

Anonymous Grant Gives UNC Child Care Center

By LYNNE HARVEL
Special to the DTH
Child care administrators, children's institutions and social service staffs are now receiving aid from the University, thanks to an anonymous donor.

It is in the form of a Child Care Information Center which "was added as a new service late in 1965 and is a clearing house for information on group care and treatment of children. Publications, journals, papers and newsletters are being collected and indexed by the computation center of the University for fast retrieval," according to a pamphlet published by the center. The system is designed to accommodate storage of five to ten thousand documents plus special additional material.

Project director H. H. Hollingsworth, said "Requests for information are now being handled on a limited basis until collection is more complete and an equitable fee system can be established."

Hollingsworth said the "work is slow but it is keeping up with the proposed timetable." The two - phase timetable is to be completed by the end of this summer.

The already - completed first phase includes identification of literature, listing locations of all items, indexing and classification of documents, books, and pamphlets, selection of a practical machine system to satisfy anticipated retrieval purposes and a limited processing of requests.

Phase two, now in progress, consists of indexing, classification and annotation of material from January 1960 through January 1966, processing requests on a limited basis and organization of the computer program for immediate access to documents.

Future plans include addition of foreign language documents, wider use of existing services and addition of special information such as directories and lists of available training programs.

"The scope of the center has had to be somewhat limited for the first one or two years in order to accomplish the objectives which ultimately will include information services other than simply retrieval of bibliographies," said Hollingsworth.

Present staff includes the director, one part - time secretary, two part - time computer programmers and one student research assistant.

The child care center is a non - profit organization established through a grant supplied by an anonymous layman associated with a child care organization.

"Now that I know professor probation is only a rumor, you're all going to flunk!"

Arizona Oath Unconstitutional

By ALAN BANOV
DTH Staff Writer

The State of North Carolina's "oath of allegiance," which all state and University employees are required to sign, is different from Arizona's "loyalty oath" which was declared unconstitutional by the U. S. Supreme Court on Monday.

The Arizona law subjected to prosecution and loss of his job any state employee who took the loyalty oath and "knowingly and willfully becomes or remains a member of the Communist Party" or other organizations dedicated to overthrowing the state government.

Justice William O. Douglas, announcing the 5-4 decision, said the law "rests on the doctrine of 'guilt by association' which has no place here."

He added that the law suffered from a "constitutional infirmity" - that it broadly covered membership in the Communist Party and similar organizations rather than a "specific intent to further the unlawful aims" of the organizations.

North Carolina had such a loyalty oath for state employees some years ago, but it was discontinued. The present stipulation for university personnel is an "oath of allegiance, not a loyalty oath," according to personnel director Fred B. Haskell.

The requirement is part of a 1941 resolution of the University Board of Trustees, which requires "all officials, teachers and other employees of the University of North Carolina, who are citizens of the United States" to sign the oath.

The resolution, which is printed on the back of the oath, further states that "no official, teacher, or other employee (who is a citizen of the United States) shall be considered an employee of the University of North Carolina or receive payment for any services rendered unless, or until, he or she has taken the oath."

The oath asserts that the signee "do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support the Constitution of the United States; so help me, God."

"I do solemnly and sincerely swear (or affirm) that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to the State of North Carolina, and to the constitutional powers and authorities which are or may be established for the government thereof; and that I will endeavor to support, maintain and defend the constitution of said state, not inconsistent with the Constitution of the United States, to the best of my knowledge and ability; so help me, God."

The oath is to be "subscribed and sworn to (or affirmed)" before a notary public. All employees of the University, including student employees, must sign it.

Haskell said yesterday that some employees have signed the oath under protest, for religious or political reasons.

"Some Quakers (Friends)" he noted, "say they could not swear," according to the precepts of their religion, so they "affirm" the oath rather than "swear" to it. The wording is also changed for some people, he added, if they find it offensive.

Neither Haskell nor Miss Billie Curtis, secretary to the University Trustees, foresaw any change in the N. C. oath. Miss Curtis had "no comment" about the Arizona law.

Professor of Law Daniel H. Pollitt said the Supreme Court's decision should have "no effect" upon the N. C. oath.

We set out to ruin some ball bearings and failed successfully

The Bell System has many small, automatic telephone offices around the country. The equipment in them could operate unattended for ten years or so, but for a problem.

The many electric motors in those offices needed lubrication at least once a year. Heat from the motors dried up the bearing oils, thus entailing costly annual maintenance.

To stamp out this problem, many tests were conducted at Bell Telephone Laboratories. Lubricant engineer George H. Kitchner decided to do a basic experiment that would provide a motor with the worst possible conditions. He deliberately set out to ruin some ball bearings by smearing them with an icky gunk called molybdenum disulfide (MoS<sub>2</sub>).

Swack! This solid lubricant, used a certain way, actually increased the life expectancy of the ball bearings by a factor of ten! Now the motors can run for at least a decade without lubrication.

We've learned from our "failures." Our aim: investigate everything.

The only experiment that can really be said to "fail" is the one that is never tried.

STAMP OUT BLIND DATES! $3

Everybody's talking about it. Everybody's doing it. Operation Match. It's camp. It's campus. It's the modern way to meet. It whammo's blind dates. It started at Harvard. The original Operation Match—featured in TIME, LOOK, and the coming May GLAMOUR. Already there are over 100,000 ideal dates in our computer's memory bank. Now's the time to line up your Spring Fling. Let our IBM 7090 Computer (the world's most perfect boy/girl matcher) select 5 ideal dates for you—right from your campus area. (Now a gal can really choose the kind of guy she wants, not just wait and hope he comes along!) Just send us the coupon below... we'll send you the Operation Match Quantitative Personality Projection Test Questionnaire. Answer the questions about yourself, what you're like, and what you like. Return the questionnaire with $3.00. Then we put our 7090's memory bank to work. It reads out the qualifications of every member of the opposite sex in your college area, and programs 5 or more ideal dates for you. You receive names, addresses, and phone numbers. Guys call the gals. You're just a telephone apart. Also, your card is kept continuously active. You receive as many dates as the 7090 finds matches. The sooner you apply, the more dates you may get. Let the 7090 take the blinds off blind dating. Get modern. Get electronic. Get set quick with your ideal dates.

Dear IBM 7090... I am 17 or over (and 27 or under) and I want to help stamp out blind dates. So mail me my questionnaire. Quick!
