They'd Rather Switch

"Hello... This is the DTH. We are conducting a survey on whether women should be drafted. What do you think?"

"Are you kidding? What's the matter, don't you believe in motherhood?"

And so it went yesterday. We called every girls' residence hall and sorority on campus and talked to almost 50 coeds. Some of them didn't want to give their names, others had nothing to say, some just hung up and one young lady astounded us by saying yes.

Faryl Sims, history, Senior: "I think women should be drafted. Men are too chicken to be on the front lines and they want to push the women out in front."

One coed said women could never be drafted because "there aren't any midwives on the battle field."

Another when asked said "No!" We asked why and she replied, "Because I'm not dressed." We asked the question again and explained it but she gave the same answer.

Here are some more responses:

Nancy Raley, journalism, Junior: "I'm against it. If you were a girl would you want to be drafted?" If you were a man would you want to be drafted?"

Nancy Olson, English, Senior: "Unless they have a purpose for drafting women I don't see how they could use them. It isn't practical. The program is definitely geared for men right now."

Sally Ivey, English education, Junior: "I couldn't shoot a gun. I wouldn't be of any use to anybody."

Carol Smith, sociology, Junior: "I'm one of those old fogies that still believes that a woman's place is in the home."

I guess women don't want equal rights, or at least they would rather switch than fight.

Renovation Begins On Davie Project

By GLENN L. MAYES
DTH Staff Writer

The $1.5 million project to renovate Davie Hall got underway yesterday and some of the work has already brought protests.

The project, when completed, will add a modern look to the center of the campus and the building will house the University Psychology Department.

Allen S. Waters, director of construction and engineering at UNC, said yesterday the first part of the project will be to build a restraining fence around the construction area to keep people away and out of danger of falling bricks or debris.

The front part of the present building will be torn away and the wing on the north side of the building, constructed in 1925, will be remodeled.

The part of Davie Hall which is being torn away has been condemned, Waters said.

The unit will contain about 71,000 square feet of floor space. About 7,700 square feet of that area will be contained in the old wing of the building.

The project is expected to be completed in about 18 months. The entire cost is being financed by a National Science Foundation grant and through state appropriations.

Several trees were removed in the construction area which aroused comments from several persons. The level of the sidewalk which will be put in front of the new building is being lowered to the street level which made it necessary to remove the trees.

Eugene Brown, assistant to the director of planning, said several trees will be planted along the sidewalk when the construction project is finished.

Waters said he anticipated comments about changes being made on the site.

He said about 10 feet of the arborvitae will be taken up by the new building but he said that everything that can be moved will be saved.

WRC Recommends Late Permission For Jubilee

By PEYTIE FEARRINGTON
DTH Staff Writer

A recommendation for campus-wide late permission of 2 a.m. Friday and Saturday nights of Jubilee was approved unanimously by the Women's Residence Council Tuesday night. This petition was introduced by a Daily Tar Heel staff member Steve Bennett.

The administration had asked the Council to reconsider a recommendation for a senior late permission. This recommendation was discussed and voted upon unanimously to stand as is.

A proposal to extend freshman closed study until spring vacation was offered. Suggestions to abolish the program all together were also advanced. Both of these questions will be reviewed again next week.

Dean Carmichael retains the final authority for late permission, although she is influenced by WRC.

Mrs. Fulghum again proposed a stumbling block for senior late permission. "With the extra hours a house mother would have to work, the Dean of Women's office feels it is only fair to give the house mothers one night off a month. A substitute would have to be hired and paid. The graduate counsellors would have to be paid more for their extended service. A total of $25,000 per year is involved."

She added, "If the money is available, the change will be made anyway, because of the increased enrollment of women and a desire to free the house mothers from some of their extensive duties."

The Council questioned the necessity of the house mother staying up every night when graduate counsellors and trained members of House Council are present.

Four extra two-o'clocks on the third, sixth, ninth and twelfth Saturdays of fall and spring semesters passed by total consent.

Carol Ann Shaffer, who consulted with Dean Carmichael, proposed a plan to keep freshmen women in closed study until spring vacation.

A second proposal before council was a recommendation for total abolishment of closed study.

Brently Claris asserted, "I found closed study an opportune time to rearrange furniture and roll my hair."

Conversely, Mary Ann Fulghum debated, "Dr. Lehman, freshman advisor for the General College, strongly urges closed study from her own studies and experience."

At this point discussion of closed study was postponed until next week.

Sitterson Backs Up Trustees; Wilkinson Locked Off Campus

YESTERDAY'S APPEARANCE of Frank Wilkinson drew nearly 1,200 students and faculty at the north end of the campus. Flanked by two radio newsmen, Wilkinson applauds one of his own statements. He spoke on the sidewalk just off campus, separated from the crowd by a sign reading "Dan K. Moore's (Chapel Hill) Wall." Suit Might Be Filed By Sponsoring Groups

By ED FREAKLEY
DTH Staff Writer
Acting Chancellor J. Carlyle Sitterson refused Frank Wilkinson seeking advice on what action might be taken.

Student body president Paul Dickson said last night that he was in contact with various lawyers across North Carolina seeking advice on what action might be taken.

"As far as I can tell this will result in a court case," Dickson said. "As soon as lawyers advise me of what grounds we have, I will file suit."

In a statement yesterday afternoon Sitterson said that he did not feel he could grant Wilkinson permission to use University facilities to speak.

"The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees on Feb. 7, 1966, cancelled the scheduled appearances of Mr. Frank Wilkinson and Mr. Herbert Aptheker," Sitterson said.

"Consequently, even though prior to the executive committee action I recommended that the earlier invitation be allowed to stand, I regard their action as in effect binding in these two instances," Sitterson said.

Dickson said that if a suit is filed he will be a plaintiff. Wilkinson will join him in bringing the suit and so may some of the inviting groups.

He said he thought the suit would probably name the Governor, as chairman of the board of trustees, the board itself, President Friday and Sitterson as respondents.

At 7:30 last night, even though Dickson and Wilkinson knew of Sitterson's decision, they walked to Carroll Hall to attempt the speech.

Campus Security Officer Arthur Beaumont would not permit anyone to enter the building. He told Dickson that Sitterson had instructed him not to let the building be used for any purpose.

Dickson asked the crowd of 200 students if they wanted to hear Wilkinson, who is chairman of the committee to abolish HUAC. They roared back "Yes."

Several students in the group yelled for Wilkinson to speak right on the steps, which would have violated Sitterson's decision.

The group then moved to Hill House to hear Wilkinson speak on HUAC.

Almost 350 people attended the speech. They applauded loudly when former SDS chairman Jim McCorkel said that a test case was being planned.

At the speech, which was sponsored by SDS, ADA, the Carolina Forum and the YMCA, Wilkinson said the case would be developed immediately and would probably name seven or eight plaintiffs.

"They will be arguing for their right to hear and I will be arguing for my right to speak," Wilkinson said. "Don't let the Governor get away with this for one more day."

Wall Separates Speaker, 1,200

By PAT STITH
DTH Managing Editor
Frank Wilkinson, one of two men who have recently been banned from speaking on the campus of the University of North Carolina, talked to a crowd of students here yesterday from a sidewalk on this town's main street.

Students vigorously applauded him when he said, "I believe the situation in which we find ourselves here assembled is a disgrace to a great university. I don't think we should attempt to dignify this meeting even if we were to carry on a dialogue."

A knee-high rock wall separated Wilkinson from the crowd of students, estimated by Chapel Hill police chief William D. Blake at 1,200. The students gathered on McCorkle Place on University property.

Wilkinson was forced to yell much of his 10 minute talk in order to be heard above the noise of traffic. He spoke without the aid of a microphone because of a town ordinance prohibiting the use of amplifiers on sidewalks.

In introducing Wilkinson, student body President Paul Dickson said, "I feel this is a responsible way of demonstrating the ridiculousness of the procedures we have to follow."

On the wall separating Wilkinson from the students was a plywood sign which read, "Gov. Moore's (Chapel Hill) Wall."

The sign referred to a statement Tuesday by Dickson in which he said that Wilkinson would speak here separated from students by Moore's "wall of repression."

"This is the 131st university at which I have been invited to speak and this is the first place where I have been banned," Wilkinson said.

"I have come here in good faith to state my point of view. I hope that out of this effort we will be able to restore academic freedom to this university and to this state."

Here, Wilkinson received his longest applause.

He expressed hope that Sitterson would allow him to speak and then said, "I refuse to stand on a sidewalk and shout over a wall with the message I have for you."

Wilkinson, chairman of the Committee to Abolish the House Un-American Activities Committee, was invited to speak here, along with Communist Herbert Aptheker, by the Students for a Democratic Society.

Both were refused dates to speak by the Executive Committee of the UNC Board of Trustees Feb. 7, pending the full meeting of the Board Feb. 28.

At that time the trustees adopted speaker regulations suggested by Consolidated University President William C. Friday and turned the problem over to Chancellor Sitterson and his student-faculty advisory committee.

Pep Rally Set For Tonight

A send-off pep rally for the UNC basketball team will be held tonight at 6:45 in Carmichael Auditorium.

Rick Kramer, president of the Carolina Athletic Association, said the team, coaches, cheerleaders and the pep band will be on hand for the rally.

The team will leave immediately after the rally to journey to Raleigh to meet Maryland in the last game of tonight's opening round of the ACC Tournament.

"Since only a few students will be able to attend the tournament, they can again show their appreciation and support for the fine job the coaches and team have done this year," Kramer said.

Last night the team practiced in Raleigh. Last year they lost in the opening round of the tourney to Wake Forest.

for an appointment and secure an application in Y Court.

A slate of nominees will be chosen, and final selections will be made by a campus-wide women's vote planned for March 24.

Exam Location

Anyone scheduled to take the National Teachers Examination outside Chapel Hill may arrange to take it in Chapel Hill, according to J. W. Little, director of the Testing Service.

Anyone wishing to do so should leave their name and registration number at the reception office of the Testing Service in 019 Peabody Hall or call 933-2175 by 12:30 p.m. Saturday, March 5.

Morehead Scholars

A record number of 102 boys has been named winners of Morehead awards to study at UNC.

The awards are worth $5,800 to in-state students and $7,500 to out-of-state students for four years of undergraduate study.

If all the winners accept their awards, there will be a total of 247 undergraduate Morehead scholars enrolled in Carolina next fall. Last year 67 awards were presented.

Anthropologist

Dr. Michael Coe of Yale University will speak to the Carolina Anthropology Club and the Anthropology Department on "Olmec Culture at the San Lorenzo Site in Veracruz, Mexico" today.

Dr. Coe will speak in the Faculty Seminar Room in Carroll Hall 8:30 p.m.

Art Students

Five Carolina students have been selected to represent the UNC art department in the First National Exhibition at State University College, New Platz, N. Y.

The exhibit of paintings and drawings will be open April 7 to May 4. 13 leading art schools have submitted works. A purchase award and cash prizes will be given the winners.

Election Meeting Called

A compulsory candidates meeting has been scheduled for 7 to 9 p.m. Monday in Gerrard Hall. Election laws will be explained to the candidates.

Any candidate who is unable to attend must contact Jerry Wagner at 942-3285 or face automatic disqualification.

Year In France

A rising junior or senior with at least two semesters of French will have the opportunity to spend a year in Paris on scholarship as part of a UNC exchange program with the Ecole Supérieure d'Electricite in Paris.

Applications can be found in 261 Dey Hall or the Information Desk of G.M. Applications must be in to 216 Dey Hall by noon March 5.

Invitation Orders

The Order of the Grail has announced that personal orders for graduation invitations and personal cards will be taken today and tomorrow in Y Court.

YWCA Interviews

Interviews for YWCA Executive Committee will be held March 7-11, in 203 Y Building from 3-5 p.m.

Pledge Averages Wane With The School Year

By STEVE BENNETT
DTH Staff Writer

The list of over 400 fraternity pledges and overall pledge class average of 2.605 was released yesterday by the Dean of Men's office.

The overall pledge class average is .055 higher this year than last. Last year the pledge class average was 2.550 the semester before pledging and dropped to 2.1 the semester after pledging.

Bob Kepner, assistant to the Dean of Men, said "I think it is a pity that the fraternity pledges performed so much worse in the spring last year than in the fall before they pledged."

"I think the higher overall averages should make the fraternities challenge themselves to help the pledges this year to perform just as well in the fall if not better."

The two reasons thought to be the greatest factors in the .45 drop in pledge class averages last year are the following:

1. It was the first year of deferred rush. Many fraternities tried to squeeze the usual sixteen-week pledging period into ten weeks resulting in some adverse effects.

2. The residence college system was not in effect during the fall of last year to offer social activities and therefore many pledges became involved in too many social activities during the spring semester.

The list of the pledge class-

4,003 Cars And 2,508 Spaces

There are no plans for increased campus parking spaces within the next few years. The present number of spaces is "adequate."

Since there are 4,003 student cars registered on campus (excluding T sticker holders, who can't park on campus) and only 2,508 student parking spaces, this raises a couple of interesting questions:

If you are one of the 379 students with an H sticker and you don't find a space open in one of the 335 spaces allocated to you, what do you do?

Go to Ramshead parking lot.

If you are one of the 2,522 students with a C sticker and you can't find a parking space in one of the 600 assigned to you, what do you do?

Either go to one of the other student parking areas which is already full, or go to Ramshead parking lot.

And how many spaces does Ramshead have? Three hundred.

CARE Drive Collects $357.33, Prayer

Money and prayers were given in yesterday's drive to collect funds for CARE's use in Viet Nam.

The $357.33 collected were divided in this manner: $956 in ten and five dollar bills; $75 in ones; $28 in dimes; $139.75 in quarters; $14.65 in nickels; $4.93 in pennies; and a nun's for the success of the drive.

The largest single contribution was a $10 check.

Morgan "Spike" Mitchell, head of the drive, expressed thanks to those who helped in the drive: Bill Scott, Britt Gordon, Sonny Pepper, Honey Volkwein, Peggy Paul, Brenda Ballard, Nancy McLean, Vickie Roveano, Sara Nash, Gail McGregor, Alice Graham, Pom Harris, Christie Rucker, Bob Klein, Flossie Collins, Hunter Jordan and The Daily Tar Heel.

Morgan said the funds would be used to "build a worthwhile friendship between the Vietnamese and our soldiers."

He said the drive would better the University's image in the state and nation.
