'Less Government, More Truth' Welch

By BOB HARRIS
DTH Staff Writer

Robert Welch, founder of the John Birch Society, said here Sunday night that the society "is in no way a political organization. Its sole purpose is to spread understanding of the world situation."

"Truth is our only weapon," Welch told about 2,000 persons—including an estimated 200 society members—at a Carolina Forum sponsored speech in Memorial Hall.

Welch began his speech—"What Is the John Birch Society?"—in a light mood: "For those who came to hear me out of curiosity, the horns I am supposed to have are retractable. The six armed bodyguards I am supposed to have with me are down with the mumps and my wife forgot to pack my black shirt with the swastika armband."

This drew chuckles from the audience, but the chuckles stopped when he began his hour-long speech.

He told how the society was formed in Indianapolis in 1958 to combat "the Communist conspiracy which has been steadily growing since the early 1930's."

"The society," Welch continued, "inducts only the highest calibre of persons because we are striving to set an example in integrity, deed and purpose which our children's children can follow."

He said the ultimate aim of the society is to provide "less government, more responsibility and a better world."

"Naturally, we have collided with the Communists," he added, "since they want more government, no responsibility and an amoral world."

"The Communists set out in 1961 to destroy us. They never face us head-on on the issues. They just call us names."

Welch said the Communists feared only exposure and "the Birch Society was formed to give that exposure." He said the society is a "nation wide educational army with facts as its only weapon."

"These facts are presented by a paid staff of 255 persons and weekly expenses of $100,000," Welch said.

Later in his speech Welch told of the "advantages of a republic over a democracy."

ROBERT WELCH

"A democracy," he said, "is government by the masses. Authority is derived through mass meeting or any other form of direct expression."

"This results in mobocracy with a communistic attitude toward private property."

"On the other hand," he continued, "a republic is a form of government in which men in government are ruled by laws made by the people instead of rulers changing laws at their whims."

In a question and answer session after the speech, one unidentified man asked in a choked, emotional voice: "How dare you say you are a patriotic organization and patronize Negroes and Jews when you call for impeachment of our great Supreme Court Chief Justice Earl Warren?"

"Impeachment is a lawful process . . .," Welch retorted.

Revisions Made In MRC Body And Judiciary

By GLENN MAYES
DTH Staff Writer

Recent revisions in the Men's Residence Council will result in the addition of another member to the court and a reduction in size of the MRC body from 100 members to 38 members.

Bob Hunter, outgoing chairman of the MRC court, said the revisions were made by the court recently because of the MRC divisions created by the residence college system.

The new by-laws provide for the chairman and a vice chairman of the MRC Court to be elected from the outgoing court and the other eight members of the court are to be elected from the MRC body.

The chairman and vice chairman for next year will be Bob Taylor of Ehringhaus and Chuck Allard of Craige.

Hunter said the court will be made up of one representative from each men's residence college on campus and the MRC body will be composed of the senators and governors of the Men's residence colleges.

"The reduction of size from 100 to 38," Hunter said, "will probably prove to be more efficient and the body will be stronger. It will be speaking for all the residence hall men on campus."

He said the senators of the residence colleges will take over the enforcement of men's residence hall rules instead of having regular MRC members elected in each residence hall as in the past.

Hunter said anyone interested in running for a position on the MRC Court should contact him as soon as possible at 968-9180 at 117 Teague.

The chairman said the MRC under the new rules will be very similar to the Men's Honor Council but will only represent the men in the residence halls.

Long Promises Investigation Of UNC Fraternity System

Action Comes After Weekend Of Drunkenness, Pillaging

By STEVE BENNETT
DTH Staff Writer

Dean of Men William G. Long announced yesterday that he intends to recommend that the entire fraternity system be subjected to a broad investigation.

This action is being taken after the happenings during Germans, which climaxed which trouble has been brewing with fraternities over the past several years. "The dance at Planter's Warehouse in Durham Saturday night was disorderly and exhibited a great deal of drunkenness," Long said.

A pillaging rampage through the Pi Lambda Phi house between 6-8 Sunday morning resulted in over $300 damage to the house, furnishings and the personal property of its members.

A surf board taken from the Pi Lam house valued at $150 was stuffed down the chimney of the Pi Kappa Alpha house across the drive from the Pi Lams in the Big Fraternity court.

A number of fraternities in the area of the Big and Little Fraternity Courts have been implicated in the damage done to the Pi Lam house. Dean Long arrived at Big Fraternity Court at 9 a.m. along with is assistant Bob Kepner and the president of the IFC, Lindsay Freeman. Long investigated all of the houses in Big and Little Fraternity Courts.

"I found men passed out on the floors, bottles everywhere and furniture overturned in most of the houses," Long said. "The Pi Lam house was only the best example of the general overall display of wanton destruction of private property prevailing throughout the area."

Horace Johnson, president of the Pi Lams, said, "We are trying to settle the situation among the fraternities involved. I do not think this is going to help the fraternity system. I do not plan to turn it over to the IFC Court unless we can come to an agreement with the fraternities involved."

Pi Kappa Alpha has already agreed to pay for the surf board found in their chimney. Long said that the investigation by the University will examine the attitudes, practices and programs of each fraternity.

"The absence of a self-disciplining police system in fraternities is at the core of the problem in fraternities today," Long said.

"The open party system is also a main cause of the trouble. Fraternities must realize that they have to accept responsibility for the actions of their members and guests while in the house."

Dean of Student Affairs C. O. Cathy will meet today with the presidents of the fraternities connected with the incident in the Pi Lam house Sunday.

Services Held For Coed Killed Here On Bike

Memorial services for Linda Carroll Wyatt were held in the Presbyterian Church last night.

She died in Memorial Hospital Saturday night at 8:30 three hours after being injured in a motorcycle accident.

Miss Wyatt was a 21-year-old senior majoring in elementary education. She was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and was from Norberth, Penn.

The accident occurred at 5:30 Saturday when the motorcycle, driven by Jeffrey Russell Hackman, a UNC Senior, turned off Pittsboro Road onto Westwood Drive.

The motorcycle failed to make a curve and both riders were thrown to the ground.

Miss Wyatt suffered head injuries. Hackman was treated for minor scratches and released from Memorial Hospital Sunday morning.

Testing Service Presents Help In Choosing Majors

By STEVE LACKEY
DTH Staff Writer

Do you sometimes wonder (especially during exams) whether you would be better suited in a different major? The University Testing Service may have just the answer to your problem.

Since 1937 the testing service has been helping students to discover exactly where their abilities and interests lie. This year they are expecting to help over 500 people through series of tests and counseling.

Anyone wanting to know what field he is best suited for can go to Dr. J. W. Little in 019 Peabody to make an appointment for the free service.

The time required for all tests and counseling is surprisingly short. Usually from three to 10 hours, spread over as much time as the student desires, is all it takes.

The tests are grouped in five general categories:

1. One test similar to the scholastic aptitude tests on the college boards.

2. An Achievement Test, usually in the field of reading.

3. Several "Interest Inventories" designed to determine what occupations the student will most likely enjoy.

4. A "Temperament Inventory" to test the student's general adjustment to situations.

5. And Several Specialized aptitude tests in such fields as engineering, law, medicine and accounting.

Discussion with specialized guidance counselors always follows the testing.

Dr. Little feels that the counseling is one of the most important phases of the overall program, and stresses that it will "help (the student) decide what is feasible for him to do."

Little said that the tests alone do not dictate what field the student should pursue, but that they do provide information so he can decide for himself.

Second Referendum Today; Sabotage Thought Possible

By ANDY MYERS
DTH Staff Writer

Polls open at 10 a.m. today in the second attempt to obtain student approval for a controversial amendment to the Student Constitution.

The referendum, first held last month but ruled invalid by the Constitutional Council Thursday will decide whether to put the president and the vice president of the Student Body on the same ticket.

An official protest lodged against the ballot by independent presidential candidate Sonny Pepper claims the Council "was in error and exceeded its powers in setting the date for the new election."

The ballot permits a voter to check "yes" or "no" if he agrees with the addition to the Constitution of the following statement:

"The President of the Student Body and the Vice President of the Student Body shall have sought their respective positions together and shall be elected together as if they were one person."

This statement would be added to Article III of the Constitution. Section 1, the part defining the executive power of the president.

Elections board chairman Arthur Hays said yesterday that "certain individuals have been considering sabotaging the election."

He warned that it is an honor council offense to tamper with ballot boxes. However, he noted that "certain individuals" might have "poll tenders not show up."

If it could be proven this did happen today, and if any errors reported to the elections board were "planned in intention" the residence would be turned over to the Attorney General John Ingram.

"I think it is unfortunate that certain individuals might have such a low regard for the democratic processes of election," Hays said.

"I ask the Student Body to be alert for any irregularities and to inform the elections board immediately."

The Vice Chairman of the University Party, David Kiel, yesterday called the proposed amendment "one of the most needed reforms ever to come before the Student Body."

Protests against the ballot today held that the Constitution does not permit the Constitutional Council to set the date of an election.

A referendum is defined as a general election.

Bill Rodinson, recently elected chairman of the Council, said yesterday that he will not have to rule on today's referendum.

"The Constitutional Council has the power to interpret the Constitution," Robinson said. "A protest was not in order at this time." "We made a decision and we're sticking by it," he added.

Hays, the fifth chairman of the elections board this year, held a meeting of the board yesterday and ruled the vote legal.

Protests Voiced Against Constitutional Referendum

By ANDY MYERS
DTH Staff Writer

Protests from the University Party chairman as well as from non-partisan sources yesterday were voiced against today's Constitutional Referendum.

Sonny Pepper, an independent candidate for president of the student body, lodged an official protest Saturday on the grounds that the Constitutional Council did not have the right to set the date of election.

Pepper's statement to The Daily Tar Heel that the amendment is being sponsored by the "Student Government establishment" to prevent "me from being a candidate for president of the student body."

Pepper noted that Everett Thompson, former chairman of the Elections Board, was opposed to the ruling by the Constitutional Council to hold today's referendum.

"Suddenly (Thompson) found himself replaced by the oldest Student Party boss at the University, Arthur Hays," Pepper said.

"The Student Party is putting the campus to the trouble and expense of an unnecessary and unfair special election," Pepper said.

However, Hays, chairman of the Elections Board, said yesterday the protest was not lodged soon enough to stop the balloting today.

University Party Chairman Neil Thomas claimed that because of "the lack of publicity and the short time between the setting of the date of the referendum and the holding of the referendum. I feel the Constitutional Council has not followed the election laws."

The new chairman of the council, Bill Rodinson, concurred with Hays in a decision to hold the election despite protests.

The council, he said, is an interpretative body and has the right to set the dates of elections even though no such mention of this specific power is mentioned in the student government constitution.

Protests from other sources included a group statement from UP floor leader Ed Wilson, chairman of the Finance Committee, SP member Frank Longest, chairman of the Publications Board, and SP member Hugh Blackwell, UP member Rick Miller, UP member Kathy Cauble and Steve Salmony.

Salmony insisted there was a "chance" the referendum would be defeated today, even though it passed by a two-to-one margin last month.

The so-called "slate amendment" puts the president and vice president of the Student Body on the same ticket.

A statement signed by Salmony and Wilson argued that today's amendment will "lessen the ability of the individual student to have the necessary control in his government."

Salmony said he did not see "where the student Legislature itself or the student government president needs the power or authority to necessitate this change."

He said the referendum will make the individual student less effective in the actions of his student government.

"Students will be voting for a more efficient and 'professionalized' student government at the expense of allowing each student the basic right of voting for an individual — the best candidate — for a particular office," Salmony said.

Candidates Will Debate

A debate among candidates for president and vice president of the Student Body and editor of The Daily Tar Heel will be staged Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Gerrard Hall. The debate is being sponsored by the Di-Phi Senate and the GM Current Affairs Committee.

John Greenbacker, Di-Phi president, said several candidates have already accepted invitations to participate in the debate.

Bob Powell and Don Wilson both of SP, and Fred Thomas and Alan Banov, candidates for editor of the DTH, have accepted. Ray Linville, also a candidate for editor of DTH, has not been contacted yet, Greenbacker said, but is to be contacted today.

Greenbacker said confirmation of whether UP candidates Terry O'Toole and Bill Purdy will participate is expected later today. Independent candidate for President Sonny Pepper said he would participate in the debate too.

The debate will concern the issues of the race for campus offices at stake in the March 22 elections.

Greenbacker said residence hall campaign meetings planned for Thursday night may be postponed if all the major candidates accept invitations to the debate.
