Duke Prof Says Sex Laws Vague

By LYTT STAMPS
DTH Staff Writer

Present laws dealing with sexual deviation are inadequate, according to the views presented at a panel discussion in the Law School yesterday afternoon.

Panelist Robinson Everette, a Duke law professor, discussed the problems of enforcing the present laws. He cited the vagueness of the present law along with the extent to which it serves as a deterrent of homosexuality or other deviance.

"There is a wide spectrum of laws dealing with this problem," he said. "Punishment ranges from the death sentence to no sentence at all in places where it is not a violation."

Norman Pomrenke, assistant director of the Institute of Government, said the problem of punishment depends on this "area policing."

"Each community develops a level of enforcement which it wants. It also develops a level of tolerance."

Superior Court Judge Allen Gwyn said enforcement of laws dealing with sexual deviation cause frustration in two ways.

"First, there is frustration for those who are to be tried. Second, there is frustration for those of us who try them," he said.

"This is caused by the divergence of laws dealing with sexual deviation."

Gwyn cited the evolution of North Carolina law as an example. He said the punishment beginning in 1837 was death. The law was changed in 1869 to provide for a prison term ranging from five to 60 years.

In 1965, the law was amended again to provide for either

'Powell Is Best Man' Pepper Gives Votes To SP In Run-Off

By GLENN MAYS

Sonny Pepper, independent candidate for president of the Student Body, yesterday publicly endorsed Bob Powell for Student Body President in Tuesday's run-off election.

In a statement to The Daily Tar Heel he said, "I first want to express publicly my sincere thanks and appreciation to everyone who supported me last Tuesday. I can't emphasize enough, however, the importance of the run-off election, particularly since so much is at stake in choosing the leader of student government for next year.

"A number of people have urged me to remain aloof from the run-off campaign and not take a position on the candidates running, and normally I wouldn't feel compelled to actively involve myself in an election in which I was not a candidate.

"I have worked in student government for four years, however, and have contributed a great deal of time and energy, to improve that institution. As a result I have more than just an average interest and concern for the success of next year's student government.

"Both parties in the campaign have proposed a number of excellent ideas and programs for next year which will form the basis of a good administration. But my major concern is with the man who is going to be elected, not the party, and after considering both candidates carefully, I feel strongly that Bob Powell is the best man to lead student government next year.

"Both candidates are personal friends of mine, and I have worked with them for the past several years in a number of different areas. I favor not only Bob's experience and leadership abilities, but also his overall understanding of what student government is and should be.

"I do want to make it clear that this is not an endorsement for the Student Party or against the University Party, but rather, an endorsement based solely on the comparative merits of the two individuals involved, as I feel it should be."

Pepper polled over 900 votes in Tuesday's election. Powell received over 2,100 votes and O'Toole got over 1,800.

A protest has been filed with the elections board concerning Tuesday's election for legislator in Men's District Five.

The protest was filed by Joe Chandler, an incumbent UP legislator in the district.

Elections Board Chairman Arthur Hayes said the protest was filed because Chandler was listed as an SP candidate instead of a UP candidate.

Person I know in wanting to work for the good of the student body. I urge all those who supported me to put their full support behind Teddy O'Toole. I hope those who favored the amendment to put president and vice president on the slate system will uphold the principle involved here.

To those who were against the amendment I hope they will consider the best efficiency and well being of student government which as we have seen this year required the closest cooperation between the president and vice president."

Purdy, UP, won the vice presidency by an overwhelming majority over Don Wilson in Tuesday's election.

Miller's Parents So Poor He Was 'Made In Japan'

By CAROL GALLANT
DTH Staff Writer

Roger Miller's wife has coined a word for her husband — realness. Not only is this performer "real" but successful. He received so many Grammys (the highest award a singer can receive) from the National Academy for Recording Arts and Science that he needed help carrying them off the stage last year.

Miller will be at Carolina next Tuesday for an 8 p.m. concert in Carmichael Auditorium singing the songs that have made him famous including "Chug a Lug," "Dang Me," "Doo-Wack-A-Doo," and "King of the Road."

This performer has the kind of background story that press agents go wild over. As Miller puts it, "My parents were so poor I was made in Japan."

After his parents' death he lived with an uncle in Oklahoma. He wrote his first song at six and started doing odd jobs to save money for a guitar.

Miller says he was educated in the "Crash of 1952." After driving a jeep in the Korean War he turned to driving a firetruck in Amarillo, Texas. Then he headed to Nashville where he became a success — as a bellhop.

He joined a traveling musical show and then wrote his first hit, "Invitation to the Blues."

Then this versatile entertainer began playing drums for Faron Young, and by this time people like Andy Williams and Patti Page and Burl Ives were all singing his songs and making them hits.

Rev. Richardson Talks On Myth

The Very Reverend Alan Richardson, Dean of York, will tackle the perennial problem of Myth and its relation to religion when he speaks April 18 in the Carolina Symposium.

Few would question Dean Richardson's qualifications to speak on the topic, Myth and the Supernatural, "Man's attempt to 'explain' the Absolute."

"Professor Alan Richardson is a theologian whose praise is (or deserves to be) in all churches on account of both the books he has written and those he has edited," the editor of Theology once wrote.

As one of the foremost scholars of the modern church, he has written several books on the conflict between faith and reason in Christian Theology. After receiving his M. A. from the University of Liverpool, he became Intercollegiate Secretary for the Student Christian Movement, serving at the same time as curate at St. Saviour and their as an assistant chaplain in Liverpool Cathedral.

Richardson received his Doctor of Divinity from Oxfordshire and as chaplain at Ripon Hall in Oxford from 1931-1933.

In 1934 he was a tutor in Jesus College of Oxford. After serving as Vicar of Cambridge in Northumberland from 1934 to 1938 and as Study Secretary to the Student Christian Movement from 1938 to 1943, he accepted the position of Sixth Canon of Durham Cathedral.

While Canon of Durham Cathedral, he wrote Preface to Bible Study, Christian Apologetics, The Biblical Doctrine of Work, and Genesis I-IX.

In 1953 he accepted a Professorship at the University of Nottingham. There he wrote The Gospel According to St. John, An Introduction to the Theology of the New Testament, The Bible in an Age of Science, and History Sacred and Profane (1964).

While at the University of DEAN RICHARDSON Nottingham, he also served as an Honorary Canon at Derby Cathedral. In 1964 he left Nottingham and is now Dean of the York Minister.

Chug-A-Lug Your Way To Roger Miller

GALLANT ATTEMPT—DTH Secretary Carol Gallant takes a turn in Thursday's GM sponsored "chug-a-lug" contest. She took 40 seconds to down the cider — 36 off the best time.—DTH Photos by Jock Lauterer.

DTH Staff Writer

Steve Kropelnickie downed five big mugs of cider yesterday in a last ditch effort to come from behind and capture the Roger Miller "Chug-A-Lug" contest.

Kropelnickie, who consumed a total of two-and-a-half quarts of apple cider, opened his throat and let slide the fifth 16-ounce cup of cider in a run-off between the three 3.8 second chuggers.

"Uuuurrrrrrr," Kropelnickie said after his victory.

The two other 3.8ers were Larry Modlin, whose first attempt took five seconds, and Richard Irving, whose two earlier tries took six and 45 seconds.

In the girls' division Jan Wuehrmann drank a cup of cider in 14 seconds flat to win two free tickets to the Roger Miller concert Tuesday in Carmichael Auditorium.

Second and third in the girls' contest were Sherry O'Donnell at 22.5 seconds and Miriam Dorsey at 28 seconds.

A winners got two tickets to the show, and Kropelnickie and Miss Wuehrmann each got a Roger Miller album, compliments of the Record Bar. The contest was sponsored by Graham Memorial.

Campus Security Chief Arthur Beaumont and Student Government Finance Secretary Mrs. Frances Sparrow were the official judges. The contest took place on the sidewalk outside Graham Memorial.

Kropelnickie, a sophomore from Lake Texaway, started late in the contest. His first time at the table he dribbled and was disqualified.

Not content to see his near-miss drowned by faster chuggers who weren't so sloppy, he came back and guzzled the cider in four seconds.

Still not satisfied, Kropelnickie tried again and dribbled again. The contest was winding to a close, the girls had already finished, and Kropelnickie still wasn't ready to quit.

There was a lull in the crowd. Someone took the needle off the scratchy Roger Miller record of "Chug-A-Lug." Kropelnickie stepped up, said a prayer for his intestines, and swallowed his fourth mug in 3.8 seconds — tying for first place.

The crowd cheered. A few seconds later, during the run-off, Kropelnickie downed his fifth mug in a triple playoff to win the grand prize.

The contest had more than 50 entrants. Chief Beaumont got things started by drinking the first mug of cider. His time was 14.5 seconds.

Vance Furr, a persistent contestant, tried three times. The first time he couldn't do better than seven seconds. The next time he complained about a hair in his cider, and the third time he stole the cider without even trying.

THE OL' PRO GUZZLES some of that yummy amber brew. (Very non-alcoholic, but of course!)

'Shape Up Or Ship Out'

CINCINNATI (AP)—Youngsters at a grade school in suburban Wyoming didn't do any picketing today of the school lunchroom in their protest of the quality of food being served.

That was the word from the school but there was no definite explanation as to the reason.

There seemed to be an idea, however, that parents of the youngsters didn't care much for it and the accompanying publicity. And, of course, the weather may have had something to do with it. The temperatures was in the low 30s with some snow flurries.

Yesterday, the youngsters, led by six-year-old Steven Rodgers paraded with signs saying such things as "Shape It Up, Or Ship It Out"—meaning the food.

Steven's mother, Mrs. J. C. Rodgers, said, "I think most of the parents wish their children weren't involved."

She added, "I still can't believe Steven is the ringleader."

Mrs. Rodgers said she hadn't heard much about the quality of the food because her children go home for lunch most of the time and she said she hadn't heard of the plans until the picketing had started.

Superintendent Harold Bush was reluctant to talk at all today about the affair, saying, "I don't want to be quoted about anything."

Yesterday, however, he said, "The food isn't really that bad. We expect this all to die down when a few cases of spring fever subside."

The weather today was not conducive to spring fever.
