DTH Staff Sweeps Area Press Awards

Special to the DTH
CHARLOTTE — The Daily Tar Heel made a clean sweep of the Charlotte Observer College Newspaper Competition yesterday, winning the silver trophy for best newspaper and scoring first place in every category except feature writing, in which it captured second place.

Five Tar Heel staffers won individual awards, and collected a total $130.

Former Editor Ernie McCrary won $25 for the best editorial, discussing the need for a court test of the speaker ban.

John Greenbacker, now DTH Associate Editor, won an honorable mention in the same category for an editorial on the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Former Staff Writer Ed Freakley won $25 for the best news story, written about Communist Herbert Aptheker's appearance in Chapel Hill. Freakley also won $15 for second place in the feature category with a story on the Frank Rinaldi murder trial.

Former Managing Editor and Sports Editor Pat Stith won $25 for the best sports story, a feature on wrestling Coach Sam Barnes.

David Rothman won two honorable mentions, one in the news and another in the feature category.

The DTH received also $50 for its best newspaper rating.

The Daily Tar Heel's prizes came from a field of 470 entries from 22 colleges in North and South Carolina.

Awards were presented by Charlotte Observer - Charlotte News General Manager Brodie Griffith at a luncheon at the Charlotte City Club Saturday.

Former Editor McCrary commented immediately following the banquet, "It's a good thing we won the $50 because I promised my staff a party a long time ago with the money we won in this contest. If we hadn't won it, I guess I couldn't have come home."

Saturday's awards were the latest in a number of awards won by the paper and its staff during the past year.

The DTH also swept the 1966 Southeastern College Newspaper Competition. The Nashville Tennessean selected it in that contest as the best college daily in the Southeast. The DTH editorial page was named the best in the competition with more than 30 other papers, and Rothman won a first place for his columns.

Other awards in the contest were first honorable mention for news writing and fourth honorable mention for a 11-around excellence.

The Associated Collegiate Press critical service gave last semester's DTH an All-American Award, ACP's highest rating. The award was based on excellent in news and feature writing, news coverage, layout, editorials, photography, and sports.

The second semester DTH issues are now being judged by the same group.

Five DTH staffers placed in this year's monthly William Randolph Hearst Foundation contests for journalism majors.

Fred Thomas, current editor, tied for fifth place in the February interpretative writing competition.

Former Editor McCrary tied for sixth place in editorial writing.

Freakley won seventh place for his coverage of Aptheker's Chapel Hill speech, and also won honorable mention for a news story on the Frank Rinaldi murder trial.

These were the same two stories with which Freakley scored in the Charlotte contest.

Staff writer Andy Myers took ninth place in the October general news writing category.

Asst. News Editor Ernest Robl received honorable mention for a series of stories on the speaker ban.

The winnings of these students helped UNC's School of Journalism to a national third-place finish in the Hearst competition against almost 50 other journalism schools.

Trustees Meet To Name New Carolina Head

By ERNEST H. ROBL
DTH Asst. News Editor

The trustees of the University of North Carolina will convene in Raleigh tomorrow to name a new chancellor for the Chapel Hill branch of the University.

J. Carlyle Sitterson, 56, now acting chancellor here, is considered the most likely man to receive the nod.

Gov. Dan K. Moore will preside over the trustee session in the House Chamber of the State Capitol. The meeting will begin at 11 a.m. and will be open to the public.

The special meeting of the board of trustees was called last week by Consolidated University President William C. Friday after consultations with Moore.

Notices of the meeting were mailed to the 100 members of the board on Wednesday.

At the meeting, Friday will announce his choice for the position of chancellor from a group of three men recommended to him by a faculty advisory committee. A majority vote by the board is required for approval.

Sitterson, a native of Kinston, has been acting chancellor since Feb. 16, 1966; he was named to the position by Friday after Chancellor Paul F. Sharp resigned to become president of Drake University.

Sitterson was named to the interim position while serving as vice chancellor, a position he assumed in July of 1965.

Prior to becoming vice chancellor, Sitterson was dean of both the College of Arts and Sciences and the General College here.

Sitterson holds three degrees, including a Ph. D. in history, from the University.

Orchestra Gives Show On Tuesday

The University Symphony Orchestra will present its first concert of the year at 8 Tuesday night in Hill Music Hall.

Compositions by Mozart, Jean Sibelius, Claude Debussy and Johann Strauss will be featured.

The 80 member orchestra is comprised of 70% students and 30% faculty and townspeople.

"We call it the University Symphony Orchestra, but actually it is a community orchestra," said Dr. Earl Slocum, conductor.

The orchestra was formed over 40 years ago.

Dr. Slocum has conducted it since 1945. During this time the orchestra has played over 150 compositions. Several of these have been written by UNC students.

The orchestra and the Opera Workshop presented Puccini's "La Boheme" recently.

Little trouble is caused by losing students through graduation, Slocum said. "But there have been a few 'lean years' for some instruments."

He said this year's practice is coming along fine. "We get better each practice."

The orchestra plays only in Chapel Hill. Slocum said the variety of people involved prevents any tours. "It would be impossible for all members to spare the time involved."

But each member "keeps Monday night religiously open for practice." Some students, professors and townspeople become musicians for a few hours every Monday night.

Tuesday night's concert will be open to the public. Admission is free.

Parents' Day Activities

Parents' Day today will be observed by open houses in all residence halls and residence colleges. Various refreshments will be served.

Granville Towers also will be holding an open house, serving punch and cookies to visiting parents.

Smith residence hall plans an art show on the lawn from 2-6. It will include paintings, sculpture, and other art work by students. The work is not confined to Smith entries.

$100,000 Loss Estimate Put On Downtown Blaze

Fire damage to Chez Kemp Ltd. and Courts' Drug Co. was estimated Saturday at about $100,000.

The blaze began about 9:30 p.m. Friday in the rear of the two-story frame building that houses both the East Franklin Street businesses.

It took firemen an hour before they had the blaze — which burned its way up a flight of stairs and into the attic — under control, said Chapel Hill Fire Captain Everett Lloyd.

The blaze did heavy structural damage, Lloyd said. Firemen feared at one time that the first floor ceiling might cave in.

"Fire damage was heavy in the rear," said Lloyd. "Heat and smoke damage was all over both buildings. There wasn't much water damage."

No cause has been determined yet for the blaze. "We're not considering any arson at this time," said Lloyd.

Although Lloyd declined to place a cash estimate on the fire, other sources placed the damage at about $100,000. Dr. Ben Courts, owner of the pharmacy, said the figure seemed correct.

Both the pharmacy and the record shop are covered by fire insurance.

The building is owned by M. A. Abernathy of New York City, said Capt. Lloyd. He said Kemp Nye, who runs Kemp's, is the manager.

Evidence of the heat damage was visible to passers-by Saturday as many paused in front of the stores, cupped their hands around their eyes and pressed their faces to the soot-blackened glass.

Inside Courts', plastic display cases sagged and ball point pens were curled like candy canes.

About 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Dr. Courts pulled away from the blackened building. A charred cash register sat in the back of his station wagon.

He was in the process of moving to a new location next to the North Carolina National Bank. A new inventory of drugs is being shipped and will arrive today. The new store will be open Monday morning.

Branch Leaves For Calcutta On Ford Grant

James Arthur Branch, UNC business manager, has been borrowed by the Ford Foundation and the University of Calcutta in India to aid in a program of reorganization in Calcutta from 1966 to 1968.

Acting Chancellor J. Carlyle Sitterson announced today that trustees of UNC have approved Mr. Branch's request for leave to take part in a unique international effort.

Mr. Branch, who was purchasing agent of the University at Chapel Hill before becoming business manager in 1957, has been in the business offices of the University since he was a student at UNC in 1924. He is a native of Salisbury.

He will be given a leave of absence for his special work at the University of Calcutta, where he will serve as one of a team of experts in college administration fiscal matters and teaching and research.

President William C. Friday said, "We are pleased that Mr. Branch has been invited to serve on such a highly important mission. We shall greatly miss his outstanding service to the University at Chapel Hill, and we shall look forward to his return."

The University of Calcutta is the largest institution in the Indian state of West Bengal, and has over 100 schools and colleges in its university organization, and some 120,000 students.

Peace Corps Recruiters On Campus This Week

By CAROL GALLANT
DTH Staff Writer

Acting Chancellor J. Carlyle Sitterson has received a special letter from Jack Vaughn, Peace Corps Director, concerning the current recruitment on campus for Peace Corps volunteers for Micronesia.

Vaughn emphasized the importance of making a contribution to the program. Enclosed was a letter from President Johnson to Vaughn calling on the Peace Corps to help in the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands (Micronesia) helping to prepare them for the day when they can become independent.

Recruiters for the program are currently visiting 69 colleges and universities. They will be at Carolina in Y-Court on Monday and Tuesday.

The program calls for volunteers to begin training in July in Hawaii and arrive in Micronesia by October.

The islands composing Micronesia are scattered over three million square miles of the Western Pacific, from the International Date Line to within 300 miles of the Philippines and 700 miles of the Japanese mainland.

Some of the islands, like Eniwetok and Kawajalein, acquired fame when they became the scenes of major American landings against the Japanese in World War II. Bikini was the site of the world's first hydrogen bomb explosion.

Micronesia

Of the 2,141 separate islands, only 97 are inhabited, by 88,000 people.

In Micronesia, volunteers will find the "South Sea Paradise" of Rousseau, London, and Conrad. The islands are warm and humid, averaging 75 to 85 degrees in the Marianas and from 80 to 92 degrees in the Marshalls and Carolines.

Volunteers will also find, according to Peace Corps investigators, understaffed schools, bad roads, insufficient medical facilities, inadequate water and sanitary systems.

Vaughn has said that "liberal arts majors will be the backbone of this program. Most of the skills needed will be provided in the three months of training."

SP Meeting Slated For This Evening

The Student Party will meet at 8 in Gerrard Hall tonight. The question of annulment of the action taken at the last meeting will be considered.

According to Student Party by-laws, the action could not have occurred at that meeting. Two positions on the Advisory Board will be filled at the meeting, as will a legislative vacancy in Men's District 1 (men outside corporate limits of Chapel Hill). This vacancy was opened with the resignation of Dick Capps at last Thursday night's meeting of Student Legislature.
