples told the judge.

With rocks they broke the windows, headlights and windshield. With razor blades they ripped up the seat covers and upholstery.

After separate trials on charges of malicious damage to personal property this past week, both Maybell Williams, 21, of Thomasville, and Nellie Holt of Lexington were given suspended sentences and ordered to pay for repairs to the car.

Parking Ticket Policy

Any student who feels he has received a parking ticket or notice unjustly has 48 hrs. to appeal it under the new policy adopted by Dean of Men William Long.

A student who receives a ticket should appeal his case to the campus security chief, Arthur Beaumont, on the second floor of Y-Building.

Students who receive parking notices must talk to Alonzo Squires, traffic counselor if they want to appeal them.

Students with three or more parking tickets face a loss of motor vehicle privileges.

Poet Plans Reading

The North Carolina Poetry Circuit has selected award-winning poet James Dickey to read before ten state campuses in the spring. Dickey is tentatively scheduled to appear at North Carolina in April at the time of the Carolina Symposium.

Dickey, an Atlanta native, was educated at Clemson and Vanderbilt and has taught at Rice Institute and the University of Florida. He worked six years as an ad-man for agencies in New York and Atlanta then stopped in order to work abroad on a Guggenheim Fellowship grant in 1961-'62.

Nominated for the National Book Award in Poetry, he has published four collections of poems—Into the Stone, Helms, Drowning with Others and this year's Buckdancer's Choice.

Poets appearing on the North Carolina Poetry Circuit in the past include Donald Hall, founder-editor of the Paris Review; Alan Dugan, 1962 Pulitzer Prize winner in poetry.
